Meeting To Be Dominated By Intention To Trim Appropriations

CHIEF EXECUTIVE HOLDS TALK WITH CHARLES WEST

Neutrality Legislation Also Appears To Be On January Calendar

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 30.—(AP)—A short session of the approaching congress to be dominated principally by the announced intention to trim appropriations appeared definitely today as the administration aim.

President Roosevelt talked during the day with Charles West, the under secretary of the interior and liaison officer last session between the White House and Capitol Hill. There was no comment on the conversation.

However, Mr. Roosevelt already has expressed the hope for a short session. In declaring a "breathing spell" last August he asserted the New Deal legislative program substantially completed.

Since August, Secretary Roper has declared the "breathing spell" to be permanent and there is every indication of satisfaction by the administration with trend of domestic events.

With congress reconvening just a month hence undoubtedly today's discussion at the "Little White House" on Pine mountain considered that meeting.

To date, all considerations for the session, so far as domestic legislation is concerned, have related to the budget and the announcement made yesterday by Mr. Roosevelt that the peak of appropriations is passed.

One other outstanding topic appears to be on the administration calendar for the session—neutrality legislation. The present neutrality law has a life of only six months, expiring in February. A revision in the neutrality law is in prospect to make it more elastic but still emphatic and state department officials are expected to go

EAST'S CONDITION REPORTED GRAVE

Examination Reveals Slugged Man's Skull Fractured By Blow

Prentice East, 28, of West Monroe, who was allegedly attacked and slugged by a negro last Thursday night is said by his physician to be in a serious condition, having suffered a fracture of the frontal headbone, with slivers of the crushed bone lodging in the brain tissue. An operation was performed at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, but the outcome of his condition was uncertain.

East, who is a farm and home radio program singer, made a statement yesterday afternoon to officers from the sheriff's department. He declared that on the night he was slugged he had attended a dance at Wiggins dance hall, and had a woman as his companion. He reputedly said they had been drinking. Later in the evening he and the woman left the hall and drove out on the new Sterlington road. He got out of the car, officers said, and while standing at the roadside a negro, who he claimed was over six feet tall and light complexioned, attacked him, and beat him with a pipe or other blunt instrument. His assailant fled, and East grabbed a lug wrench and started after him, but could not find the man. East afterwards dropped the wrench at the rear of J. D. Collier's residence on the

VAN VLACK ADMITS SLAYING EX-WIFE

Former University Student Blames Woman's Father For Killing

TWIN FALLS, Idaho, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Douglas Van Vlack laid his plight today upon his slain ex-wife's father, Joseph Hook, mystery fiction writer, who in turn blamed G-men for failure to prevent his daughter's death.

Deputy Sheriff Oris Cryder and Police Chief A. C. Parker of Buhl said the hulking former University of Washington student admitted killing pretty Mildred Hook, after discovery of her body in a culvert, the head battered and bullet-pierced.

Van Vlack balked at making a sworn confession to Prosecutor Edward E. Babcock but talked freely of the slaying to Walter V. Beesley, Associated Press staff writer.

"Yes, I killed her," Van Vlack told Beesley.

"She knew before she left Tacoma (where Van Vlack kidnaped her last Saturday) what was coming to her. I told her father before I took her that if he didn't leave us alone, I'd kill her. That's why I did it."

Asked why he killed State Patrolman Fontaine Cooper, who attempted to halt him, Van Vlack replied:

"I don't know. I guess I lost my head then.

"I knew it would all end like this a long time ago.

"And I did it because I told her father I would.

"She wasn't asleep when I shot her, but she didn't know I was going to do it.

"I'm sorry now. I'm sorry I ever met her. I'm sorry for the officer's folks and friends.

"If her folks had left us alone we would have been all right.

"But I don't care a whole lot. I know what's going to happen to me

Changes In Markham Plan Will Be Talked

Flood Control Committee Of Rivers And Harbors Congress To Meet

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Members of the flood control steering committee of the national rivers and harbors congress will meet here tomorrow to discuss possible changes in the Markham plan for flood control in the lower Mississippi river and its tributaries.

The committee will leave tomorrow night for Washington to confer with Maj.-Gen. E. M. Markham, chief of army engineers, and author of the flood control measure presented to the last congress.

Committee members said efforts are being made to iron out differences between Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana members, so that a drive may be started in January to induce congress to enact the Markham plan into law. It provides for the expenditure of $313,000,000 over a six-year period in completing flood defenses.

Tuesday, the committee will confer with Senator John H. Overton of Louisiana, who is preparing a bill embodying the Markham plan for introduction to the senate. If satisfac-

1,000-POUND STEER ADJUDGED WINNER AT STOCK EXHIBIT

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Young Vincent Baker's thousand pound short horn steer, ten times heavier than its 14-year-old master, was adjudged grand champion today of the 36th International Livestock Exposition's junior feeding contest.

An Illinois youth, Lawrence Morgan of Aledo, also 14 years old, fed and raised the glossy Aberdeen Angus calf which won the reserve grand champion's title.

SAFETY PIN IS TAKEN FROM GIRL'S INTESTINE

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP)—An open safety pin was removed tonight from the small intestine of Lillian Lennehan, 15-year-old Ramsey, N. J., school girl, by surgery.

Her condition after the operation was reported "good."

Surgery was decided upon after X-rays disclosed a change in the pin's position had put its point against an intestinal wall. The operation was performed by Dr. Arthur Wright, attending director of the hospital's third surgical division.

MOVIE OPERATORS STRIKE REPORTED

Reputed Disagreement Between Hollywood And Big Circuits Is Cause

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—(AP)—A nationwide strike of motion picture operators employed in Paramount theaters was reported to have been called tonight, allegedly because of disagreement between Hollywood studios and major theatrical circuits.

The strike was said to have forced several theaters in Illinois to close. Balaban and Katz reported its 40 theaters in Chicago were closed for a short time, but had reopened.

Members of the moving pictures operators union refused to say why the strike had been called or that one had been ordered. They referred all queries to George E. Brown, president of the union, now in Washington.

'The walkout of the operators in some of the larger Chicago theaters was reported to have also included members of the stage hands union.

Members of the operators and stagehands unions refused to talk about the strike, except to say that orders had come "from Washington" for them to return to work.

Theaters were closed for the night in Aurora, Springfield, and Evanston, Ill. Striking employes there asserted they knew nothing of the affair except that it was a nationwide strike.

John Balaban, an official of Balaban and Katz in Chicago, said he was unable to say what was behind the walkout. He added, however, that the strike had been short lived in their houses and that the projection machines were running again.

MAN RESENTS FACT THAT HE HAS BEEN PRONOUNCED DEAD

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 30.—(AP)—John Stevens has been pronounced dead—and resents the fact. He wants to be pronounced alive again.

Stevens went to Miami 13 years ago to look for work, leaving some real estate and personal property behind him. Last August his step-daughter reported to the county court he had not been seen or heard from since.

He was pronounced legally dead.

But today County Judge J. Ollie Edmunds considered a letter, postmarked Miami, which said:

"I want it carefully understood that I—the John Stevens pronounced dead—am alive by the help of God."

Proceedings will begin to take his name off the death roll.

MRS. LIVERMORE PLACED IN JAIL

Woman Tells Officers She Remembers Nothing About Shooting Of Son

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Jail doors closed today on Mrs. Dorothea Wendt Livermore after she told officers she remembered nothing about shooting her son, Jesse Livermore, Jr., in an asserted drunken argument.

The 15-year-old victim hovered between life and death. He was cheered by a visit from his father, Jesse Livermore, noted Wall Street figure of the pre-depression era.

Mrs. Livermore, divorced second wife of the market operator, verged on hysteria when she asked to be taken home from the hospital—and was told she was going to jail instead.

She was held on suspicion of assault to commit murder.

Officers said that booking would stand pending the outcome of the condition of the boy, who yesterday sobbed that it was "an accident."

The mother said she was unable to cast any further light on the shooting which took place at Mrs. Livermore's palatial home late Thursday night.

Officers said she told them her son handed her the rifle and dared her to shoot him after they quarreled about the boy's drinking.

Physicians reported, however, that she still was under the influence of alcohol and the opiate at the time. Investigators tried later to obtain a full statement but said she "talked around" the affair.

Sheriff Ross said he tried this again today and Mrs. Livermore told him she was unable to remember the details.

Mrs. Livermore's appearance had changed considerably after more than 24 hours in the hospital. Both mother and son were intoxicated, officers said, when taken there early yester-

Increases In Retail Sales Are Reported

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Substantial increases in retail sales this week and unusual industrial activity throughout November were reported today in predominantly cheerful commerce department business surveys.

Holiday buying was said to have started with a rush in most of the 32 cities covered by the department's weekly report with favorable weather conditions helping considerably.

New York department stores reported their sales 13 per cent ahead of the corresponding week last year. Cold weather and "effective publicity," the department said, jammed Chicago's retail district streets with buyers. Boston stores reported a turnover ranging from 10 to 25 per cent above the corresponding week of 1934. Pittsburgh department stores sales

NEW STATE TO BE ANNOUNCED SOON IN CHINA

Cities Of Peiping And Tientsin To Be Included In Independent Area

SHANGHAI, Nov. 30.—(AP)—A Japanese dispatch from Tientsin said tonight that the Chinese military leader there announced an independent state would be proclaimed shortly in Hopeh and Chahar provinces.

Gen. Sung Cheh-Yan, commander of the Peiping-Tientsin military garrison, said the Rengo (Japanese) news agency, informed Chinese national leaders in Nanking by telegraph that the autonomy program would be carried through as "soon as possible."

The cities of Peiping and Tientsin would be included in such a state.

"The time is very near for new northern developments," said a spokesman for the Japanese embassy here. There were rumors autonomy might be proclaimed Monday.

The Nanking government, in its third note to Japan within two days, protested vigorously today against what it said was Japan's seizure of the Chinese postoffice in the northern demilitarized zone.

At the same time the foreign office sent identical notes to all embassies and legations in China denouncing the autonomous state set up in eastern Hopeh by Yin Ju-Keng, Chinese administrator of the demilitarized zone.

COLLEGE STUDENT COMMITS SUICIDE

University Of Arkansas Junior Found Dead In Fraternity House

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Dean Holmes Corlette, Jr., of Chicago, 21-year-old junior in the University of Arkansas business college, was found shot to death in his fraternity house room this afternoon. Coroner Glenn Riggs of Springdale, Ark., returned a verdict of suicide.

Riggs said he believed the youth's action resulted from despondency over a love affair. G. E. Ripley, dean of men at the university, said Corlette left a note to his brother, Stephen Horace Corlette, also a university student. Contents of the note were not made public.

88 NEW DECREES ARE GROUND OUT BY HIGH COUNCIL

Appropriation Is Made To Develop Oil Production In Albania

BRITONS ASSERT IL DUCE HAS 'CHANGED HIS TUNE'

Selassie Says If Necessary He Will Join Warriors In Trenches

(By Associated Press)

Italy, center of a European crisis, adopted further steps Saturday to strengthen her already elaborate defenses.

The cabinet, in a two and one half hour session, ground out 88 defense, economic and financial decrees.

Membership in the supreme council of defense was increased; an appropriation was made to develop oil production in Albania; men under 32 were ordered to join the National Shooting society; and another session was called for Tuesday.

In London, authoritative quarters said Europe tension, principally between Britain and Italy, had lessened.

Premier Mussolini, these sources said, has "changed his tune." They asserted Premier Laval of France has warned Rome against any unprovoked aggression against the British fleet in the Mediterranean, pointing out that Paris would side with the British.

British leaders were represented to feel that further collective action by the league to end the war should be supported.

A league committee will meet this week to consider the application of an oil embargo upon Italy.

Fighting went on in Africa. The Ethiopian government said tribesmen east of Mount Mussa Ali surprised an Italian column, killing 183 of them, with 20 Ethiopians slain.

Emperor Haile Selassie arrived at Dessye to establish a general military headquarters. To his cheering subjects, he said:

"If necessary, I will go farther, joining the warriors in the trenches."

ITALY PUSHES WAR MEASURES THROUGH

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

ROME, Nov. 30.—Italy's cabinet rushed through measures to strengthen the nation's war machine today.

It took but two and one half hours for the cabinet, dominated by Premier Mussolini, to approve 88 defense, economic and financial decrees.

Membership in the supreme council of defense was enlarged to include many new officials.

An appropriation of 70,000,000 lire (about $5,600,000) was made to set up a refinery for crude oil. It will be turned over to a company which has been developing oil production in Albania, the Azinda Italiani Petroli.

A measure was approved requiring all men under 32 to enroll in the National Shooting society after they have

ADMINISTRATION CLAIMS SUCCESS IN GIVING WORK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Claiming success at placing the 3,500,000 able-bodied unemployed in jobs where they could earn their own way, the administration tonight stood upon the assertion that its "dole" contributions to the states were ended.

With the arrival of the December 1 deadline for the end of direct relief also came the passing of the federal emergency relief administration. The last big slice of its funds was split up last night among 22 final supplemental allotments, intended to carry on direct relief where the employment quotas have not yet been filled.

Although Harry L. Hopkins, dual chief of the expiring FERA and the works progress administration, did not disclose new figures as to the number now employed on works projects, New Deal spokesmen asserted the goal of 3,500,000 jobs would be reached by tonight.

GERMAN WARNS AGAINST ATTACKS ON CAPITALISM

"In a time when desirable traditions and things like folk dances, spinning looms and the like are being called into life again," he said, "let us not forget that capital goods, like grain silos, harvesting machines and motor plows are indispensable in an agricultural process which aims to feed 65,000,000."

Dr. Schacht, minister of economics, praised what he called "the leadership principle" as applied by Adolf Hitler.

Woman Says Her Plumpness Led To Slaying Of Husband

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Plump Mrs. Amy Dumbrell, crying, "I don't believe in divorce," was arraigned today on a charge of murdering her broker husband in a quarrel over "another woman."

"You see what I am—short and fat," she wept. "That's why I lost my husband."

The broker, 59-year-old John H. Dumbrell, was shot as he and his wife argued over Dumbrell's asserted attention to a red-haired telephone operator, officers were told. Mrs. Dumbrell identified the woman only as "Mrs. Gladys Jones."

"I went to the woman's apartment and had a showdown with her," Inspector William Stanton said the 50-year-old matron told him.

"She refused to give up my husband. I suffered in silence for 20 years but I should never have gone to that woman's house. I knew she was living in a luxurious apartment that she certainly was not able to provide for herself."

The Dumbrells were married 27 years ago and have a 19-year-old son, John, Jr.

"I shot my boy's father with my boy's own gun," the inspector quoted her. "I did it for the boy's sake, just as I have spent 20 years in torment."

"I don't believe in divorce," she explained as she appeared before Municipal Judge George Schonfeld. "I believe divorce cuts the child astray. This outcome was inevitable."

GOOD FELLOWS FUND

Total	$62.00

Since Thanksgiving, the editor of the Good Fellows fund is in receipt of a larger volume of letters than at any time since the announcement of the opening of the fund, on behalf of children of the Twin Cities, who are annually the beneficiaries of this movement. The appeals come from all sections of the two cities, some are from children, others from their mothers and some come from neighbors writing on behalf of those who are too proud to write for themselves.

A letter comes from Mulberry street, written by a woman who is making a plea for her neighbor, who is sick and has a little boy three years old.

"Please see that this little boy gets some Santa Claus this year," the letter says. "He is three. His mother is sick, out in the cold looking for work. Just a few toys or just anything to make this little mother feel better. She was crying this morning and told me that the little boy couldn't have anything this Christmas. He needs clothing and shoes. The mother doesn't know I am writing this, so please help her with her baby."

Here is another letter from a little girl on Breard street:

An operation was performed at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, but the outcome of his condition was uncertain.

East, who is a farm and home radio program singer, made a statement yesterday afternoon to officers from the sheriff's department. He declared that on the night he was slugged he had attended a dance at Wiggins dance hall, and had a woman as his companion. He reputedly said they had been drinking. Later in the evening he and the woman left the hall and drove out on the new Sterlington road. He got out of the car, officers said, and while standing at the roadside a negro, who he claimed was over six feet tall and light complexioned, attacked him, and beat him with a pipe or other blunt instrument. His assailant fled, and East grabbed a lug wrench and started after him, but could not find the man. East afterwards dropped the wrench at the rear of J. D. Collier's residence on the

Woman Says Her Plumpness Led To Slaying Of Husband

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Plump Mrs. Amy Dumbrell, crying, "I don't believe in divorce," was arraigned today on a charge of murdering her broker husband in a quarrel over "another woman."

"You see what I am—short and fat," she wept. "That's why I lost my husband."

The broker, 59-year-old John H. Dumbrell, was shot as he and his wife argued over Dumbrell's asserted attention to a red-haired telephone operator, officers were told. Mrs. Dumbrell identified the woman only as "Mrs. Gladys Jones."

"I went to the woman's apartment and had a showdown with her," Inspector William Stanton said the 50-year-old matron told him.

"She refused to give up my husband. I suffered in silence for 20 years but I should never have gone to that woman's house. I knew she was living in a luxurious apartment that she certainly was not able to provide for herself."

The Dumbrells were married 27 years ago and have a 19-year-old son, John, Jr.

"I shot my boy's father with my boy's own gun," the inspector quoted her. "I did it for the boy's sake, just as I have spent 20 years in torment."

"I don't believe in divorce," she explained as she appeared before Municipal Judge George Schonfeld. "I believe divorce cuts the child astray. This outcome was inevitable."

VAN VLACK ADMITS SLAYING EX-WIFE

Former University Student Blames Woman's Father For Killing

TWIN FALLS, Idaho, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Douglas Van Vlack laid his plight today upon his slain ex-wife's father, Joseph Hook, mystery fiction writer, who in turn blamed G-men for failure to prevent his daughter's death.

Deputy Sheriff Oris Cryder and Police Chief A. C. Parker of Buhl said the hulking former University of Washington student admitted killing pretty Mildred Hook, after discovery of her body in a culvert, the head battered and bullet-pierced.

Van Vlack balked at making a sworn confession to Prosecutor Edward E. Babcock but talked freely of the slaying to Walter V. Beesley, Associated Press staff writer.

"Yes, I killed her," Van Vlack told Beesley.

"She knew before she left Tacoma (where Van Vlack kidnaped her last Saturday) what was coming to her. I told her father before I took her that if he didn't leave us alone, I'd kill her. That's why I did it."

Asked why he killed State Patrolman Fontaine Cooper, who attempted to halt him, Van Vlack replied:

"I don't know. I guess I lost my head then.

"I knew it would all end like this a long time ago.

"And I did it because I told her father I would.

"She wasn't asleep when I shot her, but she didn't know I was going to do it.

"I'm sorry now. I'm sorry I ever met her. I'm sorry for the officer's folks and friends.

"If her folks had left us alone we would have been all right.

"But I don't care a whole lot. I know what's going to happen to me

Changes In Markham Plan Will Be Talked

Flood Control Committee Of Rivers And Harbors Congress To Meet

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Members of the flood control steering committee of the national rivers and harbors congress will meet here tomorrow to discuss possible changes in the Markham plan for flood control in the lower Mississippi river and its tributaries.

The committee will leave tomorrow night for Washington to confer with Maj.-Gen. E. M. Markham, chief of army engineers, and author of the flood control measure presented to the last congress.

Committee members said efforts are being made to iron out differences between Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana members, so that a drive may be started in January to induce congress to enact the Markham plan into law. It provides for the expenditure of $313,000,000 over a six-year period in completing flood defenses.

Tuesday, the committee will confer with Senator John H. Overton of Louisiana, who is preparing a bill embodying the Markham plan for introduction to the senate. If satisfac-

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Young Vincent Baker's thousand pound short horn steer, ten times heavier than its 14-year-old master, was adjudged grand champion today of the 36th International Livestock Exposition's junior feeding contest.

An Illinois youth, Lawrence Morgan of Aledo, also 14 years old, fed and raised the glossy Aberdeen Angus calf which won the reserve grand champion's title.

SAFETY PIN IS TAKEN FROM GIRL'S INTESTINE

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP)—An open safety pin was removed tonight from the small intestine of Lillian Lennehan, 15-year-old Ramsey, N. J., school girl, by surgery.

Her condition after the operation was reported "good."

Surgery was decided upon after X-rays disclosed a change in the pin's position had put its point against an intestinal wall. The operation was performed by Dr. Arthur Wright, attending director of the hospital's third surgical division.

MOVIE OPERATORS STRIKE REPORTED

Reputed Disagreement Between Hollywood And Big Circuits Is Cause

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—(AP)—A nationwide strike of motion picture operators employed in Paramount theaters was reported to have been called tonight, allegedly because of disagreement between Hollywood studios and major theatrical circuits.

The strike was said to have forced several theaters in Illinois to close. Balaban and Katz reported its 40 theaters in Chicago were closed for a short time, but had reopened.

Members of the moving pictures operators union refused to say why the strike had been called or that one had been ordered. They referred all queries to George E. Brown, president of the union, now in Washington.

The walkout of the operators in some of the larger Chicago theaters was reported to have also included members of the stage hands union.

Members of the operators and stagehands unions refused to talk about the strike, except to say that orders had come "from Washington" for them to return to work.

Theaters were closed for the night in Aurora, Springfield, and Evanston, Ill. Striking employes there asserted they knew nothing of the affair except that it was a nationwide strike.

John Balaban, an official of Balaban and Katz in Chicago, said he was unable to say what was behind the walkout. He added, however, that the strike had been short lived in their houses and that the projection machines were running again.

MAN RESENTS FACT THAT HE HAS BEEN PRONOUNCED DEAD

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 30.—(AP)—John Stevens has been pronounced dead—and resents the fact. He wants to be pronounced alive again.

Stevens went to Miami 13 years ago to look for work, leaving some real estate and personal property behind him. Last August his step-daughter reported to the county court he had not been seen or heard from since.

He was pronounced legally dead.

But today County Judge J. Ollie Edmunds considered a letter, postmarked Miami, which said:

"I want it carefully understood that I—the John Stevens pronounced dead—am alive by the help of God."

Proceedings will begin to take his name off the death roll.

MRS. LIVERMORE PLACED IN JAIL

Woman Tells Officers She Remembers Nothing About Shooting Of Son

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Jail doors closed today on Mrs. Dorothea Wendt Livermore after she told officers she remembered nothing about shooting her son, Jesse Livermore, Jr., in an asserted drunken argument.

The 15-year-old victim hovered between life and death. He was cheered by a visit from his father, Jesse Livermore, noted Wall Street figure of the pre-depression era.

Mrs. Livermore, divorced second wife of the market operator, verged on hysteria when she asked to be taken home from the hospital—and was told she was going to jail instead.

She was held on suspicion of assault to commit murder.

Officers said that booking would stand pending the outcome of the condition of the boy, who yesterday sobbed that it was "an accident."

The mother said she was unable to cast any further light on the shooting which took place at Mrs. Livermore's palatial home late Thursday night.

Officers said she told them her son handed her the rifle and dared her to shoot him after they quarreled about the boy's drinking.

Physicians reported, however, that she still was under the influence of alcohol and the opiate at the time. Investigators tried later to obtain a full statement but said she "talked around" the affair.

Sheriff Ross said he tried this again today and Mrs. Livermore told him she was unable to remember the details.

Mrs. Livermore's appearance had changed considerably after more than 24 hours in the hospital. Both mother and son were intoxicated, officers said, when taken there early yester-

GOOD FELLOWS FUND

Previously acknowledged	$57.00
Mary's Flower Shop	5.00
Total	$62.00

Since Thanksgiving, the editor of the Good Fellows fund is in receipt of a larger volume of letters than at any time since the announcement of the opening of the fund, on behalf of children of the Twin Cities, who are annually the beneficiaries of this movement. The appeals come from all sections of the two cities, some are from children, others from their mothers and some come from neighbors writing on behalf of those who are too proud to write for themselves.

A letter comes from Mulberry street, written by a woman who is making a plea for her neighbor, who is sick and has a little boy three years old.

"Please see that this little boy gets some Santa Claus this year," the letter says. "He is three. His mother is sick, out in the cold looking for work. Just a few toys or just anything to make this little mother feel better. She was crying this morning and told me that the little boy couldn't have anything this Christmas. He needs clothing and shoes. The mother doesn't know I am writing this, so please help her with her baby."

Here is another letter from a little girl on Breard street:

"We are hoping you will come and

Increases In Retail Sales Are Reported

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Substantial increases in retail sales this week and unusual industrial activity throughout November were reported today in predominantly cheerful commerce department business surveys.

Holiday buying was said to have started with a rush in most of the 32 cities covered by the department's weekly report with favorable weather conditions helping considerably.

New York department stores reported their sales 13 per cent ahead of the corresponding week last year. Cold weather and "effective publicity," the department said, jammed Chicago's retail district streets with buyers. Boston stores reported a turnover ranging from 10 to 25 per cent above the corresponding week of 1934. Pittsburgh department stores sales

NEW STATE TO BE ANNOUNCED SOON IN CHINA

Cities Of Peiping And Tientsin To Be Included In Independent Area

SHANGHAI, Nov. 30.—(AP)—A Japanese dispatch from Tientsin said tonight that the Chinese military leader there announced an independent state would be proclaimed shortly in Hopeh and Chahar provinces.

Gen. Sung Cheh-Yan, commander of the Peiping-Tientsin military garrison, said the Rengo (Japanese) news agency, informed Chinese national leaders in Nanking by telegraph that the autonomy program would be carried through as "soon as possible."

The cities of Peiping and Tientsin would be included in such a state.

"The time is very near for new northern developments," said a spokesman for the Japanese embassy here. There were rumors autonomy might be proclaimed Monday.

The Nanking government, in its third note to Japan within two days, protested vigorously today against what it said was Japan's seizure of the Chinese postoffice in the northern demilitarized zone.

At the same time the foreign office sent identical notes to all embassies and legations in China denouncing the autonomous state set up in eastern Hopeh by Yin Ju-Keng, Chinese administrator of the demilitarized zone.

University Of Arkansas Junior Found Dead In Fraternity House

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Dean Holmes Corlette, Jr., of Chicago, 21-year-old junior in the University of Arkansas business college, was found shot to death in his fraternity house room this afternoon. Coroner Glenn Riggs of Springdale, Ark., returned a verdict of suicide.

Riggs said he believed the youth's action resulted from despondency over a love affair. G. E. Ripley, dean of men at the university, said Corlette left a note to his brother, Stephen Horace Corlette, also a university student. Contents of the note were not made public.

88 NEW DECREES ARE GROUND OUT BY HIGH COUNCIL

Appropriation Is Made To Develop Oil Production In Albania

BRITONS ASSERT IL DUCE HAS 'CHANGED HIS TUNE'

Selassie Says If Necessary He Will Join Warriors In Trenches

(By Associated Press)

Italy, center of a European crisis, adopted further steps Saturday to strengthen her already elaborate defenses.

The cabinet, in a two and one half hour session, ground out 88 defense, economic and financial decrees.

Membership in the supreme council of defense was increased; an appropriation was made to develop oil production in Albania; men under 32 were ordered to join the National Shooting society; and another session was called for Tuesday.

In London, authoritative quarters said Europe tension, principally between Britain and Italy, had lessened.

Premier Mussolini, these sources said, has "changed his tune." They asserted Premier Laval of France has warned Rome against any unprovoked aggression against the British fleet in the Mediterranean, pointing out that Paris would side with the British.

British leaders were represented to feel that further collective action by the league to end the war should be supported.

A league committee will meet this week to consider the application of an oil embargo upon Italy.

Fighting went on in Africa. The Ethiopian government said tribesmen east of Mount Mussa Ali surprised an Italian column, killing 183 of them, with 20 Ethiopians slain.

Emperor Haile Selassie arrived at Dessye to establish a general military headquarters. To his cheering subjects, he said:

"If necessary, I will go farther, joining the warriors in the trenches."

ITALY PUSHES WAR MEASURES THROUGH

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

ROME, Nov. 30.—Italy's cabinet rushed through measures to strengthen the nation's war machine today.

It took but two and one half hours for the cabinet, dominated by Premier Mussolini, to approve 88 defense, economic and financial decrees.

Membership in the supreme council of defense was enlarged to include many new officials.

An appropriation of 70,000,000 lire (about $5,600,000) was made to set up a refinery for crude oil. It will be turned over to a company which has been developing oil production in Albania, the Azinda Italiani Petroli.

A measure was approved requiring all men under 32 to enroll in the National Shooting society after they have

ADMINISTRATION CLAIMS SUCCESS IN GIVING WORK

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Claiming success at placing the 3,500,000 able-bodied unemployed in jobs where they could earn their own way, the administration tonight stood upon the assertion that its "dole" contributions to the states were ended.

With the arrival of the December 1 deadline for the end of direct relief also came the passing of the federal emergency relief administration. The last big slice of its funds was split up last night among 22 final supplemental allotments, intended to carry on direct relief where the employment quotas have not yet been filled.

Although Harry L. Hopkins, dual chief of the expiring FERA and the works progress administration, did not disclose new figures as to the number now employed on works projects, New Deal spokesmen asserted the goal of 3,500,000 jobs would be reached by tonight.

GERMAN WARNS AGAINST ATTACKS ON CAPITALISM

BERLIN, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, Germany's "economic dictator," warned today against attempts to abolish capitalism.

"In a time when desirable traditions and things like folk dances, spinning looms and the like are being called into life again," he said, "let us not forget that capital goods, like grain silos, harvesting machines and motor plows are indispensable in an agricultural process which aims to feed 65,000,000."

Dr. Schacht, minister of economics, praised what he called "the leadership principle" as applied by Adolf Hitler.

AMENDMENTS JECT OF ATTACK

Arguments In Test Case Will Be Debated In High Court December 9

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Receivers for the Hoosac Mills corporation of Massachusetts hurled the charge of "fraud" today against AAA amendments with which congress attempted to strengthen the constitutionality of processing taxes.

Their written arguments in the test case, which will be debated orally December 9 in the supreme court, were followed quickly, however, by a "friend of the court" brief in which the American farm bureau federation defended the taxes and held them comparable to protective tariffs for industry.

"Taxation without representation," "insidious effort," "congress has abdicated," and "bureaucrats" were among the phrases denouncing the AAA in the 116-page document filed with the nine justices by the milling company.

Expressing a willingness to have the court consider both the original AAA act and the later amendments in deciding the case, based on taxes imposed prior to amendment, the company argued that congress conceded the original act was invalid by amending it.

The brief asserted the amendments were "a fraud, in essence, upon the powers delegated to congress by the people," and constituted a "rubber stamp of acts" by the secretary of agriculture. It charged the amended law was a "bare-faced attempt to collect and keep proceeds of these taxes whether they are legal or not."

The farm bureau's brief insisted the AAA developed from a congressional study which began in 1924, and argued that the protective tariff, upheld by the court, obtains for industry a higher price for products in domestic consumption, while processing taxes have the same objective with respect to surplus agricultural commodities "regarding which the protective tariff system is wholly ineffective."

when he returned to their room at the Pi Kappa Alhpa house. Coroner Riggs said he believed young Corlette had been dead an hour or two before the body was found.

He reported a bullet from a .32 caliber pistol had been fired into Corlette's right temple. The gun was found near the body. Riggs said powder burns were noticeable on the youth's right temple.

The coroner said only one youth was in the building at the time of the shooting and did not hear the gun fire because he was writing on a typewriter.

University officials described young Corlette as an excellent student. His father, Dean Holmes Corlette, Sr., is expected here Monday from Chicago. Funeral arrangements were not announced pending arrival of the elder Corlette.

BAPTIST MINISTERS WILL ATTEND MEET IN RAYVILLE MONDAY

A meeting of the Northeast Louisiana Baptist Pastors' conference will be held at the Rayville First Baptist church tomorrow, beginning at 10 a. m.

The program, according to an announcement by Rev. Roger M. Baxter, secretary of the conference, will open with a devotional by Rev. D. D. Cantrell, of Monroe. Following a brief business session, talks will be made by the following: Rev. Basil Halbert, of Forrest, "Associational Promotion Work"; Rev. E. N. Weaver, of Rayville, "My Impression of the Convention" (recent state Baptist convention at Shreveprt); Rev. George Nelson, of Lake Providence, "Person of the Holy Spirit."

Rev. L. A. Materne, of Tallulah, will deliver the conference sermon.

Following the adjournment at 12:30 o'clock noon, the pastors will have lunch at the church. Each pastor is requested to bring sandwiches. Coffee will be served by women of the Rayville church.

CHOUDRANT COUPLE CELEBRATE THEIR 57TH ANNIVERSARY

CHOUDRANT, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Mr. and Mrs. R. D. O'Neal celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary Thanksgiving day. The old couple enjoy the best of health and live alone at the home place where Mr. O'Neal was born, the place never having changed hands since it was purchased from the government and has never had a mortgage against it.

Mr. O'Neal is 81 years old and often boasts of the fact that he has called a doctor but once in his life. His father died in the Civil war. He has two brothers, W. D. O'Neal, 79, and J. M. O'Neal, 77, both hale and hearty. The three brothers still run their farms and attend to their businesses.

Mrs. O'Neal is 80 years of age and before her marriage 57 years ago, was Miss Maud Kelly. She is the sister of E. A. Kelly, tax assessor of Frankling parish, and is a descendant of the McAdams.

To this union there have been born 12 children, 22 grandchildren and 3 great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Neal have always taken an active part in civic and religious affairs. Mr. O'Neal, who served on the police jury, earned the title of "teacher of good roads," because of his untiring efforts to bring good roads to his community.

A turkey dinner was given on Thanksgiving day by a daughter, Mrs. W. M. Barmore of Hilly, to commemorate the O'Neals' 57th wedding anniversary.

BARHAM AND ADAMS TO HUNT IN MEXICO

RUSTON, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—C. C. Barham, of Dubach and Ruston, and G. Adren Adams, probably two of Louisiana's best known sportsmen, will leave here tomorrow morning for their usual fall big game hunt in Mexico. John A. Caplis, Shreveport hunter, will join them in Shreveport for the trip.

The party will cross the border at Douglas, Arizona and under the guidance of the Farnsworth brothers, veteran hunting guides, who maintain concessions on large areas of Mexican property, the party will go by motor approximately 200 miles south into Mexico, and will resort to pack-train methods from there into their hunting location, which will take more than a day.

This is Mr. Barham's seventeenth trip into Mexico. Trophies from his former hunts are highly valued. On this trip the party will hunt antelope, deer, lion, bear and turkey.

were up 22 per cent, Detroit's 16 per cent.

Wholesale business was little changed. New York markets noted that apparel and dry goods were moving a little better than last year, but reported that sales were not up to expectations. Manufacturers' stocks were reported light.

The department predicted the industrial index for November, adjusted to account for seasonal changes, would rise above its October level.

"Industrial production during November has not undergone the usual seasonal recession," the survey said. "Steel, automobile, and electric power production have continued to expand, while the recessions in industries for which current data are available have been mainly of a seasonal character."

LARGE CROWDS SEES 'HUMAN FLY' CLIMB 9-STORY BUILDING

Approximately 1,000 spectators yesterday afternoon saw D. D. Roland, the daring "human fly," climb the outer wall of the nine-story Hotel Monroe building on South Grand street.

Starting from the sidewalk in front of the building, Roland ascended from one window ledge to another until he reached the top of the building. The spectators, closely watching his movements, gave vent to sudden gasps of fear when on one occasion his body lurched downward from a window sill. It seemed that the man performing the dangerous stunt was surely falling to his death, but his right hand retained its grasp on the window sill and he climbed safely back into the window frame. The "narrow escape" apparently was a part of the show.

Roland reached the top of the building from the ninth floor by climbing up a corner of the structure. At this point a negro mammy who had not recovered from the fright caused by the "narrow escape" turned her eyes away from the "human fly," clasping her hands in nervous fear.

AMENDMENTS BJECT OF ATTACK

Arguments In Test Case Will Be Debated In High Court December 9

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Receivers for the Hoosac Mills corporation of Massachusetts hurled the charge of "fraud" today against AAA amendments with which congress attempted to strengthen the constitutionality of processing taxes.

Their written arguments in the test case, which will be debated orally December 9 in the supreme court, were followed quickly, however, by a "friend of the court" brief in which the American farm bureau federation defended the taxes and held them comparable to protective tariffs for industry.

"Taxation without representation," "insidious effort," "congress has abdicated," and "bureaucrats" were among the phrases denouncing the AAA in the 116-page document filed with the nine justices by the milling company.

Expressing a willingness to have the court consider both the original AAA act and the later amendments in deciding the case, based on taxes imposed prior to amendment, the company argued that congress conceded the original act was invalid by amending it.

The brief asserted the amendments were "a fraud, in essence, upon the powers delegated to congress by the people," and constituted a "rubber stamp of acts" by the secretary of agriculture. It charged the amended law was a "bare-faced attempt to collect and keep proceeds of these taxes whether they are legal or not."

The farm bureau's brief insisted the AAA developed from a congressional study which began in 1924, and argued that the protective tariff, upheld by the court, obtains for industry a higher price for products in domestic consumption, while processing taxes have the same objective with respect to surplus agricultural commodities "regarding which the protective tariff system is wholly ineffective."

COLLEGE STUDENT COMMITS SUICIDE

when he returned to their room at the Pi Kappa Alhpa house. Coroner Riggs said he believed young Corlette had been dead an hour or two before the body was found.

He reported a bullet from a .32 caliber pistol had been fired into Corlette's right temple. The gun was found near the body. Riggs said powder burns were noticeable on the youth's right temple.

The coroner said only one youth was in the building at the time of the shooting and did not hear the gun fire because he was writing on a typewriter.

University officials described young Corlette as an excellent student. His father, Dean Holmes Corlette, Sr., is expected here Monday from Chicago. Funeral arrangements were not announced pending arrival of the elder Corlette.

BAPTIST MINISTERS WILL ATTEND MEET IN RAYVILLE MONDAY

A meeting of the Northeast Louisiana Baptist Pastors' conference will be held at the Rayville First Baptist church tomorrow, beginning at 10 a. m.

The program, according to an announcement by Rev. Roger M. Baxter, secretary of the conference, will open with a devotional by Rev. D. D. Cantrell, of Monroe. Following a brief business session, talks will be made by the following: Rev. Basil Halbert, of Forrest, "Associational Promotion Work"; Rev. E. N. Weaver, of Rayville, "My Impression of the Convention" (recent state Baptist convention at Shreveprt); Rev. George Nelson, of Lake Providence, "Person of the Holy Spirit."

Rev. L. A. Materne, of Tallulah, will deliver the conference sermon.

Following the adjournment at 12:30 o'clock noon, the pastors will have lunch at the church. Each pastor is requested to bring sandwiches. Coffee will be served by women of the Rayville church.

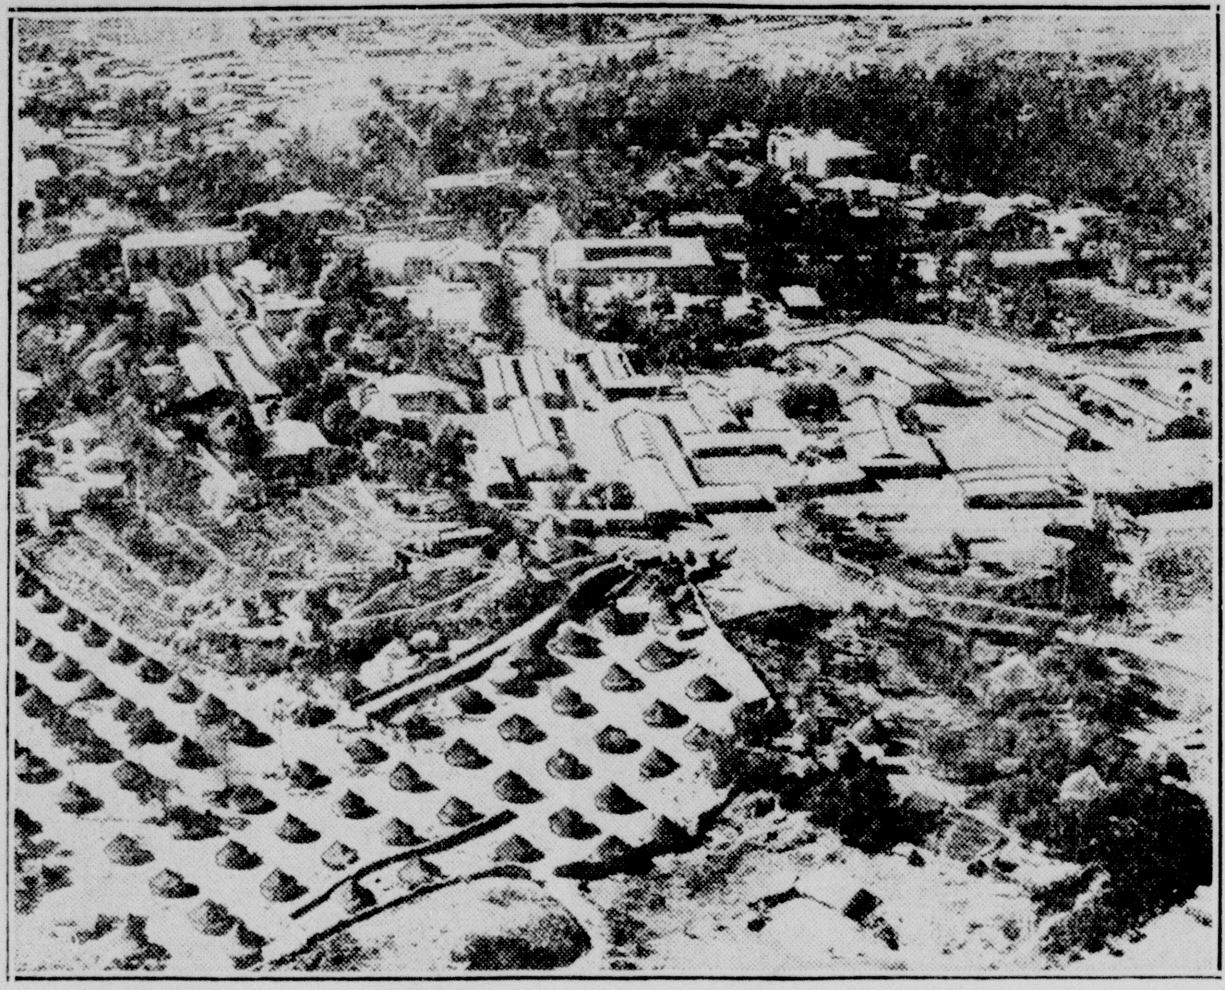
MAIN BASE FOR ITALY'S CONQUEST DRIVE



"Nerve center" of the Italian drive on the northern Ethiopian front as base for Mussolini's forces in that zone, picturesque Asmara, capital of Eritrea, is shown in this striking air view taken by Ray Rousseau, NEA Service staff photographer with the Italian armies. To Asmara, on the railway line from Massawa, Eritrean port on the Red sea, are transported all supplies and munitions for distribution to the front. In the foreground are shown the toadstool-shaped huts of the natives, arranged in precise parallel lines. In the center and stretching to the background are the modern structures built by the Italians.

CHOUDRANT COUPLE CELEBRATE THEIR 57TH ANNIVERSARY

CHOUDRANT, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Mr. and Mrs. R. D. O'Neal celebrated their 57th wedding anniversary Thanksgiving day. The old couple enjoy the best of health and live alone at the home place where Mr. O'Neal was born, the place never having changed hands since it was purchased from the government and has never had a mortgage against it.

Mr. O'Neal is 81 years old and often boasts of the fact that he has called a doctor but once in his life. His father died in the Civil war. He has two brothers, W. D. O'Neal, 79, and J. M. O'Neal, 77, both hale and hearty. The three brothers still run their farms and attend to their businesses.

Mrs. O'Neal is 80 years of age and before her marriage 57 years ago, was Miss Maud Kelly. She is the sister of E. A. Kelly, tax assessor of Frankling parish, and is a descendant of the McAdams.

To this union there have been born 12 children, 22 grandchildren and 3 great-grandchildren.

Mr. and Mrs. O'Neal have always taken an active part in civic and religious affairs. Mr. O'Neal, who served on the police jury, earned the title of "teacher of good roads," because of his untiring efforts to bring good roads to his community.

A turkey dinner was given on Thanksgiving day by a daughter, Mrs. W. M. Barmore of Hilly, to commemorate the O'Neals' 57th wedding anniversary.

BARHAM AND ADAMS TO HUNT IN MEXICO

RUSTON, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—C. C. Barham, of Dubach and Ruston, and G. Adren Adams, probably two of Louisiana's best known sportsmen, will leave here tomorrow morning for their usual fall big game hunt in Mexico. John A. Caplis, Shreveport hunter, will join them in Shreveport for the trip.

The party will cross the border at Douglas, Arizona and under the guidance of the Farnsworth brothers, veteran hunting guides, who maintain concessions on large areas of Mexican property, the party will go by motor approximately 200 miles south into Mexico, and will resort to pack-train methods from there into their hunting location, which will take more than a day.

This is Mr. Barham's seventeenth trip into Mexico. Trophies from his former hunts are highly valued. On this trip the party will hunt antelope, deer, lion, bear and turkey.

were up 22 per cent, Detroit's 16 per cent.

Wholesale business was little changed. New York markets noted that apparel and dry goods were moving a little better than last year, but reported that sales were not up to expectations. Manufacturers' stocks were reported light.

The department predicted the industrial index for November, adjusted to account for seasonal changes, would rise above its October level.

"Industrial production during November has not undergone the usual seasonal recession," the survey said. "Steel, automobile, and electric power production have continued to expand, while the recessions in industries for which current data are available have been mainly of a seasonal character."

Approximately 1,000 spectators yesterday afternoon saw D. D. Roland, the daring "human fly," climb the outer wall of the nine-story Hotel Monroe building on South Grand street.

Starting from the sidewalk in front of the building, Roland ascended from one window ledge to another until he reached the top of the building. The spectators, closely watching his movements, gave vent to sudden gasps of fear when on one occasion his body lurched downward from a window sill. It seemed that the man performing the dangerous stunt was surely falling to his death, but his right hand retained its grasp on the window sill and he climbed safely back into the window frame. The "narrow escape" apparently was a part of the show.

Roland reached the top of the building from the ninth floor by climbing up a corner of the structure. At this point a negro mammy who had not recovered from the fright caused by the "narrow escape" turned her eyes away from the "human fly," clasping her hands in nervous fear.

FAULK POST WILL ENTERTAIN GUESTS

Locals Will Pay Off Debt To Ruston Legion Men With Banquet

The L. B. Faulk post of the American Legion, which lost by a narrow margin to the legion post in Ruston, in a membership contest, will pay off the penalty for losing with a banquet tomorrow night at the local legion home at 8 p.m. Plans are being formulated to accommodate fully 75 legionnaires from Ruston and 125 to 150 local members.

In order to assist the Council of Social Agencies in its effort to aid underprivileged children at Christmas time, each legion man must bring a toy or doll to be presented at the door as his admission fee. The doll or toy can be either an old one to be rejuvenated or it can be a brand new one, Bill Perhamus, post commander, said.

A highlight of the night's entertainment will comprise talks by two guests of honor, Jack Sichtermann of Alexandria, department commander, and Dr. J. F. Moore, recently named superintendent of the United States veterans hospital at Alexandria.

Another interesting feature will comprise the awarding of prizes that were won during the membership [illegible] conducted by the post and which [illegible] on Armistice day.

Political Activities

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30.—(Special)—R. N. Bauer, chairman of the "Home Rule" campaign in the forthcoming primary elections, on Saturday night issued the following statement concerning events of the week in the Louisiana political situation:

"Gradually the methods by which Louisiana has been bled white by public officers sworn to protect its interests are being revealed as the state campaign progresses. The past week was notable for two shocking exposes involving no less prominent an official than the governor of the state himself. Stripped of all surplus details, the charge in this case is that Governor Oscar K. Allen and Lieutenant-Governor James A. Noe and a few associates profited to the extent of $320,000 from manipulation of an oil lease obtained from the state of Louisiana and for which the state did not receive a thin dime.

"This conscienceless deal in which the state was buncoed and the beneficiaries acquired a small fortune, was effectuated through a corporation titled 'Win or Lose Oil Company.' No more appropriate title could possibly have been chosen. The state lost and the governor and his associates won. The whole transaction stinks to high heaven; but with grafters and racketeers in control, what immediate redress may the people hope for?

"Another charge made in a public address at Plaquemine is that the state got a paltry $50 for a lease of oil bottoms and within two weeks part of this lease was sold for $499,000, the purchasers of this portion later selling a half interest in their lease for drilling contracts aggregating $300,000. This oil grant required the official signature of Governor Oscar K. Allen to effectuate it. The record shows that it was given.

"As the searchlight is turned on the history of the Maestri-Allen regime, the people are bound to be more and more impressed with the vital need of giving Louisiana a 'new deal.' The state machine is unwittingly giving the good people of the state a campaign rallying cry. It is: 'Turn the Rascals Out!' Continuation of the present system of graft and corruption, of confederating with the recognized agents of vice and lawlessness, of waste and profligacy, of maladministration in practically every department of state government, is unthinkable.

"In the homes of decent, law-abiding people throughout the state the open and defiant domination of 'Bob' Maestri, who not only dictated the state machine ticket but selected its campaign managers, is creating indignation and resentment. The brazenness with which Maestri issues commands and the supineness with which Governor Allen and his associates on the machine ticket obey them, have created a situation from which self-respecting men and women shrink in horror. Louisiana has reached the last endurable stage of its political abasement; and a sad awakening awaits the culpable state machine.

"The Home Rule movement presents a standard bearer toward whom the people may confidently look to lead them out of the morass of misgovernment and corruption into which the Maestri-Allen crowd has plunged them. The principles for which Cleveland Dear and his associates stand and the policies which form the basis of their candidacies, carry an unanswerable appeal to the hearts of patriotic Louisianians. Meetings held during the past week show how strong an effect this appeal has on the Democratic voters. At every place at which they have spoken the Home Rule candidates were received by huge and chering throngs. Unquestionably, the people of Louisiana are against graft and spoliation and are for those pledged to crush these influences and restore decency and honesty to our state government."

AUTUMN NUMBER OF 'PINE CONES' ISSUED AT TECH

RUSTON, Nov. 30.—(Special)—"Pine Cones," Louisiana Polytechnic institute's literary magazine, is out with its autumn quarterly number. The edition is creditable from every standpoint, particularly in its typographical appearance. It is beautifully printed and is a credit to the genius of Henry Mays, whose work it is.

"Second-Class Ticket," a story by Bruce Williamson, a graduate of last year, is the only one from a Monroe contributor. The story is an intensely human document dealing with the futility of old age when it is invested with poverty.

An interesting feature of the number is a glossary of slang terms as used by Tech students, compiled by Iva Nell Baker.

"Pine Cones" is sponsored by the department of English and the Rho Gamma chapter of Sigma Tau Delta, national English fraternity.

"Another charge made in a public address at Plaquemine is that the state got a paltry $50 for a lease of oil bottoms and within two weeks part of this lease was sold for $499,000, the purchasers of this portion later selling a half interest in their lease for drilling contracts aggregating $300,000. This oil grant required the official signature of Governor Oscar K. Allen to effectuate it. The record shows that it was given.

"As the searchlight is turned on the history of the Maestri-Allen regime, the people are bound to be more and more impressed with the vital need of giving Louisiana a 'new deal.' The state machine is unwittingly giving the good people of the state a campaign rallying cry. It is: 'Turn the Rascals Out!' Continuation of the present system of graft and corruption, of confederating with the recognized agents of vice and lawlessness, of waste and profligacy, of maladministration in practically every department of state government, is unthinkable.

"In the homes of decent, law-abiding people throughout the state the open and defiant domination of 'Bob' Maestri, who not only dictated the state machine ticket but selected its campaign managers, is creating indignation and resentment. The brazenness with which Maestri issues commands and the supineness with which Governor Allen and his associates on the machine ticket obey them, have created a situation from which self-respecting men and women shrink in horror. Louisiana has reached the last endurable stage of its political abasement; and a sad awakening awaits the culpable state machine.

"The Home Rule movement presents a standard bearer toward whom the people may confidently look to lead them out of the morass of misgovernment and corruption into which the Maestri-Allen crowd has plunged them. The principles for which Cleveland Dear and his associates stand and the policies which form the basis of their candidacies, carry an unanswerable appeal to the hearts of patriotic Louisianians. Meetings held during the past week show how strong an effect this appeal has on the Democratic voters. At every place at which they have spoken the Home Rule candidates were received by huge and chering throngs. Unquestionably, the people of Louisiana are against graft and spoliation and are for those pledged to crush these influences and restore decency and honesty to our state government."

AUTUMN NUMBER OF 'PINE CONES' ISSUED AT TECH

RUSTON, Nov. 30.—(Special)—"Pine Cones," Louisiana Polytechnic institute's literary magazine, is out with its autumn quarterly number. The edition is creditable from every standpoint, particularly in its typographical appearance. It is beautifully printed and is a credit to the genius of Henry Mays, whose work it is.

"Second-Class Ticket," a story by Bruce Williamson, a graduate of last year, is the only one from a Monroe contributor. The story is an intensely human document dealing with the futility of old age when it is invested with poverty.

An interesting feature of the number is a glossary of slang terms as used by Tech students, compiled by Iva Nell Baker.

Other contributors are Jean Brown, Jonesboro; Robert L. Clayton, Calhoun; Pauline Gantt, Arcadia; Millie Lomax, Ruston; Mary Alice McKinney, Hosston; Hazel Lea Nowell, Mansfield; James Posey, Ruston; Dorothy Thompson, Elizabeth; Johnnie Maude Register, Logansport; Crystal Richmond Choudrant.

"Pine Cones" is sponsored by the department of English and the Rho Gamma chapter of Sigma Tau Delta, national English fraternity.

The Art Of Evaluation

Two men sat at a table facing a gathering of several hundred persons gathered to consider certain civic problems. Said one of the men to the other: "You go ahead and explain the purpose of this meeting." Replied the other, with a twinkle in his eye, "No, you go ahead and explain it yourself and let me criticize you."

It is always easier to criticize than to create. Almost any writer can take "David Copperfield," "The Vicar of Wakefield," or the Bible, and criticize that which he himself could not produce. Scrubwomen in Rockefeller's Radio Center or the Folger Shakespearean library at Washington—two of the world's most beautiful buildings—probably criticize those structures.

Criticism has its important place in our affairs. And the humblest can sometimes point out weaknesses to the greatest. Our ears should always be tuned to catch criticisms. All of us are imperfect; and everything we do has its imperfections.

The person who is doing something or who is trying to do something worth-while, should be an object of praise and encouragement. If he has made or is making genuine mistakes, they should be pointed out to him—and he should have sense enough to be glad of the suggestions.

But it is inappropriate to pick and howl at a person who is trying his best to go places and not offer him constructive ideas to take the place of those of his which are condemned.

For some reason or other there is that in us which instinctively makes us want to fly at the doer. Perhaps it is jealousy—probably it is. We, too, yearn to be doers. It saves our pride to find fault with the efforts or the accomplishments of the other fellow. It makes us feel important and toplofty to point out his errors.

"Could I have done that thing at all?" is a wholesome question we could ask ourselves when we find ourselves in the frame of mind to snipe at the other fellow's deeds or undertakings. If we would adopt that attitude, we should likely find ourselves looking on him with admiration. It is tremendously good for our souls to learn to appreciate worth in our fellows. The biggest thing that many a man has done has been to applaud and advance the work of some other man. The greatest deed which the composer, Liszt, ever performed was to bring out the compositions of the then obscure Wagner and push them to fame.

"Is there any way I can help that fellow?" is a wholesome question to put to ourselves when we are observing someone else attempting to get something constructive done. In that frame of mind we can well criticize him; for that kind of criticism is beneficial to all concerned.

UNFORTUNATE COMPARISON

An admiral in the British navy works under a handicap not unlike that of a lad who tries to play halfback for the University of Illinois. The latter is inevitably compared with Red Grange; the Britisher is certain to be compared with Lord Nelson.

Admiral Jellicoe, who died the other day at 75, suffered unduly from the comparison. Nelson made a deathless reputation by hunting the enemy all over the seven seas and blasting him everlastingly out of the water when he found him.

Jellicoe's task was different; circumstances compelled him to play a safety first game, and it consequently has taken people a long time to realize that he served the empire as truly as did Nelson—in a different way.

Jellicoe fought Jutland, lost more ships than his foe, and left the German fleet unsunk. But he did save British naval superiority in the North Sea, and that was all he was supposed to do.

Had he tried to do more he might have lost the whole war in one day. He had the solid good sense to refuse to try to be a Nelson in a spot where Nelsonian tactics weren't needed.

A CLIPPER LEAVES PORT

You can always make the average American sigh for the vanished romance of the past by spinning a good tale of the far-off clipper ship era, when beautiful ships from the New England yards skimmed over every sea and carried the American flag to the ends of the earth. Here Business and adventure were combined in a singularly effective way, and few of us can read of that era without wishing that we might get some of its flavor back somehow.

But we are pretty blind if we are unable to see that our own era is giving us the same sort of thing. When that amazing seaplane, the China Clipper, took off from San Francisco to inauguarte regular trans-Pacific service, the ghosts of the old clipper ship people must have given it a cheer.

Here, as of old, beauty is combined with utility, and adventure with commerce. The result is something every bit as romantic as anything the heyday of the age of sail could produce.

Explorer Stefansson declares that it's possible to live exclusively on meat. If you have enough money.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

THE OLD-FASHIONED HIRED GIRL

(Who is a vanished type)

She was sometimes a bit of a problem,
She was sometimes a regular pearl;
But I know that she used
To be boss of the roost,
Did the old early day hired girl.
She always did all of the washing,
She always cooked all of the chow;
She would scrub, she would sweep
And sing youngsters to sleep—
I wish she was with us right now.

She got up at five in the morning,
Put the bread in the oven to bake;
Made a couple of pies
That delighted our eyes,
And now and then made us a cake.
She made sure that the kids wore their rubbers,
And often she took them to school;
And she put on the wraps
Of the tiniest chaps
When the days were a little bit cool.

She never attended a movie,
She never went out of a night.
Making calico frocks
And knitting wool socks
Always gave her the greatest delight.
One day when I had the dyspepsia
She went down to the general store
For a bottle of rye
Which I drank on the sly.
Gosh! I wish she was with us once more.

Bored Young Rowdies

By BRUCE CATTON

The tough little neighborhood rowdy can be a great pain in the neck to his elders, who usually have not the faintest idea how to handle him. But once in a while some grown-up with a little imagination comes along—and miraculously turns the little toughie into a likable, well-behaved child.

A New York City neighborhood near the Columbia university campus was troubled by a group of youthful hoodlums not long ago. These precious children went about smashing windows, swiping milk bottles, getting into street fights, and raising so much cain generally that residents demanded an extra detail of police to squelch them.

It happened that a retired Columbia professor, Dr. Patty Smith Hill, interested herself in the situation. She asked the police to lay off and give her a chance at the kids, and the police were very glad to consent. So Dr. Hill got busy.

She was devoting herself to a free nursery school for children of relief clients, and she used this for her base of operations. First of all she called in the leaders of the youthful gang—they were about 12 years old—and asked them what was wrong. They told her: "We have nothing to do and no place to go after school is over."

So Dr. Hill opened a community center for these children in her nursery school building. The youngsters were suspicious, at first.

She assured them that the activities at the center would be of their own choosing; and then they said they'd like to be taught "all about gas," so that they could make tear-gas bombs and throw them at the tough gang in the next block.

Undaunted, Dr. Hill started a class in chemistry—and the children got so interested in it that they forgot all about tear-gas bombs.

She organized classes in music and art, in stenography and dramatics, had the children writing, staging, and costuming their own plays—and before anyone realized quite what was going on, these young rowdies had ceased to be rowdies and had turned into well-behaved, quiet and altogether likable boys and girls.

The moral to this little story couldn't be any more obvious if it were printed in letters a foot high. Children turn into neighborhood rowdies out of boredom, pure and simple. They have to have an outlet for their energies. If none is provided, they'll make one—to the grief of the whole neighborhood, as like as not.

When the adult world is willing to spend just a little time and money providing an outlet, the neighborhood gang simply isn't a gang any longer. Where it exists, it indicts the intelligence of the grown-ups.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—When Mr. Harold Ickes goes on the spot, which is where you can find him on frequent occasions, the show is rather more than likely to be diverting.

Even more fascinating are the behind-the-scenes movements as in the recent cause celebre of the German steel ordered by subcontractors on a couple of PWA projects.

Suddenly your Uncle Harold found himself sore beset by the "Steel Trust," the American Federation of Labor, the Hearst press, and the large, motley collection of intra-administration enemies he has collected unto himself since March 4, 1933.

At the same time some of his subordinates were furnishing him defective factual ammunition with which to fight.

The odds were heavy. But I beg of you to believe that the Battling Bulldog of the cabinet was no whit afraid. If Papa Roosevelt hadn't intervened and told him to back down, you would be seeing Mr. Ickes out in the center of the ring, flailing away at all his foes in the most awesome of New Deal bouts to date.

A. F. of L. Aids Trust

Plain fact: Ickes had been willing to use the threat of German steel imports in a minor way as a club (it was more like a wand) over the "Steel Trust," whose companies had a way of submitting identical bids on PWA jobs which suggested the taxpayers were being collusively held up for exorbitant profits.

And Roosevelt had previously backed him up. But F. D. developed cold fe when the steel industry, working through Matthew Woll, persuaded President Bill Green of the A. F. of L. to join the hue and cry against use of any foreign steel in any PWA project.

Months ago the steel industry, led by President Eugene Grace of Bethlehem (who was paid a bonus of $1,623,000 for his work in 1929), came here to protest the possibility that an ounce of foreign steel might creep into PWA jobs.

Steel Tariff High

The tariff on steel (written by the industry's good pal, ex-Senator Dave Reed of Pennsylvania) runs from 18 to 30 per cent and PWA contract regulations stipulated that on top of that contractors must buy American materia unless a 15 per cent saving could be made otherwise.

Some steel men said the differential should be 60 or 70 per cent.

There was much talk about "sweated foreign labor," but no one could show where any foreign steel had come in for any PWA projects, so Ickes and Roosevelt sort of laughed it off.

Terrible Howl Rises

Then the Morehead City people decided they wouldn't pay 52 per cent more for a type of steel to which they said they preferred the German product anyway and insisted on saving $21,000 by buying German steel piling.

Steel propagandists spread the word among newspapermen and soon there was a terrible howl, especially when it was learned Triborough Bridge in New York was going to use a bit of German steel, too.

It all looked bad for the administration, and Ickes, whose personal enemies here helped spread the poison, was in a perilous position. He made a couple of fumbles when some of his own subordinates told him the treasury procurement section was using and recommending a 15 per cent differential in federal projects—instead of 25 per cent, as it was—and advised him he had no responsibility in the matter. (Certain PWA officials have since been catching the devil.)

Ickes Good and Sore

Nevertheless, Ickes had seen $150,000,000 of PWA funds poured out to those few steel companies with their penchant for identical bids and seeming collusion. And he was good and sore now that the same companies were making a huge storm of the first $100,000 worth of competition they had had in two years.

He was all set to blast the "Steel Trust" and refuse to give an inch and at the same time to toss a few grenades at Green and Woll with suggestion that they organize steel workers (in which they have notoriously failed) instead of helping the industry soak American taxpayers.

But he was told sternly by the White House that the administration couldn't afford to be put in a false position by its enemies, that he must increase the differential, and declare ringingly against use of foreign products in PWA projects.

The backdown was far from complete. Ickes is submitting his evidence of collusion" to the federal trade commission and the steel industry may be in for publicity as embarrassing as it gave Mr. Ickes.

EXPLANATION OF SATURDAY'S CARTOON

THE PSYCHIC PAINTER—Heinrich Nusselein of Nuremberg, born in 1879, was a business man until 1929. In that year the psychic urge to paint, draw and to write overcame him. Although he had never done any of these things before, he has painted an average of 1,000 pictures a year since 1929, including landscapes and portraits. Although he never sees the subjects of his paintings, he is said to achieve remarkable likenesses in both categories. He purchased the castle of Kornburg which he converted into a painting gallery. He exhibits his works in Germany and frequently in foreign countries.

CHURCH-SALOON—Dale Abbey church, located about a mile from West Hallam, Derbyshire, England, for 120 years was under the same roof as, and incorporated with a saloon. Also incorporated into the church is church house, which prior to 1892 was the Blue Bell inn. The bar room served as the vestry and had a convenient door into the aisle. But scandal and rumor eventually led to the abolition of the door. Today the "pub" has gone dry, but the church is still unique in being a parish church under the same roof as, and forming part of a private house.

TUESDAY: "THE MAN OF GOD."
(Copyright, 1935, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Lights Of New York

By George Ross

NEW YORK—From a columnist's notebook: I gravitated again toward the Versailles to hear the chants of Libby Holman. "Where," Nick asked as we squatted in the corner of his ornamental night club, "is all the money coming from?"

The place was jammed and calls for champagne, it seemed to me, were as comman as calls for ice water. Socially prominent Mrs. Saportas sat at one table with a party of 10 and Mary Bolan sat elsewhere with a party of 5, but for the most part, a sea of unfamiliar faces filled the room. Where is all their money coming from? Nobody seems to know.

Her nightly stint done, Miss Holman emerged from a side door to go home, followed by a retinue of 2 dressing room maids, a chauffeur and two husky looking men who constantly guard her safety.

Later, at Barney Gallant's, customers heckled the Latvian boniface who was exonerated in a courtroom the other day for having struck a lady. "That wasn't a lady," whispered Barney across the table, "and it wasn't my wife. It was two ladies getting into a fight and I tried to break it up. Never again." Gallant Barney had not revealed this secret to the court.

At 2 a. m., the crowds had thinned out in the Stork club and its proprietor, Sherman Billingsley, the boy from Enid, Oklahoma, who made good in New York, had some leisure to sit around and chat. I asked him about some of the darker secrets of his trade, how he tells a sponger from a customer who pays up, or, as the Broadway lingo puts it, a "rubbercheck" from the "McCoy." An easy matter to size them up, according to the genial Billingsley. Any time a stranger walks in and glad-hands him for an old pal, he refuses to accept his checks. But the stranger who modestly takes his table, dines or wines and then in embarrassment tells the waiter that he is short of funds, is usually o. k.

Following Suit

Up in the Fifties, that night, John Murray Anderson, the musical show director, was repeating his old, customary ritual. He was burning his suit of clothes in the basement furnace after the opening of "Jumbo," which he staged. It's his superstitious belief that it is hard luck to change or press his clothes while working on a show. And after the show has premiered, to burn them up.

As a slight gesture of participation in the Mark Twain Centennial, I wandered the following day in the direction of the Vanderbilt to seek out Barkeep Jim Donovan, who once mixed drinks for the immortal humorist. Bad luck, Jim was out.

And then, on to an inspection of the new Crossroads club, in a penthouse atop a Park Avenue skyscraper, which has been dedicated to the proper feeding and wining of moneyed meanderers. It was once the residence of Jascha Heifetz, who staged his violin concerts there for invited audiences.

An hour afterward, at the genial Joe Romano's spaghetti rendezvous for Metropolitan Opera stars, I was witness to a fond reunion between Nino Martini and Mme. Schumann-Heink, the aged singer. They had not seen each other in 24 hours and to judge from their emotional greetings, it was easy to believe that they had not seen each other in 24 years.

Ordeal

I had been girding myself, if only figuratively, all this while for an ordeal; a supper hour engagement with the microphone on a midnight broadcast. Almost like Demosthenes, I stood by the waters of the Hotel Plaza's fountain and swallowed hard on lozenges instead of pebbles to acquire courage, if not an eloquent voice. In the glass-enclosed studio, the suspense heightened with the passing of every minute that seemed an hour. Then a monster in an adjoining glass cage angrily waved a finger at me to proceed. That second was the worst. I spoke my piece; the case of nerves disappeared, and my third encounter with "mike"-fright was at an end.

From the ether-wave center to a fashionable club in the Fifties where the band banged out Harlem's new craze tune, "Truckin'," to the exclusion of all else. Tallulah Bankhead, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Metaxa were among those shuffling along to its serpentine rhythm.

The night was called to a halt at Reuben's where it occurred to me that Sylvia Sidney, the movie Venus, had cause to complain about the fact that a sandwich named for her had Westphalian ham as its chief ingredient.

PUBLIC FORUM

A LAYMAN'S ANALYSIS

To the Editor:

Barnum, the great showman, who told us "the world loves to be humbugged," only stated a principle well known to all observing men.

However, the surprising feature of Barnum's theorem lies in the fact that after years of publication, ridicule and constant warning to the public, there are still men and women, of above average intelligence, who swallow this political bunk as the striped bass does a red flannel rag.

Our learned political and economic doctors, who are so religiously peddling this idea of "share our wealth," are simply capitalizing upon that weakness, or universal desire, in the human family, to obtain something for nothing; to relieve the other fellow of his belongings without offering anything in return. In other words, they are simply out harpooning suckers.

Show me one of those wealth spreaders who has ever offered to share any of his belongings with the needy, or with any one else, and I will show you a flock of black swans. No doubt, all of those advocates of "share our wealth" are ardent believers in sharing the other fellow's wealth and would like very much to be made chief receiver for all the millionaires of the country.

This idea of share the wealth was more acutely and perfectly developed in John Dillinger and Baby Face Nelson.

When you see one of those share our wealth politicians sharing his wealth, it usually consists of a few two-for-a-nickle cigars, or a bottle of pop handed to "the easy ones," while canvassing for votes.

Remember friends, there are but three methods of obtaining wealth, in the world, viz.: 1st, work and earn it. 2nd, inherit it. 3rd, steal or hijack it.

I advise that you avoid the third unless you are seeking closer association with Al Capone in his island home.

Those political and economic doctors offering a guaranteed remedy for all the ailments to which men and nations are subject, are quacks of the first water, and their remedies are on a par with those of all medicine men and fakirs, who prey upon the gullibility of heathen nations. They are the natural output of hard times and the men and women who fall for their "clap-trap" simply need a guardian.

In my opinion, there is only one legitimate, or equitable method of distributing, or rather of sharing the wealth of this country, and that method is now being worked, to the limit, by our government in the present effort to raise money and supply work for the unemployed during the depression.

The exercise of the right, by our government, to tax the property or wealth, of the rich to support the poor, in my opinion, must be handled with great care or more harm than good will result. When the morale of the business world is destroyed, or the incentive to effort removed, industry will stagnate and the number of men and women, out of employment, will be greatly augmented instead of reduced.

Yours for the elimination of cranks and crooks from the manipulation of our government.

The Art Of Evaluation

Two men sat at a table facing a gathering of several hundred persons gathered to consider certain civic problems. Said one of the men to the other: "You go ahead and explain the purpose of this meeting." Replied the other, with a twinkle in his eye, "No, you go ahead and explain it yourself and let me criticize you."

It is always easier to criticize than to create. Almost any writer can take "David Copperfield," "The Vicar of Wakefield," or the Bible, and criticize that which he himself could not produce. Scrubwomen in Rockefeller's Radio Center or the Folger Shakespearean library at Washington—two of the world's most beautiful buildings—probably criticize those structures.

Criticism has its important place in our affairs. And the humblest can sometimes point out weaknesses to the greatest. Our ears should always be tuned to catch criticisms. All of us are imperfect; and everything we do has its imperfections.

The person who is doing something or who is trying to do something worth-while, should be an object of praise and encouragement. If he has made or is making genuine mistakes, they should be pointed out to him—and he should have sense enough to be glad of the suggestions.

But it is inappropriate to pick and howl at a person who is trying his best to go places and not offer him constructive ideas to take the place of those of his which are condemned.

For some reason or other there is that in us which instinctively makes us want to fly at the doer. Perhaps it is jealousy—probably it is. We, too, yearn to be doers. It saves our pride to find fault with the efforts or the accomplishments of the other fellow. It makes us feel important and toplofty to point out his errors.

"Could I have done that thing at all?" is a wholesome question we could ask ourselves when we find ourselves in the frame of mind to snipe at the other fellow's deeds or undertakings. If we would adopt that attitude, we should likely find ourselves looking on him with admiration. It is tremendously good for our souls to learn to appreciate worth in our fellows. The biggest thing that many a man has done has been to applaud and advance the work of some other man. The greatest deed which the composer, Liszt, ever performed was to bring out the compositions of the then obscure Wagner and push them to fame.

"Is there any way I can help that fellow?" is a wholesome question to put to ourselves when we are observing someone else attempting to get something constructive done. In that frame of mind we can well criticize him; for that kind of criticism is beneficial to all concerned.

UNFORTUNATE COMPARISON

An admiral in the British navy works under a handicap not unlike that of a lad who tries to play halfback for the University of Illinois. The latter is inevitably compared with Red Grange; the Britisher is certain to be compared with Lord Nelson.

Admiral Jellicoe, who died the other day at 75, suffered unduly from the comparison. Nelson made a deathless reputation by hunting the enemy all over the seven seas and blasting him everlastingly out of the water when he found him.

Jellicoe's task was different; circumstances compelled him to play a safety first game, and it consequently has taken people a long time to realize that he served the empire as truly as did Nelson—in a different way.

Jellicoe fought Jutland, lost more ships than his foe, and left the German fleet unsunk. But he did save British naval superiority in the North Sea, and that was all he was supposed to do.

Had he tried to do more he might have lost the whole war in one day. He had the solid good sense to refuse to try to be a Nelson in a spot where Nelsonian tactics weren't needed.

A CLIPPER LEAVES PORT

You can always make the average American sigh for the vanished romance of the past by spinning a good tale of the far-off clipper ship era, when beautiful ships from the New England yards skimmed over every sea and carried the American flag to the ends of the earth. Here Business and adventure were combined in a singularly effective way, and few of us can read of that era without wishing that we might get some of its flavor back somehow.

But we are pretty blind if we are unable to see that our own era is giving us the same sort of thing. When that amazing seaplane, the China Clipper, took off from San Francisco to inauguarte regular trans-Pacific service, the ghosts of the old clipper ship people must have given it a cheer.

Here, as of old, beauty is combined with utility, and adventure with commerce. The result is something every bit as romantic as anything the heyday of the age of sail could produce.

Explorer Stefansson declares that it's possible to live exclusively on meat. If you have enough money.

More Truth Than Poetry

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

THE OLD-FASHIONED HIRED GIRL

(Who is a vanished type)

She was sometimes a bit of a problem,
  She was sometimes a regular pearl;
But I know that she used
To be boss of the roost,
  Did the old early day hired girl.
She always did all of the washing,
  She always cooked all of the chow;
She would scrub, she would sweep
And sing youngsters to sleep—
  I wish she was with us right now.

She got up at five in the morning,
  Put the bread in the oven to bake;
Made a couple of pies
That delighted our eyes,
  And now and then made us a cake.
She made sure that the kids wore their rubbers,
  And often she took them to school;
And she put on the wraps
Of the tiniest chaps
  When the days were a little bit cool.

She never attended a movie,
  She never went out of a night.
Making calico frocks
And knitting wool socks
  Always gave her the greatest delight.
One day when I had the dyspepsia
  She went down to the general store
For a bottle of rye
Which I drank on the sly.
  Gosh! I wish she was with us once more.

By BRUCE CATTON

The tough little neighborhood rowdy can be a great pain in the neck to his elders, who usually have not the faintest idea how to handle him. But once in a while some grown-up with a little imagination comes along—and miraculously turns the little toughie into a likable, well-behaved child.

A New York City neighborhood near the Columbia university campus was troubled by a group of youthful hoodlums not long ago. These precious children went about smashing windows, swiping milk bottles, getting into street fights, and raising so much cain generally that residents demanded an extra detail of police to squelch them.

It happened that a retired Columbia professor, Dr. Patty Smith Hill, interested herself in the situation. She asked the police to lay off and give her a chance at the kids, and the police were very glad to consent. So Dr. Hill got busy.

She was devoting herself to a free nursery school for children of relief clients, and she used this for her base of operations. First of all she called in the leaders of the youthful gang—they were about 12 years old—and asked them what was wrong. They told her: "We have nothing to do and no place to go after school is over."

So Dr. Hill opened a community center for these children in her nursery school building. The youngsters were suspicious, at first.

She assured them that the activities at the center would be of their own choosing; and then they said they'd like to be taught "all about gas," so that they could make tear-gas bombs and throw them at the tough gang in the next block.

Undaunted, Dr. Hill started a class in chemistry—and the children got so interested in it that they forgot all about tear-gas bombs.

She organized classes in music and art, in stenography and dramatics, had the children writing, staging, and costuming their own plays—and before anyone realized quite what was going on, these young rowdies had ceased to be rowdies and had turned into well-behaved, quiet and altogether likable boys and girls.

The moral to this little story couldn't be any more obvious if it were printed in letters a foot high. Children turn into neighborhood rowdies out of boredom, pure and simple. They have to have an outlet for their energies. If none is provided, they'll make one—to the grief of the whole neighborhood, as like as not.

When the adult world is willing to spend just a little time and money providing an outlet, the neighborhood gang simply isn't a gang any longer. Where it exists, it indicts the intelligence of the grown-ups.

New Deal In Washington

By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—When Mr. Harold Ickes goes on the spot, which is where you can find him on frequent occasions, the show is rather more than likely to be diverting.

Even more fascinating are the behind-the-scenes movements as in the recent cause celebre of the German steel ordered by subcontractors on a couple of PWA projects.

Suddenly your Uncle Harold found himself sore beset by the "Steel Trust," the American Federation of Labor, the Hearst press, and the large, motley collection of intra-administration enemies he has collected unto himself since March 4, 1933.

At the same time some of his subordinates were furnishing him defective factual ammunition with which to fight.

The odds were heavy. But I beg of you to believe that the Battling Bulldog of the cabinet was no whit afraid. If Papa Roosevelt hadn't intervened and told him to back down, you would be seeing Mr. Ickes out in the center of the ring, flailing away at all his foes in the most awesome of New Deal bouts to date.

A. F. of L. Aids Trust

Plain fact: Ickes had been willing to use the threat of German steel imports in a minor way as a club (it was more like a wand) over the "Steel Trust," whose companies had a way of submitting identical bids on PWA jobs which suggested the taxpayers were being collusively held up for exorbitant profits.

And Roosevelt had previously backed him up. But F. D. developed cold feet when the steel industry, working through Matthew Woll, persuaded President Bill Green of the A. F. of L. to join the hue and cry against use of any foreign steel in any PWA project.

Months ago the steel industry, led by President Eugene Grace of Bethlehem (who was paid a bonus of $1,623,000 for his work in 1929), came here to protest the possibility that an ounce of foreign steel might creep into PWA jobs.

Steel Tariff High

The tariff on steel (written by the industry's good pal, ex-Senator Dave Reed of Pennsylvania) runs from 18 to 30 per cent and PWA contract regulations stipulated that on top of that contractors must buy American material unless a 15 per cent saving could be made otherwise.

Some steel men said the differential should be 60 or 70 per cent.

There was much talk about "sweated foreign labor," but no one could show where any foreign steel had come in for any PWA projects, so Ickes and Roosevelt sort of laughed it off.

Terrible Howl Rises

Then the Morehead City people decided they wouldn't pay 52 per cent more for a type of steel to which they said they preferred the German product anyway and insisted on saving $21,000 by buying German steel piling.

Steel propagandists spread the word among newspapermen and soon there was a terrible howl, especially when it was learned Triborough Bridge in New York was going to use a bit of German steel, too.

It all looked bad for the administration, and Ickes, whose personal enemies here helped spread the poison, was in a perilous position. He made a couple of fumbles when some of his own subordinates told him the treasury procurement section was using and recommending a 15 per cent differential in federal projects—instead of 25 per cent, as it was—and advised him he had no responsibility in the matter. (Certain PWA officials have since been catching the devil.)

Ickes Good and Sore

Nevertheless, Ickes had seen $150,000,000 of PWA funds poured out to those few steel companies with their penchant for identical bids and seeming collusion. And he was good and sore now that the same companies were making a huge storm of the first $100,000 worth of competition they had had in two years.

He was all set to blast the "Steel Trust" and refuse to give an inch and at the same time to toss a few grenades at Green and Woll with suggestion that they organize steel workers (in which they have notoriously failed) instead of helping the industry soak American taxpayers.

But he was told sternly by the White House that the administration couldn't afford to be put in a false position by its enemies, that he must increase the differential, and declare ringingly against use of foreign products in PWA projects.

The backdown was far from complete. Ickes is submitting his evidence of collusion" to the federal trade commission and the steel industry may be in for publicity as embarrassing as it gave Mr. Ickes.

EXPLANATION OF SATURDAY'S CARTOON

THE PSYCHIC PAINTER—Heinrich Nusselein of Nuremberg, born in 1879, was a business man until 1929. In that year the psychic urge to paint, draw and to write overcame him. Although he had never done any of these things before, he has painted an average of 1,000 pictures a year since 1929, including landscapes and portraits. Although he never sees the subjects of his paintings, he is said to achieve remarkable likenesses in both categories. He purchased the castle of Kornburg which he converted into a painting gallery. He exhibits his works in Germany and frequently in foreign countries.

CHURCH-SALOON—Dale Abbey church, located about a mile from West Hallam, Derbyshire, England, for 120 years was under the same roof as, and incorporated with a saloon. Also incorporated into the church is church house, which prior to 1892 was the Blue Bell inn. The bar room served as the vestry and had a convenient door into the aisle. But scandal and rumor eventually led to the abolition of the door. Today the "pub" has gone dry, but the church is still unique in being a parish church under the same roof as, and forming part of a private house.

TUESDAY: "THE MAN OF GOD."

Lights Of New York

By George Ross

NEW YORK—From a columnist's notebook: I gravitated again toward the Versailles to hear the chants of Libby Holman. "Where," Nick asked as we squatted in the corner of his ornamental night club, "is all the money coming from?"

The place was jammed and calls for champagne, it seemed to me, were as comman as calls for ice water. Socially prominent Mrs. Saportas sat at one table with a party of 10 and Mary Bolan sat elsewhere with a party of 5, but for the most part, a sea of unfamiliar faces filled the room. Where is all their money coming from? Nobody seems to know.

Her nightly stint done, Miss Holman emerged from a side door to go home, followed by a retinue of 2 dressing room maids, a chauffeur and two husky looking men who constantly guard her safety.

Later, at Barney Gallant's, customers heckled the Latvian boniface who was exonerated in a courtroom the other day for having struck a lady. "That wasn't a lady," whispered Barney across the table, "and it wasn't my wife. It was two ladies getting into a fight and I tried to break it up. Never again." Gallant Barney had not revealed this secret to the court.

At 2 a. m., the crowds had thinned out in the Stork club and its proprietor, Sherman Billingsley, the boy from Enid, Oklahoma, who made good in New York, had some leisure to sit around and chat. I asked him about some of the darker secrets of his trade, how he tells a sponger from a customer who pays up, or, as the Broadway lingo puts it, a "rubber-check" from the "McCoy." An easy matter to size them up, according to the genial Billingsley. Any time a stranger walks in and glad-hands him for an old pal, he refuses to accept his checks. But the stranger who modestly takes his table, dines or wines and then in embarrassment tells the waiter that he is short of funds, is usually o. k.

Following Suit

Up in the Fifties, that night, John Murray Anderson, the musical show director, was repeating his old, customary ritual. He was burning his suit of clothes in the basement furnace after the opening of "Jumbo," which he staged. It's his superstitious belief that it is hard luck to change or press his clothes while working on a show. And after the show has premiered, to burn them up.

As a slight gesture of participation in the Mark Twain Centennial, I wandered the following day in the direction of the Vanderbilt to seek out Barkeep Jim Donovan, who once mixed drinks for the immortal humorist. Bad luck. Jim was out.

And then, on to an inspection of the new Crossroads club, in a penthouse atop a Park Avenue skyscraper, which has been dedicated to the proper feeding and wining of moneyed meanderers. It was once the residence of Jascha Heifetz, who staged his violin concerts there for invited audiences.

An hour afterward, at the genial Joe Romano's spaghetti rendezvous for Metropolitan Opera stars, I was witness to a fond reunion between Nino Martini and Mme. Schumann-Heink, the aged singer. They had not seen each other in 24 hours and to judge from their emotional greetings, it was easy to believe that they had not seen each other in 24 years.

Ordeal

I had been girding myself, if only figuratively, all this while for an ordeal; a supper hour engagement with the microphone on a midnight broadcast. Almost like Demosthenes, I stood by the waters of the Hotel Plaza's fountain and swallowed hard on lozenges instead of pebbles to acquire courage, if not an eloquent voice. In the glass-enclosed studio, the suspense heightened with the passing of every minute that seemed an hour. Then a monster in an adjoining glass cage angrily waved a finger at me to proceed. That second was the worst. I spoke my piece; the case of nerves disappeared, and my third encounter with "mike"-fright was at an end.

From the ether-wave center to a fashionable club in the Fifties where the band banged out Harlem's new craze tune, "Truckin'," to the exclusion of all else. Tallulah Bankhead, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., and George Metaxa were among those shuffling along to its serpentine rhythm.

The night was called to a halt at Reuben's where it occurred to me that Sylvia Sidney, the movie Venus, had cause to complain about the fact that a sandwich named for her had Westphalian ham as its chief ingredient.

OUACHITA BAKERS' PRODUCT POPULAR

Butter-Krust Bread Used Extensively In Northeast Louisiana

Butter-Krust bread, a loaf popular in the Twin Cities and a trade territory within a radius of 75 miles, is made in one of the largest and most modern baking plants in the south, the plant of the Ouachita Baking company, 2519 South Grand street.

Products of the bakery serve such a large trade that the baking materials of the company are purchased in carload lots and delivered to the plant on a spur track of the Missouri Pacific railroad.

Another idea of the volume of trade served by this popular concern is given by the facts that the storage room in which its raw materials are held and its pastry department each are about as large as the average baking plant.

To protect its trade and the reputation of its feature product, Butter-Krust bread, the company has copyrighted the name.

Efficiency in the baking art and serving the public is the keynote of the success of the Ouachita Baking company. Each employe of the concern is a specialist in his line.

The cordial good-will of the public is one of the most valued assets of the company. Visitors are always welcome at the plant and J. W. Rohr, the president and general manager, and members of the staff are never too busy to escort visitors on an inspection tour of the plant.

At this time the bakery is making products, including fruit cakes and pastries, for the seasonal demand. Its fruit cakes, although low in price, have a quality in keeping with the bakery's reputation of producing wholesome, high-quality products.

REGISTRATION OF 4,500 EXPECTED IN LASALLE

JENA, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Approximately 4,500 LaSalle parish residents will be qualified to vote in the Democratic primary in January, according to an estimate made by Clarence Paul, parish registrar of voters.

No statement concerning whether or not candidates will be allowed to have representatives at the polls has been made by any member of the board of election supervisors, composed of Mr. Paul, Will Ezell and E. N. Duke.

MORE AND MORE GLY-CAS PRAISE CONTINUES HERE

Mr. McGee Adds His Name To The Hundreds Of Monroe Residents Who Have Publicly Endorsed Gly-Cas As Being A Medicine Without An Equal

And still they come—statement after statement from well known and respected men and women not only of Monroe but throughout this entire section who are glad to publicly endorse Gly-Cas for the endless number of wonders it has accomplished in case after case of rheumatism, neuritis, stomach, liver, kidney, bowel and blood troubles that had failed to yield to any other medicine or treatment before.

MR. E. McGEE

As in the case of Mr. E. McGee, 214 Peach street, Monroe, well known local gentleman who has lived here for the past 18 years, who made the following remarkable statement reaching the Phoenix Drug Co., 348 Deiard St., this city:

"A remedy like Gly-Cas is entitled to all the praise given it and more too," said Mr. McGee. "Constipation and stomach distress had been with me continually for the past ten years. Even the simplest of foods caused severe attacks of indigestion, had sour stomach and bloated after each meal. My kidneys became affected too, had severe pains in the small of my back and was disturbed so much at night it was impossible to get any rest or sleep it seemed. I was worn-out completely and was in such condition I had to give up my work as I did not have the strength nor energy to carry on. In three months' time I spent several hundreds of dollars doing my best to get relief—but met only with repeated failure. It was terribly discouraging and I had about decided that my case was of such long duration and so complicated that it was impossible to find anything to help me—but a short trial of Gly-Cas soon changed my mind.

"From the very first Gly-Cas brought about a great change in my condition in the most natural way," continued Mr. McGee. "Poisons in my body from years of accumulation were removed and soon I began to eat many kinds of foods I had dared not touch for years—and suffered no ill effects. Even my kidneys were regulated so I now sleep fine the entire night through, pains have gone from my back, rest naturally and my former strength and energy has been restored. I am glad to say I am now enjoying a full day's work every day and cannot say too much for Gly-Cas—it is one medicine every sufferer should realize its worth and benefit from its use as I have done."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug Co., 348 DeSiard St., Monroe, and by all leading druggists in surrounding towns.

Price $1.00 box—6 boxes for $5.00. Postage paid on receipt of price.—Adv.

City Briefs

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Shinn of Borger, Texas, and Mrs. Oscar Nelson of Charleston, W. Va., who accompanied her husband to Monroe, where he attended a meeting of the board of directors of the United Carbon company, are visiting here. Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Shinn are sisiters of H. E. Engstrom, general superintendent of the United Carbon company.

A benefit bingo party will be conducted at the legion home of the Walter L. Smith post at Sterlington, at 7 p.m. December 6. Prizes will be awarded. The net proceeds will be devoted to the funds to carry on auxiliary activities.

A bus load of Camp Fire girls was conveyed from the Central Grammar school Friday to a brick plant near Sicard, where they inspected the making of pottery, which is one of the major projects of the group for the ensuing year.

C. C. Colvert, dean of Northeast Center of Louisiana State university, will leave shortly after noon today by airplane for Jackson, Miss., where he will take the train to Louisville, Ky., to attend the annual convention of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary schools which will be held there all this week. He plans to return home on Saturday.

Twelve weeks' tests will be instituted at the Northeast Center of Louisiana State university Monday, and will continue throughout the week, according to announcement made Saturday by Dean C. C. Colvert.

A special Thanksgiving program will be given at the Paramount theater at 9:45 o'clock this morning, under auspices of the Frank P. Stubbs Memorial Bible class. In addition to the men's class the adult ladies' classes of the First Presbyterian church will attend the service. A general invitation to the public has also been extended, it was announced by R. M. Troy, president of the Stubbs class. Special vocal and organ numbers will be included in the program. Fred Williamson will deliver the address.

The annual election of the boards of directors of the Chamber of Commerce of Monroe and West Monroe will be held early this month. Ballots will be sent out through the mails and they will have to be returned at a date to be set later. After the junior and senior boards have been elected, each will meet to organize, electing officers to serve for the coming year. For the past year S. Jack Rogers has been president of the senior board,(and A. B. Clarkson has been president of the junior board.

At Tacoma, the girl's father asserted:

"Had the G-men acted in the case, I'm confident neither my daughter nor the Idaho officer would have been killed. The agents would have stopped Van Vlack before he could have gotten to Idaho."

Hook said J. Charles Dennis, U. S. district attorney at Tacoma, had refused to intercede on the ground the kidnaping was a "family affair," and "that the two would be back in eight or ten days."

The slain divorcee's mother was under a nurse's care.

Hook said he and his daughter had lived in constant fear of Van Vlack.

"I'm going to try him (Van Vlack) on two separate murder charges," Prosecutor Babcock said. "If he gets life imprisonment at the first trial, I shall immediately began the next and bend every effort to obtain the most severe penalty for the two crimes—hanging."

Deputy Sheriff Henry C. Givens, seriously wounded when Cooper was slain, viewed Van Vlack in his hospital room and exclaimed:

"That's him!"

Clyde and Vincent Hook, brothers of the slain girl, came to return the girl's body to Tacoma.

"Our natural reaction is to want him hanged," said Clyde.

Sheriff Prater returned the prisoner to Twin Falls, saying he would not remove him to state's prison for safe-keeping.

"I know the people here and trust them," he said. "There is no danger of any violence."

SPIDER BITE IS FATAL TO TEEL

Father Of Monroe Man Succumbs From Insect Poisoning

D. R. Teel and family, of Crescent Bend, have just returned from Daisetta, Texas, where they were called by the death of Mr. Teel's father, J. R. Teel, 76. The death was caused by the bite of a black widow spider.

Mr. Teel, who had for years been associated with the Houston Production company, of which one of his sons was general manager, was actively engaged in the conduct of his business up to a few days before his death.

He had visited Monroe frequently and had made many friends here on these visits. Surviving are nine daughters and three sons, all of whom attended the funeral services held at Daisetta.

old Sterlington road, where he had staggered to get help.

The lug wrench is now in possession of the sheriff's department. It is stained with blood, and efforts will be made to find fingerprints, as it is possible that East's assailant used the tool in his attack.

The woman companion who East claimed was with him at the time of the slugging, is said to live in Winnsboro. She was questioned by the authorities. In an early statement she said that after East's assailant had left, she attempted to drive the injured man to Monroe, but the car became mired, after which she caught a ride to town. During her absence East made his way to the Collier residence, and it was from there that the sheriff's department was informed of the attack.

Her going-to-jail costume was a tailored suit with silk waist. Her bobbed hair was neatly done and she wore rouge and powder.

Livermore and his third wife, who flew here yesterday from St. Louis, remained in a hotel near the hospital.

Attending physicians said the boy rallied slightly after seeing his father. The doctors believed the crisis would come during the night. He was struck in the chest by a .22 caliber bullet which coursed downward through the liver and lodged near the spine.

OUACHITA BAKERS' PRODUCT POPULAR

Butter-Krust Bread Used Extensively In Northeast Louisiana

Butter-Krust bread, a loaf popular in the Twin Cities and a trade territory within a radius of 75 miles, is made in one of the largest and most modern baking plants in the south, the plant of the Ouachita Baking company, 2519 South Grand street.

Products of the bakery serve such a large trade that the baking materials of the company are purchased in carload lots and delivered to the plant on a spur track of the Missouri Pacific railroad.

Another idea of the volume of trade served by this popular concern is given by the facts that the storage room in which its raw materials are held and its pastry department each are about as large as the average baking plant.

To protect its trade and the reputation of its feature product, Butter-Krust bread, the company has copyrighted the name.

Efficiency in the baking art and serving the public is the keynote of the success of the Ouachita Baking company. Each employe of the concern is a specialist in his line.

The cordial good-will of the public is one of the most valued assets of the company. Visitors are always welcome at the plant and J. W. Rohr, the president and general manager, and members of the staff are never too busy to escort visitors on an inspection tour of the plant.

At this time the bakery is making products, including fruit cakes and pastries, for the seasonal demand. Its fruit cakes, although low in price, have a quality in keeping with the bakery's reputation of producing wholesome, high-quality products.

88 NEW DECREES ARE GROUND OUT BY HIGH COUNCIL

been released from compulsory military training.

The cabinet adopted 22 decrees smoothing off spots in existing financial regulations.

Other measures included:

Extension of laws against publication of military information designed to make secret the activities of factories engaged in making war materials or experimenting with new military devices;

Extension to survivors of the East African war victims the same provisions applying to relatives of soldiers killed in the World war, including pension benefits.

Extension of credit for speeding up gold mining in Eritrea;

Among those to be added to the new defense council are the ministers of justice, education, public works and press; marshals, air marshals and grand admirals; the chief of staff of the fascist militia and the chief inspector for pre-military and post-military training.

"This modification," said a brief communique, "is designed to assure to the deliberative committee the invaluable assistance of the participation and experience of the hierarchy mentioned."

Widows and mothers of Italy's World war dead gathered in Rome today to hear Il Duce's call for a battle against sanctions.

They came from 94 provinces, where they will carry on house to house canvasses to organize resistance to sanctions.

The task was placed in the hands of women bereaved in the World war by Mussolini himself as a reproach to the allies with whom Italy formerly fought and who are now numbered among the sanctionists.

SELASSIE WILLING TO ENTER TRENCHES

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

WITH EMPEROR HAILE SELASSIE, DESSYE, Ethiopia, Nov. 30.—Emperor Haile Selassie established Ethiopia's military headquarters at Dessye today, after telling his subjects that, if necessary, he would "join the warriors in the trenches."

The populace of this city, 175 miles northeast of Addis Ababa, received the king of kings with enthusiasm as he completed his long journey by motor caravan.

All along the route, the Ethiopians cheered as the emperor, accompanied by many chieftains and aides, sped toward his new headquarters, riding some of the time through rugged mountain country.

Immediately after his arrival, Haile Selassie began conferences with his military leaders, including Gen. Tecle Hawariate, who will command the Ethiopian troops. Hawariate, Ethiopia's former delegate at the League of Nations, recently returned to Ethiopia and pledged much of his fortune to his country's cause.

Halting last night at Debre Birhan, a point about 175 miles from the capital, the emperor told his followers:

"I am now going north to the front headquarters at Dessye. If necessary, I will go farther, joining the warriors in the trenches.

"I have already visited the southern front, where I found the spirit of the soldiers excellent."

The Psalms of David were sung throughout last night in religious services by members of the emporor's party at Debre Birhan. The king slept in a tent.

At Dessye, Haile Selassie was to occupy the palace where his son, Crown Prince Asfa Wosan, formerly resided.

tory to Mississippi, Arkansas and Louisiana, it will be presented at a special meeting of the national rivers and harbors congress in New Orleans December 13-14.

The New Orleans meeting was called by Frank R. Reid of Illinois, president of the congress and chairman of the house committee on flood control, to consider further flood control legislation.

A Mississippi valley branch of the congress may be organized there, members said.

The committee to meet here will include Wade O. Martin, St. Martinsville, La., chairman of the Louisiana public service commission, chairman; Harry Jacobs, New Orleans, member of the Louisiana state board of engineers; T. H. Powers, Cary, Miss., president, and J. S. Allen, Greenville, Miss., chief engineer, of the board of Mississippi levee commissioners; J. W. Bradford, Itta Bena, Miss., president of the Yazoo-Mississippi Delta levee board; Judge J. G. NEW STATE TO BE ANNOUNCED SOON IN CHINA

The note asserted the people of north China did not want to separate from the central government.

The Chinese notes yesterday accused the Japanese army of responsibility for the independence movement and protested the seizure of Fengtai railway junction, near Peiping, by Japanese troops.

AUTONOMY AGITATORS PROCLAIM THEIR CAUSE

PEIPING, Dec. 1.—(Sunday)—Autonomy agitators boldly proclaimed their cause in the streets of Peiping without police interference today as fears of a possible clash between Chinese and Japanese in northern Honan province were reported from Kaifeng.

Evidences of increasing unrest in North China caused the belief in informed circles, viewing renewed Japanese military activity at China's great wall, that a crisis was near in the tense situation arising from the autonomy movement.

Leaders of the movement shook off their cloak of secrecy in this city, and handbills and posters urging the people to demand "self-government" were widely circulated.

Police looked on indifferently as the agitators publicized their cause.

Authoritative sources, meanwhile, continued to insist there was not the "slightest evidence" of a popular desire for autonomy.

Uneasiness was reported in northern Honan province as rumors spread that the area might become a theater of war in the event Japanese forces moved into north China to give assistance to the autonomy movement.

Foreign observers asserted in Kaifeng there were no evidences of an unusual massing of troops of the Nanking government.

Unrest cropped out in the province of Shantung last night, where large bodies of well-armed men were pillaging eastern villages, said dispatches from Chefoo.

Telegraph lines were severed and bus schedules were disrupted, said the reports, which quoted authorities as expressing the opinion the movement was political.

Whether the Japanese will open the military floodgates and let troops pour down the railway arteries into the rice North China plain of Hopeh province was generally believed to depend on whether the North China leaders are able to agree on a program of self-government satisfactory to the Japanese.

So much for "after prohibition" news in the east.

ON THE EDGE of the Pacific, an unfortunate woman, divorced wife of a well known Wall Street speculator, lived with her son, 15 years old. He was taken to the hospital, supposed to be dying, shot by his mother. She was taken to the hospital, a policeman by her bed to watch her.

Undersheriff Jack Ross told reporters "the mother is still too intoxicated to talk. Her 15-year-old son, supposed to be dying, was also intoxicated. They argued while drinking. He drank from the bottle. She said she would rather see him dead than drinking in that way. He handed her a rifle, saying 'here you are,' and she shot him in the chest."

That unfortunate boy, unborn when prohibition came, did not grow up, "not knowing the taste of alcohol."

Human beings must be taught you cannot force them.

TESTS AT THE University of Michigan show that stuttering usually ceases when the stutterer crowls about on all fours. In twenty-four cases, according to "Science" official organ of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, crawling on all fours cured stuttering.

Evolution will say "Ha-ha, some of our ancestors got on their hind legs too soon, that upright position interfered with coordination."

According to evolution, many of our troubles are due to walking on our hind legs, causing our insides to "sag down."

When going on all fours our ribs hold up heart and lungs, the powerful abdominal muscles hold up the viscera.

STUTTERERS and stammerers will doubtless try the walking on hands and knees cure, but it cannot be entirely satisfactory. Demosthenes could not have made his oration on the crown on his hands and knees without losing dignity.

It was better for him to put pebbles in his mouth at the edge of the sea and talk against the wind and waves.

over a final plan with the president before congress meets.

Of course, the post-war issue of bonus payments to the veterans is due for another airing with the veterans lining up for immediate cash payment of the bonus insurance certificates.

If the president has any proposal to make on this there is no sign of it. His thoughts on the question were revealed perhaps to some extent at a recent press conference in Washington when he was asked if the cash bonus payment was included in the budget.

His reply to the questioner was another question of whether he needed the money. This indicates perhaps some favor for some manner of payment to veterans in need.

Otherwise, Mr. Roosevelt's pre-election statement that he would favor cash payment when the budget is balanced still appears to stand. If there is going to be any administration sanctions for increased appropriations outside the budget next session it seems certain that insistance will be made that revenue in form of new taxes be provided to meet it.

see us at Christmas. I am 12 years old and my sisters are smaller than I am, so I am going to tell you what we need. My sister and I need some shoes and clothes, a sweater, and my little sister needs some shoes and dresses. And we need some food, and if you can will you bring some candy. Bring us anything you want to bring us. We will be glad to get it."

"Dear Santa Claus: I hope you get around to our house this Christmas. If you don't, we won't have anything, for my daddy hasn't any job, and couldn't work if he had one, for he is crippled with rheumatism. I am a little girl 9 years old, and a little brother 7 years old, and a little sister 2 years old. They would like to receive some prettys too. My little baby sister sure likes a doll. Santa, if you get my letter and want to bring us something, we live on the Jonesboro road. Here's hoping you don't forget us and wishing you a merry Christmas."

There's one way that Santa Claus can heaken to these pitiful little appeals: by helping the Good Fellows substitute for him on Christmas day. It is your opportunity to do a good deed. Send your contribution to the World and News-Star, 110 North Second street, Monroe. Make checks payable to Good Fellows fund.

FOUR PERSONS KILLED WHEN TWO CARS CRASH

BEDFORD, Pa., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Four persons died tonight in a head-on collision of two automobiles on the Lincoln highway, three of them in a blazing car bearing Michigan license plates.

William S. Mock, an automobile mechanic of Bedford, was pulled from his machine before the flames reached him, but did not live.

A man, a woman and a child were in the westbound Michigan car, which crashed with Mock's machine approximately two miles east of Bedford. Their bodies were badly burned.

Highway patrolmen said they could not determine how the tragedy occurred because the road is straight and try at this point.

been released from compulsory military training.

Other measures included:

Extension of laws against publication of military information designed to make secret the activities of factories engaged in making war materials or experimenting with new military devices;

Extension to survivors of the East African war victims the same provisions applying to relatives of soldiers killed in the World war, including pension benefits.

Extension of credit for speeding up gold mining in Eritrea;

Among those to be added to the new defense council are the ministers of justice, education, public works and press; marshals, air marshals and grand admirals; the chief of staff of the fascist militia and the chief inspector for pre-military and post-military training.

"This modification," said a brief communique, "is designed to assure to the deliberative committee the invaluable assistance of the participation and experience of the hierarchy mentioned."

Widows and mothers of Italy's World war dead gathered in Rome today to hear Il Duce's call for a battle against sanctions.

They came from 94 provinces, where they will carry on house to house canvasses to organize resistance to sanctions.

The task was placed in the hands of women bereaved in the World war by Mussolini himself as a reproach to the allies with whom Italy formerly fought and who are now numbered among the sanctionists.

SELASSIE WILLING TO ENTER TRENCHES

(Copyright, 1935, By Associated Press)

WITH EMPEROR HAILE SELASSIE, DESSYE, Ethiopia, Nov. 30.—Emperor Haile Selassie established Ethiopia's military headquarters at Dessye today, after telling his subjects that, if necessary, he would "join the warriors in the trenches."

The populace of this city, 175 miles northeast of Addis Ababa, received the king of kings with enthusiasm as he completed his long journey by motor caravan.

All along the route, the Ethiopians cheered as the emperor, accompanied by many chieftains and aides, sped toward his new headquarters, riding some of the time through rugged mountain country.

Immediately after his arrival, Haile Selassie began conferences with his military leaders, including Gen. Tecle Hawariate, who will command the Ethiopian troops. Hawariate, Ethiopia's former delegate at the League of Nations, recently returned to Ethiopia and pledged much of his fortune to his country's cause.

Halting last night at Debre Birhan, a point about 175 miles from the capital, the emperor told his followers:

"I am now going north to the front headquarters at Dessye. If necessary, I will go farther, joining the warriors in the trenches.

"I have already visited the southern front, where I found the spirit of the soldiers excellent."

The Psalms of David were sung throughout last night in religious services by members of the emporor's party at Debre Birhan. The king slept in a tent.

At Dessye, Haile Selassie was to occupy the palace where his son, Crown Prince Asfa Wosan, formerly resided.

The New Orleans meeting was called by Frank R. Reid of Illinois, president of the congress and chairman of the house committee on flood control, to consider further flood control legislation.

A Mississippi valley branch of the congress may be organized there, members said.

The committee to meet here will include Wade O. Martin, St. Martinsville, La., chairman of the Louisiana public service commission, chairman; Harry Jacobs, New Orleans, member of the Louisiana state board of engineers; T. H. Powers, Cary, Miss., president, and J. S. Allen, Greenville, Miss., chief engineer, of the board of Mississippi levee commissioners; J. W. Bradford, Itta Bena, Miss., president of the Yazoo-Mississippi Delta levee board; Judge J. G. Burke, Helena, Ark., attorney for the Laconia drainage and levee district; Grady Miller, Little Rock, receiver for the southeast Arkansas levee district, and Lamar Williamson, attorney, of Monticello, Ark.

NEW STATE TO BE ANNOUNCED SOON IN CHINA

The note asserted the people of north China did not want to separate from the central government.

The Chinese notes yesterday accused the Japanese army of responsibility for the independence movement and protested the seizure of Fengtai railway junction, near Peiping, by Japanese troops.

AUTONOMY AGITATORS PROCLAIM THEIR CAUSE

PEIPING, Dec. 1.—(Sunday)—Autonomy agitators boldly proclaimed their cause in the streets of Peiping without police interference today as fears of a possible clash between Chinese and Japanese in northern Honan province were reported from Kaifeng.

Evidences of increasing unrest in North China caused the belief in informed circles, viewing renewed Japanese military activity at China's great wall, that a crisis was near in the tense situation arising from the autonomy movement.

Leaders of the movement shook off their cloak of secrecy in this city, and handbills and posters urging the people to demand "self-government" were widely circulated.

Authoritative sources, meanwhile, continued to insist there was not the "slightest evidence" of a popular desire for autonomy.

Uneasiness was reported in northern Honan province as rumors spread that the area might become a theater of war in the event Japanese forces moved into north China to give assistance to the autonomy movement.

Foreign observers asserted in Kaifeng there were no evidences of an unusual massing of troops of the Nanking government.

Unrest cropped out in the province of Shantung last night, where large bodies of well-armed men were pillaging eastern villages, said dispatches from Chefoo.

Telegraph lines were severed and bus schedules were disrupted, said the reports, which quoted authorities as expressing the opinion the movement was political.

Whether the Japanese will open the military floodgates and let troops pour down the railway arteries into the rice North China plain of Hopeh province was generally believed to depend on whether the North China leaders are able to agree on a program of self-government satisfactory to the Japanese.

FAIR-HAIRED BOY

This sturdy, blonde young man is far from being a sissy; nevertheless, at the moment he's mamma's boy, "mamma" being Helen Twelvetrees, film actress. Little Jackie Woody may be the center of a custody dispute if, as Hollywood rumors hint, Miss Twelvetrees and her husband, Frank Woody, separate.

LOUISIANA STATE OVERWHELMS TULANE 41 TO 0

TIGERS OUTCLASS GREENIES TO WIN ANNUAL CLASSIC

Bengals Score Four Touchdowns In Third Period For Easy Win

By Ralph Wheatley
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW ORLEANS, La., No. 30.—A free for all fight between several thousand students on the playing field climaxed the 41 to 0 victory of the Louisiana State Tigers over the Tulane Green Wave in their annual clash here today before 34,000 spectators, the largest crowd that ever witnessed a football game in Louisiana.

The fight started over possession of the goal posts, which had been electrically wired by Tulane students to thwart seizure by their enemies, but the Tigers tore away the wires, taking the shocks and carried away the posts. The battle ended with black eyes and bruised jaws while the police stood by good naturedly and let the boys have their fun.

The Tigers had a celebration coming to them as they had not won an unmarred victory over Tulane since 1926. The Tigers won in 1932 but that was the year influenza hit the Green Wave.

But how the Tigers won today. They played like the champions that they are.

Today's victory made them the undisputed champions of the Southeastern conference and placed them on the eligible list for either California's Rose Bowl or Louisiana's Sugar Bowl. It was the first time since 1908 that L. S. U. has dominated southern football but today they could have swept anything in the south into the ash can.

The Tigers were the complete masters of the Greenies after the first five minutes of the game. In the third quarter with the score standing 27 to 0, the Greenies visibly wilted, losing all hope of victory and being content to direct their efforts at holding down the score.

At the opening of the fourth quarter, Bernie Moore, Tiger coach, started sending in substitutes and before the game ended he had used every man on the bench. The beaten and groggy Wave could not muster enough spirit and spunk to score against the second and third string Tigers.

The game ended with Tulane making desperate passing efforts but the Tigers kept pounding until the game ended with the score 41 to 0, the largest score L. S. U. ever has run up against Tulane since inauguration of the annual game in 1893.

A glance at the statistics tells the the story. L. S. U. made 23 first downs against Tulane's 3. L. S. U. made 250 yards from rushing against Tulane's 32. L. S. U. completed 8 forward passes against Tulane's 3. L. S. U. gained 179 yards from passes against Tulane's 8.

At the opening of the game, Tulane started with a rush. Odom made a first down through the center of the Tiger line, Loftin made 17 yards through the line and Watson raced for 15 yards around the Tiger right end for 15 more. But here the Tigers settled down and took the ball on downs on their own 25 yard line. That was the last brilliant flash of the Green Wave.

Fatherree, Mickal and Reed carried the ball in four plays to Tulane's 20 yard line, Mickal's pass to Tinsley laid it on the 17 yard line and Mickal hit the line to the four yard line. The Tiger was ready to cross the goal but a bad pass from center to Mickal set it back to the 20 yard line in the possession of Tulane on downs. The first quarter ended scoreless and the Tulane fans looked to the second quarter with high hopes of either victory or a low score.

But the Tiger came with a rush with its hair standing on end. Before the half ended a pass, Crass, substituting for Mickal, to Barrett on the

THANKSGIVING IS POOR TIME TO MAKE THIS BET

POMEROY, Ohio, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Guy Carson never knew how sympathetic the world can be until he bet his false teeth on a football game and lost.

The undefeated Middleport high school team was leading Pomeroy, 7 to 0, at the half. "I'll bet Middleport wins by four touchdowns," remarked Carson, an ardent Middleport rooter, to no one in particular.

"How much will you bet?" a stranger inquired.

"I'll bet a barrel of beer," Carson replied, and just then his teeth fell out.

"Well, I'll just bet five dollars against those false teeth of yours," the stranger offered. They put the teeth and the money in a sack, and had another person hold the sack.

Middleport won, 10 to 0, the unidentified stranger collected the bet and disappeared, before Carson could find him.

Carson ran an ad: "I have a huge toothsome turkey which I will gladly give to the fellow who has my teeth and I'll eat hot dogs if he'll only return them."

Several hours after the ad was published, Carson called the newspaper and declared, "Stop that ad! I've received 167 sets of false teeth and none of them fits. False teeth owners are worrying me to death."

Touchdown And Safety Enable Bears To Surprise Houston Eleven

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 30.—(AP)—An erratic Baylor line that tightened at the right times gave the Bears an upset 8 to 0 victory over the favored Rice Owls here today before 9,000 fans.

The victory enabled Baylor to finish in a tie with Rice for third place in the Southwest conference.

A lightning-like rush in the second period gave the invaders the only score they needed. The Bears took a Rice punt on the Owl 43. A pass from Russell to Mansker put the ball on the 20, a fumble lost seven yards, but Gernand flipped a short pass to Lloyd Russell, and the quarterback made his way to the six-yard line.

Bob Masters carried the ball across.

A safety against Rice came on the last play of the game. Russell set the Owls back almost to their goal with a long high punt. With the ball on the six-yard line the Owls called for a play from spread formation and Ray Smith fumbled the pass from center behind the goal. He recovered but was unable to run it out.

TAKE A BOW, BERNIE

Yesterday's overwhelming victory over Tulane ended Louisiana State's most successful season since 1908, and Tiger followers may well be proud of the lads who made it possible. But in all the hullabaloo, don't forget Bernie Moore, the gent who piloted them through a treacherous course to the Southeastern conference championship and a certain bid to the Sugar Bowl classic in New Orleans on New Year's day.

It's Moore first year as head coach at L. S. U. When Biff Jones resigned after the famous dressing room war, there was quite a clamor for another "big time" coach. But instead of importing some important name, they turned the job over to Bernie Moore. How well Moore has succeeded is shown in the record book.

A number of Tiger fans received the Moore appointment with some misgivings. Bernie was a heluva nice fellow but could he coach a full-grown football team? They doubted it. He'd made a name for himself nationally as a track coach, but football was something else again.

But Bernie showed 'em. The L. S. U. squad to a man admired and respected Coach Moore, and therein lies the secret of his success.

Bernie Moore is one of three first-year coaches who turned in outstanding jobs this fall. The other two are Matty Bell of Southern Methodist university, and Stub Allison, of the University of California. Bell's team was undefeated, while Moore and Allison sent their squads through the season with only one defeat. And two of the three "yearlings" are almost certain to receive bids to the two outstanding post-season classics. The Mustangs apparently will get the Rose Bowl bid, while the Tigers will perform in New Orleans' Sugar Bowl game on Jan. 1.

That's quite a record, mates.

IT WON'T BE LONG

Now that the football season is over, you can look for some important news from the baseball front. It's several months before the box scores appear on the sports pages again, but there will be other big news "breaks" that will furnish plenty of fuel for the hot stove league.

Unless all signs fail, you'll see more important trades consummated this winter than ever before. Every club, including the championship Tigers and Cubs, are in the market. Several deals already have been closed and the magnates are just waiting until football stops monopolizing the sports pages to make the announcements.

Rumors have filled the air for a couple of months. It won't be long now until the lowdown is spilled.

THE BROWNIES ARE BACK

Basketball fans of the Twin Cities and vicinity will have an opportunity to see some "big time" basketball, after a lapse of a year. The Brown Paper mill will sponsor another fast club this fall and a number of games with nationally known teams already have been scheduled.

The Brownies played "intramural" basketball last year. A league was organized with teams representing various departments of the mill. It went over well enough at first but interest soon waned and it was found that mill employes and other fans preferred one outstanding team rather than four mediocre outfits.

So the Brownies have joined up with the A. A. U. again and they're going out after the southern and national crowns again. Several former college stars have already reported and Coach Cary Phillips started practice several weeks ago.

From all reports, the Brown club will be stronger this year than ever before. And they'll play a much stronger schedule, which includes several college teams of the Southwest conference and the leading A. A. U. clubs of the middle west, including the Tulsa Oilers, the former Wichita Henrys and the Hutchinson Renos.

RICKEY DENIES IMPORTANT DEAL

No Star Players Involved In Trade Between Cards And Giants

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Branch Rickey, major domo of the St. Louis Cardinals, today pooh-poohed the trade with the New York Giants and said it wasn't much of a deal.

Unless the two clubs rig up some new swap, not now contemplated, Rickey said baseball fans will be disappointed when the names of the players are revealed at the major league meeting at Chicago December 9.

"It does not involve star players," he said, "and when the players are identified, I believe the fans and baseball people will not consider it a big transaction."

During the recent minor league meeting at Dayton, Ohio, when the deal was closed, reports were current that the Cards had swapped Burgess Whitehead, utility infielder, to the Giants for Pitcher Bud Parmelee.

Rickey would not say whether these players were involved, but he did explain why their names were coupled together.

"A year or so ago," he pointed out, "it became known I was after Parmelee, and just before the minor league meeting Manager Bill Terry of the Giants was quoted as saying he was after Whitehead.

"So, when it was revealed the Cards and Giants had closed a deal, it was assumed Parmelee and Whitehead were the players to be exchanged.

"I promised not to name the men until the major league meeting, but I repeat I do not believe it will be regarded as a major trade of star players."

Rickey said the Cardinals have a number of deals, more or less indefinite, in the stage of development, but he couldn't say whether any would be closed. He did reveal that one of the star pitchers he wanted "appears to be unobtainable."

MUSTANGS PASS WAY TO VICTORY IN LAST QUARTER

By Bill Parker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Southern Methodist outwitted Texas Christian with a daring pass play today to win a thrill-packed battle between two undefeated elevens 20-14 and move up to the gate of California's Rose Bowl.

The game's big moment in the fourth quarter was but one of a succession of big moments that kept 36,000 fans on their feet as the tide of fortune shifted swiftly. Each team, bulwarked by potential all-American candidates, emptied its bag of tricks and tossed caution to the winds in attaining the 14-14 tie that existed when the Mustangs pulled their surprise.

There they were on the T. C. U. 37 yard line. It was fourth down and there were four yards to go. A pass would be a gamble because failure would give the Christians the ball. But the Mustangs decided the opposition was thinking the same thing. Back faded Bob Finley with the ball. Down field raced Bob Wilson, the "Jackrabbit." He took that ball by reaching back for it as his legs pumped goalward. Tacklers were in the way for the other seven yards but he tore through them to the touchdown.

After that it was up to S. M. U. to frustrate the efforts of Sammy Baugh of T. C. U., one of the most deadly passers in the nation. It was a big job as Baugh, completing 17 out of 44 tosses during the game, rallied his men for one last chance that had reached the S. M. U. 36 as the game ended.

The Mustangs scored midway in the first period on a stout 73 yard march that saw Finley go over from the one yard line. It was a smacking drive that featured the terrific line plunging of Finley and Burt and the end running of Wilson.

Maurice Orr kicked from placement.

In the second period the Christians started a drive from the Mustangs 27 yard line that netted a touchdown when Jimmy Lawrence plowed center for one yard. Roach kicked goal from placement.

Texas Christian deadlocked the score early in the fourth period. Baugh passed to Lawrence on the Mustang twenty-five yard line, to Walls on the Mustang seven, and then seven yards to Jimmy Lawrence for a touchdown. Roach kicked goal.

There was little to choose between the powerful running games. Truman Spain, giant tackle, played a great game for the Mustangs. Darrell Lester, towering Texas Christian center, opened gaping holes for his backs, but they couldn't elude the Southern Methodist secondary.

It was S. M. U.'s eleventh consecutive victory and T. C. U.'s first setback in 11 starts.

Tiger-Wave By Quarters

FIRST PERIOD—Tulane kicked off to Barrett who was stopped on his 30. After an exchange of punts Tulane took the ball on their 24 and started a vicious drive that carried deep into Tiger territory. Odom got 12 through center. Loftin sliced off left guard for 17 and Watson added 15 on a wide end run. The L. S. U. defense stiffened, however, and the ball went to the Tigers on their own 25.

L. S. U. opened up its famed running attack. Big Jess Fatherree got loose and ran to midfield. Reed dashed to the Tulane 30 and a pass, Mickal to Tinsley, gave the Tigers a first down on the 17. Mickal crashed the line for 13, putting the ball on the 4. The drive was stopped when Mickal missed the next pass from center and Preisser recovered for Tulane. Watson punted to L. S. U.'s 43 as the quarter ended.

SECOND PERIOD — Both substituted almost complete new backfields. Lawrie tossed to Barrett for 12 yards and Fatherree picked up nine through the line. Crass fumbled but recovered on the Tulane 40 and kicked poorly out of bounds on 34. Rohm intercepted Thames' pass at midfield and on the next play Gould intercepted Crass' pass and ran to the Tiger 32. Tulane couldn't gain and Mintz kicked out on L. S. U.'s 10. Crass got loose for 30 yards and Rohm added ten more.

The Wave held and Crass kicked beautifully out of bounds on Tulane's 3. Mintz quickly kicked out of bounds on his own 24. Crass cracked the line for five, then added four through center. A line stab failed and with fourth down and a yard to go Crass lobbed a pretty pass to Bartlett, who took it on the five and went over untouched. Crass added the extra point from placement. Thames took the kickoff to his 17 and Mintz kicked to midfield as the half ended. L. S. U. 7, Tulane 0.

THIRD PERIOD—Mickal kicked off over the goal line. Watson quick kicked to L. S. U.'s 25, and the Tigers started another touchdown drive. Fatherree got four, Mickal added ten and a pass, Mickal to Fatherree, was good for 21. Another pass, Mickal to Barrett, put the ball on Tulane's 17. Mickal made five and Rohm accounted for a first down on Tulane's 6. Mickal went over off tackle for the touchdown and added the extra point from placement.

The Tigers then opened up with one of the most dazzling aerial attacks ever seen here to score three more times before the quarter ended. Taking the ball on their 48 after an exchange of punts, Mickal passed to Barrett who ran 20 yards for a touchdown. Mickal failed to convert. A few minutes later Mickal passed to Bowman for another score and the brilliant Mickal kicked the extra point. Getting the ball on their 43, Mickal again passed to Rohm, who ran it to Tulane's 14 and Rohm scored on the next play on a reverse. Mickal kicked the extra point.

FOURTH PERIOD—L. S. U. put in an entirely new team. Coffee made a first down on two plays. Morton moved it up to Tulane's 31, but the Tigers were penalized 15 and Coffee punted out on Tulane's 22. Thames punted to Morton who returned to the Wave's 38, but another holding penalty moved it back to the 46. The Tigers' second stringers were unable to penetrate the Tulane line and Coffee kicked to Thames on Tulane's 23.

Police Unable To Control Youths After L. S. U.-Tulane Game

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—A series of vicious fist fights broke out at the south goal posts shortly after the L. S. U.-Tulane game ended here today, between students of the two schools. Police were unable to control the situation as the highly strung students hammered each other.

The L. S. U. students were attempting to pull down the goal posts, which had been wired with electricity. The current, however, proved no deterrent to the charging band of Tiger followers.

Thousands of spectators remained in the stands to watch the fight and cheered lustily as first one side and then the other gained the upper hand.

Half of the goal post gave way before the surging line of L. S. U. students, who started across the field with it, but their way was barred by frantic, fighting Tulane students.

The north goal posts were not molested. A band of police stood guard there and the students made no effor to rush them.

The police guard at the south end had more than it could do and reserves were rushed to that end.

The football field, which a few minutes before had been the scene of the greatest L. S. U. victory in the long rivalry between the schools, swarmed with shouting, battling humanity.

There were many cut lips, black eyes and bruised bodies, but there were no immediate reports of serious injuries.

A few minutes later the L. S. U. students, hilarious over their team's 41 to 0 victory, tore down the other (north) goal post and made for the south end, which was still under heavy police guard.

The north posts fell under a heavy charge and a great cheer went up from the L. S. U. students.

With the goal posts on both ends of the field down, the fights stopped and the students poured from the field. However, there were still many persons in the stands and little groups on the gridiron as darkness fell over the field of battle.

FOUR IN HOSPITAL

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Four persons, three of them students and all four from Baton Rouge, were taken from the Tulane stadium to Charity hospital late today following a free-for-all battle between Tulane and Louisiana State university students over possession of the goal posts.

One of this number, J. A. Grief, 52-year-old section foreman of the Gulf Coast lines, collapsed at about 2:30 p. m. in the stands in front of the scoreboard a few moments after remarking to persons around him, "This excitement is too much for me."

An ambulance took him to the hospital, where he remained unconscious for some time. His condition undetermined, Mr. Grief's relatives in Baton Rouge were advised Saturday night to come to New Orleans.

The students taken to the hospital were Manch Cadwallader, 18, an L. S. U. sophomore whose father is a prominent creamery operator in the capital, and two youths who gave their names and ages as W. T. Jokie, 24, and William Cross, 24. Cadwallader, who was treated for lacerations and contusions of the face, said that he was hurt in the melee accompanying the uprooting of the goal posts.

The pair giving their names as Jokie and Cross were treated for contusions of the hands and legs.

A number of other persons, most of them students of Tulane and L. S. U., appeared after the encounter which followed the game with eyes blackened and faces scratched.

Hot Stove League Passes Judgement On Handy Andy's Of Baseball

By John J. Romano

The Winter Stove League is in session. The trading pot threatens to boil over so that the line-up of various major league clubs will present new faces in unaccustomed uniforms next season. While rumors fly thick and fast, and taken for what they are worth by fans and managers, conversation often turns to the feats of the handy men of the diamond. By handy men is meant those players who were not outstanding in any particular position but were mighty handy to have around when an injury or a weakness in some position necessitated a replacement or a change.

The palm as the most capable handy man belongs to Bucky Walters, of the lowly Phils. Jimmy Wilson would have been in a fine mess if Walters had not proven capable of playing three positions as well as he did.

Bucky went to the spring training camp as a third baseman. Johnny Vergez was acquired from the Giants. Never a hitter to boast about Vergez went on a hitting streak in camp and earned the regular post at the hot corner. Blessed with a strong arm, ambition and control Bucky toyed around with curves he had mastered while a sand-lotter and decided to become a pitcher. Wilson encouraged Walters and in one of the early games sent him in against the hard-hitting St. Louis Cardinals. This was to be a test as to whether or not the enterprising young man could take it. Bucky did not have to take it. He made the Cards do that by limiting them to four hits. Walters showed more than enough stuff to earn a regular starting assignment.

Ryba Challenges Walters

When Wilson was reduced to two outfielders Walters offered to chase flies and before the season was over he was playing third base. Winning nine games and losing a like number for a seventh place club proves Bucky Walters had the goods for a good moundsman and if necessary can do a creditable chose in any position save that of catcher. With Wilson and Al Todd on the job there is no real need of Bucky trying to show he can handle that job. He did well enough in the three positions he tackled last season and deserves the palm as the handiest "Handy Andy" of the big leagues.

Walters' adaptability as an all-around man is threatened by a newcomer with the Cards. Mike Ryba is the young man counted upon to give the Frischmen the additional strength they require to win the 1936 pennant.

Much has been written about one-man football teams. Mike Ryba is a one-man baseball team, if ever there was one. Mike mainly was a pitcher with the Columbus club of the American association. How good he was can best be realized when a look at his record discloses the fact that he won 20 games while losing 8. He was the only twirler in the league to chalk up 20 victories. Ryba can play any position on the diamond, as he proved last season, but it is as a pitcher that the Cards need him and if his work in the few games he hurled in the fading weeks of the National league pennant race is any criterion Mike Ryba will do.

Stengel Has Handy Andy

Another National leaguer who proved his versatility was Bobby Reis, of the Dodgers. Bobby has been hanging around the big show as a utility man for several years. He has been in and out so often that the concrete on the players' bench in Ebbett's field was beginning to bog down under his weight.

Reis is no lazy. He is not the kind who is willing to go along the easiest way and get paid for it. A utility player is not paid very much as things go in the big leagues. Bobby knew he could use more money and the best way to get it was to do something for his team.

Casey Stengel had an idea Reis could help a so-so pitching staff and gave the veteran of the dugout an opportunity to show what he could do with speed and a curve ball. Reis was sent in to mop up on several occasions and made good. He had other trials and was permitted to start a game. A pitcher who makes good must finish the game he starts and Bobby Reis did just that.

In addition to being a steady hurler who did not flinch when things looked bad, Bobby was well liked by the fans and his every appearance on the mound or at the plate was the signal for an ovation by the fans. Bobby Reis made good and Stengel says he is now a member of the regular mound staff. How's that after several seasons as a utility man!

Turning to the American league you must of course recall that Jimmy Foxx is a jack-o-all-trades as well as a champion slugger. Jimmy was a catcher in the minors and came up to the A's as a third baseman. He was shifted to first base where he was a standout. Connie Mack startled the fans of the country by announcing that Foxx would be the Athletics' regular catcher at the start of the season. Jim did not do a bad job of it, but in the closing months of the campaign he was sent back to his regular position at first.

Wes Ferrell is the big boy of the junior organization. Ferrell not only did heroic work on the mound but is no little shucks as a pinch hitter and an outfielder.

Ferrell is one of those tough-fibered gents from the Tar Heel state who likes nothing better than to be working all the time. He can play the outfield and will do so without urging. When he was with Cleveland and had a sore arm they said his big league days were numbered. Wes asked for an opportunity to play the outfield. This was granted, and although his sore arm prevented him from making long throws he helped on the offensive with his big bat.

The real handy man of the American league is Ralph Winegarner of the Cleveland club. Winegarner is listed as a pitcher. Not a bad one at that as Steve O'Neil will attest. Should an infielder or outfielder be needed in an emergency, Steve has but to beckon to the bull pen and Mr. Winegarner will pick up his mitt and go to the position designated.

O'Neil knows the value of Winegarner. The latter was a member of the Toledo club when Steve was manager. Ralph was an infielder the first year he played in organized ball, and he hit forty homers. But he could not keep up the pace when he graduated to the big league, hence his shift to the mound. He is a pitcher on the payroll but will play anywhere when told.

The Handy Andy's of baseball deserve more than a passing comment. At least those managers who have them around will so state if questioned.

AND PRINCETON WON DESPITE HIS JINX

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Princeton's most assiduous hater was able to glower at his enemy from an honor seat in the Yale bowl today despite his admission that it may have been a "couple of other guys" that tried to help Dartmouth turn back the Tiger last week.

Mike Mesco, the publicity-conscious hash slinger of Rahway, N. J., who earlier had "admitted" being the heroic spectator who jumped into the Dartmouth line when it seemed ready to crack under a Princeton charge, went to New Haven as a guest of the Yale club.

Revelations that there were two other contenders for the "honor" failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the Yale men, who felt Mike's terrible hatred of Princeton was a thing to be nurtured and encouraged.

Mike didn't remember exactly what did happen, he said. All he knew was that his clothing looked as if it had been in a few scrimmages when he got home that night and on reading about the Horatian figure that had leaped from the stands he had concluded that it [illegible]

LOUISIANA STATE OVERWHELMS TULANE 41 TO 0

TIGERS OUTCLASS GREENIES TO WIN ANNUAL CLASSIC

Bengals Score Four Touchdowns In Third Period For Easy Win

By Ralph Wheatley
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW ORLEANS, La., No. 30.—A free for all fight between several thousand students on the playing field climaxed the 41 to 0 victory of the Louisiana State Tigers over the Tulane Green Wave in their annual clash here today before 34,000 spectators, the largest crowd that ever witnessed a football game in Louisiana.

The fight started over possession of the goal posts, which had been electrically wired by Tulane students to thwart seizure by their enemies, but the Tigers tore away the wires, taking the shocks and carried away the posts. The battle ended with black eyes and bruised jaws while the police stood by good naturedly and let the boys have their fun.

The Tigers had a celebration coming to them as they had not won an unmarred victory over Tulane since 1926. The Tigers won in 1932 but that was the year influenza hit the Green Wave.

But how the Tigers won today. They played like the champions that they are.

Today's victory made them the undisputed champions of the Southeastern conference and placed them on the eligible list for either California's Rose Bowl or Louisiana's Sugar Bowl. It was the first time since 1908 that L. S. U. has dominated southern football but today they could have swept anything in the south into the ash can.

The Tigers were the complete masters of the Greenies after the first five minutes of the game. In the third quarter with the score standing 27 to 0, the Greenies visibly wilted, losing all hope of victory and being content to direct their efforts at holding down the score.

At the opening of the fourth quarter, Bernie Moore, Tiger coach, started sending in substitutes and before the game ended he had used every man on the bench. The beaten and groggy Wave could not muster enough spirit and spunk to score against the second and third string Tigers.

The game ended with Tulane making desperate passing efforts but the Tigers kept pounding until the game ended with the score 41 to 0, the largest score L. S. U. ever has run up against Tulane since inauguration of the annual game in 1893.

A glance at the statistics tells the the story. L. S. U. made 23 first downs against Tulane's 3. L. S. U. made 250 yards from rushing against Tulane's 32. L. S. U. completed 8 forward passes against Tulane's 3. L. S. U. gained 179 yards from passes against Tulane's 8.

At the opening of the game, Tulane started with a rush. Odom made a first down through the center of the Tiger line, Loftin made 17 yards through the line and Watson raced for 15 yards around the Tiger right end for 15 more. But here the Tigers settled down and took the ball on downs on their own 25 yard line. That was the last brilliant flash of the Green Wave.

Fatherree, Mickal and Reed carried the ball in four plays to Tulane's 20 yard line, Mickal's pass to Tinsley laid it on the 17 yard line and Mickal hit the line to the four yard line. The Tiger was ready to cross the goal but a bad pass from center to Mickal set it back to the 20 yard line in the possession of Tulane on downs. The first quarter ended scoreless and the Tulane fans looked to the second quarter with high hopes of either victory or a low score.

But the Tiger came with a rush with its hair standing on end. Before the half ended a pass, Crass, substituting for Mickal, to Barrett on the

THANKSGIVING IS POOR TIME TO MAKE THIS BET

POMEROY, Ohio, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Guy Carson never knew how sympathetic the world can be until he bet his false teeth on a football game and lost.

The undefeated Middleport high school team was leading Pomeroy, 7 to 0, at the half. "I'll bet Middleport wins by four touchdowns," remarked Carson, an ardent Middleport rooter, to no one in particular.

"How much will you bet?" a stranger inquired.

"I'll bet a barrel of beer," Carson replied, and just then his teeth fell out.

"Well, I'll just bet five dollars against those false teeth of yours," the stranger offered. They put the teeth and the money in a sack, and had another person hold the sack.

Middleport won, 19 to 0, the unidentified stranger collected the bet and disappeared, before Carson could find him.

Carson ran an ad: "I have a huge toothsome turkey which I will gladly give to the fellow who has my teeth and I'll eat hot dogs if he'll only return them."

Several hours after the ad was published, Carson called the newspaper and declared, "Stop that ad! I've received 167 sets of false teeth and none of them fits. False teeth owners are worrying me to death."

BAYLOR UPSETS RICE OWLS, 8-0

Touchdown And Safety Enable Bears To Surprise Houston Eleven

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 30.—(AP)—An erratic Baylor line that tightened at the right times gave the Bears an upset 8 to 0 victory over the favored Rice Owls here today before 9,000 fans.

The victory enabled Baylor to finish in a tie with Rice for third place in the Southwest conference.

A lightning-like rush in the second period gave the invaders the only score they needed. The Bears took a Rice punt on the Owl 43. A pass from Russell to Mansker put the ball on the 20, a fumble lost seven yards, but Gernand flipped a short pass to Lloyd Russell, and the quarterback made his way to the six-yard line.

Bob Masters carried the ball across.

A safety against Rice came on the last play of the game. Russell set the Owls back almost to their goal with a long high punt. With the ball on the six-yard line the Owls called for a play from spread formation and Ray Smith fumbled the pass from center behind the goal. He recovered but was unable to run it out.

TAKE A BOW, BERNIE

Yesterday's overwhelming victory over Tulane ended Louisiana State's most successful season since 1908, and Tiger followers may well be proud of the lads who made it possible. But in all the hullabaloo, don't forget Bernie Moore, the gent who piloted them through a treacherous course to the Southeastern conference championship and a certain bid to the Sugar Bowl classic in New Orleans on New Year's day.

It's Moore first year as head coach at L. S. U. When Biff Jones resigned after the famous dressing room war, there was quite a clamor for another "big time" coach. But instead of importing some important name, they turned the job over to Bernie Moore. How well Moore has succeeded is shown in the record book.

A number of Tiger fans received the Moore appointment with some misgivings. Bernie was a heluva nice fellow but could he coach a full-grown football team? They doubted it. He'd made a name for himself nationally as a track coach, but football was something else again.

But Bernie showed 'em. The L. S. U. squad to a man admired and respected Coach Moore, and therein lies the secret of his success.

Bernie Moore is one of three first-year coaches who turned in outstanding jobs this fall. The other two are Matty Bell of Southern Methodist university, and Stub Allison, of the University of California. Bell's team was undefeated, while Moore and Allison sent their squads through the season with only one defeat. And two of the three "yearlings" are almost certain to receive bids to the two outstanding post-season classics. The Mustangs apparently will get the Rose Bowl bid, while the Tigers will perform in New Orleans' Sugar Bowl game on Jan. 1.

That's quite a record, mates.

IT WON'T BE LONG

Now that the football season is over, you can look for some important news from the baseball front. It's several months before the box scores appear on the sports pages again, but there will be other big news "breaks" that will furnish plenty of fuel for the hot stove league.

Unless all signs fail, you'll see more important trades consummated this winter than ever before. Every club, including the championship Tigers and Cubs, are in the market. Several deals already have been closed and the magnates are just waiting until football stops monopolizing the sports pages to make the announcements.

Rumors have filled the air for a couple of months. It won't be long now until the lowdown is spilled.

THE BROWNIES ARE BACK

Basketball fans of the Twin Cities and vicinity will have an opportunity to see some "big time" basketball, after a lapse of a year. The Brown Paper mill will sponsor another fast club this fall and a number of games with nationally known teams already have been scheduled.

The Brownies played "intramural" basketball last year. A league was organized with teams representing various departments of the mill. It went over well enough at first but interest soon waned and it was found that mill employes and other fans preferred one outstanding team rather than four mediocre outfits.

So the Brownies have joined up with the A. A. U. again and they're going out after the southern and national crowns again. Several former college stars have already reported and Coach Cary Phillips started practice several weeks ago.

From all reports, the Brown club will be stronger this year than ever before. And they'll play a much stronger schedule, which includes several college teams of the Southwest conference and the leading A. A. U. clubs of the middle west, including the Tulsa Oilers, the former Wichita Henrys and the Hutchinson Renos.

RICKEY DENIES IMPORTANT DEAL

No Star Players Involved In Trade Between Cards And Giants

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Branch Rickey, major domo of the St. Louis Cardinals, today pooh-poohed the trade with the New York Giants and said it wasn't much of a deal.

Unless the two clubs rig up some new swap, not now contemplated, Rickey said baseball fans will be disappointed when the names of the players are revealed at the major league meeting at Chicago December 9.

"It does not involve star players," he said, "and when the players are identified, I believe the fans and baseball people will not consider it a big transaction."

During the recent minor league meeting at Dayton, Ohio, when the deal was closed, reports were current that the Cards had swapped Burgess Whitehead, utility infielder, to the Giants for Pitcher Bud Parmelee.

Rickey would not say whether these players were involved, but he did explain why their names were coupled together.

"A year or so ago," he pointed out, "it became known I was after Parmelee, and just before the minor league meeting Manager Bill Terry of the Giants was quoted as saying he was after Whitehead.

"So, when it was revealed the Cards and Giants had closed a deal, it was assumed Parmelee and Whitehead were the players to be exchanged.

"I promised not to name the men until the major league meeting, but I repeat I do not believe it will be regarded as a major trade of star players."

Rickey said the Cardinals have a number of deals, more or less indefinite, in the stage of development, but he couldn't say whether any would be closed. He did reveal that one of the star pitchers he wanted "appears to be unobtainable."

MUSTANGS PASS WAY TO VICTORY IN LAST QUARTER

By Bill Parker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Southern Methodist outwitted Texas Christian with a daring pass play today to win a thrill-packed battle between two undefeated elevens 20-14 and move up to the gate of California's Rose Bowl.

The game's big moment in the fourth quarter was but one of a succession of big moments that kept 36,000 fans on their feet as the tide of fortune shifted swiftly. Each team, bulwarked by potential all-American candidates, emptied its bag of tricks and tossed caution to the winds in attaining the 14-14 tie that existed when the Mustangs pulled their surprise.

There they were on the T. C. U. 37 yard line. It was fourth down and there were four yards to go. A pass would be a gamble because failure would give the Christians the ball. But the Mustangs decided the opposition was thinking the same thing. Back faded Bob Finley with the ball. Down field raced Bob Wilson, the "Jackrabbit." He took that ball by reaching back for it as his legs pumped goalward. Tacklers were in the way for the other seven yards but he tore through them to the touchdown.

After that it was up to S. M. U. to frustrate the efforts of Sammy Baugh of T. C. U., one of the most deadly passers in the nation. It was a big job as Baugh, completing 17 out of 44 tosses during the game, rallied his men for one last chance that had reached the S. M. U. 36 as the game ended.

The Mustangs scored midway in the first period on a stout 73 yard march that saw Finley go over from the one yard line. It was a smacking drive that featured the terrific line plunging of Finley and Burt and the end running of Wilson.

Maurice Orr kicked from placement.

In the second period the Christians started a drive from the Mustangs 27 yard line that netted a touchdown when Jimmy Lawrence plowed center for one yard. Roach kicked goal from placement.

Texas Christian deadlocked the score early in the fourth period. Baugh passed to Lawrence on the Mustang twenty-five yard line, to Walls on the Mustang seven, and then seven yards to Jimmy Lawrence for a touchdown. Roach kicked goal.

There was little to choose between the powerful running games. Truman Spain, giant tackle, played a great game for the Mustangs. Darrell Lester, towering Texas Christian center, opened gaping holes for his backs, but they couldn't elude the Southern Methodist secondary.

It was S. M. U.'s eleventh consecutive victory and T. C. U.'s first setback in 11 starts.

Tiger-Wave By Quarters

FIRST PERIOD—Tulane kicked off to Barrett who was stopped on his 30. After an exchange of punts Tulane took the ball on their 24 and started a vicious drive that carried deep into Tiger territory. Odom got 12 through center. Loftin sliced off left guard for 17 and Watson added 15 on a wide end run. The L. S. U. defense stiffened, however, and the ball went to the Tigers on their own 25.

L. S. U. opened up its famed running attack. Big Jess Fatherree got loose and ran to midfield. Reed dashed to the Tulane 30 and a pass, Mickal to Tinsley, gave the Tigers a first down on the 17. Mickal crashed the line for 13, putting the ball on the 4. The drive was stopped when Mickal missed the next pass from center and Preisser recovered for Tulane. Watson punted to L. S. U.'s 43 as the quarter ended.

SECOND PERIOD — Both substituted almost complete new backfields. Lawrie tossed to Barrett for 12 yards and Fatherree picked up nine through the line. Crass fumbled but recovered on the Tulane 40 and kicked poorly out of bounds on 34. Rohm intercepted Thames' pass at midfield and on the next play Gould intercepted Crass' pass and ran to the Tiger 32. Tulane couldn't gain and Mintz kicked out on L. S. U.'s 10. Crass got loose for 30 yards and Rohm added ten more.

The Wave held and Crass kicked beautifully out of bounds on Tulane's 3. Mintz quickly kicked out of bounds on his own 24. Crass cracked the line for five, then added four through center. A line stab failed and with fourth down and a yard to go Crass lobbed a pretty pass to Bartlett, who took it on the five and went over untouched. Crass added the extra point from placement. Thames took the kickoff to his 17 and Mintz kicked to midfield as the half ended. L. S. U. 7, Tulane 0.

THIRD PERIOD—Mickal kicked off over the goal line. Watson quick kicked to L. S. U.'s 25, and the Tigers started another touchdown drive. Fatherree got four, Mickal added ten and a pass, Mickal to Fatherree, was good for 21. Another pass, Mickal to Barrett, put the ball on Tulane's 17. Mickal made five and Rohm accounted for a first down on Tulane's 6. Mickal went over off tackle for the touchdown and added the extra point from placement.

The Tigers then opened up with one of the most dazzling aerial attacks ever seen here to score three more times before the quarter ended. Taking the ball on their 48 after an exchange of punts, Mickal passed to Barrett who ran 20 yards for a touchdown. Mickal failed to convert. A few minutes later Mickal passed to Bowman for another score and the brilliant Mickal kicked the extra point. Getting the ball on their 43, Mickal again passed to Rohm, who ran it to Tulane's 14 and Rohm scored on the next play on a reverse. Mickal kicked the extra point.

FOURTH PERIOD—L. S. U. put in an entirely new team. Coffee made a first down on two plays. Morton moved it up to Tulane's 31, but the Tigers were penalized 15 and Coffee punted out on Tulane's 22. Thames punted to Morton who returned to the Wave's 38, but another holding penalty moved it back to the 46. The Tigers' second stringers were unable to penetrate the Tulane line and Coffee kicked to Thames on Tulane's 23.

The Tigers smashed over their last touchdown in the final minutes of the game, pushing a tired, demoralized Tulane eleven around as they chose. After an exchange of punts Thames fumbled on his nine yard line and Myrick recovered for the Bengals. Walker picked up three around left end and Coffee split the line for the score. A few seconds later he kicked the extra point from placement. The game ended a few minutes later with Tulane throwing passes with reckless abandon, but they gained nothing. L. S. U. 41, Tulane 0.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—A series of vicious fist fights broke out at the south goal posts shortly after the L. S. U.-Tulane game ended here today, between students of the two schools. Police were unable to control the situation as the highly strung students hammered each other.

The L. S. U. students were attempting to pull down the goal posts, which had been wired with electricity. The current, however, proved no deterrent to the charging band of Tiger followers.

Thousands of spectators remained in the stands to watch the fight and cheered lustily as first one side and then the other gained the upper hand.

Half of the goal post gave way before the surging line of L. S. U. students, who started across the field with it, but their way was barred by frantic, fighting Tulane students.

The north goal posts were not molested. A band of police stood guard there and the students made no effor to rush them.

The police guard at the south end had more than it could do and reserves were rushed to that end.

The football field, which a few minutes before had been the scene of the greatest L. S. U. victory in the long rivalry between the schools, swarmed with shouting, battling humanity.

There were many cut lips, black eyes and bruised bodies, but there were no immediate reports of serious injuries.

A few minutes later the L. S. U. students, hilarious over their team's 41 to 0 victory, tore down the other (north) goal post and made for the south end, which was still under heavy police guard.

With the goal posts on both ends of the field down, the fights stopped and the students poured from the field. However, there were still many persons in the stands and little groups on the gridiron as darkness fell over the field of battle.

FOUR IN HOSPITAL

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Four persons, three of them students and all four from Baton Rouge, were taken from the Tulane stadium to Charity hospital late today following a free-for-all battle between Tulane and Louisiana State university students over possession of the goal posts.

One of this number, J. A. Grief, 52-year-old section foreman of the Gulf Coast lines, collapsed at about 2:30 p. m. in the stands in front of the scoreboard a few moments after remarking to persons around him, "This excitement is too much for me."

An ambulance took him to the hospital, where he remained unconscious for some time. His condition undetermined, Mr. Grief's relatives in Baton Rouge were advised Saturday night to come to New Orleans.

The students taken to the hospital were Manch Cadwallader, 18, an L. S. U. sophomore whose father is a prominent creamery operator in the capital, and two youths who gave their names and ages as W. T. Jokie, 24, and William Cross, 24. Cadawallader, who was treated for lacerations and contusions of the face, said that he was hurt in the melee accompanying the uprooting of the goal posts.

The pair giving their names as Jokie and Cross were treated for contusions of the hands and legs.

A number of other persons, most of them students of Tulane and L. S. U., appeared after the encounter which followed the game with eyes blackened and faces scratched.

Hot Stove League Passes Judgement On Handy Andy's Of Baseball

By John J. Romano

The Winter Stove League is in session. The trading pot threatens to boil over so that the line-up of various major league clubs will present new faces in unaccustomed uniforms next season. While rumors fly thick and fast, and taken for what they are worth by fans and managers, conversation often turns to the feats of the handy men of the diamond. By handy men is meant those players who were not outstanding in any particular position but were mighty handy to have around when an injury or a weakness in some position necessitated a replacement or a change.

The palm as the most capable handy man belongs to Bucky Walters, of the lowly Phils. Jimmy Wilson would have been in a fine mess if Walters had not proven capable of playing three positions as well as he did.

Bucky went to the spring training camp as a third baseman. Johnny Vergez was acquired from the Giants. Never a hitter to boast about Vergez went on a hitting streak in camp and earned the regular post at the hot corner. Blessed with a strong arm, ambition and control Bucky toyed around with curves he had mastered while a sand-lotter and decided to become a pitcher. Wilson encouraged Walters and in one of the early games sent him in against the hard-hitting St. Louis Cardinals. This was to be a test as to whether or not the enterprising young man could take it. Bucky did not have to take it. He made the Cards do that by limiting them to four hits. Walters showed more than enough stuff to earn a regular starting assignment.

Ryba Challenges Walters

When Wilson was reduced to two outfielders Walters offered to chase flies and before the season was over he was playing third base. Winning nine games and losing a like number for a seventh place club proves Bucky Walters had the goods for a good moundsman and if necessary can do a creditable chose in any position save that of catcher. With Wilson and Al Todd on the job there is no real need of Bucky trying to show he can handle that job. He did well enough in the three positions he tackled last season and deserves the palm as the handiest "Handy Andy" of the big leagues.

Walters' adaptability as an all-around man is threatened by a newcomer with the Cards. Mike Ryba is the young man counted upon to give the Frischmen the additional strength they require to win the 1936 pennant.

Much has been written about one-man football teams. Mike Ryba is a one-man baseball team, if ever there was one. Mike mainly was a pitcher with the Columbus club of the American association. How good he was can best be realized when a look at his record discloses the fact that he won 20 games while losing 8. He was the only twirler in the league to chalk up 20 victories. Ryba can play any position on the diamond, as he proved last season, but it is as a pitcher that the Cards need him and if his work in the few games he hurled in the fading weeks of the National league pennant race is any criterion Mike Ryba will do.

Stengel Has Handy Andy

Another National leaguer who proved his versatility was Bobby Reis, of the Dodgers. Bobby has been hanging around the big show as a utility man for several years. He has been in and out so often that the concrete on the players' bench in Ebbett's field was beginning to bog down under his weight.

Reis is no lazy. He is not the kind who is willing to go along the easiest way and get paid for it. A utility player is not paid very much as things go in the big leagues. Bobby knew he could use more money and the best way to get it was to do something for his team.

Casey Stengel had an idea Reis could help a so-so pitching staff and gave the veteran of the dugout an opportunity to show what he could do with speed and a curve ball. Reis was sent in to mop up on several occasions and made good. He had other trials and was permitted to start a game. A pitcher who makes good must finish the game he starts and Bobby Reis did just that.

In addition to being a steady hurler who did not flinch when things looked bad, Bobby was well liked by the fans and his every appearance on the mound or at the plate was the signal for an ovation by the fans. Bobby Reis made good and Stengel says he is now a member of the regular mound staff. How's that after several seasons as a utility man!

Turning to the American league you must of course recall that Jimmy Foxx is a jack-o-all-trades as well as a champion slugger. Jimmy was a catcher in the minors and came up to the A's as a third baseman. He was shifted to first base where he was a standout. Connie Mack startled the fans of the country by announcing that Foxx would be the Athletics' regular catcher at the start of the season. Jim did not do a bad job of it, but in the closing months of the campaign he was sent back to his regular position at first.

Wes Ferrell is the big boy of the junior organization. Ferrell not only did heroic work on the mound but is no little shucks as a pinch hitter and an outfielder.

Ferrell is one of those tough-fibered gents from the Tar Heel state who likes nothing better than to be working all the time. He can play the outfield and will do so without urging. When he was with Cleveland and had a sore arm they said his big league days were numbered. Wes asked for an opportunity to play the outfield. This was granted, and although his sore arm prevented him from making long throws he helped on the offensive with his big bat.

The real handy man of the American league is Ralph Winegarner of the Cleveland club. Winegarner is listed as a pitcher. Not a bad one at that as Steve O'Neil will attest. Should an infielder or outfielder be needed in an emergency, Steve has but to beckon to the bull pen and Mr. Winegarner will pick up his mitt and go to the position designated.

O'Neil knows the value of Winegarner. The latter was a member of the Toledo club when Steve was manager. Ralph was an infielder the first year he played in organized ball, and he hit forty homers. But he could not keep up the pace when he graduated to the big league, hence his shift to the mound. He is a pitcher on the payroll but will play anywhere when told.

The Handy Andy's of baseball deserve more than a passing comment. At least those managers who have them around will so state if questioned.

AND PRINCETON WON DESPITE HIS JINX

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Princeton's most assiduous hater was able to glower at his enemy from an honor seat in the Yale bowl today despite his admission that it may have been a "couple of other guys" that tried to help Dartmouth turn back the Tiger last week.

Mike Mesco, the publicity-conscious hash slinger of Rahway, N. J., who earlier had "admitted" being the heroic spectator who jumped into the Dartmouth line when it seemed ready to crack under a Princeton charge, went to New Haven as a guest of the Yale club.

Revelations that there were two other contenders for the "honor" failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the Yale men, who felt Mike's terrible hatred of Princeton was a thing to be nurtured and encouraged.

Mike didn't remember exactly what did happen, he said. All he knew was that his clothing looked as if it had been in a few scrimmages when he got home that night and on reading about the Horatian figure that had leaped from the stands he had concluded that it must have been he.

CADETS MAKE 3 TOUCHDOWNS IN OPENING PERIOD

Crowd Of 81,000 Sees Soldiers Wallop Sailors At Philadelphia

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—Army fired all its long range scoring ammunition today in the first 20 minutes but the results were sufficiently devastating to give the Cadets an unexpectedly overwhelming lead and offset a spectacular comeback by the Midshipmen.

Monk Meyer

West Point's warriors emerged badly battered but triumphant, 28 to 6, in an extraordinary struggle for service football supremacy before a crowd of 81,000 that filled Franklin field.

Army's margin was the biggest in 32 years, exceeded only by the 40 to 5 rout of the Navy away back in 1903, but it exaggerated the difference between two teams that alternated in turning loose attacks of terrific intensity. Bewildered and shell-shocked by an Army barrage that produced better than a point-a-minute at the outset of the game, the Midshipmen came back to dominate the play completely in the last half. The trouble with the Navy's counter-thrust was that it didn't have the scoring punch to capitalize repeated opportunities and the Sailors consequently yielded the honors gained so brilliantly on the same gridiron a year ago.

Led by the speedy Ed (Whitey) Grove and the versatile Charles (Monk) Meyer, Army's regulars struck with fire and accuracy. Less than three minutes after the kick-off and on their second play after getting possession of the ball, the Cadets shook Grove loose down the sidelines for 80 yards and a touchdown.

The same Grove took a 23-yard pass from Meyer and ran ten yards unmolested for another tally. Shortly, Clint (Tarzan) True was on the receiving end of a 12-yard pass from Meyer and raced 30 yards for the third Army touchdown.

All this was accomplished in less than the full 15 minutes of the opening period while the Navy's followers sat stunned.

The Blue-Shirted players from Annapolis were obviously demoralized, unable to pull themselves together with the aid of repeated replacements and easily beaten back by a 43-yard drive that produced Army's final touchdown early in the second quarter. Bill Grohs, Cadet field general, bucked over for the fourth tally from the two-yard line after Meyer reeled off several brilliant runs. Grove booted his fourth successive placement for the extra point and ran his total contribution up to 16 points for the day.

Launching a savage counter-attack in the second half, the Midshipmen ran wild, with Jack Schmidt the spearhead of a succession of thrilling drives, but penalties, intercepted passes and fumbles kept the Navy from taking full advantage of gains.

Under terrific pressure, Army's "iron men" cracked, and, one by one, limped off the field during the final half but their gallant defense was sufficient to stop all but one of Navy's smashing charges. Schmidt, shedding tacklers like a duck sheds water throughout the last two periods, slid off tackle from the one-yard line for Navy's only score on the first play of the final quarter, the climax of a 60-yard advance, but the Sailors missed four other opportunities to score because of over-anxiety or poor ball-handling.

Plainsmen Show Powerful Attack To Whip Oft-Beaten Foes

By J. P. McKnight
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 30.(AP)—Auburn, alert to capitalize every break, cracked across four touchdowns here today to defeat the oft-trampled Florida 'Gators before 8,000 spectators.

The powerful, smoothly-functioning Plainsmen, though often stopped short by stubborn Florida defense, exploded into touchdown-producing dynamite when breaks of the game brought the enemy goal conveniently near.

A 31-yard first half drive, two touchdown passes and an intercepted Florida heave, together with Paterson's three place-kicked conversions, gave them their 27 points. Florida's lone marker came as the result of its one sustained march in the second period.

Auburn's superiority was marked throughout. The Plainsmen made nine first downs to Florida's five.

An intercepted Florida pass prepared the way for Auburn's first score, shortly after the second period opened.

Chase, Florida half, tossed from his 35-yard line and Kilgore, Auburn full, taking the ball in stride, ran it back to the Gators' 31.

Hitchcock slipped off tackle for one yard, failed at an aerial attempt, hit tackle again for eight and gave the ball to Kilgore, who got seven through center to Florida's 15. Fenton and Hitchcock accumulated 13 in three tries and Hitchcock, after Kilgore's line drive fell inches short, swept short around end to score. Paterson's placement was good.

Florida retaliated quickly.

Taking the ball on an Auburn punt five yards short of mid-field, the 'Gators used line plays to reach the enemy's 38 where Chase passed to McAnly, reserve half, for 21 yards.

Another Chase-McAnly pass was good for 11, putting the ball on Auburn's six, and after two line plays and one short pass netted but one yard, Chase tossed to Jenkins for the touchdown. A low pass from center spoiled Hughes' conversion try.

The narrow margin of one point, by which they led at the half, was not enough to satisfy the Alabamans, who shoved across their second touchdown half-way through the third period.

Again an intercepted aerial paved the way. Eaves, Auburn end, grabbed Chase's fling, thrown from Florida's 28, and ran it back to the line of scrimmage. O'Rourke, reserve full, and Hitchcock got 11 yards through the line in two plays and Hitchcock, on first down, tossed 17 yards to Eaves for the score. Paterson again converted.

The third Plainsmen marker came soon after the fourth quarter opened. Hendricks, Florida back, fumbled on his 19 and O'Rourke recovered for Auburn. Two line plays made only four and Fenton, Auburn half, passed 15 to his running mate, Mitchell. Paterson's place-kick again was good.

To add insult to injury, Blake, another Auburn reserve half, intercepted an aerial on the 'Gators' 40, two minutes later, and skipped and dodged through virtually the entire Florida team to cross the goal line standing up. This time Paterson's point try was wide.

The end of the game found the Floridians still trying vainly to connect with scoring passes and Auburn, content to run three plays and punt, nevertheless risking an occasional aerial.

Leading ground gainers for Auburn were Fenton, Mitchell and Hitchcock, with 48, 44 and 40 yards, while Hendricks, with 35, and Chase, with 24, topped the Florida backs.

Outstanding was the play of the Plainsmen's starting tackles, Paterson and Roton, with the rest of their line offering stalwart resistance.

The lineup:

Georgia Tech's Victory Over Georgia Is Only Surprising Upset

(By Associated Press)

In a final burst of power, Louisiana State's highly polished football machine walloped Tulane yesterday to lay undisputed claim to the Southeastern conference championship and set itself up as a candidate for Rose Bowl or Sugar Bowl consideration.

The curtain fell on the Southeastern's official season with the day's firing, and with L. S. U. finishing the sole possessor of a clean slate in the conference by whipping the Greenies 41 to 0.

Coach Bernie Moore's powerful eleven met with but one setback all season, that a 10 to 7 loss to Rice, a non-conference foe, in the opening contest.

Georgia and Georgia Tech clashed in their traditional classic, Georgia Tech winning a surprise 19 to 7 upset from the favored Bulldogs. A capacity audience of 30,000 sat in on the battle.

Mississippi won 14 to 6 from Mississippi State in another ancient renewal.

UNDEFEATED TEAM TO GET BOWL BID

Southern Methodist And Princeton Are Only Teams Eligible

PASADENA, Calif., Nov. 30.—(AP)—An undefeated team will be invited by Stanford for the Rose Bowl game here New Year's day, Alfred Masters, Stanford graduate manager, said tonight.

"All I can say now is that an undefeated team will be invited to play in the Rose Bowl," Masters emphasized. "I will announce the team when I return Tuesday from Palo Alto."

While western fans were clamoring for Southern Methodist as a result of its victory over Texas Christian at Fort Worth today, a letter from Princeton indicated the unbeaten Tigers might listen to an invitation. The only other major undefeated team is Minnesota, forbidden a post season game by Big Ten rules.

The Princeton letter was from Burnham N. Dell, chairman of the council on athletics, to H. C. Willett, chairman of the Pacific Coast conference.

Dell said Princeton authorities would consider it an honor to be listed as a team worthy of competing in the Rose Bowl but added the school has been governed by a policy opposed to post-season games.

"Princeton authorities have never questioned the character of the management of the Rose Bowl game," he concluded, "and I hope you will dissociate these authorities from any such charges."

KITTY LEAGUE WILL EXPAND TO 8 CLUBS

UNION CITY, Tenn., Nov. 30.—(AP)—The fast little Kitty league that developed some fine prospects last year for the Southern association, is going to expand from a six-club to an eight-club circuit.

Winding up the 1935 season with financial success and prospects even brighter for 1936, the league accepted Mayfield, Ky., as a member club at a meeting of the board of directors last night and will study applications from three other cities.

Forming the league this year were Jackson, Tenn., Lexington, Tenn., Union City, Paducah, Ky., Hopkinsville, Ky., and Portageville, Mo. Applications were received from Cairo, Ill., Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Metropolis, Ill. A decision will be reached on the eighth club January 5.

Dr. Frank H. Bassett of Hopkinsville, Ky., was reelected club president for another year.

The league will play a schedule of 120 games, opening May 19 and closing September 13.

BIG TEN PLACES THREE PLAYERS ON FIRST ELEVEN

South, East And Southwest Each Land Two Stars On Mythical Team

By Bernard W. Bierman
(Head Coach, University of Minnesota)

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 30.—As a member of NEA Service's committee of coaches it is my privilege to announce the All-America team of 1935.

The first club is a capital one—the pick of coaches from Bowdoin to Southern California.

To honor a small group, it is necessary to slight many remarkable boys. In these days of varsities of 80 and more, not even 33 places are enough to give credit to all the fine young men entitled to it.

But All-America teams long since have become a recognized preliminary to the holidays. People insist upon them.

Take the Minnesota team as an example. Dick Smith, tackle, is the only man the Gophers place, although our seniors graduate without ever having been on the losing end. Ed Widseth, Minnesota's other tackle, is on a par with Smith, but he is a junior and drew fewer votes in a balloting that gave no more than one position to any one institution.

So Widseth finds himself on the second team, along with such other splendid players as his teammate, Sheldon Beise; James (Monk) Moscrip, place-kicking Stanford end, and James (Whataman) Whatley, crack Alabama tackle.

Picked From 219 Players

A coach is mighty proud of all his boys, but I do believe that Beise belongs in anyone's all-star lineup. He is one of the finest fullbacks that I have ever coached. This was his best season. He has as much drive on line bucks as any fullback I have ever seen, and was equally capable when blocking or on defense.

I would say, too, that Minnesota would not have gone through the campaign unbeaten and untied without such a capable all-round player as Vernal (Babe) LeVoir. He started the season as a fullback, switched to right half when we lost Julius Alfonse, and finished at quarterback after Captain Glenn Seidel suffered a broken collar bone in the Tulane engagement.

LeVoir turned in an outstanding job at each position and never lost any of his effectiveness, yet all this phenomenal senior gets for all of his stellar performances and weeks of hard work is honorable mention.

I dwell on these players just to let everybody know that I realize to the fullest extent how coaches and admirers of the many stars feel when similarly treated.

But enough of that. Here's NEA Service's first All-America, and it goes without saying that I, or any other coach, would like to put it on the field. As is annually the case, it was carefully sifted from a monumental mass of opinions and 219 recommendations.

The Western conference has a slight bulge with three players. The east, south and southwest land two places each, and the Pacific coast and Big Six conference one each.

Four Chosen Unanimously

John Jacob (Jay) Berwanger of Chicago, Robert Wilson of Southern Methodist, Riley Smith of Alabama, and Robert H. Grayson of Stanford are the backs.

Art Detzel of Pittsburgh is paired with Dick Smith at tackle.

Captain Biff Jones, who did so well in his first year as Oklahoma's coach, and other Big Six and southwest coaches said so many nice things about J. W. (Dub) Wheeler, Sooner tackle, that room is made for him at guard. His partner is John A. C. Weller, an outstanding star of an outstanding Princeton team.

Selectors virtually were unanimous in designating four players—Berwanger, Wilson, Grayson and Weller. Riley Smith, Tinsley and Lester were pronounced favorites.

For three falls, Berwanger did half the ball toting, the punting and passing, directed the attack and defense, and backed up the line of a comparatively weak Chicago club. One of the most accomplished all-round backs who has galloped over Big Ten chalk lines in years, this track and field man averaged four yards per attempt against the toughest kind of competition, and 37.5 in kicking.

Although weighing only 150 pounds, Wilson is one of the most feared long-distance threats in the nation. He is a handy chap on either end of a pass. NEA Service alone named him on the 1934 All-America, and he stood up with plenty to spare.

Smith Replaces Howell

Riley Smith, 200-pound Alabama quarterback, is one of the foremost blockers in the land. When the Crimson Tide missed the ball carrying of Millard (Dixie) Howell, Smith suddenly revealed that he had exceptional talent along that line, too.

It is unnecessary for me to tell you about Grayson. Bob Zupke, Lou Little, Jimmy Phelan, Frank Thomas, Howard Jones—every coach who has seen him—describe him as the most vicious ground gainer in the sport.

Although he weighs 198 pounds, Grayson is one of the fastest men in the world. This product of Portland, Ore., would win both sprints and hurdles in the average track meet. He calls plays from fullback and became a sharpshooting thrower of forward passes during the 193[illegible] grind.

Dick Smith and Detzel charge fast and have the speed to get down the field. They are a great help to ends.

Captain Biff Jones reports that Wheeler, 227-pound senior, wrecked the line of every Big Six opponent of Oklahoma. Weller pulls out of the line to lead plays, and is a bulwark in the Princeton forward wall.

Lester, a dependable snapper-back, combines all the other qualities of the topnotch center.

This team may not suit everybody, but it would be entirely satisfactory to any coach if one like it reported each September 15. I doubt that the second and third squads are as much as a step behind, and, in conclusion, I might add that any coach gladly would settle for a combination picked at random from the boys let down with honorable mention.

Tidings From Tech

By Ruston Sports Correspondent

RUSTON, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Some say one thing and some say another, but all may as well stop talking as far as a post-season game for Louisiana Tech is concerned. There isn't going to be any. The home work is done. That's official.

There are those who feel that, with the proceeds from an after-season contest, Louisiana Tech could get "a new administration building" or collect a fund for the relief of club-footed quarterbacks. Others who just naturally like football, especially the kind the Techmen have been playing this fall, have been wanting to see some more of it. However, they will have to get along with what they have already seen.

The Tech authorities deeply appreciate the interest taken in the local varsity gridmen and the efforts advanced to effect some post-season performing against one of several strong teams suggested. But all play and no book work might make some dull boys, and they don't want anything like that to happen and ruin the chances for another good Tech team for next year.

So all there is to do is to play the University of Tampa at Tampa, Fla., on December 14, and then the Techsters can get ready for their semester finals, which will be here before they know it. Incidentally, the Techmen haven't been anywhere except the short distance to Pineville this fall, and consequently they are looking ahead to the Tampa trip with great glee and gusto. President G. W. Bond of Louisiana Tech has suggested to the Tech gridders that they spend a day or two after the Tampa game in inspecting the orange groves and other things in Florida.

Alexandria Alibis?

With due respects to a contemporary scribe, permit these quotations from a recent edition of the Alexandria Daily Town Talk:

"Loyola would wallop Louisiana Tech, if they had a chance to play. . . . Tech beat the Mississippi Choctaws, 21-7, and Loyola beat the Choctaws, 37-0. . . . Louisiana college's 'first team' could beat Tech's 'first team' any day in the week, but not Tech's three teams, which all goes to show the value of reserves. . . . The Pineville gridsters are counting the days until September 1, 1936. . . . They will look forward to the Southwestern and Tech games next season with considerable relish. . . . Except in numbers Tech wasn't impressive, which brings us right back to the beginning: Three fair teams can trim one good team."

The Tech gridmen of the present and future varsity have been doing some private editorializing upon those remarks, with part of the comment running like this:

"Listen, fellow: Haven't you heard that the Tech freshmen a few nights ago licked the Louisiana college freshmen, 33-0? They will be varsity men next year, you know. And you remember, of course, that the Tech varsity on November 23 defeated the Wildcats at Pineville, 25-7.

"Therefore, be it resolved that Tech, too, is looking forward 'with considerable relish' to the game with Louisiana college's varsity in 1936."

Damon and Pythias

Two sophomore gridmen of Louisiana Tech are about to complete their sixth year together as members of the same football teams. They are Herman Hewett, fullback, and Houston Beaumont, tackle, who got their start at the same Birmingham, Ala., high school, came to Tech as freshmen last year, and then grew into varsity togs for this season.

The Tech-Mississippi Teachers game here Thanksgiving day was the 50th grid contest in which Hewett has participated. Beaumont has played in 49 of the same half hundred. In his high school junior year, Beaumont received a lacerated nose which kept him out of one tilt.

Tech Versus Tulane

Although Louisiana Tech's complete football schedule for 1936 is not yet ready for the newspapers, the local drugstores have found out that Tulane and Tech have agreed to meet in New Orleans during the latter part of October next year.

The chances are that the far-away Tennessee teams on Tech's card this fall will be dropped for the next campaign, and in their stead will be some elevens of bigger proportions. Coach Eddie McLane is giving considerable attention to the arranging of an attractive grid program for 1936.

"The Light Brigade"

Morris McKnight, formerly of Monroe but now affiliated with a Ruston wholesale grocery company, has let the Tech football team move him to the following poetry:

"Be thankful for the Light Brigade,
The team, the coach, and all his aid.
For sunshine out of dismal rain—
The magic of this man McLane!
Who serves grid dishes to our liking,
Comparable to the famous Viking."

Mississippi Boys Lauded

Louisiana Tech linemen still have words of praise for the strength of their Thanksgiving opponents, the Mississippi State Teachers of Hattiesburg. "That line crucified us," the Techsters say, and Tech had to do something to cope with that power. Ask any of the following Tech linemen who faced the Teachers: Brooks, Beckett, Dunnaway, Johnston, Milam, Neal, Phillips, Ruple, Coody, Adkins, Beaumont, Causey Funderburk, Giddens, Hill, Hasha, Lewis, Rajcan, Stamm, Wells, Woodward and Deas.

Dye Their Hair Red

Believing that red hair might have something to do with arousing their dander for their coming game with Tampa, several of the Louisiana Techsters have been to a beauty shop and had their locks henna-ed—and, of all things, by women beauticians!

The local red heads include Giddens, Woodward, Chronister, Phillips and Ruple,

Archie Turner, whose hirsute overhead is somewhat porcupinish, submitted to the curling machinery, but to no avail.

Afraid of a Cyclone!

During the second half of the Tech Teachers game at Ruston Thanksgiving day, there was a great commotion in the stadium. A tall, slender, black cloud arose behind the spectators, and there was an accompanying roar. The folks thought it was a cyclone, but it was only a cloud, with an unseen train nearby making the noise. They should not have been excited, however, for there is a "cyclone" fence around the place! Umph! Umph!

BOWL COMMITTEE WILL MEET TODAY

New Orleans Group To Select Teams To Play In Sugar Bowl

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Eleven men, executives of the Mid-Winter Sports association, go into a huddle this Sunday; and, like any 11-man huddle, they'll be talking about football.

With their president Warren V. Miller, calling signals, these men—augmented by the advice of a group of the nation's leading sport writers—will name the 1936 Sugar Bowl football contenders.

Until then, the queries of "Who will play?" will have to go unanswered; but fans aren't waiting until December 1 to start buying their tickets.

The fact that guarantors of the classic—who backed it to the extent of $30,000 this year—will have their money returned sometime this week speaks for the assured success of the game.

Tickets on the West Side of Tulane stadium, scene of the New Year's day battle, are available only from the 17 yard line out and they are moving rapidly on the east side. Not a ticket had been sold at this time last year.

Football is the highlight of the Sugar Bowl sport carnival, but a great track and field meet, invitational tennis tournament and a basketball game between the intercollegiate champion, Louisiana State, and Pittsburgh have also been arranged.

The track and field games will start the show December 28, being followed by football game January 1, the basketball game January 2, and the tennis tournament January 2-5.

THURSDAY FIRST IN HANDICAP AT BOWIE

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Selby L. Burch's six-year-old gelding, Thursday, romped down the stretch to a blazing finish here today to win the $5,000 added Bryan and O'Hara Memorial handicap and ring down the curtain on major eastern racing of the fall.

Second, a length back of Thursday, was Mrs. Deering Howe's Only One, and Firethorn, Walter M. Jeffords' entry, was another length back in third place.

The winner, coupled in an entry with Mrs. M. DuP. Somerville's Tweedledee, paid $6.60 to win.

S. M. U.'S VICTORY FEATURES END OF GRIDIRON SEASON

By Herbert W. Barker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Southern Methodist's football Mustangs all but qualified for Pasadena's Rose Bowl game yesterday as Princeton wound up its second undefeated and untied season in three years; Army captured the annual service duel with Navy, and Louisiana State won the Southeastern conference championship.

The galloping Mustangs, though badly crippled, toppled Texas Christian, 20 to 14, in a sensational battle between the Southwest's two undefeated and untied arrays at Fort Worth. A capacity crowd of 36,000 saw Southern Methodist run up a two touchdown lead in the first half, falter long enough to allow Christian to tie it up at 14-14, and then come back with another smashing offensive, engineered by Bobby Wilson, to score the winning touchdown late in the final quarter.

Already mentioned prominently as a possible opponent for Stanford in the Rose Bowl game New Year's day, Southern Methodist looks now like an almost certain nominee for that post-season classic.

"However, reports from Pasadena indicated that Princeton might possibly be in a receptive mood for an invitation to the New Year's classic, despite the general impression that the team would not consider such a bid. A letter received by a Stanford athletic official from Burnham N. Dell, chairman of the council of athletics at Princeton, said that Princeton would consider it an honor to be invited to the Rose Bowl but added that the school had been governed by a policy opposed to post-season games."

Princeton's powerful Tigers scored 28 points in the last quarter to climax a brilliant campaign with a crushing 38-7 defeat of Yale. Nearly 60,000 saw Yale hold Princeton to a 10-0 advantage for three periods.

Army's first team picked up 21 points in a terrific first period drive and then stalled off Navy's furious counter-charge in the second half to win the service duel, 28-6, before 81,000 fans in Philadelphia.

Louisiana State's Tigers gained clear title to the Southeastern crown by brushing Tulane aside, 41-0. Tulane made a fight of it the first half but the Tigers rushed over 27 points in the third quarter.

Holy Cross, unbeaten but tied by Manhattan, wound up its season by thumping its main rival, Boston college, 20-6, as had been expected but Columbia's Lions sprang a sensational upset by tossing Dartmouth for a loss, 13-7 as Al Barabas closed his collegiate career in a blaze of glory. Western Maryland upset Georgetown, 14-10, in the other eastern fixture of the day.

Auburn whipped Florida, 27-6, in a Southeastern conference engagement but Georgia fell before Georgia Tech, 19-7, and Mississippi outpointed Mississippi State, 14-6. Baylor's fighting team handed Rice an unexpected jolt, 8-0, in the Southwest.

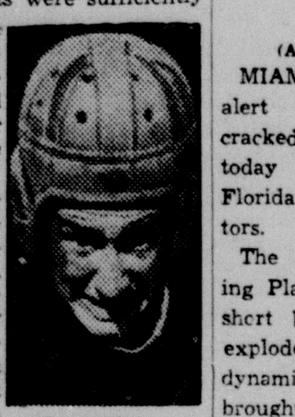
CADETS MAKE 3 TOUCHDOWNS IN OPENING PERIOD

Crowd Of 81,000 Sees Soldiers Wallop Sailors At Philadelphia

By Alan Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—Army fired all its long range scoring ammunition today in the first 20 minutes but the results were sufficiently devastating to give the Cadets an unexpectedly overwhelming lead and offset a spectacular comeback by the Midshipmen.



Monk Meyer

West Point's warriors emerged badly battered but triumphant, 28 to 6, in an extraordinary struggle for service football supremacy before a crowd of 81,000 that filled Franklin field.

Army's margin was the biggest in 32 years, exceeded only by the 40 to 5 rout of the Navy away back in 1903, but it exaggerated the difference between two teams that alternated in turning loose attacks of terrific intensity. Bewildered and shell-shocked by an Army barrage that produced better than a point-a-minute at the outset of the game, the Midshipmen came back to dominate the play completely in the last half. The trouble with the Navy's counter-thrust was that it didn't have the scoring punch to capitalize repeated opportunities and the Sailors consequently yielded the honors gained so brilliantly on the same gridiron a year ago.

Led by the speedy Ed (Whitey) Grove and the versatile Charles (Monk) Meyer, Army's regulars struck with fire and accuracy. Less than three minutes after the kick-off and on their second play after getting possession of the ball, the Cadets shook Grove loose down the sidelines for 80 yards and a touchdown.

The same Grove took a 23-yard pass from Meyer and ran ten yards unmolested for another tally. Shortly, Clint (Tarzan) True was on the receiving end of a 12-yard pass from Meyer and raced 30 yards for the third Army touchdown.

All this was accomplished in less than the full 15 minutes of the opening period while the Navy's followers sat stunned.

The Blue-Shirted players from Annapolis were obviously demoralized, unable to pull themselves together with the aid of repeated replacements and easily beaten back by a 43-yard drive that produced Army's final touchdown early in the second quarter. Bill Grohs, Cadet field general, bucked over for the fourth tally from the two-yard line after Meyer reeled off several brilliant runs. Grove booted his fourth successive placement for the extra point and ran his total contribution up to 16 points for the day.

Launching a savage counter-attack in the second half, the Midshipmen ran wild, with Jack Schmidt the spearhead of a succession of thrilling drives, but penalties, intercepted passes and fumbles kept the navy from taking full advantage of gains.

Under terrific pressure, Army's "iron men" cracked, and, one by one, limped off the field during the final half but their gallant defense was sufficient to stop all but one of Navy's smashing charges. Schmidt, shedding tacklers like a duck sheds water throughout the last two periods, slid off tackle from the one-yard line for Navy's only score on the first play of the final quarter, the climax of a 60-yard advance, but the Sailors missed four other opportunities to score because of over-anxiety or poor ball-handling.

Plainsmen Show Powerful Attack To Whip Oft-Beaten Foes

By J. P. McKnight
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 30.(AP)—Auburn, alert to capitalize every break, cracked across four touchdowns here today to defeat the oft-trampled Florida 'Gators before 8,000 spectators.

The powerful, smoothly-functioning Plainsmen, though often stopped short by stubborn Florida defense, exploded into touchdown-producing dynamite when breaks of the game brought the enemy goal conveniently near.

A 31-yard first half drive, two touchdown passes and an intercepted Florida heave, together with Paterson's three place-kicked conversions, gave them their 27 points. Florida's lone marker came as the result of its one sustained march in the second period.

Auburn's superiority was marked throughout. The Plainsmen made nine first downs to Florida's five.

An intercepted Florida pass prepared the way for Auburn's first score, shortly after the second period opened.

Chase, Florida half, tossed from his 35-yard line and Kilgore, Auburn full, taking the ball in stride, ran it back to the Gators' 31.

Hitchcock slipped off tackle for one yard, failed at an aerial attempt, hit tackle again for eight and gave the ball to Kilgore, who got seven through center to Florida's 15. Fenton and Hitchcock accumulated 13 in three tries and Hitchcock, after Kilgore's line drive fell inches short, swept short around end to score. Paterson's placement was good.

Florida retaliated quickly.

Taking the ball on an Auburn punt five yards short of mid-field, the 'Gators used line plays to reach the enemy's 38 where Chase passed to McAnly, reserve half, for 21 yards.

Another Chase-McAnly pass was good for 11, putting the ball on Auburn's six, and after two line plays and one short pass netted but one yard, Chase tossed to Jenkins for the touchdown. A low pass from center spoiled Hughes' conversion try.

The narrow margin of one point, by which they led at the half, was not enough to satisfy the Alabamans, who shoved across their second touchdown half-way through the third period.

Again an intercepted aerial paved the way. Eaves, Auburn end, grabbed Chase's fling, thrown from Florida's 28, and ran it back to the line of scrimmage. O'Rourke, reserve full, and Hitchcock got 11 yards through the line in two plays and Hitchcock, on first down, tossed 17 yards to Eaves for the score. Paterson again converted.

The third Plainsmen marker came soon after the fourth quarter opened. Hendricks, Florida back, fumbled on his 19 and O'Rourke recovered for Auburn. Two line plays made only four and Fenton, Auburn half, passed 15 to his running mate, Mitchell. Paterson's place-kick again was good.

To add insult to injury, Blake, another Auburn reserve half, intercepted an aerial on the 'Gators' 40, two minutes later, and skipped and dodged through virtually the entire Florida team to cross the goal line standing up. This time Paterson's point try was wide.

The end of the game found the Floridians still trying vainly to connect with scoring passes and Auburn, content to run three plays and punt, nevertheless risking an occasional aerial.

Leading ground gainers for Auburn were Fenton, Mitchell and Hitchcock, with 48, 44 and 40 yards, while Hendricks, with 35, and Chase, with 24, topped the Florida backs.

Outstanding was the play of the Plainsmen's starting tackles, Paterson and Roton, with the rest of their line offering stalwart resistance.

The lineup:

Florida	Pos.	Auburn
Schucht	LE	Eaves
Hickland	LT	Paterson
Root	LG	Gantt
Maynard	C	Gilbert
Hughes	RG	McCroskey
Turner	RT	Roton

L. S. U. CLINCHES S'EASTERN TITLE

(By Associated Press)

In a final burst of power, Louisiana State's highly polished football machine walloped Tulane yesterday to lay undisputed claim to the Southeastern conference championship and set itself up as a candidate for Rose Bowl or Sugar Bowl consideration.

The curtain fell on the Southeastern's official season with the day's firing, and with L. S. U. finishing the sole possessor of a clean slate in the conference by whipping the Greenies 41 to 0.

Coach Bernie Moore's powerful eleven met with but one setback all season, that a 10 to 7 loss to Rice, a non-conference foe, in the opening contest.

Georgia and Georgia Tech clashed in their traditional classic, Georgia Tech winning a surprise 19 to 7 upset from the favored Bulldogs. A capacity audience of 30,000 sat in on the battle.

Mississippi won 14 to 6 from Mississippi State in another ancient renewal.

The official program of the thrill-packed 1935 season ended with yesterday's contests. Only one game by a conference member remains, that between Florida and a non-conference opponent, South Carolina, at Tampa on December 7.

UNDEFEATED TEAM TO GET BOWL BID

Southern Methodist And Princeton Are Only Teams Eligible

PASADENA, Calif., Nov. 30.—(AP)—An undefeated team will be invited by Stanford for the Rose Bowl game here New Year's day, Alfred Masters, Stanford graduate manager, said tonight.

"All I can say now is that an undefeated team will be invited to play in the Rose Bowl," Masters emphasized. "I will announce the team when I return Tuesday from Palo Alto."

While western fans were clamoring for Southern Methodist as a result of its victory over Texas Christian at Fort Worth today, a letter from Princeton indicated the unbeaten Tigers might listen to an invitation. The only other major undefeated team is Minnesota, forbidden a post season game by Big Ten rules.

The Princeton letter was from Burnham N. Dell, chairman of the council on athletics, to H. C. Willett, chairman of the Pacific Coast conference.

Dell said Princeton authorities would consider it an honor to be listed as a team worthy of competing in the Rose Bowl but added the school has been governed by a policy opposed to post-season games.

"Princeton authorities have never questioned the character of the management of the Rose Bowl game," he concluded, "and I hope you will dissociate these authorities from any such charges."

KITTY LEAGUE WILL EXPAND TO 8 CLUBS

UNION CITY, Tenn., Nov. 30.—(AP)—The fast little Kitty league that developed some fine prospects last year for the Southern association, is going to expand from a six-club to an eight-club circuit.

Winding up the 1935 season with financial success and prospects even brighter for 1936, the league accepted Mayfield, Ky., as a member club at a meeting of the board of directors last night and will study applications from three other cities.

Forming the league this year were Jackson, Tenn., Lexington, Tenn., Union City, Paducah, Ky., Hopkinsville, Ky., and Portageville, Mo. Applications were received from Cairo, Ill., Cape Girardeau, Mo., and Metropolis, Ill. A decision will be reached on the eighth club January 5.

Dr. Frank H. Bassett of Hopkinsville, Ky., was reelected club president for another year.

The league will play a schedule of 120 games, opening May 19 and closing September 13.

BIG TEN PLACES THREE PLAYERS ON FIRST ELEVEN

South, East And Southwest Each Land Two Stars On Mythical Team

By Bernard W. Bierman
(Head Coach, University of Minnesota)

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 30.—As a member of NEA Service's committee of coaches it is my privilege to announce the All-America team of 1935.

The first club is a capital one—the pick of coaches from Bowdoin to Southern California.

To honor a small group, it is necessary to slight many remarkable boys.

In these days of varsities of 80 and more, not even 33 places are enough to give credit to all the fine young men entitled to it.

But All-America teams long since have become a recognized preliminary to the holidays. People insist upon them.

Take the Minnesota team as an example. Dick Smith, tackle, is the only man the Gophers place, although our seniors graduate without ever having been on the losing end. Ed Widseth, Minnesota's other tackle, is on a par with Smith, but he is a junior and drew fewer votes in a balloting that gave no more than one position to any one institution.

So Widseth finds himself on the second team, along with such other splendid players as his teammate, Sheldon Beise; James (Monk) Moscrip, place-kicking Stanford end, and James (Whataman) Whatley, crack Alabama tackle.

Picked From 219 Players

A coach is mighty proud of all his boys, but I do believe that Beise belongs in anyone's all-star lineup. He is one of the finest fullbacks that I have ever coached. This was his best season. He has as much drive on line bucks as any fullback I have ever seen, and was equally capable when blocking or on defense.

I would say, too, that Minnesota would not have gone through the campaign unbeaten and untied without such a capable all-round player as Vernal (Babe) LeVoir. He started the season as a fullback, switched to right half when we lost Julius Alfonse, and finished at quarterback after Captain Glenn Seidel suffered a broken collar bone in the Tulane engagement.

LeVoir turned in an outstanding job at each position and never lost any of his effectiveness, yet all this phenomenal senior gets for all of his stellar performances and weeks of hard work is honorable mention.

I dwell on these players just to let everybody know that I realize to the fullest extent how coaches and admirers of the many stars feel when similarly treated.

But enough of that. Here's NEA Service's first All-America, and it goes without saying that I, or any other coach, would like to put it on the field. As is annually the case, it was carefully sifted from a monumental mass of opinions and 219 recommendations.

The Western conference has a slight bulge with three players. The east, south and southwest land two places each, and the Pacific coast and Big Six conference one each.

Four Chosen Unanimously

John Jacob (Jay) Berwanger of Chicago, Robert Wilson of Southern Methodist, Riley Smith of Alabama, and Robert H. Grayson of Stanford are the backs.

The ends are Merle Wendt of Ohio State and Gaynell Tinsley of Louisiana State.

Art Detzel of Pittsburgh is paired with Dick Smith at tackle.

Captain Biff Jones, who did so well in his first year as Oklahoma's coach, and other Big Six and southwest coaches said so many nice things about J. W. (Dub) Wheeler, Sooner tackle, that room is made for him at guard. His partner is John A. C. Weller, an outstanding star of an outstanding Princeton team.

Selectors virtually were unanimous in designating four players—Berwanger, Wilson, Grayson and Weller. Riley Smith, Tinsley and Lester were pronounced favorites.

For three falls, Berwanger did half the ball toting, the punting and passing, directed the attack and defense, and backed up the line of a comparatively weak Chicago club. One of the most accomplished all-round backs who has galloped over Big Ten chalk lines in years, this track and field man averaged four yards per attempt against the toughest kind of competition, and 37.5 in kicking.

Although weighing only 150 pounds, Wilson is one of the most feared long-distance threats in the nation. He is a handy chap on either end of a pass. NEA Service alone named him on the 1934 All-America, and he stood up with plenty to spare.

Smith Replaces Howell

Riley Smith, 200-pound Alabama quarterback, is one of the foremost blockers in the land. When the Crimson Tide missed the ball carrying of Millard (Dixie) Howell, Smith suddenly revealed that he had exceptional talent along that line, too.

It is unnecessary for me to tell you about Grayson. Bob Zupke, Lou Little, Jimmy Phelan, Frank Thomas, Howard Jones—every coach who has seen him—describe him as the most vicious ground gainer in the sport.

Although he weighs 192 pounds,

Grayson is one of the fastest men in the world. This product of Portland, Ore., would win both sprints and hurdles in the average track meet. He calls plays from fullback and became a sharpshooting thrower of forward passes during the 19[illegible] grind.

Tinsley is pictured as the most polished end in Dixie since Gerald Dalrymple, Tulane's All-America of 1930 and '31. Wendt carries out all end assignments in masterful style.

Dick Smith and Detzel charge fast and have the speed to get down the field. They are a great help to ends.

Captain Biff Jones reports that Wheeler, 227-pound senior, wrecked the line of every Big Six opponent of Oklahoma. Weller pulls out of the line to lead plays, and is a bulwark in the Princeton forward wall.

Lester, a dependable snapper-back, combines all the other qualities of the topnotch center.

This team may not suit everybody, but it would be entirely satisfactory to any coach if one like it reported each September 15. I doubt that the second and third squads are as much as a step behind, and, in conclusion, I might add that any coach gladly would settle for a combination picked at random from the boys let down with honorable mention.

Tidings From Tech

By Ruston Sports Correspondent

RUSTON, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Some say one thing and some say another, but all may as well stop talking as far as a post-season game for Louisiana Tech is concerned. There isn't going to be any. The home work is done. That's official.

There are those who feel that, with the proceeds from an after-season contest, Louisiana Tech could get "a new administration building" or collect a fund for the relief of club-footed quarterbacks. Others who just naturally like football, especially the kind the Techmen have been playing this fall, have been wanting to see some more of it. However, they will have to get along with what they have already seen.

The Tech authorities deeply appreciate the interest taken in the local varsity gridmen and the efforts advanced to effect some post-season performing against one of several strong teams suggested. But all play and no book work might make some dull boys, and they don't want anything like that to happen and ruin the chances for another good Tech team for next year.

So all there is to do is to play the University of Tampa at Tampa, Fla., on December 14, and then the Techsters can get ready for their semester finals, which will be here before they know it. Incidentally, the Techmen haven't been anywhere except the short distance to Pineville this fall, and consequently they are looking ahead to the Tampa trip with great glee and gusto. President G. W. Bond of Louisiana Tech has suggested to the Tech gridders that they spend a day or two after the Tampa game in inspecting the orange groves and other things in Florida.

Alexandria Alibis?

With due respects to a contemporary scribe, permit these quotations from a recent edition of the Alexandria Daily Town Talk:

"Loyola would wallop Louisiana Tech, if they had a chance to play. . . . Tech beat the Mississippi Choctaws, 21-7, and Loyola beat the Choctaws, 37-0. . . . Louisiana college's 'first team' could beat Tech's 'first team' any day in the week, but not Tech's three teams, which all goes to show the value of reserves. . . . The Pineville gridsters are counting the days until September 1, 1936. . . . They will look forward to the Southwestern and Tech games next season with considerable relish. . . . Except in numbers Tech wasn't impressive, which brings us right back to the beginning: Three fair teams can trim one good team."

The Tech gridmen of the present and future varsity have been doing some private editorializing upon those remarks, with part of the comment running like this:

"Listen, fellow: Haven't you heard that the Tech freshmen a few nights ago licked the Louisiana college freshmen, 33-0? They will be varsity men next year, you know. And you remember, of course, that the Tech varsity on November 23 defeated the Wildcats at Pineville, 25-7.

"Therefore, be it resolved that Tech, too, is looking forward 'with considerable relish' to the game with Louisiana college's varsity in 1936."

Damon and Pythias

Two sophomore gridmen of Louisiana Tech are about to complete their sixth year together as members of the same football teams. They are Herman Hewett, fullback, and Houston Beaumont, tackle, who got their start at the same Birmingham, Ala., high school, came to Tech as freshmen last year, and then grew into varsity togs for this season.

The Tech-Mississippi Teachers game here Thanksgiving day was the 50th grid contest in which Hewett has participated. Beaumont has played in 49 of the same half hundred. In his high school junior year, Beaumont received a lacerated nose which kept him out of one tilt.

Tech Versus Tulane

Although Louisiana Tech's complete football schedule for 1936 is not yet ready for the newspapers, the local drugstores have found out that Tulane and Tech have agreed to meet in New Orleans during the latter part of October next year.

The chances are that the far-away Tennessee teams on Tech's card this fall will be dropped for the next campaign, and in their stead will be some elevens of bigger proportions. Coach Eddie McLane is giving considerable attention to the arranging of an attractive grid program for 1936.

"The Light Brigade"

Morris McKnight, formerly of Monroe but now affiliated with a Ruston wholesale grocery company, has let the Tech football team move him to the following poetry:

"Be thankful for the Light Brigade,
The team, the coach, and all his aid.
For sunshine out of dismal rain—
The magic of this man McLane!
Who serves grid dishes to our liking,

Mississippi Boys Lauded

Louisiana Tech linemen still have words of praise for the strength of their Thanksgiving opponents, the Mississippi State Teachers of Hattiesburg. "That line crucified us," the Techsters say, and Tech had to do something to cope with that power. Ask any of the following Tech linemen who faced the Teachers: Brooks, Beckett, Dunnaway, Johnston, Milam, Neal, Phillips, Ruple, Coody, Adkins, Beaumont, Causey Funderburk, Giddens, Hill, Hasha, Lewis, Rajcan, Stamm, Wells, Woodward and Deas.

Dye Their Hair Red

Believing that red hair might have something to do with arousing their dander for their coming game with Tampa, several of the Louisiana Techsters have been to a beauty shop and had their locks henna-ed—and, of all things, by women beauticians!

The local red heads include Giddens, Woodward, Chronister, Phillips and Ruple.

Archie Turner, whose hirsute overhead is somewhat porcupinish, submitted to the curling machinery, but to no avail.

Afraid of a Cyclone!

During the second half of the Tech Teachers game at Ruston Thanksgiving day, there was a great commotion in the stadium. A tall, slender, black cloud arose behind the spectators, and there was an accompanying roar. The folks thought it was a cyclone, but it was only a cloud, with an unseen train nearby making the noise. They should not have been excited, however, for there is a "cyclone" fence around the place! Umph! Umph!

THURSDAY FIRST IN HANDICAP AT BOWIE

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Selby L. Burch's six-year-old gelding, Thursday, romped down the stretch to a blazing finish here today to win the $5,000 added Bryan and O'Hara Memorial handicap and ring down the curtain on major eastern racing of the fall.

Second, a length back of Thursday, was Mrs. Deering Howe's Only One, and Firethorn, Walter M. Jeffords' entry, was another length back in third place.

The winner, coupled in an entry with Mrs. M. DuP. Somerville's Tweedledee, paid $6.60 to win.

BOWL COMMITTEE WILL MEET TODAY

New Orleans Group To Select Teams To Play In Sugar Bowl

NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Eleven men, executives of the Mid-Winter Sports association, go into a huddle this Sunday; and, like any 11-man huddle, they'll be talking about football.

With their president Warren V. Miller, calling signals, these men—augmented by the advice of a group of the nation's leading sport writers—will name the 1936 Sugar Bowl football contenders.

Until then, the queries of "Who will play?" will have to go unanswered; but fans aren't waiting until December 1 to start buying their tickets.

The fact that guarantors of the classic—who backed it to the extent of $30,000 this year—will have their money returned sometime this week speaks for the assured success of the game.

Tickets on the West Side of Tulane stadium, scene of the New Year's day battle, are available only from the 17 yard line out and they are moving rapidly on the east side. Not a ticket had been sold at this time last year.

Football is the highlight of the Sugar Bowl sport carnival, but a great track and field meet, invitational tennis tournament and a basketball game between the intercollegiate champion, Louisiana State, and Pittsburgh have also been arranged.

The track and field games will start the show December 28, being followed by football game January 1, the basketball game January 2, and the tennis tournament January 2-5.

S. M. U.'S VICTORY FEATURES END OF GRIDIRON SEASON

By Herbert W. Barker
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Southern Methodist's football Mustangs all but qualified for Pasadena's Rose Bowl game yesterday as Princeton wound up its second undefeated and untied season in three years; Army captured the annual service duel with Navy, and Louisiana State won the Southeastern conference championship.

The galloping Mustangs, though badly crippled, toppled Texas Christion, 20 to 14, in a sensational battle between the Southwest's two undefeated and untied arrays at Fort Worth. A capacity crowd of 36,000 saw Southern Methodist run up a two touchdown lead in the first half, falter long enough to allow Christian to tie it up at 14-14, and then come back with another smashing offensive, engineered by Bobby Wilson, to score the winning touchdown late in the final quarter.

Already mentioned prominently as a possible opponent for Stanford in the Rose Bowl game New Year's day, Southern Methodist looks now like an almost certain nominee for that post-season classic.

"However, reports from Pasadena indicated that Princeton might possibly be in a receptive mood for an invitation to the New Year's classic, despite the general impression that the team would not consider such a bid. A letter received by a Stanford athletic official from Burnham N. Dell, chairman of the council of athletics at Princeton, said that Princeton would consider it an honor to be invited to the Rose Bowl but added that the school had been governed by a policy opposed to post-season games."

Princeton's powerful Tigers scored 28 points in the last quarter to climax a brilliant campaign with a crushing 38-7 defeat of Yale. Nearly 60,000 saw Yale hold Princeton to a 10-0 advantage for three periods.

Army's first team picked up 21 points in a terrific first period drive and then stalled off Navy's furious counter-charge in the second half to win the service duel, 28-6, before 81,000 fans in Philadelphia.

Louisiana State's Tigers gained clear title to the Southeastern crown by brushing Tulane aside, 41-0. Tulane made a fight of it the first half but the Tigers rushed over 27 points in the third quarter.

Holy Cross, unbeaten but tied by Manhattan, wound up its season by thumping its main rival, Boston college, 20-6, as had been expected but Columbia's Lions sprang a sensational upset by tossing Dartmouth for a loss, 13-7 as Al Barabas closed his collegiate career in a blaze of glory. Western Maryland upset Georgetown, 14-10, in the other eastern fixture of the day.

Auburn whipped Florida, 27-6, in a Southeastern conference engagement but Georgia fell before Georgia Tech, 19-7, and Mississippi outpointed Mississippi State, 14-6. Baylor's fighting team handed Rice an unexpected jolt, 8-0, in the Southwest.

DOUBLE MAIN EVENT FOR MAT SHOW WEDNESDAY

CLARK TO MEET JACK CARSON IN FEATURE MATCH

Otto Ludwig And Ace Freeman Tangle In Opening Bout Of Card

A double main event wrestling program, featuring one matman who made a big hit here last week and three newcomers, will be presented in the weekly show at Roosevelt stadium Wednesday night, Promoter Charlie Bruscato announced last night. The principals again are light heavyweights.

In the feature match of Wednesday's show, Vern Clark, the clever Seattle, Wash., 175 pounder who beat George Ligosky in a fast battle last week, will meet Jack Carson, 172 pounds, of Toledo, Ohio, in what is being billed as a strictly scientific match. In the other bout, Otto Ludwig, 175, of Germany, will tangle with Ace Freeman, 171 pound New York Hebrew. Both Ludwig and Freeman have fine records.

According to Bruscato, the Clark-Carson match should be one of the best seen here in quite a while. And if Carson measures up to Clark's standard, it's bound to be good. Clark made his local debut against Ligosky last week and he showed plenty of skill in beating the "beardless" Russian. He is a clean-cut, willing worker who out-smarted Ligosky. They put on one of the greatest finishes seen here in several years.

Clark knows plenty of holds and depends on his science for victory. Not once during his match with Ligosky did he resort to rough tactics, despite the fact that the Russian continually pestered him with fouls.

Carson is said to be equally clever. He is a Hungarian and a powerful youngster. Jack formerly played football at Ohio State, and also was a weight lifter of note in the Big Ten conference. His pet hold is a reverse hook scissors. Carson is said to be a versatile cartoonist, but his press agent failed to explain just how that would help him in the grappling game. He is a good showman who is said to have caused more upsets in the championship tournaments than any other light heavyweight.

Bruscato believes Carson will make an ideal opponent for Clark, with the result that a real scientific match, something the fans have been requesting for a long time, will be presented.

The opening match will see a roughhouse artist, Ludwig, meeting another scientific boy, the clever Freeman. Ludwig holds a decision over Red Berry, which is something few light heavies can boast of hereabouts. Known as the "sensational German," Otto has started more than his share of riots in the various cities where he has shown, and Bruscato says he is sure to prove one of the best villains seen here in a long time.

Freeman is a former football star of Boston university. The Jewish lad is said to be in the wrestling game just for the fun of it, but just what fun he sees in it is hard to understand. Anyway, Ace is a high ranking light heavyweight, and is said to be well able to take plenty of punishment. Meeting Ludwig, he undoubtedly will be called upon to show just how well he can take it.

"Butch" Martin will referee both matches. Other officials have not been selected.

Both matches will be best two out of three falls, with each having a two-hour time limit.

Paul recently led the Recruits to a 25-0 victory over the Fort Union Military academy eleven, according to Norfolk newspapers. He's a quarterback and does the kicking and passing. In the Fort Union game, he tossed one touchdown pass, intercepted a Fort Union pass and returned it 40 yards and then scored a touchdown through the line for his club.

David has played outstanding ball for the Greenies. He was one of the few Tulane linemen who stood up under the terrific pounding handed them by L. S. U. yesterday. He was a star in last year's Tulane victory over L. S. U. and distinguished himself against Georgia and Kentucky this season.

TENNIS STARS TO PLAY AT ORLEANS

At Least Two Davis Cup Aces Listed As Entries In Tourney

NEW ORLEANS, La., No. 30.—(Special)—At least two Davis cup tennis players—one American, the other Chinese—will be in the field which competes here January 2-5, in the Sugar Bowl invitational tournament.

Wilmer Allison, the blond Texan, who is American champion, and Guy Cheng from the Far East are the two cup players.

They head the present entry list, which will be extended to a select group of 16 stars of national reputation on the courts.

It was in the 1935 bowl tournament that the dashing Allison began the greatest campaign of his career. He swept through the Sugar Bowl field and then stroked his way to the national championship at Forrest Hills.

His triumph in the U. S. finals over Fred Perry, England's greatest player and then undisputed champion of the world, was the most stunning upset of the year.

Cheng, who entered Davis cup play last season, is a freshman at Tulane university in New Orleans; and he has been improving his already fine game under the instruction of Emmett Pare, well known professional star.

Another American star, who has tentatively accepted an invitation, is Bryan "Bitsy" Grant of Atlanta. A great showman, "Bitsy" contributed more than one man's share to the list of 1935 tennis upsets.

Arthur Hendrix and Frank Guernsey, who regularly have appeared in most of the "big time" tournaments in the past two years, will come from Lakeland, Fla., for the event.

Douglas Watters, who handled New Orleans' first national public parks tournament last year, will be in charge of the bowl tournament.

HOLY CROSS WHIPS BOSTON TEAM, 20-6

NEWTON, Mass., Nov. 30.—(AP)—The burly Holy Cross Crusaders completed their first undefeated season by jumping their arch rivals, the Boston college Eagles, for three touchdowns early in the opening period today for a 20-6 victory before a packed crowd of 42,000.

Captain Nick Morris started the Crusaders on their second straight triumph over their foemen with a spectacular 70-yard sprint off his left tackle for the first touchdown, made on the play that followed the opening kickoff.

Shortly after the second kick-off, Bob Maunter, the Crusaders' star center, intercepted a Boston college pass on his 40, carried it back to Boston's 25 and Paul Bartolomeo heaved to Rex Kidd, his quarterback, in the Eagles' end zone.

Later in the initial session, Hip Moncewicz blocked a punt that Joe Yablonsky recovered on Boston's 10. Then Bob Daughters, left flankman, scored the final Holy Cross touchdown on an end-around play.

MISSISSIPPI HOLDS EARLY LEAD AND SHADES MAROONS

Eighty-Yard Run By Ray Hapes Features Battle At Oxford

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Nov. 30.—(AP)—The fleet-footed backs of the University of Mississippi today broke through the powerful Mississippi State line that had lowered the colors of the Army and Alabama, and Mississippi defeated the Staters 14 to 6 in their annual Mississippi football classic. An estimated 15,000 fans looked on.

After State had narrowly missed tieing the score in the final period with a well-earned touchdown, Ray Hapes dashed 80 yards through a broken field to give Mississippi another touchdown.

Hapes and his big brother, Clarence, a virtual powerhouse, proved the mainstays in Mississippi's slashing victory over the Maroons. The Hapes brothers were ably aided by Rab Rodgers and Dave Bernard.

Ole Miss lost little time in putting State's back to the wall, scoring a touchdown in the first five minutes of play. Ray Hapes ripped off gains of 15 and 17 yards, which quickly moved the oval to pay dirt. On two powerful thrusts from the six-yard line C. Hapes plunged over for the touchdown. Big Bill Richardson kicked the extra point.

State made two desperate thrusts at the Ole Miss goal toward the end of the quarter, but were unable to penetrate a stiffening line.

Not until the fourth period were the Staters able to cross the enemy goal. Armstrong, State's ace passer, connected with his receiver, tossing one from near midfield to Walters on the Ole Miss 18. Ike Pickle slashed off a first down to the eight, Armstrong added five more, and Steadman plunged over for the lone Maroon marker.

Trailing one point, Coach Sassie sent in "Bull" Day to try for the extra point. The ball struck the upright and bounded away, and Mississippi State's hopes fell.

Then receiving the State kickoff on his own 19-yard line, Hapes cut through center, eluded two would-be tacklers at the three-yard line, and without assistance from his mates, cut out for an open field, outrunning two State backs to score. Richardson again added the extra point.

Though first downs favored State 11 to 10, Mississippi's ground gaining came when it was most effective.

On yardage from scrimmage, Mississippi outgained its rivals, 185 yards to 171 yards.

The win gave Ole Miss three conference victories against one defeat for its season record.

ANOTHER GRIDIRON MYSTERY SEEMS TO HAVE BEEN SOLVED

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP)—For awhile it looked like the "twelfth man" on the Dartmouth football team last Saturday was going to turn out to be triplets.

But it all apparently was cleared up today when Mike Mesco surrendered his claim and George Newcomer Larsen, Cranford, N. J., architect, picked up the burden of fame reluctantly and admitted he was the "player" in question.

Mesco, lunch counterman at Rahway, N. J., wants to "forget" that he claimed earlier in the week he rushed onto the field and participated in one play with Dartmouth against Princeton before being rushed from the scene of action.

And Larsen, who feared news of his exploit would injure his standing with his employers, expressed entire willingness to let Mesco get "all the glory."

But the third:

Austen Lake, sports commentator at Boston who was the official (head linesman) who hustled the extra combatant away, asserted today the "real Lush" apparently was a college student.

He, said Lake, "was a kid with a frizzled crop of sandy hair, a peaked sallow face * * * and weighing not more than 130 pounds. * * *

"The kid was very definitely a student who, in the gray dawn of sober awakening, probably wished to disown his maudlin fit and remain tactfully incognito lest his college prefect boot his trousers out of town."

Larsen, 26, explained he was a bit overenthused and rushed out "without thinking." He once played end in high school.

Mike, who confessed he never got into the game, even refused offers of Yale alumni to take him to the Princeton-Yale game today, explaining he'd rather hear nothing more about it.

U. C. L. A. DEFEATS IDAHO ELEVEN, 13-6

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 30.—(AP)—University of California at Los Angeles defeated University of Idaho, 13 to 6, today before a crowd of 7,000 to earn a tie with Stanford and California for the Pacific Coast conference football title.

Early in the fourth U. C. L. A. counted again, on a 17-yard pass over the goal line, Billy Murphy to Bob Schroeder, an end.

With less than three minutes to play, Coach Ted Banks' fine passing combination, Leslie Holmes to Clarence Devlin, clicked for a 40-yard gain and a touchdown.

five yard line and this great end stepped over for the first touchdown, making the half end 7 to 0.

They scored four touchdowns and kicked three goals in the third quarter.

Mickal slashed across from the six-yard line through tackle for the second touchdown and then kicked goal. The third touchdown resulted from the great passing combination, Mickal to Barrett, the Tiger end taking the throw on the 20 yard line with Watson, Greenie halfback, swinging on to his foot. He shook him loose and raced for the fourth touchdown. Mickal missed this point after touchdown.

The Tigers took the ball to the Greenie 14 yard line from Mickal's sure fire passes and Rohm, substituting at halfback for Fatherree, trotted through a big hole in the Tulane line for the fifth touchdown. Rohm was not even touched on the play. Mickal booted the extra point, bringing the score to 34 to 0.

Treating the Tulane first team with disdain, Coach Moore sent his stars to the showers and started his second string. As the quarter progressed the game slowed down with the second and third stringers missing well placed passes that Barrett and Tinsley probably would have converted into touchdowns. But they were enough for the down hearted Tulanians as the Tigers scored another touchdown late in the period when Thames fumbled on the Tulane nine-yard line and Myrick recovered. After a three-yard stab by Walker, Coffee went over for the sixth touchdown and then kicked the point, making the final score 41 to 0.

"The Tigers would be a fine representative for Louisiana in either of the Bowl classics," he said.

"It was a great game," said Coach Moore. "The boys were plenty hot today."

COX PRAISES TIGERS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Louisiana State university, which wound up its schedule today with a brilliant 41-0 victory over Tulane, would be a worthy representative for either the Rose Bowl or Sugar Bowl games, Ted Cox, Wave head coach, said after the game.

"The Tigers would be a fine representative for Louisiana in either of the Bowl classics," Coach Cox said, "and all of our players and coaches sincerely hope they will be invited to one of them."

The Tiger dressing room presented a joyful scene. Coach Bernie Moore took time from congratulating his players to say:

"It was a great game. The boys were plenty hot today."

He declined to comment on prospects for a Bowl invitation.

Tigers End Schedule Undefeated With Convincing Triumph

By Bob Cavagnaro
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 30.—Yale's football team fell a victim of Princeton's hit-and-run gridiron machine today as the Tigers wound up their second unbeaten and untied season in three years.

Virtually stalled in the opening period, the big Tiger machine started picking up momentum in the second, and operated with crushing force in the final chapter when it ground out four touchdowns and sent the Bulldogs down to an overwhelming 38 to 7 defeat—the biggest score Princeton has ever plastered on Yale in the 62 years of the series. The crowd was estimated at close to 60,000. Larry Kelley, the elusive and loquacious Yale end, who caught the touchdown pass last year that resulted in Princeton's only defeat of the 1934 season, spared the Eli a whitewashing. Early in the fourth period, Kelley took a position in the corner of the end zone and caught a long, looping 30-yard pass thrown by Jerry Roscoe.

Except for the touchdown in the second period, which resulted from a 40-yard drive, the honors were almost even in the first half, each team scored four first downs and Princeton gained 78 yards rushing to 52 for Yale.

In the second half Princeton completely dominated the play, rolling up nine first downs to Yale's four and outgaining the Blues 154 yards to 54.

Scenes reminiscent of the closing minutes of the Yale-Dartmouth game here a few weeks ago were re-enacted when the goalposts were uprooted before the contest was over. With about two minutes to play today a mob of spectators pulled down the Princeton uprights and then another crowd at the opposite end of the field threatened to level Yale's crossbar before Sandbach had a chance to try for the point after touchdown. Officials used force in fighting the mob back, but after Sandbach made the kick the posts were levelled and the game was finished without posts.

Larry Levan, the fleet running back who played his last game for Princeton, paved the way for Sandbach's field goal when he caught a Yale punt and returned it 20 yards to Yale's 20. Chick Kaufman, a reserve back, and Constable ploughed through to the four and then Kaufman slipped and lost two yards. With Levan holding the ball Sandback booted it over the crossbar.

Later in the second session Princeton received its first break when Roscoe's pass struck an ineligible receiver, Wright, giving the Tigers the ball on Yale's 40. A forward, Sandbach to Lea, and a 23-yard gallop by Kaufman advanced the leather to the nine.

On the next play the ball was snapped to Constable who motioned as if he gave it first to MacMillan and then to Pauk but he threw a short lateral to White, who reversed and scored standing up.

The second half was only a few minutes old when Roscoe brought the spectators to their feet when he ran back MacMillan's punt 71 yards to Princeton's 11.

Kaufman then intercepted a pass and ran back 30 yards to Princeton's 43.

Princeton had two chances to score in the third period when Al Hessberg fumbled on the Yale 18 and Kim Whitehead also lost the ball on the nine. Sandbach recovered for Princeton the first time and Toll the second. After the first fumble the Tiger machine was held for downs on the four-yard line but when given a second opportunity the Princetonians moved to the one-yard line as the period ended with two downs to go. In the first play of the fourth quarter, Constable dove over center for the score.

Almost immediately after the kickoff White intercepted a pass and took the ball 25 yards to Yale's 11. Homer Shofford wheeled around right end and was forced out on the one-foot stripe and then Constable again dove over center for his second touchdown.

Yale's touchdown got under way on the Elis 36. Roscoe passed to Kelley for 16 yards. Roscoe and Hessberg advanced the ball to the Princeton 20 in two plays and then Roscoe faded back 10 yards and threw the scoring pass to Kelley.

After two brilliant tackle around plays by Fred Ritter, who made 37 yards of a 65-yard drive, White ran around Kelley from the two-yard line. An exchange of punts then gave Yale the ball on its own 11 and the Elis threw four passes without success. Princeton likewise miss-fired on three heaves and then Sandbach circled left end for the final touchdown.

COLUMBIA SURPRISES DARTMOUTH, 13 TO 7

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Lou Little came up with his annual football surprise today when his smartly coached Columbia Lions wound up their football season with a surprising 13 to 7 upset over Dartmouth's big Indians before 20,000 half-frozen spectators at Baker field.

The fleet-footed Al Barabas led the way as the Lions outplayed Dartmouth in every department to salvage something from a disappointing season.

Barabas' fine passing sent the Lions roaring to a touchdown in the first. Dartmouth evened the count in the second, but Columbia again took the lead in the fourth on a 62 yard gallop down the field by Joe Vollmer, husky junior back. Passes were the chief factor in the Dartmouth score.

TECH TRAINER IS QUITE A FELLOW

RUSTON, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Put 200 pounds on your back and run right fast. If you can do it, turn to another story. If you can't, you will understand why Trainer Eddie Wojecki of Louisiana Tech has attracted attention on the gridiron this fall.

Wojecki is only 5 feet tall and he weighs about 120 pounds—but he's a man, for all that. He can hoist any member of the Tech squad to his shoulders and tote him on a trot without a totter. Having seen Wojecki do that stunt several times this fall, it is no wonder that the spectators laughed here the other night when one of the freshman gridders picked up one of his teammates who was injured in the Louisiana college game, started to carry him away, but fell down on the job!

Wojecki was born in Warsaw, Poland, under the name of Joseph Edward John Wojcicki. Eventually the last name was revised and the whole thing whittled down to "Eddie Wojecki."

His family moved to America when he was five years old. When Eddie finished high school, he returned to Poland, where he studied physical education for a year at the University of Posen. In 1929, he went back to Poland and received a degree in physical education.

He was physical instructor of the Polish Falcons club at Erie, Pa., for three years, and also track and boxing coach at Wilson Junior High school in Erie.

In 1931, he was given the job of gymnasium instructor at Howard college, Birmingham, Ala., where Eddie McLane, now Tech athletics director, was head coach. Becoming trainer at Howard, he hooked up with McLane and learned a great deal about first aid work. When McLane came to Tech in 1934, Wojecki came with him; and he says he likes Tech better than any place he has been.

Wojecki has had extensive boxing experience, having previously held the 112-pound championship of Pennsylvania and Alabama.

Wojecki is working on a degree at Tech. He is not married. He does have a girl, however; but he wouldn't let her walk on his coat to cross a mud puddle—he would pick her up and carry her!

'CLASSIC' FOR HIGH SCHOOLS PROPOSED

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Football enthusiasts down here are considering sponsorship of a regular post-season high school classic to go along with the Pasadena Rose Bowl, the New Orleans Sugar Bowl, and the proposed Miami Orange Bowl games.

If it pans out, the Cocoanut Bowl will be the name.

GEORGIA TECH'S TORNADO UPSETS GEORGIA, 19 TO 7

Engineers Come From Behind To Win First Victory Since 1928

By Kenneth Gregory
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

ATLANTA, Nov. 30.—(AP)—After six lean seasons the Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech thundered with all its might today in smashing to a well-deserved 19 to 7 victory over its neighboring enemy, the Georgia Bulldogs.

Grant field stadium was filled with close to 32,000 fans, the largest gathering for a football game here since Georgia Tech crushed Georgia 20 to 6 in 1928 and went on to defeat California in the Rose Bowl.

It was a thrilling climax battle for the season between the two teams clashing for the 30th time since 1893. Tech's triumph gave the Engineers a record of three wins and four losses in the Southeastern conference race. Georgia finished with two triumphs and four defeats.

Georgia took an early lead in the first period, driving 80 yards for a touchdown, but the Tornado machine unloosed a furious attack to travel 79 yards for a touchdown in the second period, 54 yards to Georgia's goal in the third and scored in the closing quarter from the 29-yard stripe after recovering a Bulldog fumble.

"They outplayed us all the way," was the only comment of Harry Mehre, the Georgia coach, as the Bulldog gridders dressed after the game.

The Golden Tornado, using very little of the razzle-dazzle plays exhibited in previous games, resorted for the most part to straight forward passes, intermingled with a few submarine tosses back of the line, and smashes at tackle and guard to achieve its triumph.

Georgia, after its great drive that produced the Bulldogs' only touchdown, advanced to within scoring territory four other times but the stubborn Tech line checked play after play and the secondary gave a great display of defensive work against innumerable passes.

After a slow start, Georgia Tech got the ball on its own 30 and marched down the field 76 yards, with runs by Fullback Harry Appleby, Halfbacks Lawrence Hays and Dutch Konemann, but lost the ball when Hays' pass on fourth down fell incomplete in the end zone.

Georgia took the ball on its 20. Halfback Paul Causey raced wide around end for 23 yards and Halfback Al Minot followed with the longest and most spectacular run of the day—a jaunt of 47 yards in which he reversed his field and was run out of bounds on Tech's 13. Alf Anderson, Georgia's aerial kingpin, was sent in and on the first play shot a high pass that Otis Maffett snagged over the heads of two Tornado players.

The Bulldogs threatened early in the second period, advancing to Tech's 21 yard line, where Center Charley Preston intercepted one of Anderson's tosses. From that point the golden-shirted charges of the veteran Bill Alexander paraded to their second score. Line plays carried to Tech's 46, where Hays slipped a submarine pass to Konemann, who was pulled down from behind by Charlie Treadaway on Georgia's five. On the second play Hays smashed through guard for the touchdown.

Midway the third quarter the Yellow Jackets of Tech took a Georgia punt on their 46 and swept 54 yards to score. The drive was led by line thrusts of Dick Beard, Hays and Konemann, and Hays' 18 yard pass to Konemann that put the ball on Georgia's three. On third down Konemann hit center for the touchdown.

Georgia Tech's third score followed recovery of a fumble by Alf Anderson that was smashed up by Quarterback Fletcher Sims on Georgia's 29. Two line plays netted a couple of yards and Sims tossed a forward pass which End Ed Jones caught at the Bulldogs' five. Scrappy Edwards, substitute halfback, cut through a big hole at tackle for the touchdown and Konemann placekicked the extra point.

On the third play of the final period, Alf Anderson fired a beautiful pass to Otis Maffett who was run out of bounds on Tech's 5. One smash at the line failed and three of Anderson's passes fell incomplete.

Georgia Tech took the ball on its own 20. Failing to gain, Konemann dropped back to punt. He fumbled a low pass from center, attempted to get off the boot, but it was blocked and Tackle Harry Harman recovered for Georgia on the Tech 19. Substitute Fullback Hill Hartman picked up six at tackle, but on the next play Johnson fumbled the pass from center and lost 11. Two passes failed to connect and the ball went to Tech on the 20.

The Bulldogs got to Tech's 45 as the end of the battle neared. A series of long passes were batted down by the Jackets and the ball went to the Tornado gridders on Georgia's 46 when the final whistle blew.

BYRD HIGH AWARDED NORTH LA. 'A' TITLE

RUSTON, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Byrd High school of Shreveport today was awarded the football championship of North Louisiana, after a meeting of the athletic committee of the North Louisiana High School association, held here this morning. Mangham High school was the only other claimant for the honor, but the Yellow Jackets were given the nod because of two tie games played by the Mangham gridmen.

The deciding committee was composed o S. R. Emmons, chairman, Minden; H. E. Townsend, Ruston, and Lafe Ferguson, Haynesville. The two schools claiming the title were represented by Grover Koffman, Shreveport, and T. O. Judd and Coach Fleischmann of Mangham.

DOUBLE MAIN EVENT FOR MAT SHOW WEDNESDAY

Otto Ludwig And Ace Freeman Tangle In Opening Bout Of Card

A double main event wrestling program, featuring one matman who made a big hit here last week and three newcomers, will be presented in the weekly show at Roosevelt stadium Wednesday night, Promoter Charlie Bruscato announced last night. The principals again are light heavyweights.

In the feature match of Wednesday's show, Vern Clark, the clever Seattle, Wash., 175 pounder who beat George Ligosky in a fast battle last week, will meet Jack Carson, 172 pounds, of Toledo, Ohio, in what is being billed as a strictly scientific match. In the other bout, Otto Ludwig, 175, of Germany, will tangle with Ace Freeman, 171 pound New York Hebrew. Both Ludwig and Freeman have fine records.

According to Bruscato, the Clark-Carson match should be one of the best seen here in quite a while. And if Carson measures up to Clark's standard, it's bound to be good. Clark made his local debut against Ligosky last week and he showed plenty of skill in beating the "beardless" Russian. He is a clean-cut, willing worker who out-smarted Ligosky. They put on one of the greatest finishes seen here in several years.

Clark knows plenty of holds and depends on his science for victory. Not once during his match with Ligosky did he resort to rough tactics, despite the fact that the Russian continually pestered him with fouls.

Carson is said to be equally clever. He is a Hungarian and a powerful youngster. Jack formerly played football at Ohio State, and also was a weight lifter of note in the Big Ten conference. His pet hold is a reverse hook scissors. Carson is said to be a versatile cartoonist, but his press agent failed to explain just how that would help him in the grappling game. He is a good showman who is said to have caused more upsets in the championship tournaments than any other light heavyweight.

Bruscato believes Carson will make an ideal opponent for Clark, with the result that a real scientific match, something the fans have been requesting for a long time, will be presented.

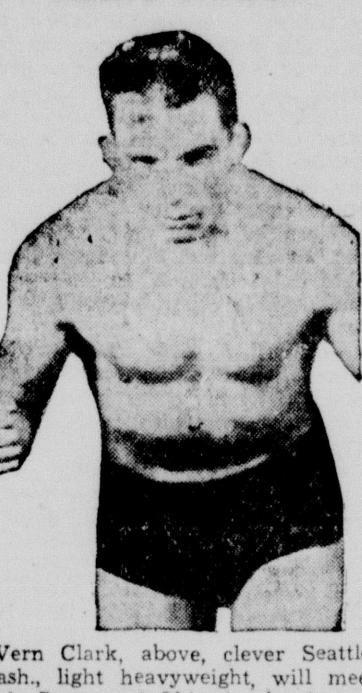
The opening match will see a roughhouse artist, Ludwig, meeting another scientific boy, the clever Freeman. Ludwig holds a decision over Red Berry, which is something few light heavies can boast of hereabouts. Known as the "sensational German," Otto has started more than his share of riots in the various cities where he has shown, and Bruscato says he is sure to prove one of the best villains seen here in a long time.

Freeman is a former football star of Boston university. The Jewish lad is said to be in the wrestling game just for the fun of it, but just what fun he sees in it is hard to understand. Anyway, Ace is a high ranking light heavyweight, and is said to be well able to take plenty of punishment. Meeting Ludwig, he undoubtedly will be called upon to show just how well he can take it.

"Butch" Martin will referee both matches. Other officials have not been selected.

Both matches will be best two out of three falls, with each having a two-hour time limit.

MEETS CARSON



Vern Clark, above, clever Seattle, Wash., light heavyweight, will meet Jack Carson, of Ohio, in the feature match of the weekly wrestling show at Roosevelt stadium Wednesday night. Clark made his local debut last week in a fast match with George Ligosky.

TENNIS STARS TO PLAY AT ORLEANS

At Least Two Davis Cup Aces Listed As Entries In Tourney

NEW ORLEANS, La., No. 30.—(Special)—At least two Davis cup tennis players—one American, the other Chinese—will be in the field which competes here January 2-5, in the Sugar Bowl invitational tournament.

Wilmer Allison, the blond Texan, who is American champion, and Guy Cheng from the Far East are the two cup players.

They head the present entry list, which will be extended to a select group of 16 stars of national reputation on the courts.

It was in the 1935 bowl tournament that the dashing Allison began the greatest campaign of his career. He swept through the Sugar Bowl field and then stroked his way to the national championship at Forrest Hills.

His triumph in the U. S. finals over Fred Perry, England's greatest player and then undisputed champion of the world, was the most stunning upset of the year.

Cheng, who entered Davis cup play last season, is a freshman at Tulane university in New Orleans; and he has been improving his already fine game under the instruction of Emmett Pare, well known professional star.

Another American star, who has tentatively accepted an invitation, is Bryan "Bitsy" Grant of Atlanta. A great showman, "Bitsy" contributed more than one man's share to the list of 1935 tennis upsets.

Arthur Hendrix and Frank Guernsey, who regularly have appeared in most of the "big time" tournaments in the past two years, will come from Lakeland, Fla., for the event.

Douglas Watters, who handled New Orleans' first national public parks tournament last year, will be in charge of the bowl tournament.

HOLY CROSS WHIPS BOSTON TEAM, 20-6

NEWTON, Mass., Nov. 30.—(AP)—The burly Holy Cross Crusaders completed their first undefeated season by jumping their arch rivals, the Boston college Eagles, for three touchdowns early in the opening period today for a 20-6 victory before a packed crowd of 42,000.

Captain Nick Morris started the Crusaders on their second straight triumph over their foemen with a spectacular 70-yard sprint off his left tackle for the first touchdown, made on the play that followed the opening kickoff.

Shortly after the second kick-off, Bob Maunter, the Crusaders' star center, intercepted a Boston college pass on his 40, carried it back to Boston's 25 and Paul Bartolomeo heaved to Rex Kidd, his quarterback, in the Eagles' end zone.

Later in the initial session, Hip Moncewicz blocked a punt that Joe Yablonsky recovered on Boston's 10. Then Bob Daughters, left flankman, scored the final Holy Cross touchdown on an end-around play.

MISSISSIPPI HOLDS EARLY LEAD AND SHADES MAROONS

UNIVERSITY, Miss., Nov. 30.—(AP)—The fleet-footed backs of the University of Mississippi today broke through the powerful Mississippi State line that had lowered the colors of the Army and Alabama, and Mississippi defeated the Staters 14 to 6 in their annual Mississippi football classic. An estimated 15,000 fans looked on.

After State had narrowly missed tieing the score in the final period with a well-earned touchdown, Ray Hapes dashed 80 yards through a broken field to give Mississippi another touchdown.

Hapes and his big brother, Clarence, a virtual powerhouse, proved the mainstays in Mississippi's slashing victory over the Maroons. The Hapes brothers were ably aided by Rab Rodgers and Dave Bernard.

Ole Miss lost little time in putting State's back to the wall, scoring a touchdown in the first five minutes of play. Ray Hapes ripped off gains of 15 and 17 yards, which quickly moved the oval to pay dirt. On two powerful thrusts from the six-yard line C. Hapes plunged over for the touchdown. Big Bill Richardson kicked the extra point.

State made two desperate thrusts at the Ole Miss goal toward the end of the quarter, but were unable to penetrate a stiffening line.

Not until the fourth period were the Staters able to cross the enemy goal. Armstrong, State's ace passer, connected with his receiver, tossing one from near midfield to Walters on the Ole Miss 18. Ike Pickle slashed off a first down to the eight, Armstrong added five more, and Steadman plunged over for the lone Maroon marker.

Trailing one point, Coach Sassie sent in "Bull" Day to try for the extra point. The ball struck the upright and bounded away, and Mississippi State's hopes fell.

Then receiving the State kickoff on his own 19-yard line, Hapes cut through center, eluded two would-be tacklers at the three-yard line, and without assistance from his mates, cut out for an open field, outrunning two State backs to score. Richardson again added the extra point.

Though first downs favored State 11 to 10, Mississippi's ground gaining came when it was most effective.

On yardage from scrimmage, Mississippi outgained its rivals, 185 yards to 171 yards.

The win gave Ole Miss three conference victories against one defeat for its season record.

ANOTHER GRIDIRON MYSTERY SEEMS TO HAVE BEEN SOLVED

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP)—For awhile it looked like the "twelfth man" on the Dartmouth football team last Saturday was going to turn out to be triplets.

But it all apparently was cleared up today when Mike Mesco surrendered his claim and George Newcomer Larsen, Cranford, N. J., architect, picked up the burden of fame reluctantly and admitted he was the "player" in question.

Mesco, lunch counterman at Rahway, N. J., wants to "forget" that he claimed earlier in the week he rushed onto the field and participated in one play with Dartmouth against Princeton before being rushed from the scene of action.

And Larsen, who feared news of his exploit would injure his standing with his employers, expressed entire willingness to let Mesco get "all the glory."

But the third:

Austen Lake, sports commentator at Boston who was the official (head linesman) who hustled the extra combatant away, asserted today the "real Lush" apparently was a college student.

He, said Lake, "was a kid with a frizzled crop of sandy hair, a peaked sallow face * * * and weighing not more than 130 pounds. * * *

"The kid was very definitely a student who, in the gray dawn of sober awakening, probably wished to disown his maudlin fit and remain tactfully incognito lest his college prefect boot his trousers out of town."

Larsen, 26, explained he was a bit overenthused and rushed out "without thinking." He once played end in high school.

Mike, who confessed he never got into the game, even refused offers of Yale alumni to take him to the Princeton-Yale game today, explaining he'd rather hear nothing more about it.

U. C. L. A. DEFEATS IDAHO ELEVEN, 13-6

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Nov. 30.—(AP)—University of California at Los Angeles defeated University of Idaho, 13 to 6, today before a crowd of 7,000 to earn a tie with Stanford and California for the Pacific Coast conference football title.

Early in the fourth U. C. L. A. counted again, on a 17-yard pass over the goal line, Billy Murphy to Bob Schroeder, an end.

With less than three minutes to play, Coach Ted Banks' fine passing combination, Leslie Holmes to Clarence Devlin, clicked for a 40-yard gain and a touchdown.

five yard line and this great end stepped over for the first touchdown, making the half end 7 to 0.

They scored four touchdowns and kicked three goals in the third quarter.

Mickal slashed across from the six-yard line through tackle for the second touchdown and then kicked goal. The third touchdown resulted from the great passing combination, Mickal to Barrett, the Tiger end taking the throw on the 20 yard line with Watson, Greenie halfback, swinging on to his foot. He shook him loose and raced for the fourth touchdown. Mickal missed this point after touchdown.

The Tigers took the ball to the Greenie 14 yard line from Mickal's sure fire passes and Rohm, substituting at halfback for Fatherree, trotted through a big hole in the Tulane line for the fifth touchdown. Rohm was not even touched on the play. Mickal booted the extra point, bringing the score to 34 to 0.

Treating the Tulane first team with disdain, Coach Moore sent his stars to the showers and started his second string. As the quarter progressed the game slowed down with the second and third stringers missing well placed passes that Barrett and Tinsley probably would have converted into touchdowns. But they were enough for the down hearted Tulanians as the Tigers scored another touchdown late in the period when Thames fumbled on the Tulane nine-yard line and Myrick recovered. After a three-yard stab by Walker, Coffee went over for the sixth touchdown and then kicked the point, making the final score 41 to 0.

"The Tigers would be a fine representative for Louisiana in either of the Bowl classics," he said.

"It was a great game," said Coach Moore. "The boys were plenty hot today."

COX PRAISES TIGERS

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Louisiana State university, which wound up its schedule today with a brilliant 41-0 victory over Tulane, would be a worthy representative for either the Rose Bowl or Sugar Bowl games, Ted Cox, Wave head coach, said after the game.

"The Tigers would be a fine representative for Louisiana in either of the Bowl classics," Coach Cox said, "and all of our players and coaches sincerely hope they will be invited to one of them."

The Tiger dressing room presented a joyful scene. Coach Bernie Moore took time from congratulating his players to say:

"It was a great game. The boys were plenty hot today."

Tigers End Schedule Undefeated With Convincing Triumph

By Bob Cavagnaro
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 30.—Yale's football team fell a victim of Princeton's hit-and-run gridiron machine today as the Tigers wound up their second unbeaten and untied season in three years.

Virtually stalled in the opening period, the big Tiger machine started picking up momentum in the second, and operated with crushing force in the final chapter when it ground out four touchdowns and sent the Bulldogs down to an overwhelming 38 to 7 defeat—the biggest score Princeton has ever plastered on Yale in the 62 years of the series. The crowd was estimated at close to 60,000. Larry Kelley, the elusive and loquacious Yale end, who caught the touchdown pass last year that resulted in Princeton's only defeat of the 1934 season, spared the Eli a whitewashing. Early in the fourth period, Kelley took a position in the corner of the end zone and caught a long, looping 30-yard pass thrown by Jerry Roscoe.

Except for the touchdown in the second period, which resulted from a 40-yard drive, the honors were almost even in the first half, each team scored four first downs and Princeton gained 78 yards rushing to 52 for Yale.

In the second half Princeton completely dominated the play, rolling up nine first downs to Yale's four and outgaining the Blues 154 yards to 54.

Scenes reminiscent of the closing minutes of the Yale-Dartmouth game here a few weeks ago were re-enacted when the goalposts were uprooted before the contest was over. With about two minutes to play today a mob of spectators pulled down the Princeton uprights and then another crowd at the opposite end of the field threatened to level Yale's crossbar before Sandbach had a chance to try for the point after touchdown. Officials used force in fighting the mob back, but after Sandbach made the kick the posts were levelled and the game was finished without posts.

Larry Levan, the fleet running back who played his last game for Princeton, paved the way for Sandbach's field goal when he caught a Yale punt and returned it 20 yards to Yale's 20. Chick Kaufman, a reserve back, and Constable ploughed through to the four and then Kaufman slipped and lost two yards. With Levan holding the ball Sandback booted it over the crossbar.

Later in the second session Princeton received its first break when Roscoe's pass struck an ineligible receiver, Wright, giving the Tigers the ball on Yale's 40. A forward, Sandbach to Lea, and a 23-yard gallop by Kaufman advanced the leather to the nine.

On the next play the ball was snapped to Constable who motioned as if he gave it first to MacMillan and then to Pauk but he threw a short lateral to White, who reversed and scored standing up.

The second half was only a few minutes old when Roscoe brought the spectators to their feet when he ran back MacMillan's punt 71 yards to Princeton's 11.

Kaufman then intercepted a pass and ran back 30 yards to Princeton's 43.

Princeton had two chances to score in the third period when Al Hessberg fumbled on the Yale 18 and Kim Whitehead also lost the ball on the nine. Sandbach recovered for Princeton the first time and Toll the second. After the first fumble the Tiger machine was held for downs on the four-yard line but when given a second opportunity the Princetonians moved to the one-yard line as the period ended with two downs to go. In the first play of the fourth quarter, Constable dove over center for the score.

Almost immediately after the kickoff White intercepted a pass and took the ball 25 yards to Yale's 11. Homer Shofford wheeled around right end and was forced out on the one-foot stripe and then Constable again dove over center for his second touchdown.

Yale's touchdown got under way on the Elis 36. Roscoe passed to Kelley for 16 yards. Roscoe and Hessberg advanced the ball to the Princeton 20 in two plays and then Roscoe faded back 10 yards and threw the scoring pass to Kelley.

After two brilliant tackle around plays by Fred Ritter, who made 37 yards of a 65-yard drive, White ran around Kelley from the two-yard line. An exchange of punts then gave Yale the ball on its own 11 and the Elis threw four passes without success. Princeton likewise miss-fired on three heaves and then Sandbach circled left end for the final touchdown.

COLUMBIA SURPRISES DARTMOUTH, 13 TO 7

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Lou Little came up with his annual football surprise today when his smartly coached Columbia Lions wound up their football season with a surprising 13 to 7 upset over Dartmouth's big Indians before 20,000 half-frozen spectators at Baker field.

The fleet-footed Al Barabas led the way as the Lions outplayed Dartmouth in every department to salvage something from a disappointing season.

Barabas' fine passing sent the Lions roaring to a touchdown in the first. Dartmouth evened the count in the second, but Columbia again took the lead in the fourth on a 62 yard gallop down the field by Joe Vollmer, husky junior back. Passes were the chief factor in the Dartmouth score.

TECH TRAINER IS QUITE A FELLOW

RUSTON, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Put 200 pounds on your back and run right fast. If you can do it, turn to another story. If you can't, you will understand why Trainer Eddie Wojecki of Louisiana Tech has attracted attention on the gridiron this fall.

Wojecki is only 5 feet tall and he weighs about 120 pounds—but he's a man, for all that. He can hoist any member of the Tech squad to his shoulders and tote him on a trot without a totter. Having seen Wojecki do that stunt several times this fall, it is no wonder that the spectators laughed here the other night when one of the freshman gridders picked up one of his teammates who was injured in the Louisiana college game, started to carry him away, but fell down on the job!

Wojecki was born in Warsaw, Poland, under the name of Joseph Edward John Wojcicki. Eventually the last name was revised and the whole thing whittled down to "Eddie Wojecki."

His family moved to America when he was five years old. When Eddie finished high school, he returned to Poland, where he studied physical education for a year at the University of Posen. In 1929, he went back to Poland and received a degree in physical education.

He was physical instructor of the Polish Falcons club at Erie, Pa., for three years, and also track and boxing coach at Wilson Junior High school in Erie.

In 1931, he was given the job of gymnasium instructor at Howard college, Birmingham, Ala., where Eddie McLane, now Tech athletics director, was head coach. Becoming trainer at Howard, he hooked up with McLane and learned a great deal about first aid work. When McLane came to Tech in 1934, Wojecki came with him; and he says he likes Tech better than any place he has been.

Wojecki has had extensive boxing experience, having previously held the 112-pound championship of Pennsylvania and Alabama.

Wojecki is working on a degree at Tech. He is not married. He does have a girl, however; but he wouldn't let her walk on his coat to cross a mud puddle—he would pick her up and carry her!

'CLASSIC' FOR HIGH SCHOOLS PROPOSED

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Football enthusiasts down here are considering sponsorship of a regular post-season high school classic to go along with the Pasadena Rose Bowl, the New Orleans Sugar Bowl, and the proposed Miami Orange Bowl games.

If it pans out, the Cocoanut Bowl will be the name.

GEORGIA TECH'S TORNADO UPSETS GEORGIA, 19 TO 7

Engineers Come From Behind To Win First Victory Since 1928

By Kenneth Gregory
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

ATLANTA, Nov. 30.—(AP)—After six lean seasons the Golden Tornado of Georgia Tech thundered with all its might today in smashing to a well-deserved 19 to 7 victory over its neighboring enemy, the Georgia Bulldogs.

Grant field stadium was filled with close to 32,000 fans, the largest gathering for a football game here since Georgia Tech crushed Georgia 20 to 6 in 1928 and went on to defeat California in the Rose Bowl.

It was a thrilling climax battle for the season between the two teams clashing for the 30th time since 1893. Tech's triumph gave the Engineers a record of three wins and four losses in the Southeastern conference race. Georgia finished with two triumphs and four defeats.

Georgia took an early lead in the first period, driving 80 yards for a touchdown, but the Tornado machine unloosed a furious attack to travel 79 yards for a touchdown in the second period, 54 yards to Georgia's goal in the third and scored in the closing quarter from the 29-yard stripe after recovering a Bulldog fumble.

"They outplayed us all the way," was the only comment of Harry Mehre, the Georgia coach, as the Bulldog gridders dressed after the game.

The Golden Tornado, using very little of the razzle-dazzle plays exhibited in previous games, resorted for the most part to straight forward passes, intermingled with a few submarine tosses back of the line, and smashes at tackle and guard to achieve its triumph.

Georgia, after its great drive that produced the Bulldogs' only touchdown, advanced to within scoring territory four other times but the stubborn Tech line checked play after play and the secondary gave a great display of defensive work against innumerable passes.

After a slow start, Georgia Tech got the ball on its own 30 and marched down the field 76 yards, with runs by Fullback Harry Appleby, Halfbacks Lawrence Hays and Dutch Konemann, but lost the ball when Hays' pass on fourth down fell incomplete in the end zone.

Georgia took the ball on its 20. Halfback Paul Causey raced wide around end for 23 yards and Halfback Al Minot followed with the longest and most spectacular run of the day—a jaunt of 47 yards in which he reversed his field and was run out of bounds on Tech's 13. Alf Anderson, Georgia's aerial kingpin, was sent in and on the first play shot a high pass that Otis Maffett snagged over the heads of two Tornado players.

The Bulldogs threatened early in the second period, advancing to Tech's 21 yard line, where Center Charley Preston intercepted one of Anderson's tosses. From that point the golden-shirted charges of the veteran Bill Alexander paraded to their second score. Line plays carried to Tech's 46, where Hays slipped a submarine pass to Konemann, who was pulled down from behind by Charlie Treadaway on Georgia's five. On the second play Hays smashed through guard for the touchdown.

Midway the third quarter the Yellow Jackets of Tech took a Georgia punt on their 46 and swept 54 yards to score. The drive was led by line thrusts of Dick Beard, Hays and Konemann, and Hays' 18 yard pass to Konemann that put the ball on Georgia's three. On third down Konemann hit center for the touchdown.

Georgia Tech's third score followed recovery of a fumble by Alf Anderson that was smashed up by Quarterback Fletcher Sims on Georgia's 29. Two line plays netted a couple of yards and Sims tossed a forward pass which End Ed Jones caught at the Bulldogs' five. Scrappy Edwards, substitute halfback, cut through a big hole at tackle for the touchdown and Konemann placekicked the extra point.

On the third play of the final period, Alf Anderson fired a beautiful pass to Otis Maffett who was run out of bounds on Tech's 5. One smash at the line failed and three of Anderson's passes fell incomplete.

Georgia Tech took the ball on its own 20. Failing to gain, Konemann dropped back to punt. He fumbled a low pass from center, attempted to get off the boot, but it was blocked and Tackle Harry Harman recovered for Georgia on the Tech 19. Substitute Fullback Hill Hartman picked up six at tackle, but on the next play Johnson fumbled the pass from center and lost 11. Two passes failed to connect and the ball went to Tech on the 20.

The Bulldogs got to Tech's 45 as the end of the battle neared. A series of long passes were batted down by the Jackets and the ball went to the Tornado gridders on Georgia's 46 when the final whistle blew.

BYRD HIGH AWARDED NORTH LA. 'A' TITLE

RUSTON, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Byrd High school of Shreveport today was awarded the football championship of North Louisiana, after a meeting of the athletic committee of the North Louisiana High School association, held here this morning. Mangham High school was the only other claimant for the honor, but the Yellow Jackets were given the nod because of two tie games played by the Mangham gridmen.

The deciding committee was composed of S. R. Emmons, chairman, Minden; H. E. Townsend, Ruston, and Lafe Ferguson, Haynesville. The two schools claiming the title were represented by Grover Koffman, Shreveport, and T. O. Judd and Coach Fleischmann of Mangham.

DAIRY DEALERS SUPERVISE MILK

Cooperative Dairies Inspect Product From Dairy To Home

To be sure of clean milk, supervision must begin at the dairy and be carried through to the consumer. This is exactly the way the Cooperative Dairies operate. When the milk comes from the dairy it is handled with the utmost care and sanitation. There it is pasteurized and filtered, making it not only perfectly safe, but absolutely clean.

Cooperative Dairies are proud of the fact that the United States inspector for CCC camps gave the local dairy unit a grade "A" classification, and milk is furnished by them to the local camps.

Tomato juice has been added to the list of products handled by the Cooperative Dairies. Due to excellent food value and extra vitamins, tomato juice is considered one of the outstanding health producing foods, and is now packed in containers and delivered in Monroe along with the other products handled by the dairy dealers.

When you deal with Cooperative Dairies your deal direct with the driver salesmen who deliver all products to the door. All products that they carry are guaranteed by the dairy dealers to be fresh and pure.

Another feature is extended credit to the housewives who trade with the local concern. Through the driver salesmen you can charge your order upon delivery, and by this method you know that your standing order will be delivered whether you are at home or not.

Precautions should be taken in the use of milk in the home. Before opening the bottle, wash it off under a faucet and wipe with a clean cloth. If only part of the milk is used do not replace the cap, but invert a tumbler over the mouth of the bottle. Always keep your milk clean, cold and covered; and when you have dairy problems to solve phone 2600 and the Cooperative Dairies will gladly give you suggestions.

Guerriero Electric Shop Gives Estimates On All Contracts

Five new electric wiring jobs have recently been completed by the F. L. Guerriero Electric shop on residences and business property in Monroe.

The new residence of Stanley Reid in Fairview addition is one of the jobs that is being done by F. L. Guerriero. A rewiring job has been completed in the home of E. R. Whitaker, which is located on the corner of Auburn and North First streets. Ross Zuberbier, local contractor, has had Mr. Guerriero complete the wiring of two houses in Edgewater Gardens east of Monroe.

A rewiring job for the Daer Candy company on Pear street was completed recently. Mr. Guerriero specializes in all contract electrical jobs and will gladly give estimates on any proposed work.

All jobs are personally supervised by Mr. Guerriero, and he is proud of the quality work that is done. He is well acquainted in Monroe and is highly regarded in the electrical business.

Ten minute service calls are a feature of the Guerriero Electric shop. No matter what time of the day or night Mr. Guerriero can be reached by telephoning 1451. This service is an added convenience to persons troubled with lights during any hour of the day.

Mr. Guerriero pointed out that an extra lamp or light may add that extra touch of beauty to any room in the house. A wall or floor plug conveniently located can be installed at a very reasonable charge. The radio may need this fixture to do away with extra wiring on the floor that is usually in the way and is unattractive. Mr. Guerriero will gladly help in working out any problems that may arise in the electrical line.

CARS HAVE MORE LUGGAGE SPACE

New Body Designs Now Add More Room To Automobiles

Modern automobile bodies, designed primarily for safety, passenger comfort and appearance, possess an additional advantage over models of fairly recent years, in their capacity to accommodate large amounts of luggage without inconvenience to passengers. The point was brought out by Felix Doran, Jr., assistant general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor company, during a discussion of the new 1936 cars.

"In the old days," said Mr. Doran, "there was room under the seat cushions for tools. On some cars, tool boxes were provided on the running board, without seriously marring the appearance of the car. Such bulky items as luggage, up until fairly recently, had to be accommodated either on luggage carriers, installed on the running board or in the rear, or in trunks, which also were extras.

"With the advent of streamlining, a decided change has taken place. There is no room for tool boxes or luggage carriers on the running board, for the modern car door extends so low that it would not clear, even if considerations of beauty did not prevent their installation. There is no room under the seats, for the new emphasis on comfort calls for deeper cushions, extending almost to the floor.

"Yet, in spite of these restrictions, we find in the modern cars greater space for stowing things than ever before. In Chevrolet, for instance, we find the back of the rear seat of sedan models pivoted at the bottom to tilt forward and admit luggage to a large compartment behind it. In the sport and town sedan models, there is a capacious built-in trunk which not only accommodates a large amount of luggage but is remarkably easy to get at.

"For those who want extra large carrying capacity, the coupe models are ideally designed. They will be a surprise and delight especially to sportsmen, for their rear decks contain enough space to carry a whole camping outfit, including tent, suitcases and mattress. In fact, if the hunter does not prefer to advertise his prowess by lashing his deer to the running board, it should be a simple matter to bring it home in this coupe compartment, which has interior dimensions of approximately five by four by two feet.

"If streamlining has done away with some of the luggage accommodation which formerly existed, it has certainly more than compensated by the addition of storage space elsewhere, and with this added space, it has imparted a brand new type of fleet, graceful beauty."

BODY OF BOY IS FOUND IN LAKE; FATHER SOUGHT

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—A searching party late this afternoon recovered the body of 10-year-old Chasteen K. Moore, Jr., from Lake Borgne, and continued the search for his father, Chasteen K. Moore, 36, in the waters off Shell Beach. Both had been missing since Friday night.

More than a score of men in skiffs and other water craft, augmented by an airplane that flew low over the water, had sought the pair since early this morning, when their boat was discovered, bottom up, within a half mile of Shell Beach.

Moore and his son left home early Friday morning for a fishing trip. They hired a boat at Shell Beach and were not seen or heard of again. When they failed to return late last night their family became disturbed and early this morning began looking for them.

Markets--Financial

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Week-end liquidation and hedge selling more than offset a small amount of buying orders in the cotton market here today and prices lost from 25 to 50 cents a bale in a comparatively active session.

While there was no definite pressure on futures, speculative interests on the long side was almost lacking and occasional offers brought about small declines.

December ended the week at 11.82 bid, January lost 25 cents a bale to 11.66, July was down 50 cents at 11.27 and October closed near the 11 cent level at 11.04.

Uncertainty over the European situation and the program to be announced by the government discouraged most operators from making important commitments.

Exports today 85,566 bales.

Cotton futures closed barely steady at net declines of 5 to 10 points.

New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Selling promoted by the relatively easy markets abroad brought lower prices to cotton today. March contracts rallied from 11.53 to 11.58, but dropped back before the close at which time the market was 6 to 9 points net lower.

Cotton futures closed barely steady 6 to 9 lower.

INDUSTRIAL AND REVIEW OF THE TWIN CITIES

DAIRY DEALERS SUPERVISE MILK

Cooperative Dairies Inspect Product From Dairy To Home

To be sure of clean milk, supervision must begin at the dairy and be carried through to the consumer. This is exactly the way the Cooperative Dairies operate. When the milk comes from the dairy it is handled with the utmost care and sanitation. There it is pasteurized and filtered, making it not only perfectly safe, but absolutely clean.

Cooperative Dairies are proud of the fact that the United States inspector for CCC camps gave the local dairy unit a grade "A" classification, and milk is furnished by them to the local camps.

Tomato juice has been added to the list of products handled by the Cooperative Dairies. Due to excellent food value and extra vitamins, tomato juice is considered one of the outstanding health producing foods, and is now packed in containers and delivered in Monroe along with the other products handled by the dairy dealers.

When you deal with Cooperative Dairies your deal direct with the driver salesmen who deliver all products to the door. All products that they carry are guaranteed by the dairy dealers to be fresh and pure.

Another feature is extended credit to the housewives who trade with the local concern. Through the driver salesmen you can charge your order upon delivery, and by this method you know that your standing order will be delivered whether you are at home or not.

Precautions should be taken in the use of milk in the home. Before opening the bottle, wash it off under a faucet and wipe with a clean cloth. If only part of the milk is used do not replace the cap, but invert a tumbler over the mouth of the bottle. Always keep your milk clean, cold and covered; and when you have dairy problems to solve phone 2600 and the Cooperative Dairies will gladly give you suggestions.

KELVINATOR CONTEST FOLDER IS GIVEN AT ST. JOHN ELECTRIC

St. John Electric company, at 211 DeSiard street, has had many people call for the official contest folder which must be obtained to enter the Kelvinator contest which is being conducted by them.

A beautiful new Kelvinator will be awarded to the person writing the best letter on "Why You Want a Kelvinator for Christmas." The new Kelvinator is now on display at St. John Electric company and all contestants are invited to inspect this new model and let a salesman explain the various features before writing the letter.

Local judges will be selected and they will consider neatness, sincerity, and the practical reasons advanced in selecting the winner.

To enter the contest, the contestant must first get an official contest folder, which is furnished free by St. John Electric company. Then write a letter of not more than 100 words on "Why You Want a Kelvinator for Christmas," and deposit your entry at the local electric concern before midnight December 24, 1935.

H. A. St. John of the concern stated that the contest was open to everyone without cost or obligation. An invitation is extended to everyone to come to the St. John company and get the contest folder.

Ideal for Business or Personal Use

THE FIVE-WINDOW Ford V-8 Coupe for 1936 is especially suitable for business or personal use. There is plenty of space for luggage or parcels back of the seat. The rear deck has an exceptionally roomy compartment for baggage or sample cases, which can be reached from inside by swinging up the back of the front seat—a new feature. The rear window lowers and the windshield opens as in all Ford cars, a great convenience on hot days. Clear vision ventilation makes winter driving more comfortable. Available without de luxe appointments at less cost. Rumble seat optional on special order.

USED TIRES AT MONROE COMPANY

Monroe Tire Exchange At 2008 DeSiard Completely Equipped For Motorists

One of the largest stock of used tires is kept at the Monroe Tire Exchange at 2008 DeSiard street. Good used tires may be found there and at prices that will save you money. Used tubes are also handled by the local concern.

Besides a large stock of used tires and tubes, Firestone quality new tires and tubes are kept on hand. Firestone products are known for their durability and ability to stand all motoring conditions of the modern motorist.

Vulcanizing is a specialty of the local tire exchange, and two vulcanizing machines, each capable of vulcanizing four tires and four tubes are used. The vulcanizing process is the latest method and assures first class jobs, Joe Cascio, manager of the firm, said. It saves money for car operators and adds many more miles to the tire.

Mr. Cascio has operated the Tire Exchange for the past 10 years, and serves all of the Monroe trade area. Starting with a small place, he has built up a creditable business at 2008 DeSiard street.

Sinclair high test gasoline is sold by the local concern and other Sinclair products. Sinclair gas is noted for its fast acceleration and power.

These high quality products and many other items are presented to the motorists of this vicinity by the Monroe Tire Exchange. An invitation is extended to all local motorists to drive out and give them a chance to show these quality products.

FIVE JOBS ENDED BY ELECTRIC FIRM

Guerriero Electric Shop Gives Estimates On All Contracts

Five new electric wiring jobs have recently been completed by the F. L. Guerriero Electric shop on residences and business property in Monroe.

The new residence of Stanley Reid in Fairview addition is one of the jobs that is being done by F. L. Guerriero. A rewiring job has been completed in the home of E. R. Whitaker, which is located on the corner of Auburn and North First streets. Ross Zuberbier, local contractor, has had Mr. Guerriero complete the wiring of two houses in Edgewater Gardens east of Monroe.

A rewiring job for the Daer Candy company on Pear street was completed recently. Mr. Guerriero specializes in all contract electrical jobs and will gladly give estimates on any proposed work.

All jobs are personally supervised by Mr. Guerriero, and he is proud of the quality work that is done. He is well acquainted in Monroe and is highly regarded in the electrical business.

Ten minute service calls are a feature of the Guerriero Electric shop. No matter what time of the day or night Mr. Guerriero can be reached by telephoning 1451. This service is an added convenience to persons troubled with lights during any hour of the day.

Mr. Guerriero pointed out that an extra lamp or light may add that extra touch of beauty to any room in the house. A wall or floor plug conveniently located can be installed at a very reasonable charge. The radio may need this fixture to do away with extra wiring on the floor that is usually in the way and is unattractive. Mr. Guerriero will gladly help in working out any problems that may arise in the electrical line.

CARS HAVE MORE LUGGAGE SPACE

New Body Designs Now Add More Room To Automobiles

Modern automobile bodies, designed primarily for safety, passenger comfort and appearance, possess an additional advantage over models of fairly recent years, in their capacity to accommodate large amounts of luggage without inconvenience to passengers. The point was brought out by Felix Doran, Jr., assistant general sales manager of the Chevrolet Motor company, during a discussion of the new 1936 cars.

"In the old days," said Mr. Doran, "there was room under the seat cushions for tools. On some cars, tool boxes were provided on the running board, without seriously marring the appearance of the car. Such bulky items as luggage, up until fairly recently, had to be accommodated either on luggage carriers, installed on the running board or in the rear, or in trunks, which also were extras.

"With the advent of streamlining, a decided change has taken place. There is no room for tool boxes or luggage carriers on the running board, for the modern car door extends so low that it would not clear, even if considerations of beauty did not prevent their installation. There is no room under the seats, for the new emphasis on comfort calls for deeper cushions, extending almost to the floor.

"Yet, in spite of these restrictions, we find in the modern cars greater space for stowing things than ever before. In Chevrolet, for instance, we find the back of the rear seat of sedan models pivoted at the bottom to tilt forward and admit luggage to a large compartment behind it. In the sport and town sedan models, there is a capacious built-in trunk which not only accommodates a large amount of luggage but is remarkably easy to get at.

"For those who want extra large carrying capacity, the coupe models are ideally designed. They will be a surprise and delight especially to sportsmen, for their rear decks contain enough space to carry a whole camping outfit, including tent, suitcases and mattress. In fact, if the hunter does not prefer to advertise his prowess by lashing his deer to the running board, it should be a simple matter to bring it home in this coupe compartment, which has interior dimensions of approximately five by four by two feet.

"If streamlining has done away with some of the luggage accommodation which formerly existed, it has certainly more than compensated by the addition of storage space elsewhere, and with this added space, it has imparted a brand new type of fleet, graceful beauty."

BODY OF BOY IS FOUND IN LAKE; FATHER SOUGHT

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—A searching party late this afternoon recovered the body of 10-year-old Chasteen K. Moore, Jr., from Lake Borgne, and continued the search for his father, Chasteen K. Moore, 36, in the waters off Shell Beach. Both had been missing since Friday night.

More than a score of men in skiffs and other water craft, augmented by an airplane that flew low over the water, had sought the pair since early this morning, when their boat was discovered, bottom up, within a half mile of Shell Beach.

Moore and his son left home early Friday morning for a fishing trip. They hired a boat at Shell Beach and were not seen or heard of again. When they failed to return late last night their family became disturbed and early this morning began looking for them.

FIREMAN NOT CONVICTED

M. M. Smith, city fireman, is not the M. M. Smith who has been convicted in the city court several times in recent months for drunkenness and disorderly conduct. The fireman made this statement for publication yesterday after some of his friends asked him whether or not he was the convicted man.

Markets--Financial

Cotton

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Week-end liquidation and hedge selling more than offset a small amount of buying orders in the cotton market here today and prices lost from 25 to 50 cents a bale in a comparatively active session.

While there was no definite pressure on futures, speculative interests on the long side was almost lacking and occasional offers brought about small declines.

December ended the week at 11.82 bid, January lost 25 cents a bale to 11.66, July was down 50 cents at 11.27 and October closed near the 11 cent level at 11.04.

Uncertainty over the European situation and the program to be announced by the government discouraged most operators from making important commitments.

Exports today 85,566 bales.

Cotton futures closed barely steady at net declines of 5 to 10 points.

AVERAGE MIDDLING PRICE

New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Selling promoted by the relatively easy markets abroad brought lower prices to cotton today. March contracts rallied from 11.53 to 11.58, but dropped back before the close at which time the market was 6 to 9 points net lower.

Cotton futures closed barely steady 6 to 9 lower.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Stocks steady; rails edge higher in dull session. Bonds improved; Italian loans rally. Curb mixed; industrial specialties firm. Foreign exchanges quiet; variations narrow. Cotton barely steady; local and foreign selling. Sugar barely steady; disappointing spot demand. Coffee quiet; steady Brazilian markets.

CHICAGO.—Wheat lower; European peace talk. Corn weak; weather outlook better. Cattle nominally steady. Hogs mostly 10 higher; top $10.00.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Responsive to an unexpected pronounced setback of wheat prices today at Liverpool, the grain markets here all underwent material early downturns today.

Opening 5-8-1 1-8 lower, Dec. 3-4-98, Chicago wheat futures held near then to these limits. Corn started 1-4-7-8 off, Dec. 57 7-8-58, and for the time being altered little.

Wheat closed unsettled, 7-8 to 1 1-4 under yesterday's finish, Dec. 97 3-4 to 7-8, corn 1-2 to 1 1-4 down, Dec. 57 1-2 to 3-4, oats 7-8 to 1 cent off, and provisions at 5 to 12 cents decline.

Sugar

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Raw sugar was quiet today and prices were unchanged at 3.15. No sales were reported.

Further December liquidation and commission house selling brought reactions in futures. Prices at one time were 2 to 4 points lower but on covering for over the week-end, recovered the loss with March selling up from 2.05 to 2.08 and July from 2.1 to 2.14, or 1 point net higher. Sales were 3,500 tons.

Refined was unchanged with all refiners accepting orders for prompt shipment at 5.10 although most of them still maintained their list price of 5.30. Demand was light and of a hand-to-mouth character.

MARKETS

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Some of the rails, aviation and metal issues edged quietly forward in today's brief stock market session, but there was no buying rush for any group.

Developments both at home and abroad seemed to have few exciting implications and many traders adjourned, temporarily, to the sidelines. The close was steady. Transfers approximated 700,000 shares.

Wall Street apparently felt better regarding the European crisis which threatened Friday although it was still realized there is considerable dynamite present in the Anglo-Italian tension.

Overnight study of President Roosevelt's Atlanta speech did not result in any market stir either way. Opinions differed as to whether the administration will be able to cut the national deficit to any great extent.. Bankers appeared to be somewhat confused over the identity of the fianciers who told the chief executive in 1933 that the national debt could safely reach as much as $55,000,000,000 to $70,000,000,000.

Wheat backed up along with cotton. Italian bonds rallied. The French franc was about even in foreign exchange transactions and sterling was moderately higher.

American Telephone was rather heavy and Twin City Rapid Transit lost more than a point. General Motors, Chrysler, Consolidated Gas, North American and American Can were unchanged to a shade up or down. Scattered profit-taking was not impressive.

The general resistance of selected rail stocks was helpful to sentiment. It was pointed out that these issues have been helped by seasonally satisfactory car loadings, excellent October earnings statements and by the belief that the R. F. C. will lend its support to those lines not in need of reorganization.

Analysts advanced the thought that the action of bonds, which have been displaying relatively stronger tendencies than stocks during the past week or so, suggests that the pressure of idle funds for employment is still a factor of importance.

New York Stocks

By Victor Eubank
(Associated Press Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Some of the rails, aviation and metal issues edged quietly forward in today's brief stock market session, but there was no buying rush for any group.

Developments both at home and abroad seemed to have few exciting implications and many traders adjourned, temporarily, to the sidelines. The close was steady. Transfers approximated 700,000 shares.

Wall Street apparently felt better regarding the European crisis which threatened Friday although it was still realized there is considerable dynamite present in the Anglo-Italian tension.

Overnight study of President Roosevelt's Atlanta speech did not result in any market stir either way. Opinions differed as to whether the administration will be able to cut the national deficit to any great extent.. Bankers appeared to be somewhat confused over the identity of the fianciers who told the chief executive in 1933 that the national debt could safely reach as much as $55,000,000,000 to $70,000,000,000.

Wheat backed up along with cotton. Italian bonds rallied. The French franc was about even in foreign exchange transactions and sterling was moderately higher.

American Telephone was rather heavy and Twin City Rapid Transit lost more than a point. General Motors, Chrysler, Consolidated Gas, North American and American Can were unchanged to a shade up or down. Scattered profit-taking was not impressive.

The general resistance of selected rail stocks was helpful to sentiment. It was pointed out that these issues have been helped by seasonally satisfactory car loadings, excellent October earnings statements and by the belief that the R. F. C. will lend its support to those lines not in need of reorganization.

Analysts advanced the thought that the action of bonds, which have been displaying relatively stronger tendencies than stocks during the past week or so, suggests that the pressure of idle funds for employment is still a factor of importance.

BIG ESTATE CASE SCHEDULED HERE

Arguments On Merits To Be Heard In Federal Court On Monday

Arguments on the merits of a case in which August Mann, of Pennsylvania, nephew of the late William Edenborn, Louisiana railroad magnate, is suing Edenborn's widow for a division of an eight million dollar estate, will be heard by Judge Ben C. Dawkins in federal court here Monday afternoon. The arguments will begin at 2 o'clock.

S. L. Herold and T. O. Brooks, Shreveport attorneys, represent the plaintiffs and A. B. Freyer and Robert Milling, New Orleans attorneys, represent the defendant.

The case was tried in the federal court at Shrveport last spring, the trial lasting several weeks.

Records and exhibits of the case are so voluminous that a special automobile will be required to bring them here.

William Edenborn, a native of Germany where he acquired training in the steel industry as a youth, came to the United States in early manhood and amassed a fortune in the steel industry. He was generally known as the inventor of the barbed wire fence and was said to have received $48,000,000 for the invention.

Establishing himself in New Orleans about 20 years before his death, which occurred about seven years ago, he built a railroad from New Orleans to Alexandria known as the Louisiana Railway and Navigation company. After his death his widow sold the railroad to the Harvey Couch interests for a sum reported to have been $8,000,000. The road became a part of the Louisiana-Arkansas railroad company.

Mr. Edenborn's widow, who now resides in Shreveport, was bequeathed his estate.

Two other suits seeking divisions of the estate are now in litigation in Louisiana state courts. The suits were filed by a brother and a sister of August Mann.

CARBON COMPANY GIVES DIVIDEND

Concern Declares Regular Quarterly Payment Of 60 Cents A Share

The regular quarterly dividend of 60 cents a share, was declared yesterday by the United Carbon company at a meeting of officers and directors, held in the company offices in the Bernhardt building.

Those attending the meeting were: Oscar Nelson of Charleston, W. V., president; G. A. Williams, of Clarksburg, W. Va., vice-president; Carl H. McHenry of Monroe, secretary, and Directors Godfrey L. Cabot of Boston, Mass.; T. F. Roblegard of Weston, W. Va.; T. J. Butler of Austin, Tex.; T. S. Reed of Beaumont Tex.; George W. Weaks and W. B. Clarke of Monroe.

Routine business was transacted, and the healthy financial condition of the company at the present time was brought out. The company, which has gradually expanded its activities since it was organized, now owns gas properties in West Virginia, Kentucky, Pennsylvania, Louisiana, Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, New Mexico, Montana, and Utah, and operates carbon black plants in Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas. It is delivering gas from its producing properties to St. Louis, Atlanta, New Orleans and Memphis, and also operates the Dixie-Gulf and Arkansas pipe lines.

A dinner in honor of officers, directors and plant and field superintendents, was given last evening at the Frances hotel.

WOMAN IS BADLY HURT BY TRAIN

RUSTON, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Mary Garner, 30-year-old negro woman, was probably fatally injured tonight when struck by a moving freight car that had been shunted into a siding near the Rock Island freight depot. She was still alive when picked up a few minutes after the accident by an ambulance crew, but chances for her recovery were regarded as very slim by doctors.

The wheel of the freight car completely severed both legs, diagonally across the hips. No explanation of the accident was available from the train crew, since they apparently knew nothing of its occurrence.

Both Sheriff Thigpen and Coroner Rutledge were on the scene within a few minutes, but will withhold their statements until it is determined whether or not the woman will live.

TO NAME TECH STUDENT LEADERS FOR 'WHO'S WHO'

RUSTON, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Fourteen student leaders at Louisiana Tech will be chosen for representation in the "Who's Who" section of the Lagniappe, Tech annual, at a meeting here Wednesday afternoon. Those named will include seven women and seven men.

Selection will be made by the following committee of faculty members and students:

Faculty—A. W. Ford, Dr. H. L. Hughes, J. T. Folk, Mrs. H. J. Sachs, Elizabeth Bethea and Helen Graham.

Fraternities—Billy Lewis, Ruston, Omega Kappa; J. E. Thompson, McComb, Miss., Theta Kappa Nu, and Clare Clark, Mer Rouge, Alpha Lambda Tau.

Jean Craighead of Athens, editor of the college yearbook, appointed the faculty-student committee. The "Who's Who" selection has been a feature of the Lagniappe's activities for several years.

NEW METHODIST CHURCH CONSTRUCTED AT TULLOS

JENA, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—A new Methodist Episcopal church building has been constructed at Tullos on a lot given by W. T. Murray, general manager of the Tremont Lumber company.

The building is 28 feet by 36 feet in dimensions and is located on a 75 by 100 foot lot.

It is planned to enlarge the building later.

A committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Hayes, Mrs. W. O. Weaver and Miss Fern Benson solicited the funds for the construction of the building.

Rev. E. C. Dufresne, pastor of the Rochelle Methodist church, will serve as pastor of the new church.

FARMERS GET CHECKS

HOMER, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Ninety-two cotton acreage reduction checks, totaling $3,242.01, have been received here at the office of the parish agricultural agent. Producers have been notified and the checks are being delivered, the farmers also filing their surplus cotton tax exemption certificates while in the agent's office.

FALL GRADUATION EXERCISES HELD

Buddy Maxwell, Of Monroe, Receives Four-Year Diploma At Normal

NATCHITOCHES, Nov. 30.—(Special).—Annual fall term graduation exercises at the Louisiana State Normal college here were held Friday, when 35 studnets completed courses at the teachers' college. The A. B. degree was awarded to 19 students, and 16 received the two-year elementary certificate.

Miss Euleane Terry of Converse, valedictorian of the four-year class, read a paper on the "Correlation Between Latin and English," and Miss Marjorie Loomis of DeRidder, faculty representative of the two-year class, spoke on "Music Appreciation and the Development of Personality in the Primary Grades."

Professor L. A. Sims of the college department of education, delivered the commencement address, and President Albert A. Fredericks presided at the convocation and awarded the certificates.

Both the processional and the recessional were played by the college band. Special musical numbers included a vocal duet by Mrs. Audrey T. Smith of Natchitoches and Gayre Bazar of Montgomery, accompanied by Mrs. Frances Phelps of Natchitoches, and a trio by Miss Clayton Love of DeRidder, violinist. Gilbert T. Saetre of Natchitoches, celloist, and Miss Sara Roach of Mansfield, pianist. Rev. W. M. Wise, pastor of the Baptist church of Coushatta, gave the invocation and the benediction.

BIG ESTATE CASE SCHEDULED HERE

Arguments On Merits To Be Heard in Federal Court On Monday

Arguments on the merits of a case in which August Mann, of Pennsylvania, nephew of the late William Edenborn, Louisiana railroad magnate, is suing Edenborn's widow for a division of an eight million dollar estate, will be heard by Judge Ben C. Dawkins in federal court here Monday afternoon. The arguments will begin at 2 o'clock.

S. L. Herold and T. O. Brooks, Shreveport attorneys, represent the plaintiffs and A. B. Freyer and Robert Milling, New Orleans attorneys, represent the defendant.

The case was tried in the federal court at Shrveport last spring, the trial lasting several weeks.

Monroe Residents Are Shopping In Earnest

Social Design In Monroe Last Week Composed Of Lectures, Coffee Hours, Bridge Games And Weddings

By Eve Bradford

December! The year grows lean and trails its mantle to the west to join all those that have gone before. Swift to its close ebbs out the old year and very soon now the sweet resinous scent of pine will be flaunted on the frosty air along the city streets, where trim little trees will be put on sale for the Christmas trade. Holly will be found heaped in green and crimson mounds on the street corners and trailing from cars returning from the woods, where it has been busily at work all year in the slow process of sending out green shoots and red berries, without which Christmas would never be so gay and colorful.

Very soon now we will see desperate, determined figures with streaming hair and glassy eyes dodging in and out of the department stores. Do not shoot her or even call the cops without taking a good look. For if you are hasty, you may prevent a deed of justice which should have been done long ago. These wild looking creatures are the women who delayed their Christmas shopping until the eleventh hour. Sales ladies regard the late Christmas shoppers as public enemies number one. Judging from the ebb and flow in the stores yesterday, Christmas shopping has commenced in earnest. Perhaps the feminine world has at last learned how beautiful are those days just before Christmas, when the mind, free from shopping anxiety, can dwell on the sacred rites of the Yuletide.

Our social design for living last week was made up of lectures, coffee hours, bridge, dancing and weddings. The Edgar Masurs, the Leon Sugars and the Louis Masurs entertained with a swanky at home on Wednesday, the memory of which will live on and on. Everyone forgot to count calories and reached again and again for those luscious little puffs filled with chicken salad, and the Russian caviar heaped in green crystal bowls imbedded in sparkling green ice. The concoctions mixed over that classy little bar might have been mixed by the gods, so potent were they.

Daisy Haas, who comes under the head of a perfect hostess, was also responsible for the feminine world of society departing from the straight and narrow path mapped out by calory experts. Such toothsome tidbits and such fragrant coffee! The word food, meaning that which is used to stoke the human furnace, should never be used in connection with choice morsels found in certain Monroe homes. To those who are invited to partake of these morsels in Daisy Haas' home, eating is regarded as one of life's major pleasures.

Clothes don't make the woman but they certainly inspire comment, and especially so when worn by anyone as good looking as Lorraine Matthews' mother, Mrs. St. Elmo Newton, who hurried into town for Thanksgiving dinner with the Matthews. She brought along with her some perfectly divine clothes and evidently knows the subtle art of dressing, as we saw her wearing a Burgundy colored street model with a short cape edged with sable that was the dernier cri in this year's styles.

Joel Whitley, better known as Joel Nichols, quite as beautiful as her mother was before her, stepped altarward Thanksgiving day. She was lovely as a bride and her eyes, one of her greatest charms, as luminous as the candles that shone down on her with so much benevolence.

En passant:

Bruce Frizzell in Tuxedo dodging the rain drops that fell just before the hour for the wedding.

Gay Noe off with her mother to New Orleans, where she will have her portrait painted by a celebrated artist, Boris Gordon. Incidentally he asked permission to do so and, naturally, Gay, thrilled beyond words, consented to pose for him.

Louise Theus bending over a gas stove at the Junior League carnival, serving them red hot to a hungry crowd. Strange thing how charity can bring out dormant talent. Louise never knew that she was past master at the art of preparing sizzling hot hamburgers. John, of course, was close by, ready to render first aid in case of burnt fingers.

Frances Leavell, tall and slender and altogether lovely, using her beguiling singing voice to good advantage in attracting the crowd to the corn game table at the carnival.

S. H. McClary seated between his two handsome sons, Bill and Sam, at Thanksgiving church services. Bill in shining new uniform, thankful to be home from military school and to be with his lovely mother and devoted father for four precious days.

Mrs. Haas Entertains

Friends were privileged to meet Mrs. Morris Haas' charming house guests, Miss Rachael Matzner and Mrs. Julian Holt of Meridian, Miss., under the most delightful circumstances Friday morning during the coffee hour at the Haas home on Riverside drive.

Gift flowers of pronounced beauty, banking the reception suite, provided a colorful setting for Mrs. Haas in a raisin colored crepe model and her guests, Mrs. Holt in a smart black crepe model with corsage of long-stemmed English violets and Miss Matzner in poudre blue crepe model with corsage of pink radiance roses.

Coffee was poured in the dining room by Mrs. A. L. Harrington and Mrs. Theodore Terzia, who presided over the beautifully appointed table overlaid with handsome Italian lace and linen banquet cloth.

Crystal cornucopias of classic design overflowed with superb white roses and valley lilies at the extreme ends of the table. The silver coffee service also graced the table, where silver salvers of luscious confections were placed for the convenience of the guests.

Mrs. Haas was assisted in the courtesies that rendered the morning so thoroughly enjoyable by Mrs. L. P. Milner, Mrs. Clarence Oakley, Mrs. C. Duncan and Mrs. Douglas Miles, Jr.

Seventy-five guests called during the morning.

Club Entertained

A beautifully served supper was Mrs. Edward Harper's compliment to members of her bridge club at her home in West Monroe last week.

Later bridge was introduced and enjoyed by Mesdames W. C. Feazel, Clifton Mize, Herbert Rinehart, Clyde Mitchell, Sam Humphries, Roy Lee, Otto Miller, Marie Frazier and Fay Heard and Misses Maibel Hood and Katherine Averette.

Bargain Is Slated

The women of Monroe have been busily engaged this fall in putting over several successful projects.

The Catholic ladies had their Carnival; the Jewish women, a cake sale; the Junior Charity League members conducted a carnival; and the club women this past week had their successful day in raising money for the archway at the new Tuberculosis sanatorium.

Now we have news of another big undertaking, sponsored by the women of the First Methodist church. They are to have a real Christmas bazaar next Friday and Saturday, December 6th and 7th, at 122 South Grand street, and are planning many interesting features in connection with it. Attractive display cards announce turkey dinners both Friday and Saturday noon and a spaghetti supper Saturday night. There will be beautiful gifts, as well as useful articles, for sale.

The bazaar started as a very small undertaking by one of the circles of the Woman's Missionary society but has grown to such proportions that every member of the church is now busily engaged in making it a success.

Musical Scheduled

The Bach-Handel, candlelight musical to be presented by members of the Musical Coterie at Grace church Sunday, December the eighth, at four o'clock in the afternoon brings to mind many interesting facts in the lives of these two great composers. The music rendered by the crimson-clad members of the Coterie will be enjoyed more fully if one is acquainted with some of these facts.

For instance:

Honors came fast to Bach in his later years. In 1736, the honorary appointment of Hof-Componist was given him by Elector of Saxony. In 1747 Frederick the Great informed Bach's son, Emmanuel, then a cembalist (equivalent to conductor) of the court orchestra, that his imperial majesty would receive Bach at the palace in Berlin. Bach accepted, and his visit to Berlin was made an event. He played upon all the pianos and organs at Potsdam much to the delight of the king. He also improvised a six part fugue upon themes selected by himself and after his departure wrote out one of his improvisations from memory and dedicated it to the king.

When Bach was 64, his eyes commenced to fail. Overuse since childhood had stolen his vision. An English occulist performed an operation upon him but brought no satisfactory results. It will be remembered that Handel was also afflicted by blindness. In 1750 Bach's eyesight came back to him for a very few hours after which he was seized with apoplexy and died after a sickness of ten days. On his deathbed he dictated a choral, Ver deinen Thron tret ich hiermit. His death was widely mourned. The happy family broke up shortly thereafter. His wife, despite the apparent success of her sons, was forced to accept alms and was buried in a pauper's grave.

Enough has been said in the foregoing to indicate that Bach had no equal as a performer during his lifetime. In a day when contests for supremacy were in order, rival organists let the great Bach severely alone. His organ performances were unusual in that they drew large crowds. The organist familiar with the Bach repertoire realizes how slight has been the real advance in organ music since the time of the great cantor. In fact, many go so far as to insist that there has been no advance at all.

Four of Bach's delightful instrumental numbers have been included in the Bach-Handel program.

Miss Florence Ziegler will play the chromatic Fantasy, a superb flight of imagination, cascading chords interrupted by a highly dramatic scene.

Mrs. Roger Frisbie will play an air which that incomparable genius, Bach, wrote for the G string of the violin.

Miss Mary Grace Lawn will play the last movement of the Hallan Concerto. So named because Bach wrote it for the hapsichord in the fashionable Italian manner of the day, it is very graceful and very effective on the piano. The last movement bubbles with irrepressable gayety.

Mrs. C. L. Moore, Jr., will play an English Suite, a suite of classic dances with a prelude Allemande (German), Gavotte and Musette (French) and Gigue (Italian), all written in the same key, sparkling with inimitable charm.

Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Grisham had as their guests for Thanksgiving Captain and Mrs. V. Stabler of Arcadia, Mrs. Neville Atkins of Bolivar, Tenn., and their two daughters, Mrs. Robert Kellogg and children and Mrs. O. R. Lewis and Mr. Lewis and their daughter, June.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hill Wooten and lovely children, Maribeth and Jean, of Montgomery, Ala., will be guests in the home of Mr. M. L. Langford this week. Mrs. Wooten will be remembered as Miss Rosa Langford.

A company of friends who motored to New Orleans for the football game on Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Alymer Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Kilpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Ewing and Mr. and Mrs. John Sherrouse.

Friends extend their sympathy to Mrs. H. A. Scott in the loss of her son-in-law, Mr. Marshall Watson of Memphis, Tenn. Mrs. Scott has returned home from Memphis, accompanied by her little granddaughter, Patsy Ruth.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

MISS HARRIET SILLIMAN WHITE

Of interest to society throughout Louisiana is the announcement made by Mrs. Richard Franklin White of Alexandria of the engagement of her daughter, Harriet Silliman, to Mr. Benjamin Cornwell Dawkins, Jr. The wedding will take place at an early date in January.

Miss White is the daughter of Mrs. Richard Franklin White and the late Richard Franklin White. On the paternal side she is the grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. White of Alexandria. Her maternal grandparents were formerly of Vermont and Washington, D. C. Her father was prominently connected with legal circles in the south, being a member of the law firm of White, Holloman and White of Alexandria, and counsel for the L. and A. railroad.

Miss White attended Newcomb college, where she was a member of the Alpha Omega Pi sorority.

Mr. Dawkins is the son of Judge and Mrs. Benjamin Cornwell Dawkins of Monroe. On his maternal side he is the grandson of Mrs. H. W. McLeod of Ruston and the late Captain McLeod of Ruston and originally from Georgia. His paternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Dawkins of Farmerville. Judge Dawkins, father of Mr. Dawkins, is a prominent figure in the legal world of Louisiana and at one time was a justice of the Louisiana state supreme court. At the present time he is United States district judge with headquarters in Shreveport.

Mr. Dawkins is making his home in Shreveport, where he is a junior member of the law firm of Blanchard, Goldstein, Walker and O'Quin.

Mr. Dawkins received his bachelor of arts degree from Tulane university and his law degree from Louisiana State university. He is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity, and O. D. K. national honorary fraternity.

Suggests Gift Books

By John Selby

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Books pack so easily, and although unwrapped they sometimes tear even the best hung stocking, they always can be left lying underneath, on the floor.

For father, who can't golf much this weather anyway, you might enliven Christmas with some of these: "It Can't Happen Here" (Sinclair Lewis) if he's not read it; "American Messiahs" or "Our Lords and Masters" (unofficial observer) if he likes smart comment on world affairs; Harry Elmer Barnes' "History of Western Civilization" if he's serious; "I Write as I Please" if he's interested in Russia.

For mother, "Lions Starve in Naples" (Johan Fabricius) if she likes laughing with a lump in her throat; "Europa" (Robert Briffault) if she tries to keep up with the Jones; Josephine Johnson's "Winter Orchard if she likes autumnal colorings; "Of Time and the River" (Thomas Wolfe) if she isn't busy; "Forgive Adam" (Michael Foster) if she is.

For Big Brother Bill, who likes reasonably red meat: "We Are Betrayed" (Vardis Fisher) for his intense moods; "Tortilla Flat" for his unbuttoned moods; "Personal History" (Vincent Sheean), being himself when young and maybe later; "Honey in the Horn" H. L. Davis) for just any time.

For Sister Patricia, "King Lehr and the Gilded Age" (Elizabeth Drexel Lehr) to show how futile is "Society"; "A Musical Companion" (John Erskine) to prepare her for her symphony concerts; "The Murder of My Aunt" (Richard Hull) to amuse her; "Vein of Iron" by Ellen Glasgow to show what a girl can do.

For Bobby and Betty, who are very young: "The Turf-Cutter's Donkey" (Patricia Lynch) to teach them Ireland; "Adventures in Puddle Muddle" by Mary Graham Bonner and William Kolliker, to amuse them; "The Bear Twins" (Inez Hogan) ditto; "Bold Blades of Donegal" (Seumas MacManus) for the days when they feel energetic, and it's raining.

For Uncle Murgatroyd, who has a sense of humor, b'gosh, and likes to travel: "Life With Father," by Clarence Day, to show what might have happened to him had he married; "Bright Mexico" (Larry Barretto) to make him itch for Mexico; "The Jury" by Gerald Bullett, because it's a grand crime yarn; "Gilbert and Sullivan," by Hesketh Pearson, to remind him of the nineties; "The Voice of Bugle Ann," by Mackinlay Kantor, because he's never hunted foxes that way.

For Aunt Hephzibah, who's not as funny as her name: "A Few Foolish Ones," by Gladys Hasty Carroll, since it is one of the best of this year's Maine novel crop; "Solomon My Son," by John Erskine, because it will give her a new slant on the Bible; "The Deadly Dowager," by Edwin Greenwood, because it's funny; "Francis the First" (Francis Hackett) because he's lecturing over here now, and she'll probably hear him; "Redder Than the Rose," by Robert Forsythe, because it will infuriate her.

And for you? Try Laurence Housman's "Victoria Regina," because in 30 short plays Housman has brought to life the incredible Queen Victoria.

Play Scheduled

The Little theater of Monroe will present "The Dover Road," by A. A. Milne, on Thursday, December 12, at the Central Grammar school auditorium.

This quaint comedy by the author of "Winne the Pooh," is a charming mixture of Sir James Barrie and R. L. Stevenson.

Mr. Latimer, a wealthy eccentric who lives on Dover road, makes it his hobby to intercept eloping couples and keep them at his house for a week, in order that they may become more closely acquainted with one another and see themselves in the most unromantic situations imaginable, before breaking the existing marriage knots.

What happens to two couples who are taking the Dover road, makes the story of the play.

The situations are decidedly human, with a delicate touch of irony, and the play abounds with humor.

A. A. Milne has written several plays, perhaps the best known being "Mr. Pim Passes By." He is especially well known for his delightful books of verse for children and grown ups alike, "When We Were Very Young," and "Now We Are Six."

Mr. and Mrs. St. Elmo Newton of Memphis, Tenn., are being welcomed by their many friends in this city, where they are spending the week-end with their daughter, Mrs. Paul Matthews and Mr. Matthews.

Miss Nellie Breard and Miss Louise Grey, students at L. S. U., spent the Thanksgiving holidays in this city with their parents. Miss Breard, who is specializing in music, claims the destinction of being selected to sing "This Rose Will Remind You" at the premiere of "So Red The Rose" in Baton Rouge last week. Miss Breard possesses a beautiful soprano voice that has delighted Monroe audiences on numerous occasions.

Due to the dedication services of the new church in Pineville the Catholic Altar society will meet on Wednesday instead of Tuesday, as customary.

Mrs. W. M. McGruder of New Orleans is enjoying a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Nathan Gaston.

Messiah Scheduled

A mgihty chorus of voices will be heard in Handel's glorious Messiah, under the direction of Roger Frisbie, Tuesday night at Northeast Center of Louisiana State university auditorium.

The singers, comprising members of the Choral club, are the very cream of Monroe's talent. Several of them will be featured in special solo work. They are: Mrs. Walter T. Rasbury, soprano; Mrs. Clyde V. Sanders, soprano; Mrs. Frances Miller Leavell, contralto; Mrs. S. Lockwood Webb, contralto; Mr. Conrad Cage, tenor; Mr. Lee A. Stulce, tenor; Mr. Daniel P. Gerald, bass, and Mr. Lloyd L. Walters, bass.

Miss Florence Ziegler, Brilliant young pianist, will act as accompanist. Sublime heights will be reached in the finale, when every voice will be heard in the Hallelujah chorus. When the Messiah was presented in Dublin for the first time in 1743, the entire audience, including the king, was so impressed with the Hallelujah chorus, that it rose in a body, thus starting a custom which obtains to this day in many cities.

Members of the Choral club are:

Sopranos and altos—Mrs. G. G. Albritton, Mrs. R. B. Archibald, Mrs. H. R. Arlig, Miss Edna Bacle, Miss Margaret Booth, Miss Gene Bounds, Mrs. F. E. Brueck, Mrs. Mildred Brumfield, Miss Marie Campbell, Mrs. C. C. Carroll, Miss Maurene Cobb, Miss Josephine Combs, Mrs. W. J. Cornett, Miss Margaret Cudd, Miss Charlotte Davis, Mrs. A. R. Doughnut Collars

PARIS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Doughnut collars were launched as a new mid-season fashion novelty at Bruyere's showing.

The collars, shaped like a doughnut ring and designed of black or brown astrakhan, appeared on coats, suits and ensembles for early spring and late winter wear. Most of them tied in front with a ribbon bow and were detachable, so that they could be removed whenever the wearer wishes. The same doughnut effect also appeared on the big sleeves of coats which were trimmed just below the shoulder with a ring of fur.

Full length midseason coats were designed on straight, slender, wrap-around lines, sometimes tying on one side. The hip-length or seven-eighths length coats which appeared with ensembles, however, were generally full-backed, swagger models. Black and brown were the colors most often used.

High-necked day frocks of wool or crepe were built on a slender profile and finished with a brilliant trim. Rhinestone wheel buckles were caught at necklines, square gold buckles were used like buttons and gold braid pinwheels formed belts.

A "grande dame" mode was displayed for the evening hours. Slender gowns of white satin and black or purple crepe were designed on slim reed-like lines ending in brief trains and finished with belts of seed pearls or gold braid pinwheels. Several were worn with birds of paradise headdresses poised at the back of the head with their feathery fronds rising above the coiffure.

Besides these there were a number of dark crepe or velvet dinner gowns fashioned with slightly more fullness in the skirt and big bishop sleeves. Maltese crosses of flashing rhinestones were caught in the decolletes of a few of them.

The most striking evening wrap was a full-backed short ermine model with an Eskimo hood fastened with a clover leaf rhinestone button.

Brilliant Reception Is Given In Monroe

Fashionable Throng Attends Event At Sugar Home; The Leon Sugars And Edgar And Louis Masurs Hosts

Adding lustre and illuminating a week filled with charming affairs that brought members of society together in Monroe's hospitable homes was the brilliant reception Wednesday night, with Mr. and Mrs. Leon Sugar, Mr. and Mrs. Edga Masur and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Masur hosts.

A fashionable throng, numbering two hundred or more, enjoyed the many courtesies extended in the Sugar home, where exotic flowers in extravagant array banked the reception suite, drawing room and dining room.

Mrs. Sugar wore on this occasion an elegant dinner model of transparent Burgundy velvet, floor length and fashioned along medieval lines. Mrs. Edgar Masur wore a handsome dinner model of Alencon lace with rhinestone trimming, and a smart cocktail jacket. Mrs. Louis Masur wore a beautiful black crepe, rhinestone-studded dinner model. The exquisite corsages worn by each one added a distinctive touch.

The guests were attracted to the dining room, where a bewildering array of apcritifs and hors d'oeuvres were served throughout the evening. The long, oval table, overlaid with handsome banquet cloth of Renaissance lace, had for central ornamentation an immense silver bowl from which flaming Radiance roses spilled their loveliness. Silver salvers held a delectable array of confections and at either end of the table were placed pedestals surmounted with crystal bowls of green-tinted, crushed ice in which was imbedded a bowl of Russian caviar and olives. Aperitifs were passed among the guests throughout the evening by a corps of white-clad attendants. For convenience also was the cocktail bar in the reception suite, where refreshing drinks were mixed to suit the individual taste.

Many out-of-town guests were noted among the fashionable throng who came and went during the receiving hours, 9 to 11.

Speaks Before Clubs

Miss Mary Sue Wigley of Dodson, Ala., was the distinguished guest speaker presented by the Lambda Kappa and the junior literary clubs of Rayville on Monday afternoon.

A year ago Louisiana club women in session at Lafayette were privileged to hear Miss Wigley and, being interested in sharing this pleasure with the women of their communities, have availed themselves of the opportunity to present her.

Miss Wigley, having known prosperity, then financial reverses and sharing the responsibility of a family, draws from a wealth of experience as she unfolds her truths which are applicable to every American home.

"You can't run a home like a business, for a business is run for profit. There is no competition in a home as there is in business. A home is organized for the happiness and welfare of its members. Home making is much more complicated than running a business. The successful home maker is a home economics expert. Our tastes exceed our ability to buy, and it is by wise planning and adjusting our tastes that we are able to have the things which we desire. It is the woman in the home who saves the money. We must adopt definite policies if we reach desired goals."

Such were the striking comments of Miss Wigley.

The speaker advocated the making and adoption of a budget for successful home management, for it is by budgeting that hard things are made easier and the comforts of life may be had. The first step in making the budget is a trial budget; the second, readjusting the budget; third, standardization.

"Failures do not come from lack of intellect, but from lack of character. It is better to have a body crooked from work than to have a crooked character. It is foolish to cry for opportunities when we have a head full of ideas and a body full of energy. Worthwhile things are achieved at the price of effort," commented Miss Wigley.

The American conception of "low standards of living" based on ability to spend was severely criticized by Miss Wigley.

An amusing incident related by the speaker was of her fears of appearing before the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs, and how she had entirely misjudged them.

Presidents of the Rayville clubs, Mrs. Everette McCoy and Mrs. Bill Spiers, presided at the meeting. The speaker was introduced by Miss Robbie Binion. A delightful musical number, "Song of Louisiana," was rendered by Mrs. J. T. Harris, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. John Sumlin.

Miss Patricia Gilpin of Tallulah was one of the terpsichorean artists in "The Call of Youth," a comedy drama presented by the Euzelian players of Blue Mountain college, Blue Mountain, Miss., celebrating the fifty-fourth anniversary of the Euzelians. The play was directed by Miss Von Nelle Byrd, Mount Olive, Miss., president of the Euzelians.

Hot Rhythm Hats

PARIS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Hats inspired by American jazz are the latest fashion in advance spring and new winter headgear from Paris.

Erik, a young Danish designer, who says he gets inspiration for hats from phonograph records, has launched a series of new models suggestive of all types of music from jazz to opera and Viennese waltzes.

Jazz inspires new spring designs of black or navy baku straw with brims which scoop out in a wide visor at side front or roll up gently all around and crowns encircled by twisted quills swooped about in what the designer calls "hot rhythm." Felt toques for winter are swooped up to a tapering peak and pierced by a quill thrust aslant through the top. Black accented by a vivid "Kelly" green is the favorite combination, though purple and dull yellow accents are also used.

A Viennese waltz inspires a dark velvet hat with a brim curling up on the sides and a ridge crown topped by a small ostrich plume curling forward. From military marches come toques accented by upstanding feather brushes, while the opera "Robin Hood" and Tyrolean tunes have given ideas for sports hats with peaked crowns pierced by long pheasant feathers.

Sports hats generally are designed of drapable felts in tones of dark green, brown and navy with soft crowns and up-rolling brims which can be pulled and draped almost any way the wearer choses.

That same idea of changing your hat to suit your face is carried out in afternoon models, some of which can be worn "backward or forward." Skull cap toques of black felt are finished with shirred felt wheels and may be worn so that the wheel slants over the eyes or lies against the back of the head, rising above the crown like a halo. One velvet model has a square eyeshade brim which can be worn rolled up like a papyrus or rolled down as the wearer wishes. Crowns in many of the models taper to points or ridges or have a tendency to jut forward.

Sheer crisp veils adorn many of the reversible models so that they may be worn falling over the eyes or cascading down the back of the neck. Stiff veils of wide mesh are arranged on other hats so that they stand forward around the face like the brim of an old-fashioned sunbonnet and are tied under the chin with a little velvet bow.

Monroe Residents Are Shopping In Earnest

Social Design In Monroe Last Week Composed Of Lectures, Coffee Hours, Bridge Games And Weddings

By Eve Bradford

December! The year grows lean and trails its mantle to the west to join all those that have gone before. Swift to its close ebbs out the old year and very soon now the sweet resinous scent of pine will be flaunted on the frosty air along the city streets, where trim little trees will be put on sale for the Christmas trade. Holly will be found heaped in green and crimson mounds on the street corners and trailing from cars returning from the woods, where it has been busily at work all year in the slow process of sending out green shoots and red berries, without which Christmas would never be so gay and colorful.

Very soon now we will see desperate, determined figures with streaming hair and glassy eyes dodging in and out of the department stores. Do not shoot her or even call the cops without taking a good look. For if you are hasty, you may prevent a deed of justice which should have been done long ago. These wild looking creatures are the women who delayed their Christmas shopping until the eleventh hour. Sales ladies regard the late Christmas shoppers as public enemies number one. Judging from the ebb and flow in the stores yesterday, Christmas shopping has commenced in earnest. Perhaps the feminine world has at last learned how beautiful are those days just before Christmas, when the mind, free from shopping anxiety, can dwell on the sacred rites of the Yuletide.

Our social design for living last week was made up of lectures, coffee hours, bridge, dancing and weddings. The Edgar Masurs, the Leon Sugars and the Louis Masurs entertained with a swanky at home on Wednesday, the memory of which will live on and on. Everyone forgot to count calories and reached again and again for those luscious little puffs filled with chicken salad, and the Russian caviar heaped in green crystal bowls imbedded in sparkling green ice. The concoctions mixed over that classy little bar might have been mixed by the gods, so potent were they.

Daisy Haas, who comes under the head of a perfect hostess, was also responsible for the feminine world of society departing from the straight and narrow path mapped out by calory experts. Such toothsome tidbits and such fragrant coffee! The word food, meaning that which is used to stoke the human furnace, should never be used in connection with choice morsels found in certain Monroe homes. To those who are invited to partake of these morsels in Daisy Haas' home, eating is regarded as one of life's major pleasures.

Clothes don't make the woman but they certainly inspire comment, and especially so when worn by anyone as good looking as Lorraine Matthews' mother, Mrs. St. Elmo Newton, who hurried into town for Thanksgiving dinner with the Matthews. She brought along with her some perfectly divine clothes and evidently knows the subtle art of dressing, as we saw her wearing a Burgundy colored street model with a short cape edged with sable that was the dernier cri in this year's styles.

Joel Whitley, better known as Joel Nichols, quite as beautiful as her mother was before her, stepped altarward Thanksgiving day. She was lovely as a bride and her eyes, one of her greatest charms, as luminous as the candles that shone down on her with so much benevolence.

En passant:

Bruce Frizzell in Tuxedo dodging the rain drops that fell just before the hour for the wedding.

Gay Noe off with her mother to New Orleans, where she will have her portrait painted by a celebrated artist, Boris Gordon. Incidentally he asked permission to do so and, naturally, Gay, thrilled beyond words, consented to pose for him.

Louise Theus bending over a gas stove at the Junior League carnival, serving them red hot to a hungry crowd. Strange thing how charity can bring out dormant talent. Louise never knew that she was past master at the art of preparing sizzling hot hamburgers. John, of course, was close by, ready to render first aid in case of burnt fingers.

Frances Leavell, tall and slender and altogether lovely, using her beguiling singing voice to good advantage in attracting the crowd to the corn game table at the carnival.

S. H. McClary seated between his two handsome sons, Bill and Sam, at Thanksgiving church services. Bill in shining new uniform, thankful to be home from military school and to be with his lovely mother and devoted father for four precious days.

Mrs. Haas Entertains

Friends were privileged to meet Mrs. Morris Haas' charming house guests, Miss Rachael Matzner and Mrs. Julian Holt of Meridian, Miss., under the most delightful circumstances Friday morning during the coffee hour at the Haas home on Riverside drive.

Gift flowers of pronounced beauty, banking the reception suite, provided a colorful setting for Mrs. Haas in a raisin colored crepe model and her guests, Mrs. Holt in a smart black crepe model with corsage of long-stemmed English violets and Miss Matzner in poudre blue crepe model with corsage of pink radiance roses.

Coffee was poured in the dining room by Mrs. A. L. Harrington and Mrs. Theodore Terzia, who presided over the beautifully appointed table overlaid with handsome Italian lace and linen banquet cloth.

Crystal cornucopias of classic design overflowed with superb white roses and valley lilies at the extreme ends of the table. The silver coffee service also graced the table, where silver salvers of luscious confections were placed for the convenience of the guests.

Mrs. Haas was assisted in the courtesies that rendered the morning so thoroughly enjoyable by Mrs. L. P. Milner, Mrs. Clarence Oakley, Mrs. C. Duncan and Mrs. Douglas Miles, Jr.

Seventy-five guests called during the morning.

Club Entertained

Later bridge was introduced and enjoyed by Mesdames W. C. Feazel, Clifton Mize, Herbert Rinehart, Clyde Mitchell, Sam Humphries, Roy Lee, Otto Miller, Marie Frazier and Fay Heard and Misses Maibel Hood and Katherine Averette.

Bargain Is Slated

The women of Monroe have been busily engaged this fall in putting over several successful projects.

The Catholic ladies had their Carnival; the Jewish women, a cake sale; the Junior Charity League members conducted a carnival; and the club women this past week had their successful day in raising money for the archway at the new Tuberculosis sanatorium.

Now we have news of another big undertaking, sponsored by the women of the First Methodist church. They are to have a real Christmas bazaar next Friday and Saturday, December 6th and 7th, at 122 South Grand street, and are planning many interesting features in connection with it. Attractive display cards announce turkey dinners both Friday and Saturday noon and a spaghetti supper Saturday night. There will be beautiful gifts, as well as useful articles, for sale.

The bazaar started as a very small undertaking by one of the circles of the Woman's Missionary society but has grown to such proportions that every member of the church is now busily engaged in making it a success.

Musical Scheduled

The Bach-Handel, candlelight musical to be presented by members of the Musical Coterie at Grace church Sunday, December the eighth, at four o'clock in the afternoon brings to mind many interesting facts in the lives of these two great composers. The music rendered by the crimson-clad members of the Coterie will be enjoyed more fully if one is acquainted with some of these facts.

For instance:

Honors came fast to Bach in his later years. In 1736, the honorary appointment of Hof-Componist was given him by Elector of Saxony. In 1747 Frederick the Great informed Bach's son, Emmanuel, then a cembalist (equivalent to conductor) of the court orchestra, that his imperial majesty would receive Bach at the palace in Berlin. Bach accepted, and his visit to Berlin was made an event. He played upon all the pianos and organs at Potsdam much to the delight of the king. He also improvised a six part fugue upon themes selected by himself and after his departure wrote out one of his improvisations from memory and dedicated it to the king.

When Bach was 64, his eyes commenced to fail. Overuse since childhood had stolen his vision. An English occulist performed an operation upon him but brought no satisfactory results. It will be remembered that Handel was also afflicted by blindness. In 1750 Bach's eyesight came back to him for a very few hours after which he was seized with apoplexy and died after a sickness of ten days. On his deathbed he dictated a choral, Ver deinen Thron tret ich hiermit. His death was widely mourned. The happy family broke up shortly thereafter. His wife, despite the apparent success of her sons, was forced to accept alms and was buried in a pauper's grave.

Enough has been said in the foregoing to indicate that Bach had no equal as a performer during his lifetime. In a day when contests for supremacy were in order, rival organists let the great Bach severely alone. His organ performances were unusual in that they drew large crowds. The organist familiar with the Bach repertoire realizes how slight has been the real advance in organ music since the time of the great cantor. In fact, many go so far as to insist that there has been no advance at all.

Four of Bach's delightful instrumental numbers have been included in the Bach-Handel program.

Miss Florence Ziegler will play the chromatic Fantasy, a superb flight of imagination, cascading chords interrupted by a highly dramatic scene.

Mrs. Roger Frisbie will play an air which that incomparable genius, Bach, wrote for the G string of the violin.

Miss Mary Grace Lawn will play the last movement of the Halian Concerto. So named because Bach wrote it for the hapsichord in the fashionable Italian manner of the day, it is very graceful and very effective on the piano. The last movement bubbles with irrepressable gayety.

Mrs. C. L. Moore, Jr., will play an English Suite, a suite of classic dances with a prelude Allemande (German), Gavotte and Musette (French) and Gigue (Italian), all written in the same key, sparkling with inimitable charm.

Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Grisham had as their guests for Thanksgiving Captain and Mrs. V. Stabler of Arcadia, Mrs. Neville Atkins of Bolivar, Tenn., and their two daughters, Mrs. Robert Kellogg and children and Mrs. O. R. Lewis and Mr. Lewis and their daughter, June.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Hill Wooten and lovely children, Maribeth and Jean, of Montgomery, Ala., will be guests in the home of Mr. M. L. Langford this week. Mrs. Wooten will be remembered as Miss Rosa Langford.

A company of friends who motored to New Orleans for the football game on Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. Alyner Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Kilpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Ewing and Mr. and Mrs. John Sherrouse.

Friends extend their sympathy to Mrs. H. A. Scott in the loss of her son-in-law, Mr. Marshall Watson of Memphis, Tenn. Mrs. Scott has returned home from Memphis, accompanied by her little granddaughter, Patsy Ruth.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

MISS HARRIET SILLIMAN WHITE

Of interest to society throughout Louisiana is the announcement made by Mrs. Richard Franklin White of Alexandria of the engagement of her daughter, Harriet Silliman, to Mr. Benjamin Cornwell Dawkins, Jr. The wedding will take place at an early date in January.

Miss White is the daughter of Mrs. Richard Franklin White and the late Richard Franklin White. On the paternal side she is the grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. White of Alexandria. Her maternal grandparents were formerly of Vermont and Washington, D. C. Her father was prominently connected with legal circles in the south, being a member of the law firm of White, Holloman and White of Alexandria, and counsel for the L. and A. railroad.

Miss White attended Newcomb college, where she was a member of the Alpha Omega Pi sorority.

Mr. Dawkins is the son of Judge and Mrs. Benjamin Cornwell Dawkins of Monroe. On his maternal side he is the grandson of Mrs. H. W. McLeod of Ruston and the late Captain McLeod of Ruston and originally from Georgia. His paternal grandparents were the late Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Dawkins of Farmerville. Judge Dawkins, father of Mr. Dawkins, is a prominent figure in the legal world of Louisiana and at one time was a justice of the Louisiana state supreme court. At the present time he is United States district judge with headquarters in Shreveport.

Mr. Dawkins is making his home in Shreveport, where he is a junior member of the law firm of Blanchard, Goldstein, Walker and O'Quin.

Mr. Dawkins received his bachelor of arts degree from Tulane university and his law degree from Louisiana State university. He is a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity, Phi Delta Phi legal fraternity, and O. D. K. national honorary fraternity.

Suggests Gift Books

By John Selby

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Books pack so easily, and although unwrapped they sometimes tear even the best hung stocking, they always can be left lying underneath, on the floor.

For father, who can't golf much this weather anyway, you might enliven Christmas with some of these: "It Can't Happen Here" (Sinclair Lewis) if he's not read it; "American Messiahs" or "Our Lords and Masters" (unofficial observer) if he likes smart comment on world affairs; Harry Elmer Barnes' "History of Western Civilization" if he's serious; "I Write as I Please" if he's interested in Russia.

For mother, "Lions Starve in Naples" (Johan Fabricius) if she likes laughing with a lump in her throat; "Europa" (Robert Briffault) if she tries to keep up with the Jones; Josephine Johnson's "Winter Orchard if she likes autumnal colorings; "Of Time and the River" (Thomas Wolfe) if she isn't busy; "Forgive Adam" (Michael Foster) if she is.

For Big Brother Bill, who likes reasonably red meat: "We Are Betrayed" (Vardis Fisher) for his intense moods; "Tortilla Flat" for his unbuttoned moods; "Personal History" (Vincent Sheean), being himself when young and maybe later; "Honey in the Horn" H. L. Davis) for just any time.

For Sister Patricia, "King Lehr and the Gilded Age" (Elizabeth Drexel Lehr) to show how futile is "Society"; "A Musical Companion" (John Erskine) to prepare her for her symphony concerts; "The Murder of My Aunt" (Richard Hull) to amuse her; "Vein of Iron" by Ellen Glasgow to show what a girl can do.

For Bobby and Betty, who are very young: "The Turf-Cutter's Donkey" (Patricia Lynch) to teach them Ireland; "Adventures in Puddle Muddle" by Mary Graham Bonner and William Kolliker, to amuse them; "The Bear Twins" (Inez Hogan) ditto; "Bold Blades of Donegal" (Seumas MacManus) for the days when they feel energetic, and it's raining.

For Uncle Murgatroyd, who has a sense of humor, b'gosh, and likes to travel: "Life With Father," by Clarence Day, to show what might have happened to him had he married; "Bright Mexico" (Larry Barretto) to make him itch for Mexico; "The Jury" by Gerald Bullett, because it's a grand crime yarn; "Gilbert and Sullivan," by Hesketh Pearson, to remind him of the nineties; "The Voice of Bugle Ann," by Mackinlay Kantor, because he's never hunted foxes that way.

For Aunt Hephzibah, who's not as funny as her name: "A Few Foolish Ones," by Gladys Hasty Carroll, since it is one of the best of this year's Maine novel crop; "Solomon My Son," by John Erskine, because it will give her a new slant on the Bible; "The Deadly Dowager," by Edwin Greenwood, because it's funny; "Francis the First" (Francis Hackett) because he's lecturing over here now, and she'll probably hear him; "Redder Than the Rose," by Robert Forsythe, because it will infuriate her.

And for you? Try Laurence Housman's "Victoria Reginia," because in 30 short plays Housman has brought to life the incredible Queen Victoria.

Play Scheduled

The Little theater of Monroe will present "The Dover Road," by A. A. Milne, on Thursday, December 12, at the Central Grammar school auditorium.

This quaint comedy by the author of "Winne the Pooh," is a charming mixture of Sir James Barrie and R. L. Stevenson.

Mr. Latimer, a wealthy eccentric who lives on Dover road, makes it his hobby to intercept eloping couples and keep them at his house for a week, in order that they may become more closely acquainted with one another and see themselves in the most unromantic situations imaginable, before breaking the existing marriage knots.

What happens to two couples who are taking the Dover road, makes the story of the play.

The situations are decidedly human, with a delicate touch of irony, and the play abounds with humor.

A. A. Milne has written several plays, perhaps the best known being "Mr. Pim Passes By." He is especially well known for his delightful books of verse for children and grown ups alike, "When We Were Very Young," and "Now We Are Six."

Mr. and Mrs. St. Elmo Newton of Memphis, Tenn., are being welcomed by their many friends in this city, where they are spending the week-end with their daughter, Mrs. Paul Matthews and Mr. Matthews.

Miss Nellie Breard and Miss Louise Grey, students at L. S. U., spent the Thanksgiving holidays in this city with their parents. Miss Breard, who is specializing in music, claims the destinction of being selected to sing "This Rose Will Remind You" at the premiere of "So Red The Rose" in Baton Rouge last week. Miss Breard possesses a beautiful soprano voice that has delighted Monroe audiences on numerous occasions.

Due to the dedication services of the new church in Pineville the Catholic Altar society will meet on Wednesday instead of Tuesday, as customary.

Mrs. W. M. McGruder of New Orleans is enjoying a visit with her daughter, Mrs. Nathan Gaston.

Messiah Scheduled

A mgihty chorus of voices will be heard in Handel's glorious Messiah, under the direction of Roger Frisbie, Tuesday night at Northeast Center of Louisiana State university auditorium.

The singers, comprising members of the Choral club, are the very cream of Monroe's talent. Several of them will be featured in special solo work. They are: Mrs. Walter T. Rasbury, soprano; Mrs. Clyde V. Sanders, soprano; Mrs. Frances Miller Leavell, contralto; Mrs. S. Lockwood Webb, contralto; Mr. Conrad Cage, tenor; Mr. Lee A. Stulce, tenor; Mr. Daniel P. Gerald, bass, and Mr. Lloyd L. Walters, bass.

Miss Florence Ziegler, Brilliant young pianist, will act as accompanist. Sublime heights will be reached in the finale, when every voice will be heard in the Hallelujah chorus. When the Messiah was presented in Dublin for the first time in 1743, the entire audience, including the king, was so impressed with the Hallelujah chorus, that it rose in a body, thus starting a custom which obtains to this day in many cities.

Members of the Choral club are:

Sopranos and altos—Mrs. G. G. Albritton, Mrs. R. B. Archibald, Mrs. H. R. Arlig, Miss Edna Bacle, Miss Margaret Booth, Miss Gene Bounds, Mrs. F. E. Brueck, Mrs. Mildred Brumfield, Miss Marie Campbell, Mrs. C. C. Carroll, Miss Maurene Cobb, Miss Josephine Combs, Mrs. W. J. Cornett, Miss Margaret Cudd, Miss Charlotte Davis, Mrs. A. R. Doughnut Collars

PARIS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Doughnut collars were launched as a new mid-season fashion novelty at Bruyere's showing.

The collars, shaped like a doughnut ring and designed of black or brown astrakhan, appeared on coats, suits and ensembles for early spring and late winter wear. Most of them tied in front with a ribbon bow and were detachable, so that they could be removed whenever the wearer wishes. The same doughnut effect also appeared on the big sleeves of coats which were trimmed just below the shoulder with a ring of fur.

Full length midseason coats were designed on straight, slender, wrap-around lines, sometimes tying on one side. The hip-length or seven-eighths length coats which appeared with ensembles, however, were generally full-backed, swagger models. Black and brown were the colors most often used.

High-necked day frocks of wool or crepe were built on a slender profile and finished with a brilliant trim. Rhinestone wheel buckles were caught at necklines, square gold buckles were used like buttons and gold braid pinwheels formed belts.

A "grande dame" mode was displayed for the evening hours. Slender gowns of white satin and black or purple crepe were designed on slim reed-like lines ending in brief trains and finished with belts of seed pearls or gold braid pinwheels. Several were worn with birds of paradise headdresses poised at the back of the head with their feathery fronds rising above the coiffure.

Besides these there were a number of dark crepe or velvet dinner gowns fashioned with slightly more fullness in the skirt and big bishop sleeves. Maltese crosses of flashing rhinestones were caught in the decolletes of a few of them.

The most striking evening wrap was a full-backed short ermine model with an Eskimo hood fastened with a clover leaf rhinestone button.

Brilliant Reception Is Given In Monroe

Fashionable Throng Attends Event At Sugar Home; The Leon Sugars And Edgar And Louis Masurs Hosts

Adding lustre and illuminating a week filled with charming affairs that brought members of society together in Monroe's hospitable homes was the brilliant reception Wednesday night, with Mr. and Mrs. Leon Sugar, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Masur and Mr. and Mrs. Louis Masur hosts.

A fashionable throng, numbering two hundred or more, enjoyed the many courtesies extended in the Sugar home, where exotic flowers in extravagant array banked the reception suite, drawing room and dining room.

Mrs. Sugar wore on this occasion an elegant dinner model of transparent Burgundy velvet, floor length and fashioned along medieval lines. Mrs. Edgar Masur wore a handsome dinner model of Alencon lace with rhinestone trimming, and a smart cocktail jacket. Mrs. Louis Masur wore a beautiful black crepe, rhinestone-studded dinner model. The exquisite corsages worn by each one added a distinctive touch.

The guests were attracted to the dining room, where a bewildering array of aperitifs and hors d'oeuvres were served throughout the evening. The long, oval table, overlaid with handsome banquet cloth of Renaissance lace, had for central ornamentation an immense silver bowl from which flaming Radiance roses spilled their loveliness. Silver salvers held a delectable array of confections and at either end of the table were placed pedestals surmounted with crystal bowls of green-tinted, crushed ice in which was imbedded a bowl of Russian caviar and olives. Aperitifs were passed among the guests throughout the evening by a corps of white-clad attendants. For convenience also was the cocktail bar in the reception suite, where refreshing drinks were mixed to suit the individual taste.

Many out-of-town guests were noted among the fashionable throng who came and went during the receiving hours, 9 to 11.

Speaks Before Clubs

Miss Mary Sue Wigley of Dodson, Ala., was the distinguished guest speaker presented by the Lambda Kappa and the junior literary clubs of Rayville on Monday afternoon.

A year ago Louisiana club women in session at Lafayette were privileged to hear Miss Wigley and, being interested in sharing this pleasure with the women of their communities, have availed themselves of the opportunity to present her.

Miss Wigley, having known prosperity, then financial reverses and sharing the responsibility of a family, draws from a wealth of experience as she unfolds her truths which are applicable to every American home.

"You can't run a home like a business, for a business is run for profit. There is no competition in a home as there is in business. A home is organized for the happiness and welfare of its members. Home making is much more complicated than running a business. The successful home maker is a home economics expert. Our tastes exceed our ability to buy, and it is by wise planning and adjusting our tastes that we are able to have the things which we desire. It is the woman in the home who saves the money. We must adopt definite policies if we reach desired goals."

Such were the striking comments of Miss Wigley.

The speaker advocated the making and adoption of a budget for successful home management, for it is by budgeting that hard things are made easier and the comforts of life may be had. The first step in making the budget is a trial budget; the second, readjusting the budget; third, standardization.

"Failures do not come from lack of intellect, but from lack of character. It is better to have a body crooked from work than to have a crooked character. It is foolish to cry for opportunities when we have a head full of ideas and a body full of energy. Worthwhile things are achieved at the price of effort," commented Miss Wigley.

The American conception of "low standards of living" based on ability to spend was severely criticized by Miss Wigley.

An amusing incident related by the speaker was of her fears of appearing before the Louisiana Federation of Women's clubs, and how she had entirely misjudged them.

Presidents of the Rayville clubs, Mrs. Everette McCoy and Mrs. Bill Spiers, presided at the meeting. The speaker was introduced by Miss Robbie Binion. A delightful musical number, "Song of Louisiana," was rendered by Mrs. J. T. Harris, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. John Sumlin.

Miss Patricia Gilpin of Tallulah was one of the terpsichorean artists in "The Call of Youth," a comedy drama presented by the Euzelian players of Blue Mountain college, Blue Mountain, Miss., celebrating the fifty-fourth anniversary of the Euzelians. The play was directed by Miss Von Nelle Byrd, Mount Olive, Miss., president of the Euzelians.

Hot Rhythm Hats

PARIS, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Hats inspired by American jazz are the latest fashion in advance spring and new winter headgear from Paris.

Erik, a young Danish designer, who says he gets inspiration for hats from phonograph records, has launched a series of new models suggestive of all types of music from jazz to opera and Viennese waltzes.

Jazz inspires new spring designs of black or navy baku straw with brims which scoop out in a wide visor at side front or roll up gently all around and crowns encircled by twisted quills swooped about in what the designer calls "hot rhythm." Felt toques for winter are swooped up to a tapering peak and pierced by a quill thrust aslant through the top. Black accented by a vivid "Kelly" green is the favorite combination, though purple and dull yellow accents are also used.

A Viennese waltz inspires a dark velvet hat with a brim curling up on the sides and a ridge crown topped by a small ostrich plume curling forward. From military marches come toques accented by upstanding feather brushes, while the opera "Robin Hood" and Tyrolean tunes have given ideas for sports hats with peaked crowns pierced by long pheasant feathers.

Sports hats generally are designed of drapable felts in tones of dark green, brown and navy with soft crowns and up-rolling brims which can be pulled and draped almost any way the wearer choses.

That same idea of changing your hat to suit your face is carried out in afternoon models, some of which can be worn "backward or forward." Skull cap toques of black felt are finished with shirred felt wheels and may be worn so that the wheel slants over the eyes or lies against the back of the head, rising above the crown like a halo. One velvet model has a square eyeshade brim which can be worn rolled up like a papyrus or rolled down as the wearer wishes. Crowns in many of the models taper to points or ridges or have a tendency to jut forward.

Sheer crisp veils adorn many of the reversible models so that they may be worn falling over the eyes or cascading down the back of the neck. Stiff veils of wide mesh are arranged on other hats so that they stand forward around the face like the brim of an old-fashioned sunbonnet and are tied under the chin with a little velvet bow.

Several Weddings Here During Thanksgiving Holidays

Miss Joel Nichols And William Whitley Wed

Miss Jennie Hanna Becomes Bride Of Edgar N. Hemphill; Miss Norris And Mr. Purvis, Miss Sherrard And Mr. Hogen Marry

Sublime organ music flooded the candlelit dimness of Grace church while a fashionable throng gathered Thursday evening, November the twenty-eighth, for the marriage at six-thirty o'clock of Miss Joel Rountree Nichols, lovely daughter of Mrs. Bernice Renwick Nichols and the late Mr. Arthur Danahay Nichols, to Mr. William Asher Whitley, son of Mrs. Ruth Fagerson Whitley of Shreveport and the late Mr. J. W. Whitley.

Myriad cathedral tapers shed a silvery radiance on the flower-banked altar and cast fantastic shadows along the grey stone walls, where sinuous lengths of southern smilax trailed in picturesque manner. Superb white roses and shaggy white chrysanthemums were scattered with lavish hand high on the altar and banked the chancel rail. Tall white baskets overflowing with white chrysanthemums woodland fern flanked the aisle leading to the altar.

Two choristers in black and white vestments stood on either side of the aisle where pews were reserved for the relatives and immediate members of the two families.

The bride's only attendant was her cousin, Miss Catherine Nichols Cowell of Springfield, Mo., who wore a lovely azure blue chiffon, floor-length model with crushed velvet sash of a darker shade of velvet. A silver hat with flaring brim and silver slippers were worn and in her arms she carried a bouquet of pink duchess roses tied with loops of wide pink satin ribbon.

Mr. Ned Anderson of Shreveport acted as best man.

The bride, walking with her grandfather, Mr. Joseph P. Renwick, wore the traditional white satin wedding gown of classic design. It was fashioned along straight lines with fullness at the high neck line edged with braided satin. The long, tight-fitting sleeves were of Brussels' lace. The handsome lace wedding veil, appliqued with rose point, was purchased in France by a cherished friend, and was caught to the head with a coronet of orange blossoms and rhinestones. Miss Nichols carried an arm bouquet of waxen bride's roses and valley lillies caught with long loops of ivory satin ribbon.

For something old she carried a lace handkerchief that belonged to her maternal grandmother and carried by the bride's mother on her wedding day. Of appealing sentiment was the use of a seven-branched candelabrum presented to the Rayville Episcopal chapel by the bride's paternal grandfather, the late Captain D. H. Nichols. The candles were lighted just before the ceremony.

Immediately following the ceremony, performed by Dr. E. F. Hayward, rector of Grace church, a reception was held at Wildwood, the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Renwick. In addition to the wedding entourage, the reception line comprised the bride's mother, who wore a lovely evening model of violet colored chiffon with an evening hat of orchid and purple lace and velvet. A corsage of Parma violets created a distinctive touch. Mrs. Renwick, the bride's grandmother, wore a blue lace model with silver hat and a corsage of pink radiance roses. Others receiving were Mrs. Ruth Whitley, Mr. and Mrs. Melroy Thompson of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Whitley, Jr., of Arp, Texas, Miss Gabrella Rountree and Mrs. J. H. Rountree of Springfield, Mo.

The bride's table in the dining room was developed entirely in white and green. Handsome Venetian lace covered the table, centered with the wedding cake, in the form of a double heart surmounted with a cupid in a fluff of gauze and silver. Crystalized valley lilies encircled the confection. Tall white tapers burned in silver candelabra and at the four corners, white bride's roses and valley lilies overflowed from silver baskets. Misty tulle entwined with feathery maiden hair fern fronds was caught to the chandelier with a spray of valley lilies and bride's roses.

Ices and petit fours embossed in white and green were served.

The beautiful gifts lavished upon the bride and bridegroom were on display. A complete set of flat silver in the Hunt pattern and several heirloom pieces of Colonial pattern were noted, as was a set of Spode china in the buttercup pattern. Other gifts of linens, gold banded rock crystal and bric-a-brac were included.

The bride, one of the most charming members of the younger set, is a member of one of Monroe's pioneer families, her maternal paternal great-grandfather, Captain Renwick, having fought gallantly in the Civil war. Her grandfather, Mr. Joseph Renwick, has been a member of the Ouachita Parish School board for years and, with Mrs. Renwick, has been long identified with the civic and social life of this city. She is a graduate of Louisiana State university and a member of Kappa Delta sorority.

Mr. Whitley, also a graduate of L. S. U., is a member of Kappa Sigma fraternity and is now identified with the Standard Oil Company in Baton Rouge, where he and his bride will make their future home at 673 St. Anthony street, following their honeymoon on the coast.

Out-of-town guests attending the wedding were: Mrs. Ruth Whitley of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Whitley, Jr., of Arp, Texas, Mr. and Mrs. Melroy Thompson of Shreveport, Mrs. Joel H. Rountree, Miss Catherine Cowell, Miss Gabrella Nichols Rountree and Mrs. Roy Peacher and daughter, Jane, of Springfield, Mo., and Mr. and Mrs. Ned Anderson of Shreveport.

Hanna-Hemphill

Simplicity characterized the wedding of Miss Jennie Wimbish Hanna, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hanna, and Mr. Edgar N. Hemphill at Grace church Thursday afternoon, November the twenty-eighth, at four-thirty o'clock.

An impressive note of solemnity was manifested in the setting of white chrysanthemums with myriad cathedral tapers burning in their midst. Tapers also flamed on the altar in the shadow of which the vows were plighted and the benediction received.

Mr. Leon Hammond, organist, rendered a pre-nuptial concert and played impressively a group of nuptial melodies during the ceremony.

The bride's sister, Miss Robbie Lee Hanna, acted in the capacity of maid of honor. She wore a smart black model with small, close-fitting hat and carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses. Mr. James Dawson acted as best man.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful olive green crepe and velvet model with all accessories of the same shade. A small hat of green velvet flaunted a flaring veil of gold mesh. An exquisite bouquet of Talisman roses and valley lilies completed the ensemble.

Immediately following the ceremony, an informal buffet supper was served at the home of the bride's parents. Only the wedding guests, comprising the immediate members of the two families, were present.

Out-of-guests attending the wedding were Mr. Ira Hemphill and son and Miss Dorothy Hemphill of Shreveport.

The bride is one of five beautiful sisters and a popular member of the younger set. Friends are glad indeed that her marriage will not take her elsewhere to live. Mr. Hemphill is a prominent young business man of this city and, with his bride, will be at home at 402 K street.

Norris—Purvis

The interest of friends in this section of the state is centered in the marriage of Miss Irma Norris, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Norris, Sr., and Mr. J. D. Purvis, son of Mr. Monroe Purvis, Thursday afternoon, November the twenty-eighth, at the home of the bride's parents in West Monroe.

Flowers of vivid autumnal coloring banked the reception suite, where an improvised altar, fashioned of luxuriant palms and ferns, was reared. Cathedral tapers in seven-branched, floor length candelabra burned in the background. The ceremony was performed by Reverend Louis Hoffpauir in the presence of relatives and intimate friends.

Mrs. William Norris, Jr., the matron of honor, wore shell pink taffeta and silver model with silver hat and slippers. She carried an arm bouquet of pink chrysanthemums.

The bridesmaids, Miss Fredel Norris, Miss Marguerite Norris and Elsie Koserog, wore Delphinian blue taffeta models with silver accessories and carried arm bouquets of pink chrysanthemums.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white Duchess satin wedding gown of charming simplicity. The long,tight-fitting sleeves were puffed at the shoulders and the neck line was high in the front. A veil of illusion was caught to the hair with a bandeaux of orange blossoms.

Following an informal reception, the bride changed her wedding raiment for a smart wool tailleur of Hunter's green with accessories of brown.

Following a honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Purvis will be at home to their friends in West Monroe.

By Charles Norman

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—(AP)—Society's dancing daughters are flocking to the Brides' school to learn the intricacies of housekeeping—just in case a personable young man pops the question.

The school, sponsored by society women, charges tuition fees. Its five stories contain rooms designed to be typical of those in which the modern young miss will live as bride and matron.

Its purpose is to instruct prospective brides to run their households efficiently and economically.

The direction of servants is an important part of the curriculum. Meals, formal and informal, are traced from their source—at the grocer's—to the kitchen, thence through the mysteries of cookery to the table. Real silver is used. Furniture is real Duncan Phyfe. The rugs are genuine.

A Parisian, Alexis Lichine, is there to instruct the young things in "the art of serving wine and spirits."

"Wine," says M. Lichine, "is a living thing."

Cocktails—as a word, that is—are out.

"Please don't say 'cocktails,'" said Mrs. Richard Mather Boardman, president of Scientific Housekeeping, Inc., of which the Brides' School is an offshoot. "It gives a wrong impression."

Scientific Housekeeping, in existence 10 years, was launched by a group of society women for the purpose of training servants. After 10 years, Mrs. Boardman said, it was found that the servant level had been raised, but that the inexperienced housekeeper was still a barrier to an efficiently run home. The Brides' school was the result.

A junior committee of Social Register debutantes is helping the school by spreading word of its activities in the smart set. Thus far, Mrs. Boardman said, a good half of the students are debutantes or sub-debutantes.

The school eschews words like "domestic," substituting "worker." A chambermaid is now a "worker" on daily care.

The kitchen of the Brides' School which is the very heart of the institution, is located downstairs. It is large, bright, airy. Its arrays of gleaming pots and pans are enough to dismay a social butterfly fluttering in from the bon-ton whirl. There is a tricky table full of grooves and niches where everything fits precisely.

The dining room has a butler's pantry.

American Santa Claus To Give Useful Things

Absence Of Militaristic Toys And Soldiers In Pack Of Jovial Old Man With Whiskers Is Noted

There is a season every year when whiskers are in style and that season has most definitely arrived. The pictures of a jolly little fat man with long white beard will soon be seen in all the papers and the center of interest will rest on him.

The good old man never could be prevailed upon to give up his whiskers, because, in doing so, he would cease to be Santa Claus.

The world may buzz with talk of war, and children may imitate the martial spirit of their fathers and brothers, but the toy pack of the American Santa Claus is so full of playthings, distinctly on the pacific side, that there is no room for cannon or soldier suit, not even room for the old time lead soldier with his bright blue and red uniform.

Visiting the local toy departments, where excited boys and girls will soon be swarming, we discovered that soldiers, even on the ABC blocks, are conspicuous by their absence.

We found the toys a revelation this year and all them were fashioned for a real purpose—to make this an industrial Christmas rather than a militaristic one. The locomotives follow the lines of the newest crack flyers with whistles that reproduce amazingly their shrill warnings.

Science will rule in the playroom, judging from the scores of microscope and chemistry sets and astronomical equipment on display. A gadget that should thrill any youngster is an electric eye which silences a radio with a flashlight, lights an electric bulb by striking a match and does other uncanny tricks. And, of course, there are dozens of movie projectors, some for as little as a dollar.

Little girls' dolls should make an Earl Carroll gasp. They range from replicas of Shirley Temple and the "quins" to the very elegant waxen beauties with real curls and eyelashes. Then there are models that, by the whim of a capricious young mother, can become a boy or a girl by the switch of clothes and wigs.

Knowing that the small child lives in a world of "Let's pretend," members of the Toy Manufacturers' association have outdone themselves in aiding and abetting this desire. There are all manner of elementary toys, housekeeping gadgets, drawing sets, picture books and push-and-pull toys for the two-to-four nursery inhabitants. These are large and simple, so as to avoid strain on eyes or smaller muscles.

For the kindergarten child there are handcraft sets and construction toys. For the six to eight-year-olds these are more complicated, and so on through the ages until a youngster outgrows the toy stage and turns to hobbies. These run the gamut from microscopes, lead casting, printing and magic sets to railroad systems and carpentry tools that should keep the most blase papa busy for hours. For girls there is a new toy loom of steel, electric stoves that really can roast a chicken and other household contrivances just like mother's, only scaled to smaller hands.

Several Weddings Here During Thanksgiving Holidays

Miss Jennie Hanna Becomes Bride Of Edgar N. Hemphill; Miss Norris And Mr. Purvis, Miss Sherrard And Mr. Hogen Marry

Sublime organ music flooded the candlelit dimness of Grace church while a fashionable throng gathered Thursday evening, November the twenty-eighth, for the marriage at six-thirty o'clock of Miss Joel Rountree Nichols, lovely daughter of Mrs. Bernice Renwick Nichols and the late Mr. Arthur Danahay Nichols, to Mr. William Asher Whitley, son of Mrs. Ruth agerson Whitley of Shreveport and the late Mr. J. W. Whitley.

Myriad cathedral tapers shed a silvery radiance on the flower-banked altar and cast fantastic shadows along the grey stone walls, where sinuous lengths of southern smilax trailed in picturesque manner. Superb white roses and shaggy white chrysanthemums were scattered with lavish hand high on the altar and banked the chancel rail. Tall white baskets overflowing with white chrysanthemums woodland fern flanked the aisle leading to the altar.

Two choristers in black and white vestments stood on either side of the aisle where pews were reserved for the relatives and immediate members of the two families.

The bride's only attendant was her cousin, Miss Catherine Nichols Cowell of Springfield, Mo., who wore a lovely azure blue chiffon, floor-length model with crushed velvet sash of a darker shade of velvet. A silver hat with flaring brim and silver slippers were worn and in her arms she carried a bouquet of pink duchess roses tied with loops of wide pink satin ribbon.

Mr. Ned Anderson of Shreveport acted as best man.

The bride, walking with her grandfather, Mr. Joseph P. Renwick, wore the traditional white satin wedding gown of classic design. It was fashioned along straight lines with fullness at the high neck line edged with braided satin. The long, tight-fitting sleeves were of Brussels' lace. The handsome lace wedding veil, appliqued with rose point, was purchased in France by a cherished friend, and was caught to the head with a coronet of orange blossoms and rhinestones. Miss Nichols carried an arm bouquet of waxen bride's roses and valley lillies caught with long loops of ivory satin ribbon.

For something old she carried a lace handkerchief that belonged to her maternal grandmother and carried by the bride's mother on her wedding day. Of appealing sentiment was the use of a seven-branched candelabrum presented to the Rayville Episcopal chapel by the bride's paternal grandfather, the late Captain D. H. Nichols. Others receiving were Mrs. Ruth Whitley, Mr. and Mrs. Melroy Thompson of Shreveport, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Whitley, Jr., of Arp, Texas, Miss Gabrella Rountree and Mrs. J. H. Rountree of Springfield, Mo.

The bride's table in the dining room was developed entirely in white and green. Handsome Venetian lace covered the table, centered with the wedding cake, in the form of a double heart surmounted with a cupid in a fluff of gauze and silver. Crystalized valley lilies encircled the confection. Tall white tapers burned in silver candelabra and at the four corners, white bride's roses and valley lilies overflowed from silver baskets. Misty tulle entwined with feathery maiden hair fern fronds was caught to the chandelier with a spray of valley lilies and bride's roses.

A white color theme of bridal significance was employed in the floral decorations in the reception suite and in the dining room. The altar in the rear of the living room was fashioned of shaggy white chrysanthemums against a background of ferns and palms. Tall white candlesticks supporting cathedral tapers enhanced the beauty of the setting.

The bride wore a stunning model of crystella cloth and chiffon and a corsage of sweetheart roses and valley lilies.

Following their honeymoon, Mr. and Mrs. Hogen will be at home in Mansfield, where Mr. Hogen is engaged in engineering construction work.

By Charles Norman

NEW YORK, Nov. 30—(AP)—Society's dancing daughters are flocking to the Brides' school to learn the intricacies of housekeeping—just in case a personable young man pops the question.

The school, sponsored by society women, charges tuition fees. Its five stories contain rooms designed to be typical of those in which the modern young miss will live as bride and matron.

Its purpose is to instruct prospective brides to run their households efficiently and economically.

The direction of servants is an important part of the curriculum. Meals, formal and informal, are traced from their source—at the grocer's—to the kitchen, thence through the mysteries of cookery to the table. Real silver is used. Furniture is real Duncan Phyfe. The rugs are genuine.

A Parisian, Alexis Lichine, is there to instruct the young things in "the art of serving wine and spirits."

Cocktails—as a word, that is—are out.

"Please don't say 'cocktails,'" said Mrs. Richard Mather Boardman, president of Scientific Housekeeping, Inc., of which the Brides' School is an offshoot. "It gives a wrong impression."

Scientific Housekeeping, in existence 10 years, was launched by a group of society women for the purpose of training servants. After 10 years, Mrs. Boardman said, it was found that the servant level had been raised, but that the inexperienced housekeeper was still a barrier to an efficiently run home. The Brides' school was the result.

A junior committee of Social Register debutantes is helping the school by spreading word of its activities in the smart set. Thus far, Mrs. Boardman said, a good half of the students are debutantes or sub-debutantes.

The school eschews words like "domestic," substituting "worker." A chambermaid is now a "worker" on daily care.

The kitchen of the Brides' School which is the very heart of the institution, is located downstairs. It is large, bright, airy. Its arrays of gleaming pots and pans are enough to dismay a social butterfly fluttering in from the bon-ton whirl. There is a tricky table full of grooves and niches where everything fits precisely.

The dining room has a butler's pantry.

There is a season every year when whiskers are in style and that season has most definitely arrived. The pictures of a jolly little fat man with long white beard will soon be seen in all the papers and the center of interest will rest on him.

The good old man never could be prevailed upon to give up his whiskers, because, in doing so, he would cease to be Santa Claus.

The world may buzz with talk of war, and children may imitate the martial spirit of their fathers and brothers, but the toy pack of the American Santa Claus is so full of playthings, distinctly on the pacific side, that there is no room for cannon or soldier suit, not even room for the old time lead soldier with his bright blue and red uniform.

Visiting the local toy departments, where excited boys and girls will soon be swarming, we discovered that soldiers, even on the ABC blocks, are conspicuous by their absence.

We found the toys a revelation this year and all them were fashioned for a real purpose—to make this an industrial Christmas rather than a militaristic one. The locomotives follow the lines of the newest crack flyers with whistles that reproduce amazingly their shrill warnings.

Science will rule in the playroom, judging from the scores of microscope and chemistry sets and astronomical equipment on display. A gadget that should thrill any youngster is an electric eye which silences a radio with a flashlight, lights an electric bulb by striking a match and does other uncanny tricks. And, of course, there are dozens of movie projectors, some for as little as a dollar.

Little girls' dolls should make an Earl Carroll gasp. They range from replics of Shirley Temple and the "quins" to the very elegant waxen beauties with real curls and eyelashes. Then there are models that, by the whim of a capricious young mother, can become a boy or a girl by the switch of clothes and wigs.

Knowing that the small child lives in a world of "Let's pretend," members of the Toy Manufacturers' association have outdone themselves in aiding and abetting this desire. There are all manner of elementary toys, housekeeping gadgets, drawing sets, picture books and push-and-pull toys for the two-to-four nursery inhabitants. These are large and simple, so as to avoid strain on eyes or smaller muscles.

For the kindergarten child there are handcraft sets and construction toys. For the six to eight-year-olds these are more complicated, and so on through the ages until a youngster outgrows the toy stage and turns to hobbies. These run the gamut from microscopes, lead casting, printing and magic sets to railroad systems and carpentry tools that should keep the most blase papa busy for hours. For girls there is a new toy loom of steel, electric stoves that really can roast a chicken and other household contrivances just like mother's, only scaled to smaller hands.

State President Speaks Before Hodge P.-T. A. Group

Child Welfare Address Is Made By Mrs. Smith

Unit Complimented For Well Rounded Plan; Accomplishments Of State Organization Outlined By Speaker

HODGE, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Mrs. Albert Smith, president of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers, was a guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Hodge high school Parent-Teacher association. Discussing child welfare, Mrs. Smith said the sole obligation of parents and teachers is to the youth of the nation.

During the course of her talk, Mrs. Smith complimented the Hodge association for its well rounded program: Provision of playground equipment for the school campus; provision of soup for underprivileged children; provision of magazines for the school library.

Accomplishments of the state P.-T. A. were outlined by the speaker, who sketched a program for world-wide organization. She also stressed the necessity of keeping school administration out of politics.

St. Matthew's P.-T. A.

In keeping with a custom established last year, the November meeting of the St. Matthew's Parochial school Parent-Teacher association of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers was devoted to the fathers of children attending the institution. The speaker of the occasion was Mrs. Carl Couch of Monroe, fifth district P.-T. A. director.

Speaking on "What is P.-T. A. and its Objects?" Mrs. Couch said it is an international organization divided into states and districts and having the promotion of child welfare and the raising of standards of home life as its major objectives.

Declaring that enthusiasm for P.-T. A. work is based on an understanding of its policies and program, she said the greatest joy in life is found in selfless service. After stressing the fact that the P.-T. A. aims to bring about a closer relationship between school and home, Mrs. Couch concluded her talk by reading the P.-T. A. creed.

Miss Catherine McStravick, supervisor of the cafeteria at the school, reported that lunches and milk had been supplied to 23 underprivileged children.

Mrs. J. W. Spohrer was appointed chairman of the "Handkerchief convention" committee. Other members named to the committee are Mrs. Paul Keller, Mrs. E. J. BeDoit and Mrs. M. P. Kutz.

Mrs. John Guerriero reported on welfare work and the recent meeting of the Twin City P.-T. A. council.

Mrs. B. W. Morrison was appointed chairman of the safety committee and Mrs. Kutz was named to the Study club. Mrs. George LeBlanc was chosen room mother of the senior class of the high school department.

Mrs. Charles Guerriero expressed satisfaction in connection with the recent membership campaign waged by the association. The freshman class of the high school department and the third grade of the elementary department were announced as winners in the campaign. They obtained the greatest percentage of new members.

In a brief talk, Walter Savage reminded the fathers present that the association was in need of their assistance, and that they should give the mothers a helping hand.

The following entertainment numbers were presented: Choruses, "Prayer Perfect" and "Twilight," high school group; a playlet, "A Thanksgiving Lesson," Paul Keller, Dan Clouatre, Sybil Marie Daughtry, Rose Ann Reid, Peggy Morrison, Edith Marie Breard and Bobby BeDoit.

Mrs. M. E. Bell, chairman, and members of the hospitality committee, assisted by high school girls, served refreshments during the social hour.

Mrs. Keller, president, presided over the meeting and Mrs. BeDoit, treasurer, gave a satisfactory report on finances.

Rev. Father N. F. Vandegaer, pastor of St. Matthew's Catholic church, opened the meeting with the Lord's prayer.

Of special interest to the parents was a display of the work of the children of the school. The exhibition was arranged on tables in the auditorium of the school.

Marion P.-T. A.

MARION, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Presentation of a health program and a determination to improve the campus and stage of the school featured the regular meeting of the Marion High school Parent-Teacher association of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The health program was arranged by and presented under the direction of Mrs. B. K. Watson. The association decided to improve the campus of the school by planting shrubbery. Action was also taken toward improving the acoustics and appearance of the stage in the auditorium.

Reports were made by the various committees of the association.

The seventh grade won the monthly prize offered to the class having the largest percentage of parents present. There were 30 members in attendance at the meeting.

The next meeting of the association is scheduled for December 11.

Choudrant P.-T. A.

CHOUDRANT, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Three committees to serve on objective projects have been appointed by the Choudrant P.-T. A. of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The committees, appointed by Mrs. H. M. Bagly, president, are: The piano committee, Miss Elva Leggett, Rev. J. C. McCann and Harold Willis; playground equipment, Mrs. Myra Bell Holstead and Miss Hester Kinman; shrubbery committee, C. L. Madden, Mrs. Zylpa Babers and T. H. Sizemore.

Swartz P.-T. A.

The Parent-Teacher association of the Swartz school held its regular meeting at the school, with 32 members present. An interesting program was presented.

The prize for having the most parents present was won by Mrs. Perkins' class.

Miss Bernice Wright, executive secretary of the Ouachita Parish Tuberculosis and Public Health association, gave a talk on the sale of Christmas seals and the need of funds raised by the sale.

Plans for a box supper to be given in the near future were discussed.

Central P.-T. A.

The P.-T. A. of the Central Grammar school met in the school auditorium November 27, at 3:30 p.m.

The first selection on the afternoon's program was a song by the children of the Central Grammar Glee club. This club was trained by Miss Cliffie Olmstead and showed the excellence of her careful instruction.

Mrs. Maud Davis gave a highly instructive and interesting talk on "Geography as a Basis of Citizenship."

At the conclusion of the talk, Mrs. R. R. Gatlin, president of the P.-T. A., presided at a business session, during which reports were returned by the treasurer and secretary.

Mrs. Alice Hanna, as chairman of the program committee, gave her report and suggested that each mother join the study club. This suggestion was approved by the association, and at the next meeting, the subjects to be offered will be presented.

Mrs. Hulda Mansberg was appointed P.-T. A. chairman of safety by the president.

After consideration by the group, the meeting date was changed to the second Wednesday of each month.

Mrs. Mansberg's room won in the contest for the largest percentage of parents at the meeting.

Claiborne P.-T. A.

A program featuring an address by W. M. Middleton and a decision to hold a benefit box supper December 5 marked the regular meeting of the Claiborne school Parent-Teacher association of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Mr. Middleton, a world traveler, spoke on "Geography as a Basis for World Citizenship." At one time a missionary to China, Mr. Middleton has also traveled in Africa and Asia Minor.

Other numbers on the program, arranged by Mrs. Leo Hartman, included: A son by the assemblage; a panel discussion of reports of delegates to a recent P.-T. A. conference; a reading, "Orphan Annie," by Virginia DeFreese; and a song by Mrs. O. L. Cloyd.

The association voted to hold the box supper to raise funds for playground equipment for the school. A feature of the event will be "Candidates' night." Each candidate for political office in this vicinity will be allowed to make a five-minute talk.

The next meeting of the association will be held December 20. Mrs. M. L. DeFreese will be in charge of the program.

'Mary' Of Oberammergau Play Is Now Co-Ed In Florida College

WINTER PARK, Fla., Nov. 30.—(AP)—The only person ever to play the part of "Virgin Mary" twice in the Passion Play at Oberammergau, Germany, has enrolled as a student at Rollins college here.

She is Annie Rutz, member of a family prominent in Oberammergau for 400 years. Miss Rutz played the part of the Mother of Jesus in the Passion Play in 1930 and in the 300th anniversary production of the famous pageant in 1934.

In coming to Rollins, Annie joins her sister, Mia Rutz, who has been a student here for a year. Mia appeared in the 1934 production of the Passion Play as "Solomon's Bride," in a tableau.

Their performance was witnessed by President Hamilton Holt of Rollins in the summer of 1934 and at the time, Dr. Holt invited both girls to come to Rollins. Annie was unable to complete arrangements until this year, but Mia came here last year and is one of the most popular co-eds on the campus.

An ancestor of Annie and Mia, Jacob Rutz, portrayed Christ in the first production of the Passion Play 300 years ago, in 1634. The music for the play, which has been used ever since 1811, was composed by Roghus Dedler, a great-great uncle of the sisters.

Wishing to dissipate a legend that the person who portrays the part of the "Virgin Mary" and other principal women players must banish all thought of marriage, Mia declares that her sister is quite eligible for marriage. Both girls received good educations in Europe and both speak English, but Mia is somewhat more fluent due to her year in America.

Annie plans to study music and drama at Rollins. A skiing enthusiast she expects to miss the snow and ice of her native land but she already likes Florida's climate. Miss Rutz doubts whether she will appear in the Passion Play in 1940 because so many women are competing for the role.

Annie Rutz (right), the only woman to enact the role of Mary, Mother of Jesus, twice in the Passion Play at Oberammergau, and her sister, Mia who was in the cast in 1934, are now students at Rollins college, Winter Park, Fla.

CHAPTER XIV

This summer, Jean was discovering, was not one in which that prized possession, her peace of mind, was really flourishing.

She had begun the summer in a settled groove. Bobby was always hovering near, like a familiar and beloved spirit; when she looked to the future, she always had a somewhat hazy picture of herself as Mrs. Robert Wallace, presiding over a cozy little apartment or a pleasant little house in some suburban subdivision. She had known Bobby from boyhood; for at least three years, now, she had more or less taken it for granted that some day she would become his wife.

But of late this familiar picture had become disarranged. Into the quiet routine of her daily life had come a new figure; a long, athletic young man from the west, who had a lazy drawl and a mocking smile which both disturbed and fascinated her, and who for some unaccountable reason seemed to move in the very aura of romance, so that her pulse seemed to beat a little faster every time she saw him. When he was with her she found herself saying things and thinking things she had not intended to say and think; when he was not with her, his image had a way of popping into her mind at the most unexpected times—like, for example, that evening when he had suddenly come between her and Bobby at the very moment when Bobby was making his most ardent proposal.

So the old, familiar picture of herself as Bobby Wallace's wife seemed to be getting a little out of focus, somehow—blurry and unreal, like a badly taken photograph. She found herself putting Bobby off, evading direct answers to his questions, postponing things in a way which left that honest young man sorely puzzled; yet she never seemed to be able to reach any decision in her own mind, and if her life had depended on it she could not have said whether, in the bottom of her heart, she still intended to marry him.

Meanwhile, she continued to see both young men; and the mere business of keeping her wires uncrossed in this matter, of keeping the two sets of dates from conflicting, of being her old self with Bobby and her new, rather frightening self with Sandy—was, she discovered, enough to keep a faint furrow in her brow.

Being thus unsettled and uncertain, Jean was taken completely aback when Sandy proposed to her.

It was a Saturday afternoon, and they had gone out to play golf. Finishing their game, they had got into Sandy's roadster and had driven out across the country without any particular goal; and at last Sandy had parked the car on a quiet road that followed the crest of a long ridge south of town, and they had got out and walked to a little clump of trees at the crest of a long slope.

Jean sat down on a log, looking out over the green valley below, and Sandy sprawled, loose-limbed, on the ground at her feet. He was smoking a cigarette and looking up at the tree tops; and suddenly, without any preamble whatever, he said, "Listen, sister, why shouldn't you and I get married?"

If he had tossed a glass of ice water in her face Jean could hardly have been more completely surprised. For it happened that one of the ways in which she eased her conscience for continuing to see Sandy while her supposed engagement to Bobby existed was the argument that she and Sandy were "just pals," and that Sandy had no romantic notions whatever about her. She looked at him, her lips parted, her eyes large.

He had been lying on his back, hands clasped behind his head. Now he sat up, folded his arms about his knees, and looked up at her, his smile that familiar and exciting mixture of derision and affection.

"Yeah," he said. "Married. You know. People do it. They go to a minister and hold hands and he goes mumbo-jumbo over their heads"—he made an airy pass with his hands—"and then they go to Niagara Falls or some place on their honeymoon, and after that they're married. You know?"

All she could find to say was, "Why, Sandy!" which didn't seem to advance things very much.

"Well, why not?" he asked, as casually as if he had suggested that they go to a movie. "Isn't it a good idea?"

She hesitated, her heart beating furiously.

"Sandy," she faltered, "I—I didn't know that you—that you felt that way about me—"

"Come off, come off," he said, looking up shrewdly. "You know better than that."

"Honestly, Sandy, I didn't think you—"

Her voice trailed off, and there was a tense pause..

"Well," said Sandy lazily, looking out over the valley, "what in thunder did you think I was hanging around all the time for, anyhow?"

Her voice was somewhat unsteady as she said: "Why—why, we had good times together . . . and both like to ride and go canoeing and get out in the country, and—"

He grinned derisively and slowly got to his feet. She watched him with wide eyes, a queer mixture of suspense, eagerness, and something very like fear in her heart, as he calmly walked over to the log. Very delibereately, he reached down and took her hands. Then, still moving with the utmost calmness, he drew her to her feet. One muscular arm went about her shoulder, and a hand took her chin and with gentle firmness raised her head so that she had to look into his eyes.

"An' you didn't know all this time how I wanted you?" he asked softly. "You sweet, golden-haired little simpleton—"

His face slowly came closer. Her mind and body seemed paralyzed. She surrendered to the compelling force of his personality—and to a mysterious current which seemed to well up from her breast and sweep away all her resolution. His lips touched hers, very gently; then his arms tightened about her, and she was held in an embrace that almost crushed her, in which all the world spun away in a confusion that left her conscious only of Sandy's lips on hers and Sandy's arms about her body.

At last he released her. The embrace might have lasted five seconds or five minutes; she had no notion of time. She stood there, a startled expression in her eyes, her knees feeling strangely weak. If Sandy had not kept his arm about her shoulders she believed that she would have fallen to the ground.

"So now—you see?" said Sandy softly. He took her elbows and gently eased her down onto the log, and sat there beside her, an arm around her waist.

"See?" he repeated. "That's how I want you."

She made a valiant effort to collect her fugitive thoughts. She discovered that she did not have the faintest idea how she was going to answer this unexpected proposal. Her mental faculties seemed to be paralyzed; the most she could do was sit there and try vainly to analyze the bewildering succession of emotions that whirled through her heart.

She turned to him and tried to speak; but he instantly drew her to him and kised her again; a long kiss that began gently and ended with almost savage intensity. When he released her and she tried to turn away he pulled her close once more and kissed her again. His mouth pressed to her lips, her cheeks, her chin and her eyes, in a restless hunger that became, at last, unendurable; and she put her hands on his breast and pushed him away.

He let her go, readily enough, and sat watching her with a quiet smile as she got weakly to her feet. She moved away a little distance; and then, to her amazement, she found herself sitting down on the turf, crying.

"Yey," said Sandy, uncertainly, coming over to her. "What's wrong, kiddo?"

She turned away, furious with herself for giving way to tears whose coming she could not explain, and dabbed at her eyes with her handkerchief. She heard Sandy chuckle and say, "That bit of lace won't help much"; and he pressed his own handkerchief into her hands. She used it, dried her tears, and fumbled for her compact to make her face presentable again. At last she was able to turn about and face him once more. He was looking at her with an expression of mild concern.

"What's wrong?" he asked.

"Oh—I'm just crazy, I guess," she said. "I don't know what made me cry."

"You aren't mad, or anything?"

She got up and returned to the log.

"No, I'm not mad—of course not," she said. There was a moment of silence. Then she said, "Sandy—did you mean it—what you asked me, just now?"

"Why, of course I meant it. Did you think I was joking?" He moved toward her, but she shrank away, saying, "Please not, Sandy—not now." He relaxed, studying her between half-closed lids. "Sure I meant it," he repeated, finally. "How about it? Think it's a good idea?"

She looked out over the valley.

"I—I don't know," she confessed helplessly.

"Don't know? You acted like you knew . . . a minute or two ago."

She felt her cheeks grow pink, and she said, "You mustn't—sweep me off my feet that way, Sandy. I can't—I can't think when you do that. I can't tell how I feel."

He waited. Then he said, "Well?"

She turned to face him.

"Listen, Sandy," she said, "please don't make me answer you right now. I can't." She paused, and then went on: "I'm going home, pretty soon. I don't mean back to my apartment—I mean back to Maplehurst, where my people live."

"Where's Maplehurst?"

"Oh, it's about a hundred and fifty miles south of here. Just a little place. Sandy, let me—let me think about it, while I'm on my vacation. I can't answer you now."

"You spending your vacation in Maplehurst?"

She nodded. Now it was Sandy's turn to stare thoughtfully out over the valley. His eyes narrowed, and he pursed his lips as if to whistle. Then he looked at her and said, "How about my dropping in, down there, and paying you a call? Okay?"

She nodded. "I'd like to have you, Sandy."

Clarks

The Baptist Women's Missionary union met recently at the church for their monthly royal service program, rendered under the supervision of Mrs. John D. Stuart, royal service program chairman. "The Christian Conquest in China" was the topic and was a continuation of the study of the life of Mrs. Henrietta Hall Shuck, a Baptist missionary to China 100 years ago.

The Bible study, John 2nd chapter, first through sixth verses, was given by Mrs. M. E. Reitzell.

Mrs. T. E. Skirvin gave a talk on "Mrs. Shuck's Work in China." She also told of the Chinese mode of living as she learned it from her visit to Chinatown at the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago.

Mrs. Stuart gave a talk on "Southern Baptist Conquest in China."

In an interesting dialogue, Miss Odessa Streetman impersonated Mrs. M. E. Dodd, and Miss Evelyn Skinner represented Mrs. Shuck. Their conversation compared China as Mrs. Shuck knew it 100 years ago, and China as visited recently by Mrs. Dodd.

Quilting also featured the afternoon's program. Two quilts, one for Mrs. G. N. Harrison and the other for Mrs. Paul Jones, have been recently made by union members.

Students of the Clarks High school recently entertained at a box supper at the high school auditorium. B. E. Howard, school principal, was in charge. The supper closed a contest conducted by the student body to elect a Thanksgiving queen who reigned over the Clarks-Columbia football game on the local field Thursday afternoon. The final run off was between Miss Ouida Hindman and Miss Harrietta Cobb, and Miss Cobb was winner. The proceeds were contributed to the school athletic fund.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Sheppard spent a recent week-end in Shreveport, where Mr. Sheppard attended a lumbermen's meeting.

P. E. Cooksey, a senior at L. S. U., was a guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Cooksey, during a recent week-end.

Teachers of the Clarks High school who attended the state teachers' convention in Alexandria were B. E. Howard, Roy Camp, Mrs. F. B. Wisinger, Miss Alice Lineback, Miss Helen McDonald, Miss Ada Woods, Mrs. Faye Estep, Miss Dora Cooksey, Mrs. Durwood Pettijohn, Miss Sentelle Johns and Miss Mildred Bird.

Mrs. J. W. Box and Elbert Humphries were guests of Mrs. O. L. Cooper in Shreveport during a recent week-end.

Miss Louise Zeagler, a student at Louisiana State normal, was a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Zeagler, during a recent week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Farrow and children were guests of Mrs. Farrow's relatives in Jena during a recent week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Stovall and little son of Lake Charles are the guests of Mrs. Stovall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Wilson.

Mrs. J. L. Anderson and Mrs. G. N. Harrison had as their guests recently Mrs. B. F. Adams of Pine Bluff, Ark. Mrs. Anderson accompanied Mrs. Adams to Baton Rouge, where they were guests of Mrs. Adam's daughter, Miss Jessie Adams.

Bastrop

Mrs. F. K. Pettiss was hostess to the members of the Pot Pourri Book club recently at her home. Mrs. Estelle B. Harris, president, graciously greeted the following guests: Mrs. J. T. Howell of Collinston, Mrs. C. G. Scott, Mrs. A. B. Andrews, Mrs. T. A. Murchie, Mrs. M. V. Orr and Mrs W. T. Smith.

On this occasion, the club had the pleasure of hearing an account given by Mrs. H. F. Madison, Sr., of her recent trip to England, Scotland and Ireland. Mrs. W. T. Smith, accompanied by Mrs. M. V. Orr at the piano, sang a Scotch ballad, ending with "Auld Lang Syne." The club members joined in the chorus. Little Miss Phyliss Rose Seligman danced the highland fling. Mrs. Ferguson accompanied her at the piano.

Mrs. Pettiss served a delicious plate luncheon to the following: Mesdames James Madison, H. F. Madison, Sr., J. P. Madison, S. A. Leopold, Jake Kern, H. I. Seligman, Charles Grossman, McVea Young, J. B. Tisdale, R. E. Fullenwider, Isaac Chapman, W. H. Giles, A. C. Volk, W. T. Smith, F. L. Billington, D. L. O'Neal, Estelle B. Harris, M. V. Orr, C. G. Scott, J. T. Howell, A. B. Andrews, J. T. Ferguson and Miss Phyliss Rose Seligman.

Ideal golf weather, combined with enthusiasm for bridge, brought out an unusually large number of members and their guests to the regular meeting of the ladies' auxiliary of the Country club. The keynote of the decorations was a huge plaque of yellow chrysanthemums and ferns placed on the center table in the lounge. The committee responsible for the enjoyable afternoon, which was preceded by a delicious luncheon, were Mesdames Charles Grossman, F. L. Billington, T. B. Tisdale and Miss Tina Collins.

Mrs. W. B. Gladney had the winning score on the links, for which she was presented with a golf ball, and Mrs. George T. Madison received the prize for highest score in the bridge games.

The members included Mesdames G. H. Beckman, C. N. Dalton, W. P. Douglass, W. B. Gladney, George H. Goodwin, J. Leland Howard, George Khourt, E. V. Loftin, George T. Madison, James Madison, Arthur Ross, H. I. Seligman, Leo Terzia, J. B. Tisdale, A. C. Volk, Ferd Wolff, F. L. Billington, H. Webb Madison, John Coats, F. P. Robinson, J. W. Gillen and J. F. Montgomery and Misses Tina Collins and Elizabeth Carr.

Guests enjoying the hospitality of club members were Mesdames Isaac Chapman, Charles Hamiter, David Snyder, S. G. Lucky, V. M. Reitzell and Jake Kern and Miss Loraine Smith of Oklahoma City and Miss Irene Minsky of Tallulah.

Mr. and Mrs. William Edward Turpin announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ada Virginia, to Mr. Lewis Robert Clark of Cameron, W. Va. The wedding will take place early in January.

Miss Turpin, a popular member of the young social set, is a graduate of the Louisiana college and is at present a member of the Bastrop Central Grammar school faculty. Mr. Clark is a son of Mrs. Georgia Ann Clark of Cameron, W. Va., and the late Mr. Clark. He is a graduate of Wesleyan university and is a member of Tau Kappa Epsilom fraternity. He is now affiliated with the Mississippi River Fuel corporation and is in charge of the chart department at Perryville.

A good pond of water should produce as many pounds of fish per acre as a pasture will produce pounds of beef, says L. A. Whitford of the University of North Carolina botany department.

State President Speaks Before Hodge P.-T. A. Group

Child Welfare Address Is Made By Mrs. Smith

Unit Complimented For Well Rounded Plan; Accomplishments Of State Organization Outlined By Speaker

HODGE, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Mrs. Albert Smith, president of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers, was a guest speaker at the regular meeting of the Hodge high school Parent-Teacher association. Discussing child welfare, Mrs. Smith said the sole obligation of parents and teachers is to the youth of the nation.

During the course of her talk, Mrs. Smith complimented the Hodge association for its well rounded program: Provision of playground equipment for the school campus; provision of soup for underprivileged children; provision of magazines for the school library.

Accomplishments of the state P.-T. A. were outlined by the speaker, who sketched a program for world-wide organization. She also stressed the necessity of keeping school administration out of politics.

St. Matthew's P.-T. A.

In keeping with a custom established last year, the November meeting of the St. Matthew's Parochial school Parent-Teacher association of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers was devoted to the fathers of children attending the institution. The speaker of the occasion was Mrs. Carl Couch of Monroe, fifth district P.-T. A. director.

Speaking on "What is P.-T. A. and its Objects?" Mrs. Couch said it is an international organization divided into states and districts and having the promotion of child welfare and the raising of standards of home life as its major objectives.

Declaring that enthusiasm for P.-T. A. work is based on an understanding of its policies and program, she said the greatest joy in life is found in selfless service. After stressing the fact that the P.-T. A. aims to bring about a closer relationship between school and home, Mrs. Couch concluded her talk by reading the P.-T. A. creed.

Miss Catherine McStravick, supervisor of the cafeteria at the school, reported that lunches and milk had been supplied to 23 underprivileged children.

Mrs. J. W. Spohrer was appointed chairman of the "Handkerchief convention" committee. Other members named to the committee are Mrs. Paul Keller, Mrs. E. J. BeDoit and Mrs. M. P. Kutz.

Mrs. John Guerriero reported on welfare work and the recent meeting of the Twin City P.-T. A. council.

Mrs. B. W. Morrison was appointed chairman of the safety committee and Mrs. Kutz was named to the Study club. Mrs. George LeBlanc was chosen room mother of the senior class of the high school department.

Mrs. Charles Guerriero expressed satisfaction in connection with the recent membership campaign waged by the association. The freshman class of the high school department and the third grade of the elementary department were announced as winners in the campaign. They obtained the greatest percentage of new members.

In a brief talk, Walter Savage reminded the fathers present that the association was in need of their assistance, and that they should give the mothers a helping hand.

The following entertainment numbers were presented: Choruses, "Prayer Perfect" and "Twilight," high school group; a playlet, "A Thanksgiving Lesson," Paul Keller, Dan Clouatre, Sybil Marie Daughtry, Rose Ann Reid, Peggy Morrison, Edith Marie Breard and Bobby BeDoit.

Mrs. M. E. Bell, chairman, and members of the hospitality committee, assisted by high school girls, served refreshments during the social hour.

Mrs. Keller, president, presided over the meeting and Mrs. BeDoit, treasurer, gave a satisfactory report on finances.

Rev. Father N. F. Vandegaer, pastor of St. Matthew's Catholic church, opened the meeting with the Lord's prayer.

Of special interest to the parents was a display of the work of the children of the school. The exhibition was arranged on tables in the auditorium of the school.

Marion P.-T. A.

MARION, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Presentation of a health program and a determination to improve the campus and stage of the school featured the regular meeting of the Marion High school Parent-Teacher association of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The health program was arranged by and presented under the direction of Mrs. B. K. Watson. The association decided to improve the campus of the school by planting shrubbery. Action was also taken toward improving the acoustics and appearance of the stage in the auditorium.

Reports were made by the various committees of the association.

The seventh grade won the monthly prize offered to the class having the largest percentage of parents present. There were 30 members in attendance at the meeting.

The next meeting of the association is scheduled for December 11.

Choudrant P.-T. A.

CHOUDRANT, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Three committees to serve on objective projects have been appointed by the Choudrant P.-T. A. of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers.

The committees, appointed by Mrs. H. M. Bagly, president, are: The piano committee, Miss Elva Leggett, Rev. J. C. McCann and Harold Willis; playground equipment, Mrs. Myra Bell Holstead and Miss Hester Kinman; shrubbery committee, C. L. Madden, Mrs. Zylpa Babers and T. H. Sizemore.

Mrs. C. L. Madden, chairman of the hospitality committee, represented this unit at the Alexandria meeting, held in connection with the state teachers' convention.

Swartz P.-T. A.

The Parent-Teacher association of the Swartz school held its regular meeting at the school, with 32 members present. An interesting program was presented.

The prize for having the most parents present was won by Mrs. Perkins' class.

Miss Bernice Wright, executive secretary of the Ouachita Parish Tuberculosis and Public Health association, gave a talk on the sale of Christmas seals and the need of funds raised by the sale.

Plans for a box supper to be given in the near future were discussed.

The P.-T. A. of the Central Grammar school met in the school auditorium November 27, at 3:30 p.m.

The first selection on the afternoon's program was a song by the children of the Central Grammar Glee club. This club was trained by Miss Cliffie Olmstead and showed the excellence of her careful instruction.

Mrs. Maud Davis gave a highly instructive and interesting talk on "Geography as a Basis of Citizenship."

At the conclusion of the talk, Mrs. R. R. Gatlin, president of the P.-T. A., presided at a business session, during which reports were returned by the treasurer and secretary.

Mrs. Alice Hanna, as chairman of the program committee, gave her report and suggested that each mother join the study club. This suggestion was approved by the association, and at the next meeting, the subjects to be offered will be presented.

Mrs. Hulda Mansberg was appointed P.-T. A. chairman of safety by the president.

After consideration by the group, the meeting date was changed to the second Wednesday of each month.

Mrs. Mansberg's room won in the contest for the largest percentage of parents at the meeting.

Claiborne P.-T. A.

A program featuring an address by W. M. Middleton and a decision to hold a benefit box supper December 5 marked the regular meeting of the Claiborne school Parent-Teacher association of the Louisiana Congress of Parents and Teachers.

Mr. Middleton, a world traveler, spoke on "Geography as a Basis for World Citizenship." At one time a missionary to China, Mr. Middleton has also traveled in Africa and Asia Minor.

Other numbers on the program, arranged by Mrs. Leo Hartman, included: A son by the assemblage; a panel discussion of reports of delegates to a recent P.-T. A. conference; a reading, "Orphan Annie," by Virginia DeFreese; and a song by Mrs. O. L. Cloyd.

The association voted to hold the box supper to raise funds for playground equipment for the school. A feature of the event will be "Candidates' night." Each candidate for political office in this vicinity will be allowed to make a five-minute talk.

The next meeting of the association will be held December 20. Mrs. M. L. DeFreese will be in charge of the program.

'Mary' Of Oberammergau Play Is Now Co-Ed In Florida College

WINTER PARK, Fla., Nov. 30.—(AP)—The only person ever to play the part of "Virgin Mary" twice in the Passion Play at Oberammergau, Germany, has enrolled as a student at Rollins college here.

She is Annie Rutz, member of a family prominent in Oberammergau for 400 years. Miss Rutz played the part of the Mother of Jesus in the Passion Play in 1930 and in the 300th anniversary production of the famous pageant in 1934.

In coming to Rollins, Annie joins her sister, Mia Rutz, who has been a student here for a year. Mia appeared in the 1934 production of the Passion Play as "Solomon's Bride," in a tableau.

Their performance was witnessed by President Hamilton Holt of Rollins in the summer of 1934 and at the time, Dr. Holt invited both girls to come to Rollins. Annie was unable to complete arrangements until this year, but Mia came here last year and is one of the most popular co-eds on the campus.

An ancestor of Annie and Mia, Jacob Rutz, portrayed Christ in the first production of the Passion Play 300 years ago, in 1634. The music for the play, which has been used ever since 1811, was composed by Roghus Dedler, a great-great uncle of the sisters.

Annie Rutz (right), the only woman to enact the role of Mary, Mother of Jesus, twice in the Passion Play at Oberammergau, and her sister, Mia who was in the cast in 1934, are now students at Rollins college, Winter Park, Fla.

Wishing to dissipate a legend that the person who portrays the part of the "Virgin Mary" and other principal women players must banish all thought of marriage, Mia declares that her sister is quite eligible for marriage. Both girls received good educations in Europe and both speak English, but Mia is somewhat more fluent due to her year in America.

Annie plans to study music and drama at Rollins. A skiing enthusiast she expects to miss the snow and ice of her native land but she already likes Florida's climate. Miss Rutz doubts whether she will appear in the Passion Play in 1940 because so many women are competing for the role.

CHAPTER XIV

This summer, Jean was discovering, was not one in which that prized possession, her peace of mind, was really flourishing.

She had begun the summer in a settled groove. Bobby was always hovering near, like a familiar and beloved spirit; when she looked to the future, she always had a somewhat hazy picture of herself as Mrs. Robert Wallace, presiding over a cozy little apartment or a pleasant little house in some suburban subdivision. She had known Bobby from boyhood; for at least three years, now, she had more or less taken it for granted that some day she would become his wife.

But of late this familiar picture had become disarranged. Into the quiet routine of her daily life had come a new figure; a long, athletic young man from the west, who had a lazy drawl and a mocking smile which both disturbed and fascinated her, and who for some unaccountable reason seemed to move in the very aura of romance, so that her pulse seemed to beat a little faster every time she saw him. When he was with her she found herself saying things and thinking things she had not intended to say and think; when he was not with her, his image had a way of popping into her mind at the most unexpected times—like, for example, that evening when he had suddenly come between her and Bobby at the very moment when Bobby was making his most ardent proposal.

So the old, familiar picture of herself as Bobby Wallace's wife seemed to be getting a little out of focus, somehow—blurry and unreal, like a badly taken photograph. She found herself putting Bobby off, evading direct answers to his questions, postponing things in a way which left that honest young man sorely puzzled; yet she never seemed to be able to reach any decision in her own mind, and if her life had depended on it she could not have said whether, in the bottom of her heart, she still intended to marry him.

Meanwhile, she continued to see both young men; and the mere business of keeping her wires uncrossed in this matter, of keeping the two sets of dates from conflicting, of being her old self with Bobby and her new, rather frightening self with Sandy—was, she discovered, enough to keep a faint furrow in her brow.

Being thus unsettled and uncertain, Jean was taken completely aback when Sandy proposed to her.

It was a Saturday afternoon, and they had gone out to play golf. Finishing their game, they had got into Sandy's roadster and had driven out across the country without any particular goal; and at last Sandy had parked the car on a quiet road that followed the crest of a long ridge south of town, and they had got out and walked to a little clump of trees at the crest of a long slope.

Jean sat down on a log, looking out over the green valley below, and Sandy sprawled, loose-limbed, on the ground at her feet. He was smoking a cigarette and looking up at the tree tops; and suddenly, without any preamble whatever, he said, "Listen, sister, why shouldn't you and I get married?"

If he had tossed a glass of ice water in her face Jean could hardly have been more completely surprised. For it happened that one of the ways in which she eased her conscience for continuing to see Sandy while her supposed engagement to Bobby existed was the argument that she and Sandy were "just pals," and that Sandy had no romantic notions whatever about her. She looked at him, her lips parted, her eyes large.

He had been lying on his back, hands clasped behind his head. Now he sat up, folded his arms about his knees, and looked up at her, his smile that familiar and exciting mixture of derision and affection.

"Yeah," he said. "Married. You know. People do it. They go to a minister and hold hands and he goes mumbo-jumbo over their heads"—he made an airy pass with his hands—"and then they go to Niagara Falls or some place on their honeymoon, and after that they're married. You know?"

All she could find to say was, "Why, Sandy!" which didn't seem to advance things very much.

"Well, why not?" he asked, as casually as if he had suggested that they go to a movie. "Isn't it a good idea?"

She hesitated, her heart beating furiously.

"Sandy," she faltered, "I—I didn't know that you—that you felt that way about me—"

"Come off, come off," he said, looking up shrewdly. "You know better than that."

"Honestly, Sandy, I didn't think you—"

Her voice trailed off, and there was a tense pause..

"Well," said Sandy lazily, looking out over the valley, "what in thunder did you think I was hanging around all the time for, anyhow?"

Her voice was somewhat unsteady as she said: "Why—why, we had good times together . . . and both like to ride and go canoeing and get out in the country, and—"

He grinned derisively and slowly got to his feet. She watched him with wide eyes, a queer mixture of suspense, eagerness, and something very like fear in her heart, as he calmly walked over to the log. Very deliberately, he reached down and took her hands. Then, still moving with the utmost calmness, he drew her to her feet. One muscular arm went about her shoulder, and a hand took her chin and with gentle firmness raised her head so that she had to look into his eyes.

"An' you didn't know all this time how I wanted you?" he asked softly. "You sweet, golden-haired little simpleton—"

His face slowly came closer. Her mind and body seemed paralyzed. She surrendered to the compelling force of his personality—and to a mysterious current which seemed to well up from her breast and sweep away all her resolution. His lips touched hers, very gently; then his arms tightened about her, and she was held in an embrace that almost crushed her, in which all the world spun away in a confusion that left her conscious only of Sandy's lips on hers and Sandy's arms about her body.

At last he released her. The embrace might have lasted five seconds or five minutes; she had no notion of time. She stood there, a startled expression in her eyes, her knees feeling strangely weak. If Sandy had not kept his arm about her shoulders she believed that she would have fallen to the ground.

"So now—you see?" said Sandy softly. He took her elbows and gently eased her down onto the log, and sat there beside her, an arm around her waist.

"See?" he repeated. "That's how I want you."

She made a valiant effort to collect her fugitive thoughts. She discovered that she did not have the faintest idea how she was going to answer this unexpected proposal. Her mental faculties seemed to be paralyzed; the most she could do was sit there and try vainly to analyze the bewildering succession of emotions that whirled through her heart.

She turned to him and tried to speak; but he instantly drew her to him and kised her again; a long kiss that began gently and ended with almost savage intensity. When he released her and she tried to turn away he pulled her close once more and kissed her again. His mouth pressed to her lips, her cheeks, her chin and her eyes, in a restless hunger that became, at last, unendurable; and she put her hands on his breast and pushed him away.

He let her go, readily enough, and sat watching her with a quiet smile as she got weakly to her feet. She moved away a little distance; and then, to her amazement, she found herself sitting down on the turf, crying.

"Yey," said Sandy, uncertainly, coming over to her. "What's wrong, kiddo?"

She turned away, furious with herself for giving way to tears whose coming she could not explain, and dabbed at her eyes with her handkerchief. She heard Sandy chuckle and say, "That bit of lace won't help much"; and he pressed his own handkerchief into her hands. She used it, dried her tears, and fumbled for her compact to make her face presentable again. At last she was able to turn about and face him once more. He was looking at her with an expression of mild concern.

"What's wrong?" he asked.

"Oh—I'm just crazy, I guess," she said. "I don't know what made me cry."

"You aren't mad, or anything?"

She got up and returned to the log.

"No, I'm not mad—of course not," she said. There was a moment of silence. Then she said, "Sandy—did you mean it—what you asked me, just now?"

"Why, of course I meant it. Did you think I was joking?" He moved toward her, but she shrank away, saying, "Please not, Sandy—not now." He relaxed, studying her between half-closed lids. "Sure I meant it," he repeated, finally. "How about it? Think it's a good idea?"

She looked out over the valley.

"I—I don't know," she confessed helplessly.

"Don't know? You acted like you knew . . . a minute or two ago."

She felt her cheeks grow pink, and she said, "You mustn't—sweep me off my feet that way, Sandy. I can't—I can't think when you do that. I can't tell how I feel."

He waited. Then he said, "Well?"

She turned to face him.

"Listen, Sandy," she said, "please don't make me answer you right now. I can't." She paused, and then went on: "I'm going home, pretty soon. I don't mean back to my apartment—I mean back to Maplehurst, where my people live."

"Where's Maplehurst?"

"Oh, it's about a hundred and fifty miles south of here. Just a little place. Sandy, let me—let me think about it, while I'm on my vacation. I can't answer you now."

"You spending your vacation in Maplehurst?"

She nodded. Now it was Sandy's turn to stare thoughtfully out over the valley. His eyes narrowed, and he pursed his lips as if to whistle. Then he looked at her and said, "How about my dropping in, down there, and paying you a call? Okay?"

She nodded. "I'd like to have you, Sandy."

Clarks

The Baptist Women's Missionary union met recently at the church for their monthly royal service program, rendered under the supervision of Mrs. John D. Stuart, royal service program chairman. "The Christian Conquest in China" was the topic and was a continuation of the study of the life of Mrs. Henrietta Hall Shuck, a Baptist missionary to China 100 years ago.

The Bible study, John 2nd chapter, first through sixth verses, was given by Mrs. M. E. Reitzell.

Mrs. T. E. Skirvin gave a talk on "Mrs. Shuck's Work in China." She also told of the Chinese mode of living as she learned it from her visit to Chinatown at the Century of Progress exposition in Chicago.

Mrs. Stuart gave a talk on "Southern Baptist Conquest in China."

In an interesting dialogue, Miss Odessa Streetman impersonated Mrs. M. E. Dodd, and Miss Evelyn Skinner represented Mrs. Shuck. Their conversation compared China as Mrs. Shuck knew it 100 years ago, and China as visited recently by Mrs. Dodd.

Quilting also featured the afternoon's program. Two quilts, one for Mrs. G. N. Harrison and the other for Mrs. Paul Jones, have been recently made by union members.

Students of the Clarks High school recently entertained at a box supper at the high school auditorium. B. E. Howard, school principal, was in charge. The supper closed a contest conducted by the student body to elect a Thanksgiving queen who reigned over the Clarks-Columbia football game on the local field Thursday afternoon. The final run off was between Miss Ouida Hindman and Miss Harrietta Cobb, and Miss Cobb was winner. The proceeds were contributed to the school athletic fund.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Sheppard spent a recent week-end in Shreveport, where Mr. Sheppard attended a lumbermen's meeting.

P. E. Cooksey, a senior at L. S. U., was a guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Cooksey, during a recent week-end.

Teachers of the Clarks High school who attended the state teachers' convention in Alexandria were B. E. Howard, Roy Camp, Mrs. F. B. Wisinger, Miss Alice Lineback, Miss Helen McDonald, Miss Ada Woods, Mrs. Faye Estep, Miss Dora Cooksey, Mrs. Durwood Pettijohn, Miss Sentelle Johns and Miss Mildred Bird.

Mrs. J. W. Box and Elbert Humphries were guests of Mrs. O. L. Cooper in Shreveport during a recent week-end.

Miss Louise Zeagler, a student at Louisiana State normal, was a guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Zeagler, during a recent week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Farrow and children were guests of Mrs. Farrow's relatives in Jena during a recent week-end.

Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Stovall and little son of Lake Charles are the guests of Mrs. Stovall's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Wilson.

Mrs. J. L. Anderson and Mrs. G. N. Harrison had as their guests recently Mrs. B. F. Adams of Pine Bluff, Ark. Mrs. Anderson accompanied Mrs. Adams to Baton Rouge, where they were guests of Mrs. Adam's daughter, Miss Jessie Adams.

Bastrop

Mrs. F. K. Pettiss was hostess to the members of the Pot Pourri Book club recently at her home. Mrs. Estelle B. Harris, president, graciously greeted the following guests: Mrs. J. T. Howell of Collinston, Mrs. C. G. Scott, Mrs. A. B. Andrews, Mrs. T. A. Murchie, Mrs. M. V. Orr and Mrs W. T. Smith.

On this occasion, the club had the pleasure of hearing an account given by Mrs. H. F. Madison, Sr., of her recent trip to England, Scotland and Ireland. Mrs. W. T. Smith, accompanied by Mrs. M. V. Orr at the piano, sang a Scotch ballad, ending with "Auld Lang Syne." The club members joined in the chorus. Little Miss Phyliss Rose Seligman danced the highland fling. Mrs. Ferguson accompanied her at the piano.

Mrs. Pettiss served a delicious plate luncheon to the following: Mesdames James Madison, H. F. Madison, Sr., J. P. Madison, S. A. Leopold, Jake Kern, H. I. Seligman, Charles Grossman, McVea Young, J. B. Tisdale, R. E. Fullenwider, Isaac Chapman, W. H. Giles, A. C. Volk, W. T. Smith, F. L. Billington, D. L. O'Neal, Estelle B. Harris, M. V. Orr, C. G. Scott, J. T. Howell, A. B. Andrews, J. T. Ferguson and Miss Phyliss Rose Seligman.

Ideal golf weather, combined with enthusiasm for bridge, brought out an unusually large number of members and their guests to the regular meeting of the ladies' auxiliary of the Country club. The keynote of the decorations was a huge plaque of yellow chrysanthemums and ferns placed on the center table in the lounge. The committee responsible for the enjoyable afternoon, which was preceded by a delicious luncheon, were Mesdames Charles Grossman, F. L. Billington, T. B. Tisdale and Miss Tina Collins.

Mrs. W. B. Gladney had the winning score on the links, for which she was presented with a golf ball, and Mrs. George T. Madison received the prize for highest score in the bridge games.

The members included Mesdames G. H. Beekman, C. N. Dalton, W. P. Douglass, W. B. Gladney, George H. Goodwin, J. Leland Howard, George Khourt, E. V. Loftin, George T. Madison, James Madison, Arthur Ross, H. I. Seligman, Leo Terzia, J. B. Tisdale, A. C. Volk, Ferd Wolff, F. L. Billington, H. Webb Madison, John Coats, F. P. Robinson, J. W. Gillen and J. F. Montgomery and Misses Tina Collins and Elizabeth Carr.

Guests enjoying the hospitality of club members were Mesdames Isaac Chapman, Charles Hamiter, David Snyder, S. G. Lucky, V. M. Reitzell and Jake Kern and Miss Loraine Smith of Oklahoma City and Miss Irene Minsky of Tallulah.

Mr. and Mrs. William Edward Turpin announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ada Virginia, to Mr. Lewis Robert Clark of Cameron, W. Va. The wedding will take place early in January.

Miss Turpin, a popular member of the young social set, is a graduate of the Louisiana college and is at present a member of the Bastrop Central Grammar school faculty. Mr. Clark is a son of Mrs. Georgia Ann Clark of Cameron, W. Va., and the late Mr. Clark. He is a graduate of Wesleyan university and is a member of Tau Kappa Epsilom fraternity. He is now affiliated with the Mississippi River Fuel corporation and is in charge of the chart department at Perryville.

A good pond of water should produce as many pounds of fish per acre as a pasture will produce pounds of beef, says L. A. Whitford of the University of North Carolina botany department.

Vaudeville Revue, Feature Picture At Paramount Today

Stage Show Featured By Santry Band

Sensational Dance Act Headlines Bill; Big Cast In Picture

ANOTHER big double bill, the last of which proved extremely popular, will be offered local theater-goers at the Paramount theater today. A headline vaudeville revue, plus a feature picture, constitute the program.

The Wilbur Cushman circuit presents to the people of Monroe a supreme road attraction. Henry Santry and "His Soldiers of Fortune Revue" is a high class attraction that has seldom been seen outside of big cities and on the big time vaudeville circuits. The fact that this internationally known revue will appear in this city was made possible by Mr. Cushman personally, who has guaranteed this company an enormous sum to tour his circuit.

The feature attraction, Estelle Fratus, the Australian Dancing Star, internationally known and acclaimed by press and public including the greatest dance instructors to be the world's most unique tap dancer. The music is especially arranged for her dances by Henry Santry and played by "His Soldiers of Fortune band." This flash stage band has won recognition in this country and abroad as the most versatile and novel of stage bands. It is an all star, colorful aggregation. Every member is a musician and an entertainer as well. The boys also team as singers and offer close harmony and will contribute some of the laughs in this revue with their clever comedy situations.

The comedy relief is handled by Ward and Volks, a sensational tramp comedy team in travesty. These two young men are an exception because they are chips off the old block. As both followed the footsteps of their fathers and teamed together and are doing the identical tramp act that their fathers made famous in the leading theaters of the country. Old timers will remember this act as presented by the elder Ward and Volks in the musical comedy smash hit, "The Floor Walkers." These boys are heading to fame the same as their fathers did.

This smartest and most daring beautiful revue will be staged in all its entirety at the Paramount theater two days starting today.

Bright in dialog, flashing in settings and with an absolutely new idea in a mystery plot, "Remember Last Night?" also is presented at the Paramount. The picture, based on the best-selling novel of the same title by Adam Hobhouse, and produced as one of Universal's outstanding productions of the season, was directed by James Whale. Whale outdid himself, for he injected almost as many laughs into the screenplay as there were exciting moments.

The screen tale opens with the social prominent "fast set" of Long Island giving a progressive anniversary party for an engaging couple played adeptly by Constance Cummings and Robert Young. In the group are Sally Eilers, Louise Henry, George Meeker, Monroe Owsley and Reginald Denny, who carry their roles as slightly inebriated society folk excellently. Rounds of drinks, rounds of estates, and a roadside inn end in oblivion for all. The next morning, it is found that one of the group has been murdered.

To give any of the plot away from this time on would be unfair to those who are eager to see the beautifully mounted production. However, a sinister hypnotist, Gustav Von Seyffertitz; Edward Arnold, playing an ace detective; Edward Brophy, his laughable assistant; Gregory Ratoff, as the roadhouse proprietor; Robert Armstrong and Jack LaRue, as chauffeurs; Arthur Treacher, as a cold and forbidding butler, and other characters serve to make the plot move faster, the dialog to become more brilliant, and the clues and deductions which lead to the apprehension of the killer to be revealed.

COLUMBIA CONTRIBUTES FOOD TO BAPTIST HOME

COLUMBIA, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Donations of syrup, potatoes, a variety of canned foods and feedstuffs, given to the Louisiana Baptist Children's home at Monroe by local firms and individuals, have been delivered to the orphanage in a truck owned by a local concern.

An elephant would consume 10 tons of food daily if it ate the same amount proportionately as a mouse. The actual consumption of food is 100 pounds, however.

Paul Muni, as the medical outcast who put gangdom on the operating table, and Ann Dvorak, the derelict beauty who loved him, have their most exciting roles in Warner Bros. picture "Dr. Socrates" which comes to the Paramount theater Tuesday and Wednesday. Others in the cast include Barton MacLane, Robert Barrat, John Eldredge and Helen Lowell.

Henry Santry's "Soldiers of Fortune" band which plays the Paramount theater today and Monday as one of the stage attractions with "The Soldiers of Fortune Revue," the musical featuring Estelle Fratus, the Australian dancing star and many other headline acts. The screen attraction is "Remember Last Night," adapted from the successful novel "The Hangover Murders." Edward Arnold, Constance Cummings, Robert Young, Sally Eilers and Robert Armstrong are in the cast.

Here's Jane Withers who is featured as a singing, dancing cut-up in "This Is the Life," the attraction at the Capitol theater for Thursday and Friday. It is the dramatic picture of a tiny star who had to run away from the footlights to find the happiness and love for which she had always yearned. Others in the cast include John McGuire, Sally Blane, Sidney Toler and Frances Ford.

"A man is only as old as the girl he loves" is the general theme of the gay comedy situation presented by "Accent On Youth," the attraction at the Capitol theater Tuesday and Wednesday. Sylvia Sidney and Herbert Marshall head the notable cast, which includes Philip Reed, Holmes Herbert and Astrid Allwyn. The picture was adapted from the Broadway stage success by the same name.

Notes On Life In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD. — Tom Ricketts, white-haired and bent with age, today is content with an occasional film role. Thirty-five years ago he was a famous figure, producing screen epics for nickleholdeons.

With such stars as Dorothy and Alice Davenport, Harold Lockwood, and Josephine Ditt, Ricketts directed for America's first film company, Nestor Films, Inc. That was from 1900 to 1910. Then he came to California and directed the first Hollywood-made film, "The Best Man Wins."

Subsequently he directed Richard Bennett in an old-time thriller called "Damaged Goods." He needed three flower girls for a wedding scene in this film, and Bennett suggested his daughters. So the three little Bennett girls—Constance, Barbara, and Joan made their screen debuts.

In recent years he has fallen back on the film industry for a meager existence. Although he's just a Hollywood bit player, the cameras and lights and grease paint bring back pleasant memories.

Perennial Comics

If you want to last in the movies, be a comedian. That, at least, appears to be a good formula for professional longevity in the film capital. Lovely ladies, handsome leading men, even character players, come and go, but comedians seem to go on forever.

Charlie Chaplin and Harold Lloyd are the two outstanding examples. Both go back to the era of one-reelers custard pies and ad-libbed plots—the very dawn of the industry—and both are still at the top.

W. C. Fields is another, although he came to the movies later than Lloyd and Chaplin. Other perennial comedy favorites are Wallace Beery, Charlie Ruggles, Stan Laurel, Jack Oakie, Ned Sparks, Roscoe Karns, J. Farrell MacDonald, and George Barbier.

Friend Of A "Friend"

One of those strange pranks of fate has placed Margaret Sullavan in the arms of her ex-husband's best friend. He is James Stewart, tall and handsome young actor who plays her lover in filming of "Next Time We Love." In real life Stewart is Henry Fonda's boon companion. And Margaret once answered to the name of Mrs. Fonda.

"Follow The Leader"

Cecil B. DeMille, old maestro to the Hollywood directing clan has a youthful imitator in the matter of studio dress. Apparently unconcerned over the fact that boots and riding breeches are virtually DeMille's film trademark, Director Mervin LeRoy has blossomed out in like attire.

Speed Cop Humor

At least one hardboiled New York detective has a sense of humor. He is Phil Regan's exboss, Lieut. Mickey McNamara. Formerly of Gotham's finest and now a successful actor, Phil sent Mickey a photograph of himself with President Roosevelt. It was taken on the executive's recent visit to California.

"Looks like you're trying to have your brother appointed a letter carrier," wrote back the detective.

Pretty Wera Engles rises to the defense of supposedly wicked Hollywood. The film capital, she thinks, is the safest place in the world for a girl who is alone.

"The men in the picture business are too busy to pay much attention to women," she says.

Zane Grey Film Plays At Capitol

Larry 'Buster' Crabbe Heads Big Cast In 'Nevada,' New Western

THAT young giant of a man, Larry "Buster" Crabbe, has developed into a screen cowboy of the first water in his new picture, "Nevada," produced by Paramount from Zane Grey's story, which opens today at the Capitol theater.

Crabbe, world-famous as a swimming star before the motion pictures snagged him, is a "root-tootin' cowboy fer sartin" and this screen romance of old Arizona furnishes him with ample opportunity to demonstrate his adroitness with the shootin' irons as well as his ability to ride with the best of them. In short, the films have found an ideal man to revive the traditions of such old-timers as William S. Hart and Tom Mix.

Larry, in the picture, is known as "Nevada." Accompanied by "Cash Burridge," played by Sid Saylor, he rides into Arizona to become embroiled at once with a desperate band of cattle-rustlers. To make matters more difficult, Nevada falls in love with the daughter of a wealthy rancher—a role played impressively by the beauteous Kathleen Burke.

Film - followers who remember Crabbe's previous pictures, in which he demonstrated his greatness as a swimmer, will be pleased to learn that cowboys sometimes take to the water. In "Nevada" the producers have included a sequence which shows the star taking a swim in a western stream, and Larry is as superb as ever.

The picture has been nicely balanced and there are some magnificent shots, in panoramic fashion, of the big cattle drive southward. Furthermore, liveliness is added to the story through the comic efforts of Raymond Hatton, the bombastic sheriff, and of Nevada's side-kick, Sid Saylor.

LAD IS INJURED WHEN HE FALLS FROM ROOF

Henry M. Clark, 10, of Mer Rouge, son of Mrs. Ida Clark, is a patient in St. Francis sanitarium where he was taken from his home last week suffering from injuries sustained in a fall.

The boy while at play on Sunday fell from a roof and was hurt but he did not disclose to his mother that he was suffering severely and even attended school two days last week after he had been hurt.

Later, however, he became seriously ill and was removed to the Monroe hospital where an operation was performed.

He was said to be resting comfortably Saturday.

Eighty per cent of all adults are immune to infantile paralysis, according to estimates.

REGISTRATION BOOKS TO CLOSE ON DECEMBER 21

Voters of Ouachita parish, in order to cast ballots in the primary on January 21, must necessarily have signed the 1934 and 1935 poll tax books and have registered with the registrar of voters, according to Miss Lillian Collins, registrar.

Registration is required only of those who have not registered since the new registration was begun in 1934, but the 1935 poll book must be signed this year by every voter.

The registration books will close on December 21, which will be exactly 30 days prior to the holding of the January primary as required by law, but the 1935 poll book can be signed any time this year.

BUDDY CLUB MEMBERS ARE GIVEN BARBECUE

Members of the Buddy club, which is sponsored by local Rotarians, were guests of Sylvian Masur on Thanksgiving day at a barbecue given on the grounds of Mayor Arnold Bernstein's country home.

Fifty members of the club assembled at the Barkdull Faulk school on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, and were taken to the Bernstein place, where they played football. Promptly at noon the barbecue was served, after which all the boys were taken to Brown field to witness the Bolton-Lions football game.

Besides Mr. Masur, the boys were in charge of Counsellors Bird, Mayo, LeBlanc and McNabb.

Screen Life In Hollywood

By Hubbard Keavy

HOLLYWOOD—The two native girls in "Mutiny on the Bounty" are Movita, who is Spanish, and Mamo, a Hawaiian. Frank Lloyd, the director, hoped to get real Tahitian girls when he went to the South seas for background stuff, but he discovered the girls there have bad teeth from lifelong fish diets. The Tahitian chief, however, is the real stuff; he took the English name of William Bambridge and came from the islands for a year in Hollywood.

And here are some other items of interest about this and other new pictures: "Mutiny" was over a year in the filming and is said to have cost nearly $2,000,000. The outrigger canoe scenes were filmed months ago at Tahiti, but the close-ups were made at Wrigley's nearby Catalina. A camera barge sank during the filming of some of the storm shots, drowning an assistant cameraman. In one preview, the scenes of brutality on the ship of Captain Bligh (Charles Laughton) were eliminated and the women enjoyed the picture more. But they were put back in, and will be left in, because they are logically part of the story.

Ronald Breaks Bank

Ronald Colman is a piker in "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo." He won only 6,000,000 francs; the Italian banker, whom Mussolini called home, won 20,000,000 francs. Nola Kahn, a former Monte Carlo croupier, was technical adviser on this film. Except for more ornate furnishings and decorations—typical of Hollywood—the Sporting club shown in the picture is a copy of the Sporting club at Monte Carlo. Kahn says it is impossible to break the Monte Carlo bank; lucky gamblers have only cleaned out certain tables of their evening's cash allotment.

George Givot (the Greek ambassador, the original Parkyourcarcass, etc.) has his first important movie part in "Paddy O'Day," which stars Jane Withers. He got a contract after the 20th Century boys saw the first day's "rushes." Vera Lewis, the hatchet-faced aunt, is a movie veteran, but years ago she was a model for artists like Fischer, Gibson and Blashfield. Mamaski and Papaski are husband and wife in real life, too; Nina and Michael Visaroff. She was a Russian prima donna and claims the Soviet government confiscated her $100,000 worth of diamonds. Russel Simpson, the butler, celebrated 20 years of movie making while working in "Paddy."

Sugary Ending Sticks

Although fully aware that San Franciscans object to the diminutive "Frisco," Warners call the new Cagney vehicle "The Frisco Kid" because every picture with those two syllables in the title has been successful. A sort of business superstition.

Vaudeville Revue, Feature Picture At Paramount Today

Sensational Dance Act Headlines Bill; Big Cast In Picture

ANOTHER big double bill, the last of which proved extremely popular, will be offered local theater-goers at the Paramount theater today. A headline vaudeville revue, plus a feature picture, constitute the program.

The Wilbur Cushman circuit presents to the people of Monroe a supreme road attraction. Henry Santry and "His Soldiers of Fortune Revue" is a high class attraction that has seldom been seen outside of big cities and on the big time vaudeville circuits. The fact that this internationally known revue will appear in this city was made possible by Mr. Cushman personally, who has guaranteed this company an enormous sum to tour his circuit.

The feature attraction, Estelle Fratus, the Australian Dancing Star, internationally known and acclaimed by press and public including the greatest dance instructors to be the world's most unique tap dancer. The music is especially arranged for her dances by Henry Santry and played by "His Soldiers of Fortune band." This flash stage band has won recognition in this country and abroad as the most versatile and novel of stage bands. It is an all star, colorful aggregation. Every member is a musician and an entertainer as well. The boys also team as singers and offer close harmony and will contribute some of the laughs in this revue with their clever comedy situations.

The comedy relief is handled by Ward and Volks, a sensational tramp comedy team in travesty. These two young men are an exception because they are chips off the old block. As both followed the footsteps of their fathers and teamed together and are doing the identical tramp act that their fathers made famous in the leading theaters of the country. Old timers will remember this act as presented by the elder Ward and Volks in the musical comedy smash hit, "The Floor Walkers." These boys are leading to fame the same as their fathers did.

This smartest and most daring beautiful revue will be staged in all its entirety at the Paramount theater two days starting today.

Bright in dialog, flashing in settings and with an absolutely new idea as a mystery plot, "Remember Last Night?" also is presented at the Paramount. The picture, based on the best-selling novel of the same title by Adam Hobhouse, and produced as one of Universal's outstanding productions of the season, was directed by James Whale. Whale outdid himself, for he injected almost as many laughs into the screenplay as there were exciting moments.

The screen tale opens with the social prominent "fast set" of Long Island giving a progressive anniversary party for an engaging couple played adeptly by Constance Cummings and Robert Young. In the group are Sally Eilers, Louise Henry, George Meeker, Monroe Owsley and Reginald Denny, who carry their roles as slightly inebriated society folk excellently. Rounds of drinks, rounds of estates, and a roadside inn end in oblivion for all. The next morning, it is found that one of the group has been murdered.

To give any of the plot away from this time on would be unfair to those who are eager to see the beautifully mounted production. However, a sinister hypnotist, Gustav Von Seyffertitz; Edward Arnold, playing an ace detective; Edward Brophy, his laughable assistant; Gregory Ratoff, as the roadhouse proprietor; Robert Armstrong and Jack LaRue, as chauffeurs; Arthur Treacher, as a cold and forbidding butler, and other characters serve to make the plot move faster, the dialog to become more brilliant, and the clues and deductions which lead to the apprehension of the killer to be revealed.

COLUMBIA CONTRIBUTES FOOD TO BAPTIST HOME

COLUMBIA, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Donations of syrup, potatoes, a variety of canned foods and feedstuffs, given to the Louisiana Baptist Children's home at Monroe by local firms and individuals, have been delivered to the orphanage in a truck owned by a local concern.

An elephant would consume 10 tons of food daily if it ate the same amount proportionately as a mouse. The actual consumption of food is 100 pounds, however.

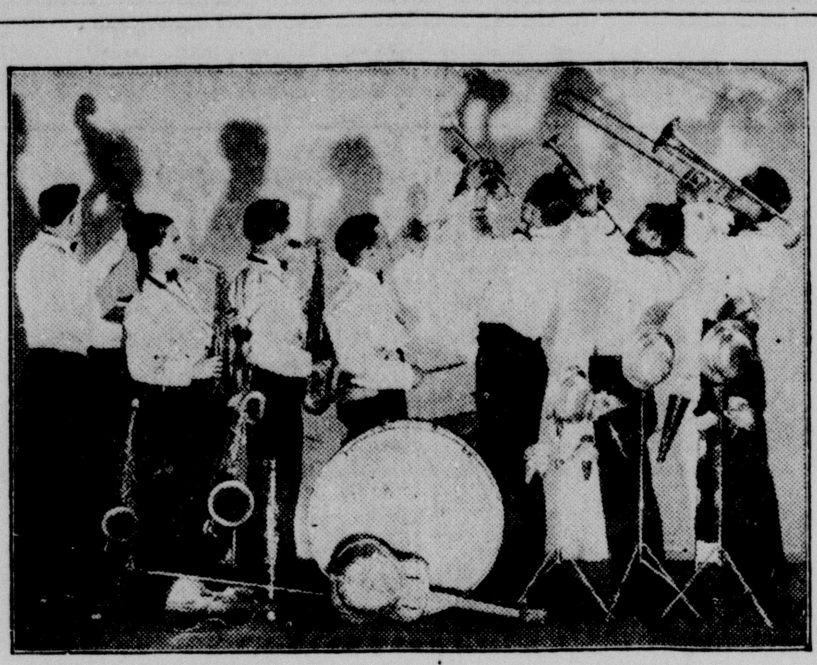
Paul Muni, as the medical outcast who put gangdom on the operating table, and Ann Dvorak, the derelict beauty who loved him, have their most exciting roles in Warner Bros. picture "Dr. Socrates" which comes to the Paramount theater Tuesday and Wednesday. Others in the cast include Barton MacLane, Robert Barrat, John Eldredge and Helen Lowell.



Henry Santry's "Soldiers of Fortune" band which plays the Paramount theater today and Monday as one of the stage attractions with "The Soldiers of Fortune Revue," the musical featuring Estelle Fratus, the Australian dancing star and many other headline acts. The screen attraction is "Remember Last Night," adapted from the successful novel "The Hangover Murders." Edward Arnold, Constance Cummings, Robert Young, Sally Eilers and Robert Armstrong are in the cast.

Here's Jane Withers who is featured as a singing, dancing cut-up in "This Is the Life," the attraction at the Capitol theater for Thursday and Friday. It is the dramatic picture of a tiny star who had to run away from the footlights to find the happiness and love for which she had always yearned. Others in the cast include John McGuire, Sally Blane, Sidney Toler and Frances Ford.

"A man is only as old as the girl he loves" is the general theme of the gay comedy situation presented by "Accent On Youth," the attraction at the Capitol theater Tuesday and Wednesday. Sylvia Sidney and Herbert Marshall head the notable cast, which includes Philip Reed, Holmes Herbert and Astrid Allwyn. The picture was adapted from the Broadway stage success by the same name.

Notes On Life In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD. — Tom Ricketts, white-haired and bent with age, today is content with an occasional film role. Thirty-five years ago he was a famous figure, producing screen epics for nickleholdeons.

With such stars as Dorothy and Alice Davenport, Harold Lockwood, and Josephine Ditt, Ricketts directed for America's first film company, Nestor Films, Inc. That was from 1900 to 1910. Then he came to California and directed the first Hollywood-made film, "The Best Man Wins."

Subsequently he directed Richard Bennett in an old-time thriller called "Damaged Goods." He needed three flower girls for a wedding scene in this film, and Bennett suggested his daughters. So the three little Bennett girls—Constance, Barbara, and Joan made their screen debuts.

From early-day films Ricketts, born in London, England, drifted back to the stage. Stage director for the Shuberts, baritone with the Carlton Opera company, star of his own play," Henro Duvar"—so his career continued.

In recent years he has fallen back on the film industry for a meager existence. Although he's just a Hollywood bit player, the cameras and lights and grease paint bring back pleasant memories.

Perennial Comics

If you want to last in the movies, be a comedian. That, at least, appears to be a good formula for professional longevity in the film capital. Lovely ladies, handsome leading men, even character players, come and go, but comedians seem to go on forever.

Charlie Chaplin and Harold Lloyd are the two outstanding examples. Both go back to the era of one-reelers custard pies and ad-libbed plots—the very dawn of the industry—and both are still at the top.

W. C. Fields is another, although he came to the movies later than Lloyd and Chaplin. Other perennial comedy favorites are Wallace Beery, Charlie Ruggles, Stan Laurel, Jack Oakie, Ned Sparks, Roscoe Karns, J. Farrell MacDonald, and George Barbier.

Friend Of A "Friend"

One of those strange pranks of fate has placed Margaret Sullavan in the arms of her ex-husband's best friend. He is James Stewart, tall and handsome young actor who plays her lover in filming of "Next Time We Love." In real life Stewart is Henry Fonda's boon companion. And Margaret once answered to the name of Mrs. Fonda.

"Follow The Leader"

Cecil B. DeMille, old maestro to the Hollywood directing clan has a youthful imitator in the matter of studio dress. Apparently unconcerned over the fact that boots and riding breeches are virtually DeMille's film trademark, Director Mervin LeRoy has blossomed out in like attire.

Speed Cop Humor

At least one hardboiled New York detective has a sense of humor. He is Phil Regan's exboss, Lieut. Mickey McNamara. Formerly of Gotham's finest and now a successful actor, Phil sent Mickey a photograph of himself with President Roosevelt. It was taken on the executive's recent visit to California.

"Looks like you're trying to have your brother appointed a letter carrier," wrote back the detective.

Pretty Wera Engles rises to the defense of supposedly wicked Hollywood. The film capital, she thinks, is the safest place in the world for a girl who is alone.

"The men in the picture business are too busy to pay much attention to women," she says.

Zane Grey Film Plays At Capitol

THAT young giant of a man, Larry "Buster" Crabbe, has developed into a screen cowboy of the first water in his new picture, "Nevada," produced by Paramount from Zane Grey's story, which opens today at the Capitol theater.

Crabbe, world-famous as a swimming star before the motion pictures snagged him, is a "root-tootin' cowboy fer sartin" and this screen romance of old Arizona furnishes him with ample opportunity to demonstrate his adroitness with the shootin' irons as well as his ability to ride with the best of them. In short, the films have found an ideal man to revive the traditions of such old-timers as William S. Hart and Tom Mix.

Larry, in the picture, is known as "Nevada." Accompanied by "Cash Burridge," played by Sid Saylor, he rides into Arizona to become embroiled at once with a desperate band of cattle-rustlers. To make matters more difficult, Nevada falls in love with the daughter of a wealthy rancher—a role played impressively by the beauteous Kathleen Burke.

Film-followers who remember Crabbe's previous pictures, in which he demonstrated his greatness as a swimmer, will be pleased to learn that cowboys sometimes take to the water. In "Nevada" the producers have included a sequence which shows the star taking a swim in a western stream, and Larry is as superb as ever.

The picture has been nicely balanced and there are some magnificent shots, in panoramic fashion, of the big cattle drive southward. Furthermore, liveliness is added to the story through the comic efforts of Raymond Hatton, the bombastic sheriff, and of Nevada's side-kick, Sid Saylor.

LAD IS INJURED WHEN HE FALLS FROM ROOF

Henry M. Clark, 10, of Mer Rouge, son of Mrs. Ida Clark, is a patient in St. Francis sanitarium where he was taken from his home last week suffering from injuries sustained in a fall.

The boy while at play on Sunday fell from a roof and was hurt but he did not disclose to his mother that he was suffering severely and even attended school two days last week after he had been hurt.

Later, however, he became seriously ill and was removed to the Monroe hospital where an operation was performed.

He was said to be resting comfortably Saturday.

Eighty per cent of all adults are immune to infantile paralysis, according to estimates.

REGISTRATION BOOKS TO CLOSE ON DECEMBER 21

Voters of Ouachita parish, in order to cast ballots in the primary on January 21, must necessarily have signed the 1934 and 1935 poll tax books and have registered with the registrar of voters, according to Miss Lillian Collins, registrar.

Registration is required only of those who have not registered since the new registration was begun in 1934, but the 1935 poll book must be signed this year by every voter.

The registration books will close on December 21, which will be exactly 30 days prior to the holding of the January primary as required by law, but the 1935 poll book can be signed any time this year.

BUDDY CLUB MEMBERS ARE GIVEN BARBECUE

Members of the Buddy club, which is sponsored by local Rotarians, were guests of Sylvian Masur on Thanksgiving day at a barbecue given on the grounds of Mayor Arnold Bernstein's country home.

Fifty members of the club assembled at the Barkdull Faulk school on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, and were taken to the Bernstein place, where they played football. Promptly at noon the barbecue was served, after which all the boys were taken to Brown field to witness the Bolton-Lions football game.

Besides Mr. Masur, the boys were in charge of Counsellors Bird, Mayo, LeBlanc and McNabb.

Screen Life In Hollywood

By Hubbard Keavy

HOLLYWOOD—The two native girls in "Mutiny on the Bounty" are Movita, who is Spanish, and Mamo, a Hawaiian. Frank Lloyd, the director, hoped to get real Tahitian girls when he went to the South seas for background stuff, but he discovered the girls there have bad teeth from lifelong fish diets. The Tahitian chief, however, is the real stuff; he took the English name of William Bambridge and came from the islands for a year in Hollywood.

And here are some other items of interest about this and other new pictures: "Mutiny" was over a year in the filming and is said to have cost nearly $2,000,000. The outrigger canoe scenes were filmed months ago at Tahiti, but the close-ups were made at Wrigley's nearby Catalina. A camera barge sank during the filming of some of the storm shots, drowning an assistant cameraman. In one preview, the scenes of brutality on the ship of Captain Bligh (Charles Laughton) were eliminated and the women enjoyed the picture more. But they were put back in, and will be left in, because they are logically part of the story.

Ronald Breaks Bank

Ronald Colman is a piker in "The Man Who Broke the Bank at Monte Carlo." He won only 6,000,000 francs; the Italian banker, whom Mussolini called home, won 20,000,000 francs. Nola Kahn, a former Monte Carlo croupier, was technical adviser on this film. Except for more ornate furnishings and decorations—typical of Hollywood—the Sporting club shown in the picture is a copy of the Sporting club at Monte Carlo. Kahn says it is impossible to break the Monte Carlo bank; lucky gamblers have only cleaned out certain tables of their evening's cash allotment.

George Givot (the Greek ambassador, the original Parkyourcarcass, etc.) has his first important movie part in "Paddy O'Day," which stars Jane Withers. He got a contract after the 20th Century boys saw the first day's "rushes." Vera Lewis, the hatchet-faced aunt, is a movie veteran, but years ago she was a model for artists like Fischer, Gibson and Blashfield. Mamaski and Papaski are husband and wife in real life, too; Nina and Michael Visaroff. She was a Russian prima donna and claims the Soviet government confiscated her $100,000 worth of diamonds. Russel Simpson, the butler, celebrated 20 years of movie making while working in "Paddy."

Sugary Ending Sticks

Although fully aware that San Franciscans object to the diminutive "Frisco," Warners call the new Cagney vehicle "The Frisco Kid" because every picture with those two syllables in the title has been successful. A sort of business superstition.

BIGGEST GASSER IS BRO T IN

Lincoln Wildcat Features Week; Reports Made On Other Tests

The outstanding feature of the week in the northeast Louisiana oil and gas fields was the sensational completion of the wildcat test in Lincoln parish of the Arkansas-Louisiana Natural Gas company's (Lide, Greer and Brown) Fowler No. 1, gauged as making 71,385,000 cubic feet daily open flow, rock pressure 2,100 pounds, total depth 5,304 feet. The test is in section 10-17-4 west, and promises to open up a big new field. It was the biggest gasser ever gauged by the local minerals and gas division of the state conservation department.

Other completions, locations and drilling progress as reported Saturday the local conservation office were follows:

Ouachita Parish

Section 13-18-4 east, L. E. Hawsey, E. C. Fudickar No. 1, location.

Section 7-16-4 east, Mid-Continent Producing company, J. C. Lipscomb No. 1, location.

Section 32-19-4 east, Carbons Consolidated, Interstate No. 2, location.

Section 32-19-4 east, Carbons Consolidated, Interstate No. 1, gauged as making 1,232,000 cubic feet, rock pressure 670, total depth 2,187 feet.

Section 32-19-4 east, Inabnet and Pipes, Nelson No. 5, completed as making 944,000 cubic feet, rock pressure 700 pounds, total depth, 2,180 feet.

Section 25-17-1 east, C. M. Johnson, Golson No. 1, plugged back to 5,125 feet.

Section 19-19-4 east, Interstate Natural Gas company, Fee No. 39, set eight-inch casing at 753 feet.

Section 19-19-4 east, Interstate Natural Gas company, Fee No. 41, set eight-inch at 769 feet.

Catahoula Parish

Section 41-9-6 east, George J. Phillippi, Louisiana Central No. 2, abandoned.

Rapides Parish

Section 53-1-2 east, Amerada Petroleum company, Weil No. 1, pumping 56 barrels of oil daily, total depth 5,780 feet.

Richland Parish

Grant Parish

Section 9-9-1 east, T. A. W. Oil company, Maxwell No. 1, coring at 1,527 feet.

Morehouse Parish

Section 15-21-4 east, United Gas Public Service, Crossett No. 31, set six and five-eighths at 2,111 feet.

Union Parish

Section 23-22-3 east, Nemours corporation, McGough No. 1, set six-inch 2,075 feet.

Section 28-21-4 east, United Carbon company, Stovall No. 2, rig up.

NEW MINISTERS ASSUME DUTIES

Rev. Holladay And Rev. Grosse Assigned; Visiting Preacher Here

Two pastors new to Monroe will today assume charge of their churches and a third will be guest of honor and prospective pastor of a local church.

The new pastors are Rev. S. S. Holloday, Jr., recently assigned to the pastorate of Gordon Avenue Methodist church from the Methodist church at Sterlington, and Rev. Vernon Grosse, of St. Louis, Mo., who will take charge of Trinity Lutheran church.

The third new minister here is Rev. Crayton S. Brooks, of Moberly, Mo., who will preach morning and night at the First Christian church which is now without a pastor, due to the resignation of Rev. Thomas F. Jett.

Rev. Brooks arrived here Friday night and was accorded a fellowship luncheon at Hotel Frances Saturday which was well attended. A general church meeting will be held this afternoon at the church and it is anticipated that arrangements will be effected which will mean that the visiting pastor will become the next pastor of the church here.

Rev. Brooks comes to Monroe with the highest of recommendations, having served as pastor for many years of large churches and he is said to prefer to take small congregations and build them up to large size.

His last pastorate was at Moberly, Mo., where he recently resigned much against the wishes of his congregation, it is stated.

The cancer death rate increased from 63 per 100,000 in 1900 to 100 in 100,000 in 1934, but has begun a slight decline this year.

BANQUET PRELUDE TO SEAL SELLING

A. B. Clarkson Will Give Dinner To Fellow Workers

Plans have been completed by A. B Clarkson, chairman of the Christmas seal sale of the Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health association, for the banquet he is giving committee members and guests of honor at Hotel Virginia at 7 p. m. Monday.

It is expected that there will be about 40 persons in attendance and plans will be formulated for the campaign that will be conducted in downtown Monroe. The speaker of the occasion will be Fred Williamson, managing editor of the News-Star and Morning World.

Guests of honor will be Mayor Arnold Bernstein of Monroe and Mayor C. C. Bell of West Monroe, John M. Breard, president of the Ouachita parish police jury, and the presidents of the various civic clubs here which include the Y's Men's club, the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs.

Members of the campaign committee for the seal sale are as follows: B. E. Tucker, L. G. Hughes, W. M. Greenwell, R. M. Troy, W. R. McWilliams, A. T. Givens, Durwood Griffin, J. S. Cage, John E. Godfrey, Henry Bernstein, Jr., B. A. Trousdale, Jr., Tobo Wood, J. R. Humble, William Rodriguez, Claude Harrison, Barlow Inabnet, H. W. Davis, Bill Perhamus, I. W. Allen, E. C. Gibson, F. L. Jones, Irvin Schlenker, S. W. Davis, C. C. Colvert, S. A. Moss, F. B. Winberry, Clyde Brown, Clifford Strauss and R. C. Stokes.

Today has been designated throughout the nation as "Tuberculosis Sunday" and pastors of churches in Monroe and West Monroe, in accordance with the observance, have consented to call attention to the day and urge the public to rally to the support of the Christmas seal sales.

Mr. Clarkson expressed his complete confidence Saturday in that the project will go over in highly successful manner in Monroe.

Only downtown firms will be solicited, others being asked to buy seals only through solicitation by mail.

MEETING IS CONDUCTED BY JUNIOR RED CROSS

Thirty-six members of the Junior Red Cross council, representing seven schools of Monroe, attended the special meeting called at the offices of the Ouachita parish chapter the past week when plans for the next few weeks were adopted.

The group laid plans to gather toys for the Council of Social Agencies, sponsor of the distribution of playthings at Christmas time for under-privileged children. They also decided to keep records with special accuracy and to assist in the work of preventing accidents in homes of the parish.

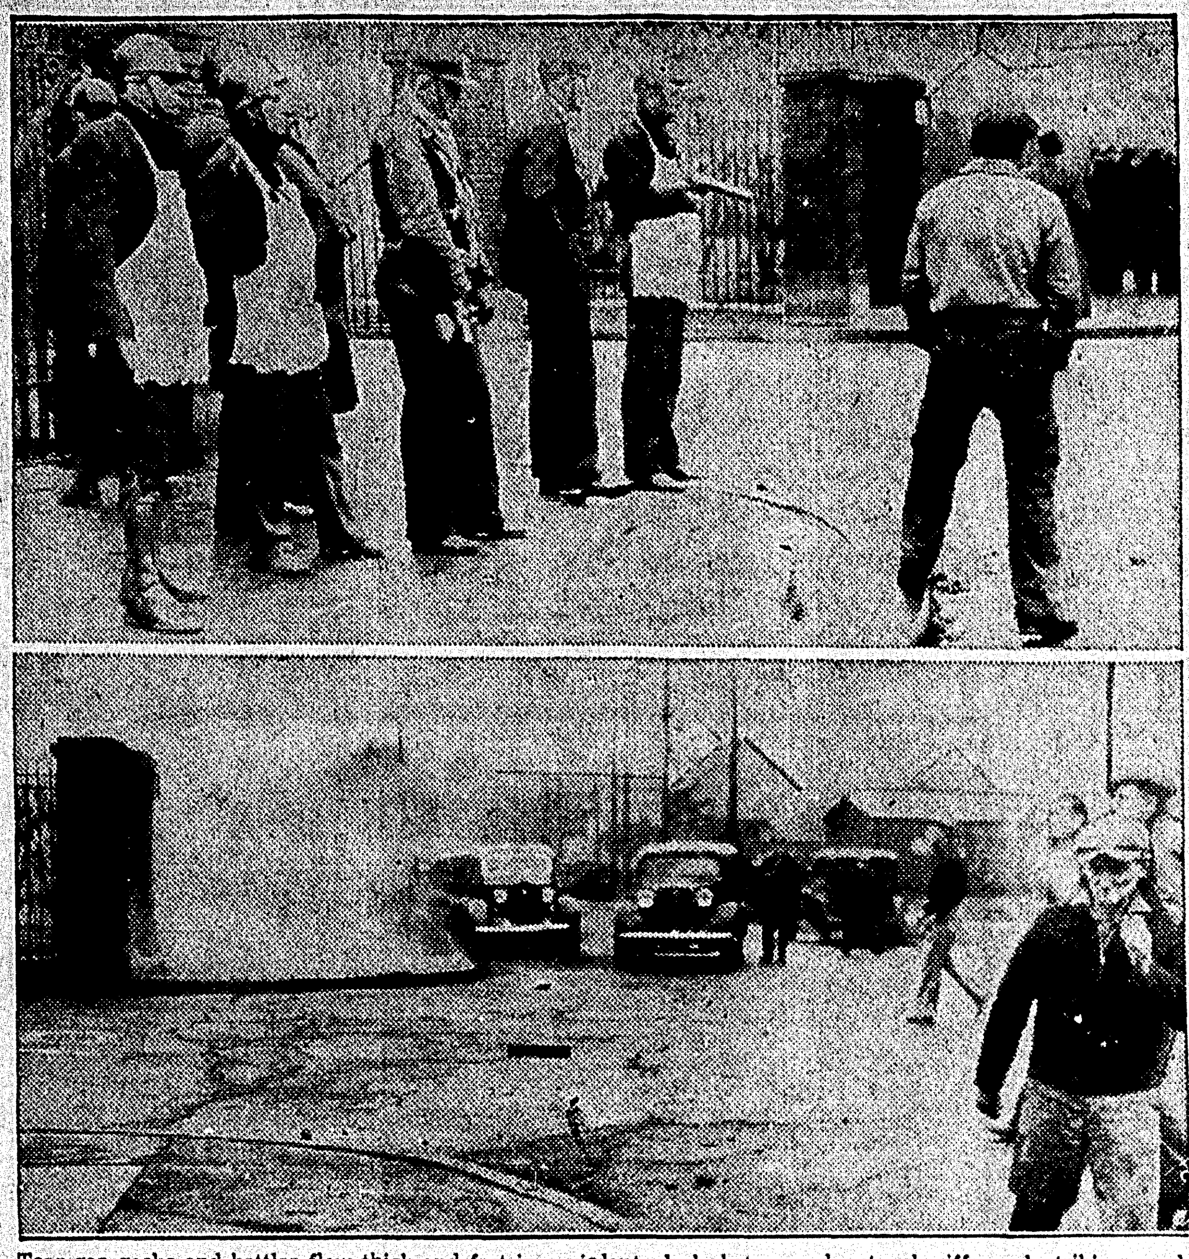
OFFICERS AND STRIKERS BATTLE AT AKRON



Tear gas, rocks and bottles flew thick and fast in a violent clash between deputy sheriffs and striking workers at the plant of the Ohio Insulator company in the Barberton suburb of Akron in the strikers' fight for higher wages. Armed with tear gas guns, the deputies are shown (top) guarding the factory gates. Below, officers' cars are seen patrolling the streets and routing the crowd with a dense fog of the choking gas. Choral Club Will Present 'The Messiah' On Tuesday

The annual presentation of Handel's magnificent oratorio, "The Messiah," will be given in the auditorium of Northeast Center Louisiana State university Tuesday night by the Choral club of Monroe and West Monroe. Roger C. Frisbie, director of music at Northeast Center, will be the conductor. Miss Florence Ziegler will be the accompanist.

No admission fee will be charged and the public has been invited to attend, it was announced by L. A. Stulce, president of the Choral club.

The production this year has added significance because of the world-wide celebration of Handel's birth 250 years ago. "The Messiah," probably the most celebrated of all Handel's oratorias, was composed in 1741 for a performance for the benefit of charity in Dublin, Ireland. Handel, who composed the oratorio in 24 days, conducted the performance.

The program to be given by the Choral club embraces 25 of the most important passages from the oratorio, as follows:

Overture; recitative, "Comfort ye my People," tenor; air, "Every Valley Shall Be Exalted," tenor; chorus, "And the Glory of the Lord"; recitative, "Thus Saith the Lord of Hosts," bass; air, "But Who May Abide," bass; recitative, "Behold, a Virgin Shall Conceive," alto; air and chorus, "O thou that Tellest," alto; recitative, "For Behold, Darkness Shall Cover the Earth," bass; air, "The People That Walked in Darkness," bass; pastoral symphony; recitative, "There were Shepherds," soprano; recitative, "And the Angel Said Unto Them," soprano; recitative, "And Suddenly There was With the Angel," soprano; chorus, "Glory to God"; air, "Rejoice Greatly, O Daughter of Zion," soprano; recitative, "Then Shall the Eyes," alto; air, "He Shall Feed His Flock," alto; "Come Unto Him, All Ye That Labor," soprano; chorus, "Behold the Lamb of God"; air, "He Was Despised," alto; recitative, "Thy Rebuke Hath Broken His Heart," tenor; air, "Behold and See If There Be Any Sorrow," tenor; air, "Why Do the Nations So Furiously Rage Together," bass; air, "I know that My Redeemer Liveth," soprano; chorus, "Hallelujah!"

SICARD OVERPASS NEARLY FINISHED

Paving In Both Directions Completed; Work On Bridge Progresses

The paving of the Missouri Pacific railroad's overpass near Sicard and the approaches in either direction have been completed it was stated Saturday. The men are now engaged in building up the shoulders and in placing the curbs and gutters, which will require about two weeks' time.

The bad weather and Thanksgiving holiday interrupted to some degree the progress of paving of the extension of Louisville avenue the past week. Friday the work of paving was initiated at the intersection of DeSiard road and the Sterlington road.

Out Louisville avenue the work of pouring paving for intersections, curb and gutters was in progress from the river to Eleventh street.

Riveting is in progress on the main bascule span at the new traffic bridge at Louisville avenue. It was estimated Saturday that the span will be completed in 30 days.

LITTLE THEATER PLAY IS SUCCESS

First Workshop Production Of Monroe Season Is Presented

A Monroe Little theater audience was literally taken behind the scenes Friday night in viewing "The Pot Boiler," a play within a play, first workshop production of the season. The piece, directed by Miss Sue Hefley, librarian at Northeast Center of L. S. U., was done with striking effectiveness by a cast that had for its task a demonstration of how plays are built up in the process of rehearsal. Naturally, the comedy theme was uppermost, and the task of the director was concerned with the difficult job of obtaining a nice balance which would neither border on the farcical on the one side nor the tragocomic on the other. In this Miss Hefley achieved a distinct triumph.

The members of the cast lent themselves to the spirit of the novel presentation with a fine sense of the ridiculous, which the lines call for. The work of Mrs. Edna Earl Harris and Miss Francine Loeser was particularly effective. The others in th cast were Melvin Annish, Thom Davenport, Howard Willard, Herma Chapman, Marion Gilliland and Lou Guerriero.

Following the play a social ho was spent in the lobby of the Centr Grammar school, where coffee wa served by the hospitality committee of the Monroe Little theater.

Rev. E. F. Hayward, president of the Little theater, announced that the first major play to be given by the group this season will be presented December 12, under direction of Mrs. Blanche G. Oliver. At least four major plays and three workshop plays are included in the Little theater program for this season.

FAMED DOCTORS TO ATTEND MEET

Mayo Brothers Clinic Surgeon To Be Among Speakers In Monroe

Dr. C. Prentice Gray, secretary-treasurer of the Fifth District Medical society, who has been arranging for one of the most important meetings that this group has ever held here, announced Saturday that details had been worked out for the entertainment of from 125 to 150 physicians from Monroe and other parts of Louisiana on Friday at Hotel Frances.

Dr. Paul A. O'Leary, of the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., one of the nation's leading physicians, will make a special trip to Monroe to deliver the chief address of the meeting. Other outstanding physicians who will attend as guests of honor will be Dr. James S. McLester, of Birmingham, Ala., president of the American Medical society; Dr. Howard Mahorner, of New Orleans, assistant professor of surgery at Tulane university, and Dr. E. Stanley Peterman, of Crowley.

The afternoon session will be held at 3 p. m. and the night banquet at 6:30 p. m.

SOCIAL AGENCIES GROUP WILL MEET DECEMBER 13

The Council of Social agencies will meet Friday, December 13, instead of on December 20, the regular meeting date, it was announced Saturday.

Work of the Boy Scouts in gathering up dolls and broken toys for rejuvenation has been such as to receive much praise from the council. Firemen are lending their services to reconstruct toys and in the making of new ones.

Mrs. F. B. Neely, chairman of a special committee, reports that 100 rag dolls have been made.

It is assured that Santa Claus will visit all homes in the city this Yuletide.

MEETING IS CONDUCTED BY JUNIOR RED CROSS

Thirty-six members of the Junior Red Cross council, representing seven schools of Monroe, attended the special meeting called at the offices of the Ouachita parish chapter the past week when plans for the next few weeks were adopted.

The group laid plans to gather toys for the Council of Social Agencies, sponsor of the distribution of playthings at Christmas time for underprivileged children. They also decided to keep records with special accuracy and to assist in the work of preventing accidents in homes of the parish.

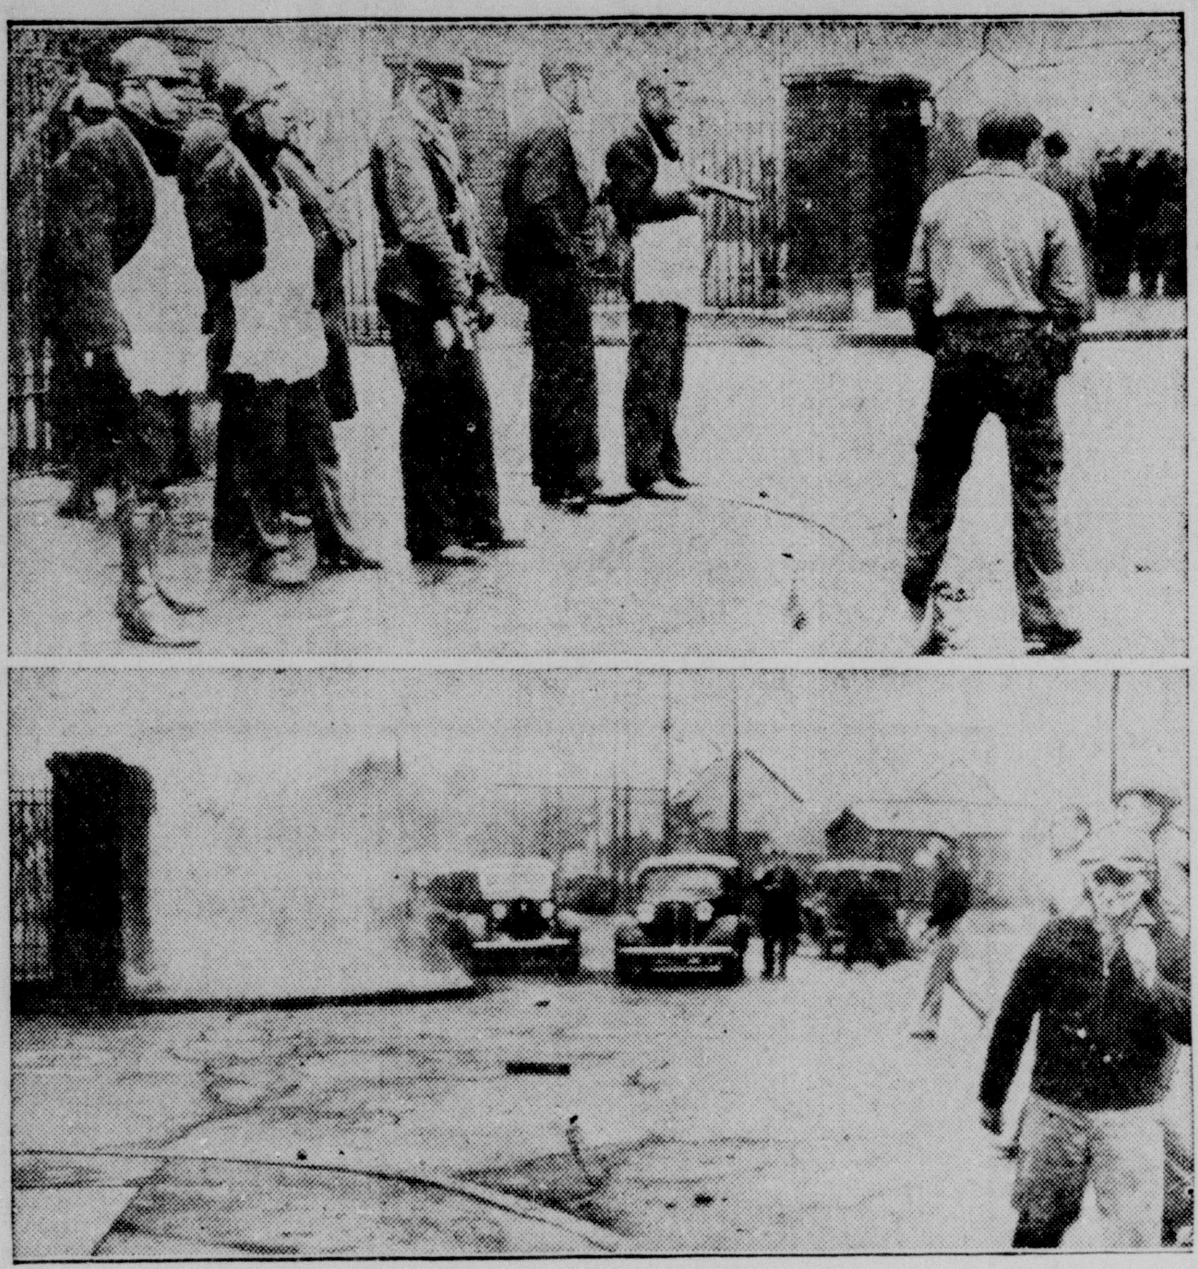
OFFICERS AND STRIKERS BATTLE AT AKRON



Tear gas, rocks and bottles flew thick and fast in a violent clash between deputy sheriffs and striking workers at the plant of the Ohio Insulator company in the Barberton suburb of Akron in the strikers' fight for higher wages. Armed with tear gas guns, the deputies are shown (top) guarding the factory gates. Below, officers' cars are seen patrolling the streets and routing the crowd with a dense fog of the choking gas. Choral Club Will Present 'The Messiah' On Tuesday

The annual presentation of Handel's magnificent oratorio, "The Messiah," will be given in the auditorium of Northeast Center Louisiana State university Tuesday night by the Choral club of Monroe and West Monroe. Roger C. Frisbie, director of music at Northeast Center, will be the conductor. Miss Florence Ziegler will be the accompanist.

No admission fee will be charged and the public has been invited to attend, it was announced by L. A. Stulce, president of the Choral club.

The production this year has added significance because of the world-wide celebration of Handel's birth 250 years ago. "The Messiah," probably the most celebrated of all Handel's oratorias, was composed in 1741 for a performance for the benefit of charity in Dublin, Ireland. Handel, who composed the oratorio in 24 days, conducted the performance.

The program to be given by the Choral club embraces 25 of the most important passages from the oratorio, as follows:

Overture; recitative, "Comfort ye my People," tenor; air, "Every Valley Shall Be Exalted," tenor; chorus, "And the Glory of the Lord"; recitative, "Thus Saith the Lord of Hosts," bass; air, "But Who May Abide," bass; recitative, "Behold, a Virgin Shall Conceive," alto; air and chorus, "O thou that Tellest," alto; recitative, "For Behold, Darkness Shall Cover the Earth," bass; air, "The People That Walked in Darkness," bass; pastoral symphony; recitative, "There were Shepherds," soprano; recitative, "And the Angel Said Unto Them," soprano; recitative, "And Suddenly There was With the Angel," soprano; chorus, "Glory to God"; air, "Rejoice Greatly, O Daughter of Zion," soprano; recitative, "Then Shall the Eyes," alto; air, "He Shall Feed His Flock," alto; "Come Unto Him, All Ye That Labor," soprano; chorus, "Behold the Lamb of God"; air, "He Was Despised," alto; recitative, "Thy Rebuke Hath Broken His Heart," tenor; air, "Behold and See If There Be Any Sorrow," tenor; air, "Why Do the Nations So Furiously Rage Together," bass; air, "I know that My Redeemer Liveth," soprano; chorus, "Hallelujah!"

MARRIAGES

MANGHAM, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Mrs. Lucy Mae Bunn of Mangham and Henry Drexler of Winnsboro were married November 17 in Clinton, Miss.

MANGHAM, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Miss Katie Mae Sayre and Foster Rouen were married November 28. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. W. Poole at the home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. M. Sayre, in Rayville. It was witnessed by members of the immediate families.

The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Maye Sayre of Mangham. She was graduated from Mangham High school and attended Louisiana State university in Baton Rouge. The bridegroom is a young business man of Baton Rouge, where the couple will make their home.

EQUIPMENT RECEIVED

BERNICE, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—New equipment for the laboratory room of the Bernice high school has been received. The equipment included new chairs and new materials to work with. A number of new books for the school library were also added recently.

CHURCH REMODELED

BERNICE, La., Nov. 30.—(Special)—Remodeling of the Baptist church here is progressing rapidly and adding greatly to the appearance of the structure. The building is being reroofed and repainted and several new windows have also been added.

SICARD OVERPASS NEARLY FINISHED

Paving In Both Directions Completed; Work On Bridge Progresses

The paving of the Missouri Pacific railroad's overpass near Sicard and the approaches in either direction have been completed it was stated Saturday. The men are now engaged in building up the shoulders and in placing the curbs and gutters, which will require about two weeks' time.

The bad weather and Thanksgiving holiday interrupted to some degree the progress of paving of the extension of Louisville avenue the past week. Friday the work of paving was initiated at the intersection of DeSiard road and the Sterlington road.

Out Louisville avenue the work of pouring paving for intersections, curb and gutters was in progress from the river to Eleventh street.

Riveting is in progress on the main bascule span at the new traffic bridge at Louisville avenue. It was estimated Saturday that the span will be completed in 30 days.

LITTLE THEATER PLAY IS SUCCESS

First Workshop Production Of Monroe Season Is Presented

A Monroe Little theater audience was literally taken behind the scenes Friday night in viewing "The Pot Boiler," a play within a play, first workshop production of the season. The piece, directed by Miss Sue Hefley, librarian at Northeast Center of L. S. U., was done with striking effectiveness by a cast that had for its task a demonstration of how plays are built up in the process of rehearsal. Naturally, the comedy theme was uppermost, and the task of the director was concerned with the difficult job of obtaining a nice balance which would neither border on the farcical on the one side nor the tragocomic on the other. In this Miss Hefley achieved a distinct triumph.

The members of the cast lent themselves to the spirit of the novel presentation with a fine sense of the ridiculous, which the lines call for. The work of Mrs. Edna Earl Harris and Miss Francine Loeser was particularly effective. The others in the cast were Melvin Annish, Thoma Davenport, Howard Willard, Herma Chapman, Marion Gilliland and Lou Guerriero.

Following the play a social ho was spent in the lobby of the Centr Grammar school, where coffee wa served by the hospitality committee of the Monroe Little theater.

Rev. E. F. Hayward, president of the Little theater, announced that the first major play to be given by the group this season will be presented December 12, under direction of Mrs. Blanche G. Oliver. At least four major plays and three workshop plays are included in the Little theater program for this season.

MOCK TRIAL SLATED

The Macedonia church, negro, will be the scene of two mock trials on Monday at 7:30 p. m. The XYZ Business Men's club, of which Frank Perkins is president, is sponsoring the entertainment, and net proceeds will be devoted to the church fund. In one of the cases the charge is that of kidnaping and the other is bank robbery. S. L. Pierce is defense attorney in the kidnaping case and James O. Wilson and Nick Bartlett for the bank robbery prosecution. F. O. West and Adell Nelson are prosecutors for the state and J. E. Thompson is judge.

THEN HE HIT UPON A SHREWD STRATAGEM, AND RAN UP THE RAMP TOWARD THE HORDE OF ASTONISHED SPECTATORS.
THE WEAPONS OF MENGO'S BODYGUARD WERE RAISED AGAINST HIM, BUT TARZAN LEAPED SUDDENLY FROM THE INCLINE
THE LIONS CONTINUED ONWARD, FOR NOW THEY SPIED THE SAVAGES, AND PLUNGED INTO THE CLOSE-PACKED THRONG.
WITH FRANTIC SCREAMS THE CANNIBALS FLED, BUT NOT BEFORE MENGO AND SEVERAL OTHERS HAD FELT THOSE FATAL CLAWS.
TARZAN RUSHED THEN TO SIGREDA AND BORE HER FROM THE DESERTED ARENA IN THE WAKE OF THE SCURRYING BLACKS.
SWIFTLY THROUGH THE DARK JUNGLE THEY TRAVELED UNTIL NEXT DAY, WHEN THEY NEARED THE KINGDOM OF THALGAARD THE VIKING MAIDEN'S HOME

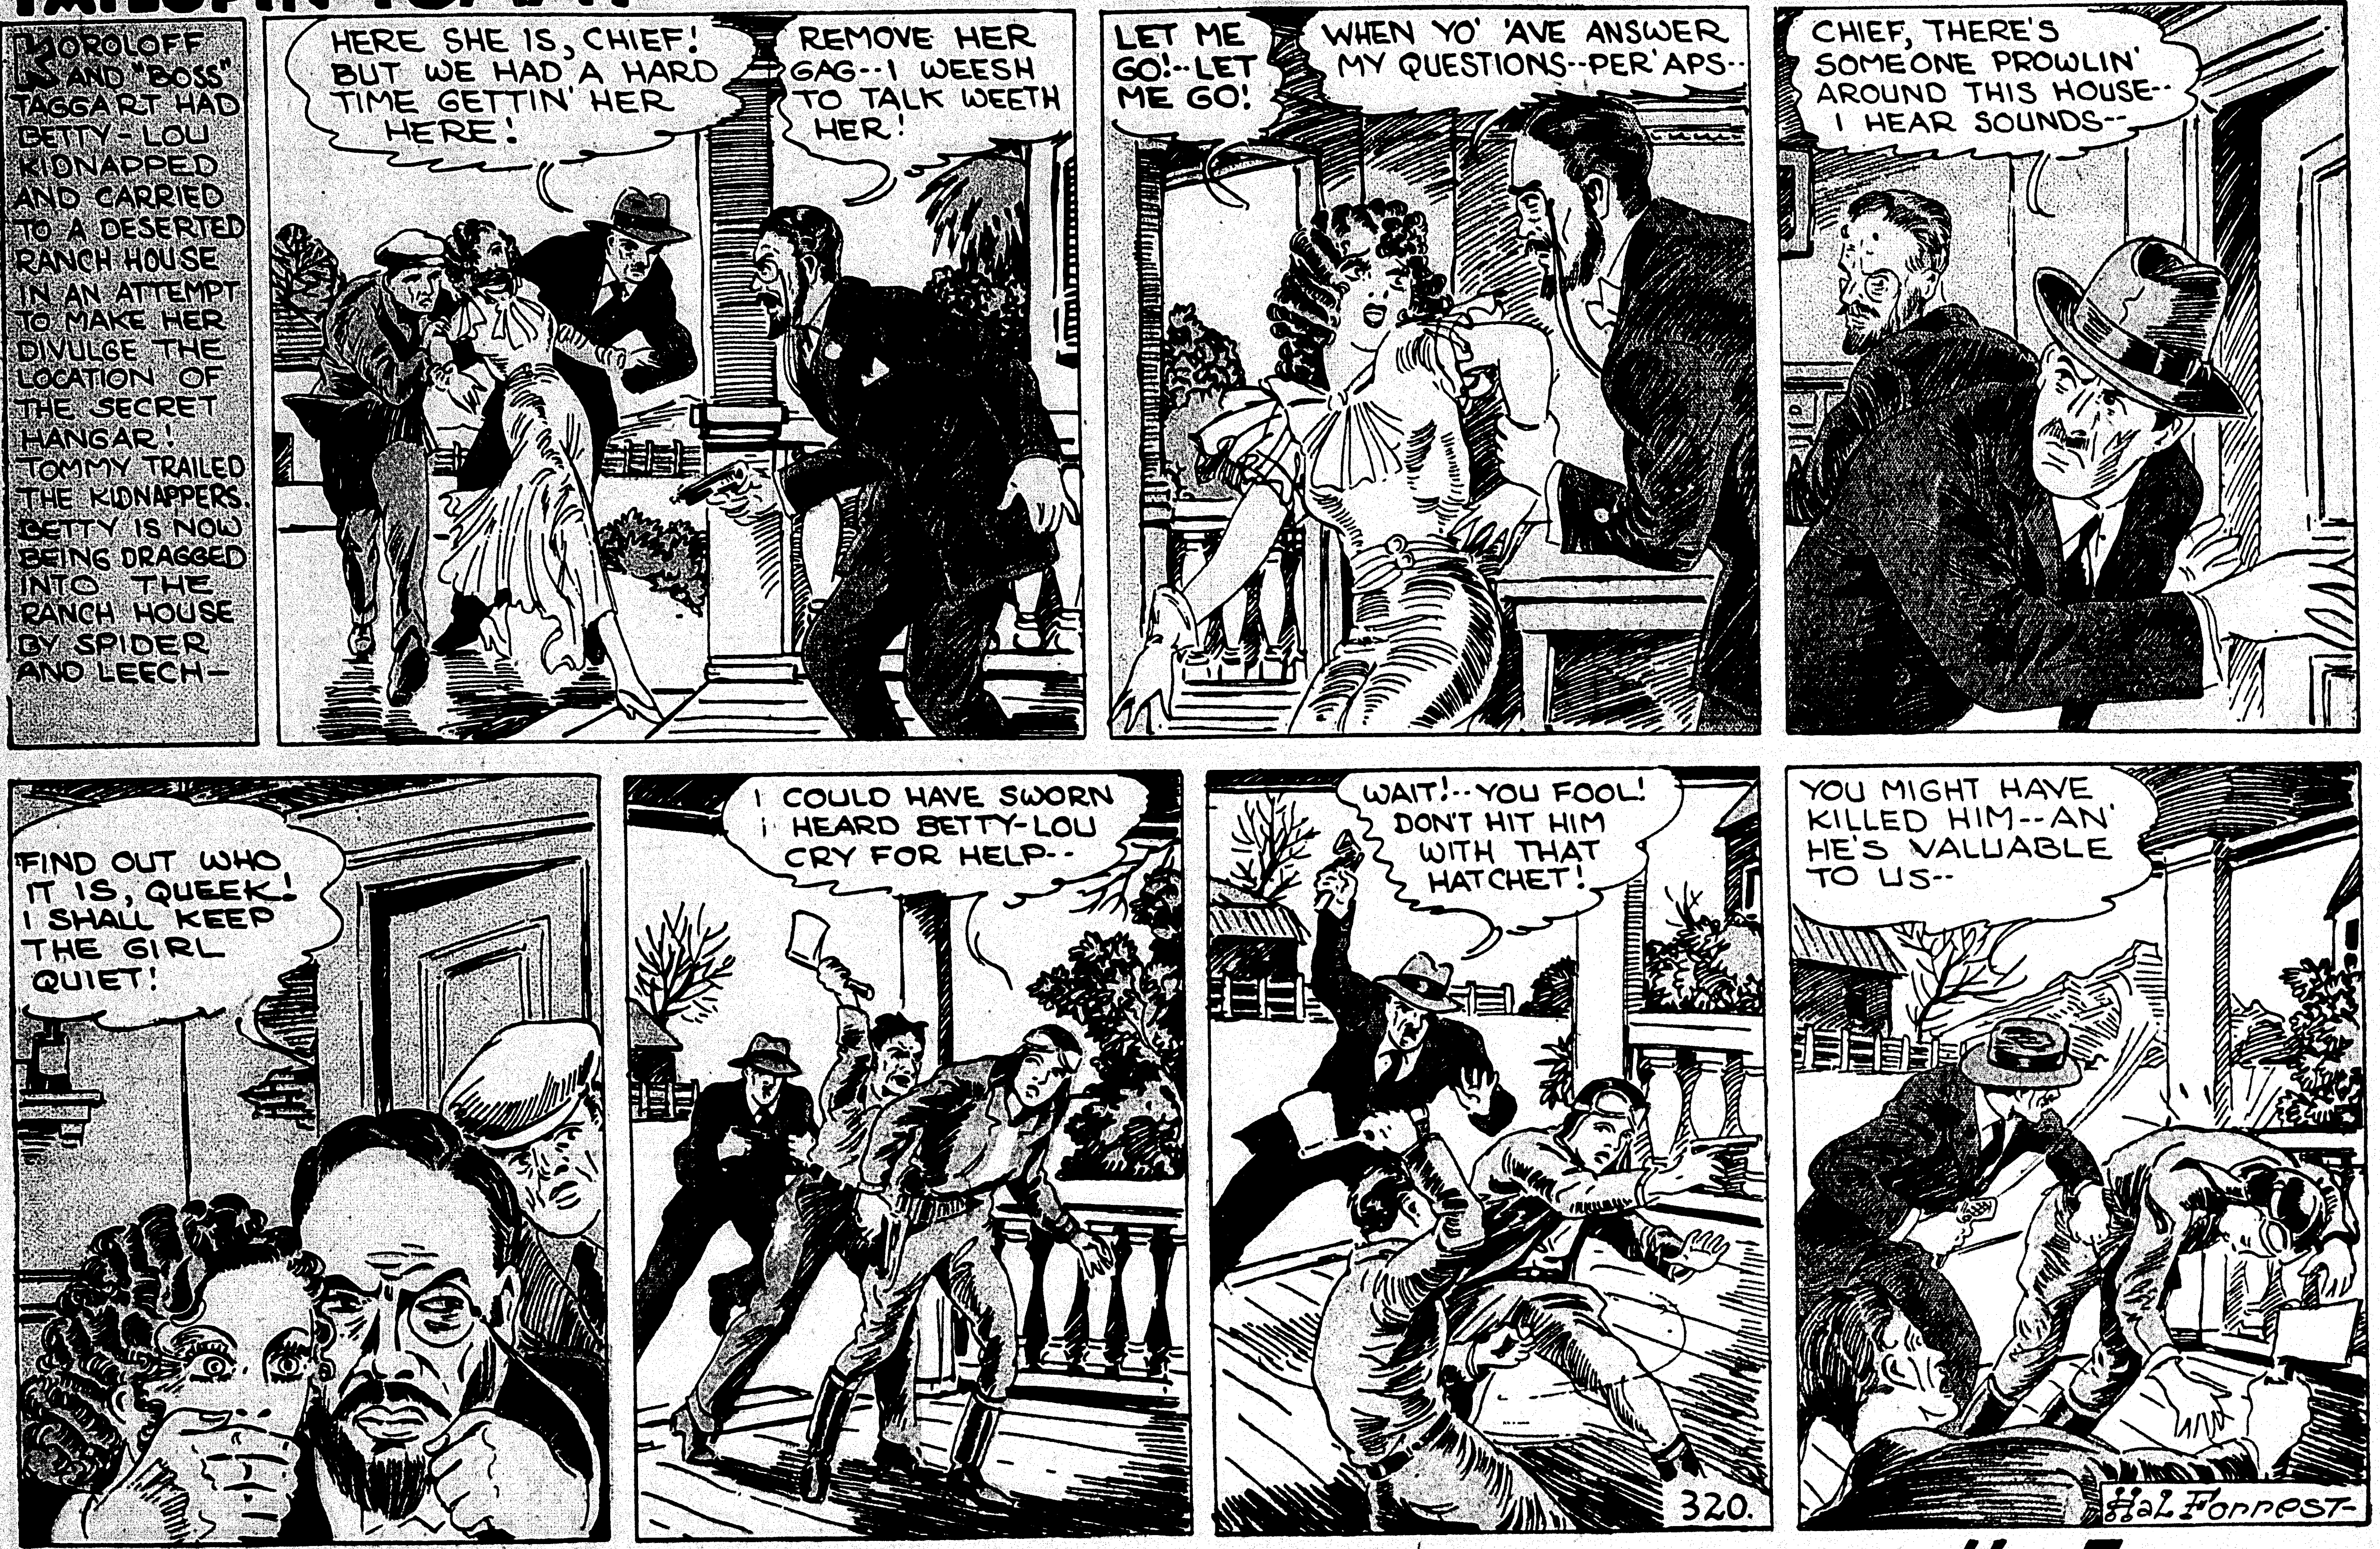
BY HAL FORREST—



MOROLOFF AND "BOSS" TAGGART HAD BETTY-LOU KIDNAPPED AND CARRIED TO A DESERTED RANCH HOUSE IN AN ATTEMPT TO MAKE HER DIVULGE THE LOCATION OF THE SECRET HANGAR! TOMMY TRAILED THE KIDNAPPERS. BETTY IS NOW BEING DRAGGED INTO THE RANCH HOUSE BY SPIDER AND LEECH—
HERE SHE IS, CHIEF! BUT WE HAD A HARD TIME GETTIN' HER HERE!
REMOVE HER GAG--I WEESH TO TALK WEETH HER!
LET ME GO!--LET ME GO!
WHEN YO' 'AVE ANSWER MY QUESTIONS--PER'APS--
CHIEF, THERE'S SOMEONE PROWLIN' AROUND THIS HOUSE--I HEAR SOUNDS--
FIND OUT WHO IT IS, QUEEK! I SHALL KEEP THE GIRL QUIET!
I COULD HAVE SWORN I HEARD BETTY-LOU CRY FOR HELP--
WAIT!--YOU FOOL! DON'T HIT HIM WITH THAT HATCHET!
320.
YOU MIGHT HAVE KILLED HIM--AN' HE'S VALUABLE TO US--

MOON MULLINS
LORD PLUSHBOTTOM & KAYO SPEND THEIR WEEK END ON THE FARM OF LADY PLUSHBOTTOM'S UNCLE AMBROSE
by Frank Willard
YAS, KAYO- WE ARE GOING HUNTING-AND DON'T ASK US WHAT WE'VE LOST?
AND YOU'D BETTER STAY HERE, KAYO-LORD PLUSHBOTTOM CAN'T HIT A BULL IN THE BACK WITH A BASS FIDDLE.
OH IS THAT SO? WELL, SEE THAT KNOT IN THE BARN DOOR— WELL WATCH!
BAM!
BOO!
WHAT'S THAT? SOMEBODY'S BOOING YOUR SHOOTIN'!
MY WORD!
KAYO, I TOLD YOU NOT TO OPEN THAT DOOR!
WELL, CAN'TCHA SEE HE WANTED OUT?
AMBROSE! OH-H AMBROSE!!
KAYO, GO BRING UNCLE AMBROSE AND WHEN I GET DOWN FROM HERE I'M GOING TO SPANK THE DAYLIGHTS OUTTA YOU!
I WONDER WHY KAYO DON'T GET AMBROSE.
OHHH AMBROSE! WELL, I GUESS THE ONLY WAY WE'LL EVER GET DOWN IS TO SHOOT THE BLOOMING BULL, MOON!
CLICK!
WELL, GO AHEAD AND SHOOT HIM.
I CAN'T- YOU'VE GOT THE SHELLS!
PSST! LOOK!!
Z Z N N N N
HEY, WAKE UP, UNCLE AMBROSE!
HE'S NOT UNDER THE BED.
WAL, WOTT'RE YOU BOYS HUNTING AT THIS HOUR OF THE MORNING?
KAYO!
WAL, GIT OUTTA HERE-I AIN'T SEEN HIM.
WOT IN TH' —?
PHEEWEY! I'M GLAD THEY'VE WENT AWAY AT LAST. IT'S GETTIN' SORTA STUFFY UNDER HERE.

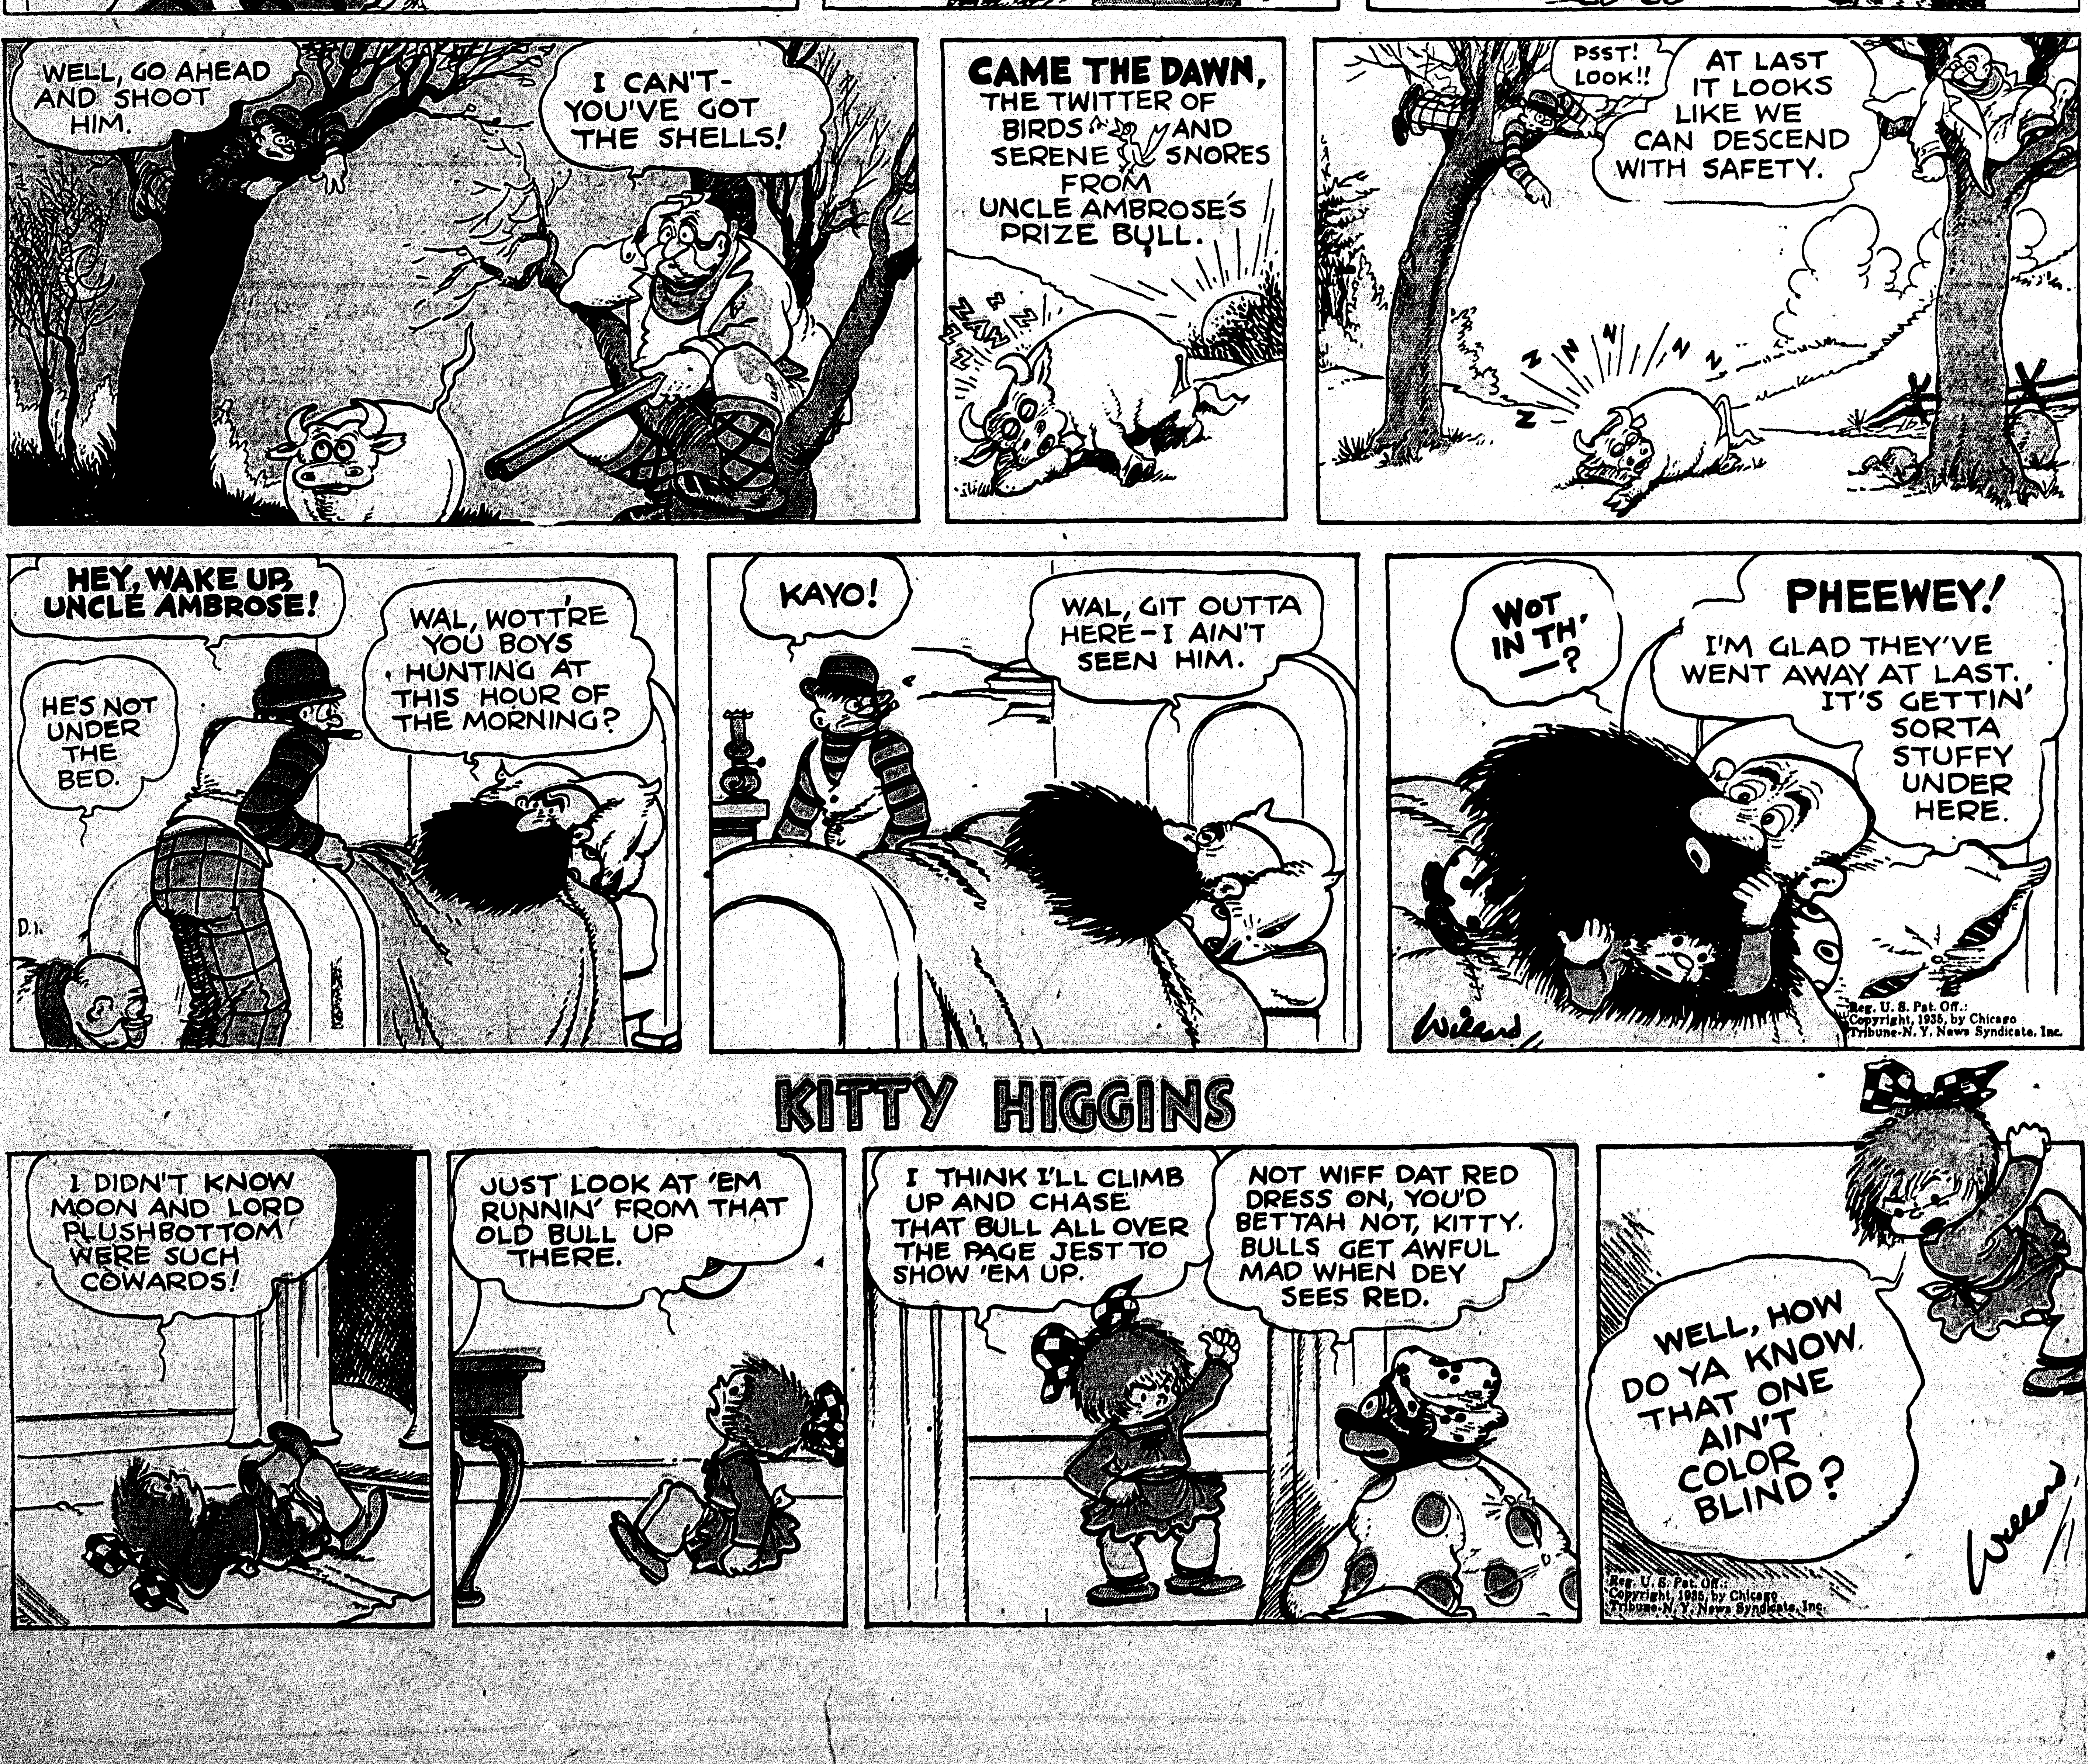
KITTY HIGGINS



I DIDN'T KNOW MOON AND LORD PLUSHBOTTOM WERE SUCH COWARDS!
JUST LOOK AT 'EM RUNNIN' FROM THAT OLD BULL UP THERE.
I THINK I'LL CLIMB UP AND CHASE THAT BULL ALL OVER THE PAGE JEST TO SHOW 'EM UP.
NOT WIFF DAT RED DRESS ON, YOU'D BETTAH NOT, KITTY. BULLS GET AWFUL MAD WHEN DEY SEES RED.
WELL, HOW DO YA KNOW THAT ONE AIN'T COLOR BLIND?

DICK TRACY
SCENE: THE CITY HALL OF HOMEVILLE! THE CITY COUNCILMEN ARE JUST MARCHING OUT OF THE COUNCIL CHAMBER AFTER A VERY HECTIC SESSION. . . . . . .
MAYOR
COUNCIL ROOM
GET INTO MY OFFICE, TRACY. . .BEFORE YOU'RE KILLED!
WHAT IN THE WORLD ARE YOU SO EXCITED ABOUT, MAYOR?
TRACY, THE CITY COUNCIL HAS JUST PASSED A RESOLUTION ASKING FOR A COMPLETE INVESTIGATION OF YOUR OFFICE, AND I DON'T BLAME THEM.
WHAT DO YOU MEAN?
READ THAT LETTER AND LOOK AT THAT PHOTOGRAPH!
Dear Mayor:— Herewith is a photographic copy of a promissory note showing your chief of Police is borrowing money from "Cut" Famon. It's a big story if we can print it. Check up on it. John Nibbis— Editor of the Gazette 23.1935.
Nov. 23.1935.
FOR VALUE RECEIVED I PROMISE TO PAY TO THE ORDER OF Cut Famon THE PRINCIPAL SUM OF $2000.00 WITHIN ONE YEAR FROM DATE HEREOF WITH INTEREST AT THE RATE OF 4% PER ANNUM PAYABLE SEMI-ANNUALLY AFTER DATE.
SIGNED. Dick Tracy
YES, MAYOR - THAT'S MY SIGNATURE! BUT MR. FAMON'S NAME WAS INSERTED AFTER I SIGNED THE NOTES. . . THE CROOKS IN THIS TOWN TRIED TO FRAME ME, BUT HAVE ONLY SUCCEEDED IN CARRYING OUT MY PLANS TO THE LETTER!
PHONE YOUR EDITOR TO HOLD HIS PRESSES ONE HOUR! HE'S GOING TO GET THE BIGGEST STORY HE EVER PRINTED!
HELLO PAT! GO TO THE OFFICE OF BOWMAN BASIL THE REAL ESTATE LOAN SHARK. ARREST HIM AND THROW HIM IN A CELL. DO THE SAME WITH ALDERMEN JERBS AND HEMSEN. WE'RE READY TO CLOSE OUR NET!
AT THIS SAME INSTANT [illegible] THE SECOND . . . .
THAT'S IT! KEEP 'EM UP HIGH, BOYS - AND YOU, "CUT"- HAND OVER THAT PROMISSORY NOTE, AND THE BUNDLE OF LETTERS IN YOUR INSIDE COAT POCKET.
GORDON! WHAT'S THE IDEA? ARE YOU NUTS?
SAY- "CUT"! LOOK- THE "BAIL" GORDON WE USED TO KNOW YEARS AGO- THIS AIN'T. .
